Racket Probers Turn Sights On Employer Group

Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—Senate rackets probers reported evidence today that "some of the largest companies" used illegal means to block labor unions out of their plants.

The investigators also said there was evidence of deals to get "sweetheart" contracts with friendly unions. Such contracts give workers few if any benefits.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) announced his special Senate Investigating Committee will explore allegations against more than a dozen companies in 11 states. He said the public hearings will start Tuesday and run for two weeks.

Suspect employers will be the main targets of the inquiry, he said, but added that it also would "center on the far-flung operations of Nathan W. Shefferman," who represented the companies as their consultant on labor relations problems.

Heads Group

Shefferman heads Labor Relations Associates Inc. of Chicago and has been under the committee's fire before for his acknowledged financial dealings with Teamsters Union President Dave Beck. He and Beck are under federal indictment now on income tax evasion charges.

"The committee experts to explore the efforts by some of the largest companies and concerns in the country to avoid unionization by improper or illegal means or to make a sweetheart contract with a friendly union by employing the services of Mr. Nathan Shefferman's concern," McClellan said in a statement.

He named none of the firms involved in the inquiry, but the committee's counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, confirmed that one is the Morton Frozen Foods Plant at Webster City, Iowa.

Kennedy said companies in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, California, Oklahoma, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts and their officials will be investigated in the hear-

Bonn Cuts Its Diplomat Ties With Belgrade

BONN, Germany, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Bonn government unhappily broke off diplomatic relations today with Yugoslavia, one of West Germany's best customers. Yugoslav reaction ranged from anger to sadness.

The action was prompted by Yugoslavia's recognition Tuesday of the Communist East German regime.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano seemed none too happy at a news conference. He said West Germany considered it regrettable that the step had to be taken.

Von Brentano said his government does not feel hostile either to the Yugoslav people or its regime, headed by President Tito.

Dusan Kveder, Yugoslav ambassador to Bonn, looking more sad than angry, told newsmen the move amounted to senseless pressure that could do no one any good.

Can't Deny It

The Belgrade News Agency Yugopress called the decision unreasonable, adding that "no move of Bonn officials can deny the fact that two German states exist."

In Washington and London, the United States and Britain expressed their sympathy with the West German action. They said they fully understood the reasons for Bonn's move. France approved in advance.

Like West Germany, the United States, France and Britain refuse to accept the legal existence of the East German Communist regime. They maintain East Germany is occupied by the Soviet Union and that the 17 million residents have no voice in their own affairs.

What would happen to the bustling trade between Yugoslavia and West Germany, amounting to 100 million dollars a year, remained to be seen. Both Von Brentano and Kveder said the question of economic relations remains wide open.

U. S. Restudies Aid Program To Yugoslav Gov't

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles is reported to be making a careful reappraisal of U. S. support for Yugoslavia.

The question is whether that Communist country has kept enough independence of Russia to justify continuing American aid.

The United States and its British and French allies may be approaching the brink of another cold war defeat at the hands of smart and aggressive Soviet leadership on the Yugoslav issue. Officials here are not prepared to concede a setback now but they are uneasy about the future.

It would be a political-diplomatic triumph for Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev if he could pull Yugoslav President Tito back into the Soviet orbit completely—or achieve virtually the same result by creating a situation in which Tito had no other place to go.

Negro Jailed For Assaulting White Woman

Dist. Atty. Edward Shaheen identified the airman as Odell Sandlin, about 25, assigned to the 68th Field Maintenance Sqdn. at Lake Charles Air Force Base here.

The incident happened at the officer's home on Oct. 15, the district attorney said, and Sandlin was transferred today from Air Force custody to the Calcasieu Parish jail.

Shaheen said Sandlin was held without bond to await grand jury investigation. An aggravated rape charge is punishable by death on conviction in Louisiana.

Gives Story

This is what happened, the district attorney said, according to his own investigation and that of the Air Force, which took place without publicity during a four-day period.

Doctors confined Sandlin to the Air Force base hospita, after he was found in a coma. Sandlin escaped through a latrine window early Oct. 15. He appeared at the woman's door west of the base about 10 a.m. that morning.

Sandlin asked to be returned to the base hospital. The woman, seeing he was badly shaken, asked him to come into the kitchen and gave him coffee.

In her housecoat, the woman went to her bedroom and dressed. As she stood in the bathroom before a mirror, Sandlin came to the door. He said:

"Lady I escaped from the hospital."

Grabbed Woman

Sandlin grabbed the woman as she left the bathroom, pulled her onto the bed and threatened to kill her if she resisted.

The woman said she quit struggling because she feared for herself and her baby daughter. Sandlin attacked her, then went into the living room, sat down, and held his head in his hands, she said.

The woman said she got her husband's .22 caliber revolver,

Michigan State And Minnesota Crumble

By ED CORRIGAN
(The Associated Press)

Purdue and Illinois exploded a couple of bombs under Michigan State and Minnesota, respectively, yesterday and threw the Big Ten race into a tizzy.

The flu-ridden Boilermakers battered Michigan State, No. 1 team in the country and previously unbeaten, 20-13, with 18-year-old Ross Fitchner, a green-as-grass sophomore, directing the attack.

This shocker was almost a carbon copy of the 1953 Purdue-Spartan game. In that one, the Boilermakers, who—just like the 1957 edition—hadn't won a game, snapped a 28-game MS winning streak, 6-0.

Illinois, which had only one victory to show in three previous starts, ambushed Minnesota, the No. 4 team in this week's Associated Press poll, 34-13.

Bob Mitchell, a 180-pound senior harrassed the Gophers—who were regarded as Michigan State's main threat for the Big Ten crown—with his slithering runs.

This was the NCAA's TV game of the week and a good one it was. The Illini turned on the pressure right from the start and led by 21-0 at halftime. The Gopher previously unbeaten, never got in the game.

Defending champion Iowa crushed tough Wisconsin, 21-7, Ohio State rolled over Indiana 55-0 and Michigan stopped Northwestern, 34-14. So it's a brand new race in the Big Ten.

On the Pacific Coast UCLA knocked Oregon State out of the ranks of the unbeaten 26-7 and Oregon burst the Rose Bowl bubble at Washington State by winning 14-13.

Dunn Youth Injured In Gun Mishap

Sixteen - year - old Billy Ray (Johnny) Jinks of Dunn last night was in serious condition in Conway Memorial Hospital after accidentally shooting himself with a .16 gauge shotgun while squirrel hunting near Dunn yesterday morning.

The youth, according to companions, was walking through the woods when he dropped his gun and it fired a charge into his lungs. The squirrel shot entered his body at the eighth rib and bored up through the lungs, passing through his body and grazing his face, according to attending physicians.

Jinks, was accompanied by Aza Rester, 14, who also lives near Dunn, who said he turned to him and said, "I'm shot real bad. Get me to a doctor."

Ran Toward Truck

The wounded boy then started to run toward a truck which they had parked on a nearby gravel road, but collapsed before reaching it, his mother, Mrs. Maudie Jinks, said she was told. Rester ran to the truck, banged on the horn, and screamed for two other youths who were squirrel hunting nearby.

Larry Thomas and Jerry Rester came running and helped carry the Jinks boy to the truck. They sped him to the Delhi clinic shortly after 9 a.m. An ambulance from Conway Memorial Hospital, Monroe, was summoned and the boy was brought here shortly before noon.

He was in surgery for several hours and according to his mother, several pieces of squirrel shot were removed from his lungs. The mishap occurred approximately four and one-half miles south of Dunn. Mrs. Jinks believes that her son must have moved the safety catch on the gun when he sighted a squirrel, she said, and then failed to shift it back when he did not fire.

U. S. 8th Fleet Sailing On Alert Near Mid-East

ROME, Oct. 19 (UP)—The U. S. Eighth Fleet has been sailing on the alert in troubled eas ern Mediterranean waters with a re-inforced detachment of 8,000 Marines since the Syrian -Turkish Navy source revealed today.

The source said fleet commander Vice Adm. Charles R. Brown is operating within strictly defined limits of eastern and western longitudes which keep all elements of the atom-ready fleet at least 20 miles away from the Syrian coastline.

"It is most improbable that any ship commander would violate the order either intentionally or unintentionally," the source said.

"Such a mistake could mean a court martial or a virtual end to the career of the man who took his ship inside the 20-mile limit."

According to the source special orders issued to Brown last month ordered him to keep his ships at sea in the eastern Mediterranean on an alert condition. A scheduled visit to Zara, Yugoslavia, by his flagship, the cruiser Salem, was cancelled.

A fleet normally carries a Marine Corps complement of 2,000 men. But the source revealed that 6,000 Marines who joined the fleet for a NATO maneuver Sept. 24-27 were ordered to remain in the Mediterranean "until further notice." Thus, the fleet has an enlarged force of 8,000 combat-ready Marines.

Fair, Cool Outlook For Twin City Area

The mercury in the Twin Cities area yesterday hovered in the chilly 65-42 degree range, but a bright autumn sun added a cheery note to the scene. More pleasant fall weather is in prospect for today and tomorrow. Fair and cool is the forecast.

For sections of Arkansas, the forecast for today and tomorrow is for increasing cloudiness and slowing rising temperatures.

Pilot Asserts Israeli Fired On Arab Plane

CAIRO, Oct. 19 (AP)—The American pilot of the Air Jordan passenger plane reported tonight an Israeli jet fighter fired on the plane five times over Jordan territory in a vain effort to force him to land in Israel.

The Air Jordan craft was not hit. It landed safely at Cairo with its 14 passengers and four crew members unharmed.

Capt. Jesse Stallworth of Pine Bluff, Ark., said in an interview the incident occurred about 50 miles north-northeast of Aqaba, Jordan, in midafternoon as he was flying the DC3 from the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem to Cairo.

He said the Israeli jet crossed his path, made two passes around the plane and indicated it should head from the Arab nation toward Israeli territory.

Opened Fire

"When I tried to continue on my regular course, the Israeli plane opened fire at us five times," Stallworth said. "Each time he fired approximately 25 rounds of ammunition. The flak came so close we flew through puffs of smoke, but apparently we weren't hit. Frankly I don't see how he missed us."

Stallworth said he then began descending for a possible emergency landing at Aqaba.

"When we were at approximately 2,500 feet over Aqaba—the Jordanian city—he got below us and fired another blast up at us," Stallworth said.

"At this point he appeared to be running out of fuel, so he left us and proceeded back into Israel. When we reached Cairo I examined the plane, but did not find any signs we were hit."

Stallworth said five of his 14 passengers were Americans. He said he frequently carried 30 to 40 on flights over that route.

Wyatt Saved In Atlantic Crash

CORONA, Spain, Oct. 19 (AP)—An American pilot trying to set a new nonstop distance record for light planes dunked his ice-covered ship into the Atlantic Ocean at dawn today on a flight from Galveston, Tex., to Rome. He was only 40 miles from land but 850 from Rome.

CORUNA, Spain, Oct. 19 (AP)—An American pilot trying to set a new nonstop distance record for light planes dunked his ice-covered ship into the Atlantic Ocean at dawn today on a flight from Galveston, Tex., to Rome. He was only 40 miles from land but 850 from Rome.

William Wyatt, 25-year-old ex-Marine from Dallas, was plucked from the sea by a Spanish fishing vessel he had signaled with a mirror from the air. He was uninjured and his plane, a single engine Mooney Mark 20, was towed ashore.

Wyatt was trying to break a flight record for small planes set in March 1949, by the late U.S. flier, William P. Odom, who flew a Beecheratt Bonanza 4,957. 4 miles from Honolulu to Teterboro, N.J.

Wyatt's backers in Galveston said they did not believe Wyatt had succeeded in setting a new record. They said the plane went down 850 statute miles from Rome Wyatt's planned flight had called for a total distance of 5,693 miles.

He said he had bad luck all the way across the Atlantic. Headwinds cut down his speed for 32 hours. He radioed the airport at Bordeaux, France, yesterday that because of the winds he was using

Vanguard Test May Be Delayed Until Tomorrow

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Oct. 19 (UP)—A test model of the Vanguard missile which carries the nation's hopes of launching an earth satellite next spring apparently will not be fired until Monday, it was learned today.

There was no official word from the Air Force at its top-secret missile test center here, but informed sources indicated firing of the slender rocket will not come during the weekend.

Newsmen and photographers, who have been waiting since early Friday for the firing to test the first stage of the three - stage projectile remained on nearby beaches, however, on the chance the Vanguard would still be launched later in the day.

But the red ball hoisted when a missle firing is imminent to warn off boats in the five-mile "danger zone" around the center was not atop its 90-foot pole.

'Mrs. Long Island' Perishes In Crash

FARMINGDALE, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—A beautiful blonde about to be crowned "Mrs. Long Island" was fatally injured today when a helicopter struck a flagpole and crashed before horrified thousands here.

Mrs. Myna Nichol, 26, Levittown, died at Lake Side Hospital in Copiague shortly after the crash. She was to reign over "Oil Progress Week" sponsored by the Oil Heat Institute of Long Island.

Two other persons were seriously injured in the crash. They were Richrd Rushton, Little Neck, pilot of the helicopter, and Jerry Nagler, public relations man for the celebration.

Two long parades of oil heating exhibits had merged on the institute grounds. The paraders were waiting for Mrs. Nichol to land, step out of the helicopter and be crowned "Mrs. Long Island."

Nagler was reported to have had both legs broken and Rushton was reported in serious condition at Lake Side Hospital.

BUDGET EMPHASIS

Republican Policy Assailed By Demos

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UP)—The Democratic party high command attacked the Eisenhower administration today on grounds tht it placed its budget goals ahead on national security.

The Democrats said the result was a one-sided disarmament program at the expense of sound national defense and foreign policies.

This broadside came from the opening session of a two - day meeting of the Democratic Advisory Council set up by the Democratic National Committee as a between-conventions voice of the party.

Chairman Paul M. Butler said the foreign policy declaration was supported by former President Truman, who was unable to attend. Sixteen of the 24 council members were present, including Adlai E. Stevenson, 1952 and 1956 presidential nominee; Sen. Estes Kefauver, 1956 vice presidential nominee; Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Today's statement was based on a draft presented by former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, chairman of the council's advisory committee on foreign policy.

"The administration's present policy, if continued, will by 1960 take the United States far toward political isolation, continue to weaken our military position relative to the Russians, and leave those nations of the still free world which are capable of industrial development, looking to Moscow for capital and technical assistance," the council said.

It said Democratic foreign policy aims should be in the rebuilding of confidence and strength in U. S. alliances, rebuilding military strength and encouraging allies to do the same, helping free nations develop industry, and regaining the respect of free men.

"The overwhelming need of the United States at this time is to restore the vitality, cohesion and strength of the alliance of free nations," the Democrats said.

Suggest Top Red Should Be Invited

LONDON, Oct. 19 (UP)—The Russians today suggested that President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan invite Nikita S. Khrushchev to their summit conference to settle the Syrian-Turkish crisis.

A hint that the Soviets would accept such a proposal was sandwiched between a fresh denunciation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and charges that the Eisenhower-MacMillan meeting in Washington next week was brought about by "serious defeats" for western policy in such areas as the Middle East.

A radio Moscow broadcast in English intimated that only a meeting with Russia's leaders could solve current world issues.

Rapped By Moscow

Commenting on next Wednesday's big two meeting in Washington, the radio said: "If they really want to bring the Mideast back to normal, why don't they invite other countries to confer? After all, there is not a single international problem that now can be settled singly."

The broadcast hinted that Khrushchev would accept an invitation to a summit meeting. Presumably, Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin also would attend any such meeting.

Although the foreign office has denied that there will be a summit meeting with Russia on the Middle East, the British press still was speculating that such a parley might develop.

The Syrian-Turkish crisis had reached the point where Russia was warning it would send its own armed forces to Syria to protect it in case of aggression.

Turk Denounces Charge

A Turkish government spokesman in Ankara denounced a further Soviet charge that the United States was promoting a Turkish-Jordanian-Iraqi attack on Syria as "nonsensical lies."

In Cairo, the Turkish charge d'affaires complained to the gov-

Funds Campaign For Bayou Work Continues Gain

A concerted drive for funds to finance renovating Bayou DeSiard of its heavy shad population, brought collections to around the $2,000 level yesterday, it was reported by A. S. (Bud) Tidwell, president of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit.

The drive goal, which must be reached before winter weather moves into the area, is $3,000. Confident that this amount can be obtained by Thursday or Friday, Tidwell said renovation plans were progressing.

Date set for beginning of application of the chemical preparation Rotenone, to wipe out the undesirable fish population in Bayou DeSiard, is October 28. Prime target is more than 70 per cent infestation of shad. The operation will be handled by a team from the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries commission.

Contributions are being mailed to "SHAD," Box 2597, Monroe. Members of the local Wildlife unit and Jack Rushing at the College Friend will also accept contributions.

He was in surgery for several hours and according to his mother, several pieces of squirrel shot were removed from his lungs. The mishap occurred approximately four and one-half miles south of Dunn. Mrs. Jinks believes that her son must have moved the safety catch on the gun when he sighted a squirrel, she said, and then failed to shift it back when he did not fire.

U. S. 8th Fleet Sailing On Alert Near Mid-East

ROME, Oct. 19 (UP)—The U. S. Eighth Fleet has been sailing on the alert in troubled eastern Mediterranean waters with a re-inforced detachment of 8,000 Marines since the Syrian -Turkish Navy source revealed today.

The source said fleet commander Vice Adm. Charles R. Brown is operating within strictly defined limits of eastern and western longitudes which keep all elements of the atom-ready fleet at least 20 miles away from the Syrian coastline.

"It is most improbable that any ship commander would violate the order either intentionally or unintentionally," the source said.

"Such a mistake could mean a court martial or a virtual end to the career of the man who took his ship inside the 20-mile limit."

According to the source special orders issued to Brown last month ordered him to keep his ships at sea in the eastern Mediterranean on an alert condition. A scheduled visit to Zara, Yugoslavia, by his flagship, the cruiser Salem, was cancelled.

A fleet normally carries a Marine Corps complement of 2,000 men. But the source revealed that 6,000 Marines who joined the fleet for a NATO maneuver Sept. 24-27 were ordered to remain in the Mediterranean "until further notice." Thus, the fleet has an enlarged force of 8,000 combat-ready Marines.

Fair, Cool Outlook For Twin City Area

The mercury in the Twin Cities area yesterday hovered in the chilly 65-42 degree range, but a bright autumn sun added a cheery note to the scene. More pleasant fall weather is in prospect for today and tomorrow. Fair and cool is the forecast.

For sections of Arkansas, the forecast for today and tomorrow is for increasing cloudiness and slowing rising temperatures.

Pilot Asserts Israeli Fired On Arab Plane

CAIRO, Oct. 19 (AP)—The American pilot of the Air Jordan passenger plane reported tonight an Israeli jet fighter fired on the plane five times over Jordan territory in a vain effort to force him to land in Israel.

The Air Jordan craft was not hit. It landed safely at Cairo with its 14 passengers and four crew members unharmed.

Capt. Jesse Stallworth of Pine Bluff, Ark., said in an interview the incident occurred about 50 miles north-northeast of Aqaba, Jordan, in midafternoon as he was flying the DC3 from the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem to Cairo.

He said the Israeli jet crossed his path, made two passes around the plane and indicated it should head from the Arab nation toward Israeli territory.

Opened Fire

"When I tried to continue on my regular course, the Israeli plane opened fire at us five times," Stallworth said. "Each time he fired approximately 25 rounds of ammunition. The flak came so close we flew through puffs of smoke, but apparently we weren't hit. Frankly I don't see how he missed us."

Stallworth said he then began descending for a possible emergency landing at Aqaba.

"When we were at approximately 2,500 feet over Aqaba—the Jordanian city—he got below us and fired another blast up at us," Stallworth said.

"At this point he appeared to be running out of fuel, so he left us and proceeded back into Israel. When we reached Cairo I examined the plane, but did not find any signs we were hit."

Stallworth said five of his 14 passengers were Americans. He said he frequently carried 30 to 40 on flights over that route.

'Mrs. Long Island' Perishes In Crash

FARMINGDALE, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—A beautiful blonde about to be crowned "Mrs. Long Island" was fatally injured today when a helicopter struck a flagpole and crashed before horrified thousands here.

Mrs. Myna Nichol, 26, Levittown, died at Lake Side Hospital in Copiague shortly after the crash. She was to reign over "Oil Progress Week" sponsored by the Oil Heat Institute of Long Island.

Two other persons were seriously injured in the crash. They were Richrd Rushton, Little Neck, pilot of the helicopter, and Jerry Nagler, public relations man for the celebration.

Two long parades of oil heating exhibits had merged on the institute grounds. The paraders were waiting for Mrs. Nichol to land, step out of the helicopter and be crowned "Mrs. Long Island."

Nagler was reported to have had both legs broken and Rushton was reported in serious condition at Lake Side Hospital.

FLIGHT FAILS

Wyatt Saved In Atlantic Crash

CORONA, Spain, Oct. 19 (AP)—An American pilot trying to set a new nonstop distance record for light planes dunked his ice-covered ship into the Atlantic Ocean at dawn today on a flight from Galveston, Tex., to Rome. He was only 40 miles from land but 850 from Rome.

CORUNA, Spain, Oct. 19 (AP)—An American pilot trying to set a new nonstop distance record for light planes dunked his ice-covered ship into the Atlantic Ocean at dawn today on a flight from Galveston, Tex., to Rome. He was only 40 miles from land but 850 from Rome.

William Wyatt, 25-year-old ex-Marine from Dallas, was plucked from the sea by a Spanish fishing vessel he had signaled with a mirror from the air. He was uninjured and his plane, a single engine Mooney Mark 20, was towed ashore.

Wyatt was trying to break a flight record for small planes set in March 1949, by the late U.S. flier, William P. Odom, who flew a Beechcraft Bonanza 4,957. 4 miles from Honolulu to Teterboro, N.J.

Wyatt's backers in Galveston said they did not believe Wyatt had succeeded in setting a new record. They said the plane went down 850 statute miles from Rome Wyatt's planned flight had called for a total distance of 5,693 miles.

He said he had bad luck all the way across the Atlantic. Headwinds cut down his speed for 32 hours. He radioed the airport at Bordeaux, France, yesterday that because of the winds he was using

Vanguard Test May Be Delayed Until Tomorrow

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Oct. 19 (UP)—A test model of the Vanguard missile which carries the nation's hopes of launching an earth satellite next spring apparently will not be fired until Monday, it was learned today.

There was no official word from the Air Force at its top-secret missile test center here, but informed sources indicated firing of the slender rocket will not come during the weekend.

Newsmen and photographers, who have been waiting since early Friday for the firing to test the first stage of the three - stage projectile remained on nearby beaches, however, on the chance the Vanguard would still be launched later in the day.

But the red ball hoisted when a missle firing is imminent to warn off boats in the five-mile "danger zone" around the center was not atop its 90-foot pole.

BUDGET EMPHASIS

Republican Policy Assailed By Demos

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UP)—The Democratic party high command attacked the Eisenhower administration today on grounds tht it placed its budget goals ahead on national security.

The Democrats said the result was a one-sided disarmament program at the expense of sound national defense and foreign policies.

This broadside came from the opening session of a two - day meeting of the Democratic Advisory Council set up by the Democratic National Committee as a between-conventions voice of the party.

Chairman Paul M. Butler said the foreign policy declaration was supported by former President Truman, who was unable to attend. Sixteen of the 24 council members were present, including Adlai E. Stevenson, 1952 and 1956 presidential nominee; Sen. Estes Kefauver, 1956 vice presidential nominee; Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Today's statement was based on a draft presented by former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, chairman of the council's advisory committee on foreign policy.

"The administration's present policy, if continued, will by 1960 take the United States far toward political isolation, continue to weaken our military position relative to the Russians, and leave those nations of the still free world which are capable of industrial development, looking to Moscow for capital and technical assistance," the council said.

It said Democratic foreign policy aims should be in the rebuilding of confidence and strength in U. S. alliances, rebuilding military strength and encouraging allies to do the same, helping free nations develop industry, and regaining the respect of free men.

"The overwhelming need of the United States at this time is to restore the vitality, cohesion and strength of the alliance of free nations," the Democrats said.

Suggest Top Red Should Be Invited

LONDON, Oct. 19 (UP)—The Russians today suggested that President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan invite Nikita S. Khrushchev to their summit conference to settle the Syrian-Turkish crisis.

A hint that the Soviets would accept such a proposal was sandwiched between a fresh denunciation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and charges that the Eisenhower-MacMillan meeting in Washington next week was brought about by "serious defeats" for western policy in such areas as the Middle East.

A radio Moscow broadcast in English intimated that only a meeting with Russia's leaders could solve current world issues.

Rapped By Moscow

Commenting on next Wednesday's big two meeting in Washington, the radio said: "If they really want to bring the Mideast back to normal, why don't they invite other countries to confer? After all, there is not a single international problem that now can be settled singly."

The broadcast hinted that Khrushchev would accept an invitation to a summit meeting. Presumably, Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin also would attend any such meeting.

Although the foreign office has denied that there will be a summit meeting with Russia on the Middle East, the British press still was speculating that such a parley might develop.

The Syrian-Turkish crisis had reached the point where Russia was warning it would send its own armed forces to Syria to protect it in case of aggression.

Turk Denounces Charge

Funds Campaign For Bayou Work Continues Gain

A concerted drive for funds to finance renovating Bayou DeSiard of its heavy shad population, brought collections to around the $2,000 level yesterday, it was reported by A. S. (Bud) Tidwell, president of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit.

The drive goal, which must be reached before winter weather moves into the area, is $3,000. Confident that this amount can be obtained by Thursday or Friday, Tidwell said renovation plans were progressing.

Date set for beginning of application of the chemical preparation Rotenone, to wipe out the undesirable fish population in Bayou DeSiard, is October 28. Prime target is more than 70 per cent infestation of shad. The operation will be handled by a team from the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries commission.

Contributions are being mailed to "SHAD," Box 2597, Monroe. Members of the local Wildlife unit and Jack Rushing at the College Friend will also accept contributions.

Detroit Haunted By Race Riot Memories

By A. F. MAHAN JR.

DETROIT, Oct. 19 (AP)—Detroit is haunted by the memory of one of history's worst race riots. Thirty-four died in it and more than 400 were wounded.

But authorities, both white and Negro, agree a repetition or next-to-repetition of that 1943 riot now is impossible or next to it.

Detroit is among the many Northern cities where the Negro population constantly is growing faster than the white. In 1940 there were 150,000 Negro Detroiters; in 1950 there were 300,000, and by 1960 there are expected to be 425,000—nearly a quarter of a total of two million people.

Racial tension still is here and ugly demonstrations sometimes develop. It was only six weeks ago that police lifted an around-the-clock guard on the home of a Negro woman who moved into an all-white neighborhood last February.

Danger Signals

A Negro politician said this week Detroit is showing "danger signals of intergroup tensions."

But Negroes and whites whose job it is to keep their fingers on the pulse of racial feelings think he is considerably off base.

To a man, either Negro nor white authorities thought there was the possibility of an eruption similar to that of 14 years ago.

"Immeasurably improved" was the view of most of racial relations compared with only five years ago. And it has been constant, year-by-year improvement, they said.

The reasons are many and varied. But generally credited are better understandings of problems; a will to work together for the common good since both races are here to stay; a constant program of education in human relations that stretches up the ladder from kindergarten to parents; and a racial police policy on racial demonstrations.

William T. Patrick Jr., one of three Negroes among 18 non-partisan nominees for nine seats at stake Nov. 5, on the so-far all-white City Council, saw what he termed "danger signals" and said Detroit's "remarkably healthy atmosphere" is becoming spoiled with "many Faubus-like characteristics."

Refered To Faubus

The latter was in reference to Gov. Orval Faubus, who last month called out the Arkansas National Guard to halt integration at Little Rock Central High School.

Detective Sergeants Norman Nickerson and Edward V. Boggs, assigned exclusively to racial matters by the Police Department's Special Investigation Bureau, say there are would-be fomenters of trouble on both sides of the color line.

On the Negro side they place at the top the so-called "Muslim Cult," which describes itself as Islamic and worships Allah. Its Mr. Muhammad writes an inflammatory antiwhite, anti-Christian column in the Negro Pittsburgh Courier. The cult has a growing, although relatively small Detroit membership.

On the white side are many Deep South immigrants to Detroit factories. They come from areas where segregation is both a practice and tradition. Tempers sometimes explode in integrated Detroit.

Juveniles of both races also cause police anxiety. Boggs explained a gang fight might erupt into a first-class racial clash, particularly if the fight involved one group predominantly white and one predominantly Negro.

All racial incidents in recent months have been isolated ones in this sprawling city. There have been several nasty rumors from the city's long-integrated schools but none have developed into anything.

Incidents To Continue

Neighborhood incidents, Boggs is sure, will continue "because folks anywhere may not get along with the ones next door."

As to another bloody riot developing in Detroit, though, Boggs says, "I don't see any possibility of it."

Arthur L. Johnson, executive secretary of Detroit's chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People; Francis A. Kornegay, assistant executive director of Detroit's Urban League; and William Matney, Negro secretary of the Michigan Athletic Board of Control and managing editor of the Michigan Chronicle, agreed.

Richard V. Marks, secretary-director of the Detroit Commission on Community Relations, says his agency is pressing to assure "in fact as well as in law" the Negro's equal access to public accommodations.

Downtown, he says, this principle is pretty well established. Matney agrees that as long as a Negro meets reasonable standards of dress and behavior his wants usually are served without discrimination by downtown hotels, restaurants, bars and other public places.

Not Always Case

But such is not the case in some outlying areas, particularly in long time white neighborhoods or fringe areas. Only Monday five Negroes filed suit in U. District Court here asking an injunction to prohibit seven bowling establishments in nearby Pontiac from allegedly discriminating against Negroes.

He said: "Because of racial prejudices, many home owner groups are only thin disguises—not for preserving residential characteristics of their blocks and neighborhoods—but for maintaining racial characteristics. This bars displaced families from expressway routes and slum clearances from moving into neighborhoods."

That is true. Some neighborhood associations admit it. Some others admit that's the aim, whatever the bylaws list as objectives. But there is at least one dedicated to bettering the understanding within its mixed area.

Protective Group

This is the Boston-Edison Protective Assn., which got its name 31 years ago when formed by its then all-white wealthy residents. Boston, Chicago, Longfellow and Edison boulevards have the mid-city's most expensively built homes. Both Negro and white professional men live there now.

The association's secretary is blonde Mrs. Lillian Engle, who describes the membership as "wonderful people, real proud of our objective to keep the area single-family and beautiful." Many homes occupied by Negroes, she said, "look much better than originally."

Originally Detroit's Negro population settled along what is known as "The Strip," paralleling Woodward Avenue north and south. Then it spread east.

As late as Sept. 4, the Police Department was giving "special attention" to 10 different Negro homes in newly mixed or previously all-white neighborhoods.

The usual complaints were windows broken by stones, paint flung on the outside, telephoned threats.

One of the "special attention" homes was that of Mrs. Ethel Watkins, a Negro seamstress, where police dispersed as many as 150 in protesting crowds last February in the all-white neighborhood. As many as 40 policemen were detailed there some nights; a two-man around-the-clock guard was maintained until six weeks ago.

The commission on community relations reports 15 housing complaints thus far this year, compared with 15 for all of 1956.

Michigan enacted a fair employment practices commission law last year. Its liquor control board has warned taverns and bars that discrimination will result in license revocation. The state's schools long have been integrated. Clerks and even administrative jobs now are open to Negroes in downtown Detroit stores.

Another great leveler is labor union policy of equal pay for equal work in contracts and seniority equality, regardless of race. And Detroit is a great union town.

TRICK OR TREAT PREPARATIONS — This scene will be enacted many times starting this week as the Junior Chamber of Commerce conducts its annual door-to-door sale of caramels used widely by housewives as a "trick or treat" favor for Hallowe'en. The sales will be made in both Monroe and West Monroe on Thursday night of this week and on Monday and Wednesday nights of next week, starting at 7 o'clock. In this sales prevue are, left to right, Joe Rabun, chairman of the Jaycee candy sale project; Bob Aymond, Jaycee vice-president; Mrs. T. H. Brode of 1206 South Ninth street, and her two sons, Ted Brode and Eric Brode, who watch the transaction with eagerness. (Staff photo by John Oldenburg)

Archaeologists Work On Site Believed Biblical Gath

JERUSALEM (AP) — Jewish immigrants from North Africa seeking a new future in Israel have begun by digging into their people's past.

At the thriving development center of Gath on the southwestern coastal plain they are excavating a hill that is a panorama of the country's history.

They hope they have found the Biblical city of Gath, by legend the home of giants and the birthplace of Goliath.

The excavations at hill Sheikh Ahmed el Areini, directed by the government's antiquities department, gave many immigrants their first work since arriving in Israel.

Remnants of Canaanite, Philistine and Persian civilzations have been found, as well as relics from the time when David conquered the Philistines for an earlier Israel.

The excavations, under way through the past two summers, have yielded Canaanite homes of sun-dried mud brick which date from the Bronze Age. It was during that period — 4,000 to 5,000 years ago — that the first Semitic tribes entered the country from the east.

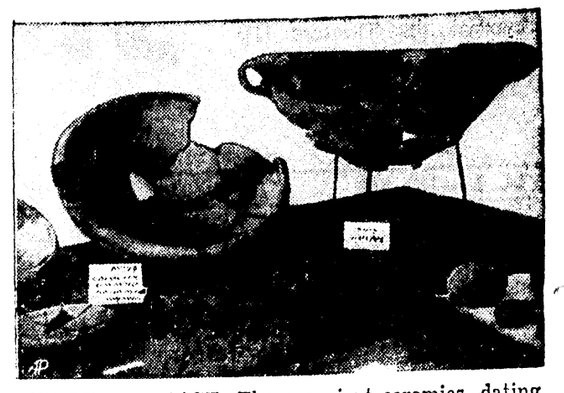
Charred wheat and barley found on the Canaanite level will be studied for information about agriculture of the time.

A cobbled street on the same level leads to a circular platform, beside which a hippopotamus bone was found. Experts think it may have been part of a religious sacrifice.

Higher up the hill a fortress-like wall is being uncovered. Archaeologists believe the wall may have been one stormed by David when he defeated the Philistines. It will be followed in a search for Gath's city gate.

On another level, recent findings include remains from the time of early Israel, 800 to 600 B. C. There are walls of brick, clay ovens and indications of ceramic and glass production. Pieces of pottery and jar handles with the Hebrew inscription "lamelach," meaning "for the king," were taken from the same layer.

The digging will continue next summer. The excavators hope they then will find final proof that they have discovered Gath.



OUT OF THE PAST: These ancient ceramics, dating to 800 years before Christ, were found during excavations of site archaeologists hope is Biblical Gath.

NO EXTRAS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(UP)—Missouri Conservation Commission agent Mel Lee said he recently accosted an angler at Bennett Springs State Park who had three trout over the limit. The fisherman replied: "But I thought you could catch the limit, plus a few more for supper." Lee disagreed and so did the court.

PURIST POINTS OUT

Our Goulash Is Fraud

By CARL HARTMAN

BUDAPEST (AP) — It's not a major Cold War issue yet, but some Hungarians think the time has come to bring a halt to what the western world is consuming under the name of goulash.

First of all the purists point out, the proper name isn't goulash at all, but gulyas (pronounced goo-yash.) A "gulyas" is both a Hungarian cowboy and a dish of the Hungarian great plains. It's what the cowboys make when they have no one to

More Like Soup

Second, it's not a dish with a thick gooey sauce but a thin, soupy job with little square noodles floating on top and cubes of meat and potatoes sitting at the bottom.

Third, as a soup it should be served in a soup plate and eaten with a soup spoon.

The simple way of cooking it is in a big copper pot, suspended by it's handle from a tripod, over an open fire. That is, it's the simplest way for a Hungarian cowboy. He throws in water, beef, fat bacon, tomatoes and paprika in whatever form and quantity are most readily available and lets them cook until the meat is tender enough to chew. Outdoor cooks might like to try it.

Janos Rakoczy, the chef at Budapest's Duna Hotel, thinks you would find this way simpler in you kitchenette:

Here's How

Take a pound of beef brisket, cut into cubes about half the size of your fist. Wash and place in a saucepan. Chop six ounces of onions and fry in about three ounces of lard. Put in pan with beef. Add a dessert spoonful of sweet paprika, a little water and salt to taste

Simmer. When the meat is nearly tender add a pound of potatoes cut into small cubes and enough water to keep six people from thinking they're hungry after they've finished. Simmer again until the meat is as tender as you like. Before it's done, add a sliced tomato. Make a dough from about six ounces of flour, an egg and a pinch of salt. Roll it very thing, cut into little squares and boil it in the soup a minute or so just before serving.

There are several major variants — Alfoldi gulyas, with vegetables; Szekely gulyas, with pork, sour cream and cabbage. There is also poerkoelt, which is more like what you get as goulash in restaurants outside Hungary, but that's another story completely.

BISHOP RETURNS TO TV

NEW YORK (UP)—Bishop Fulton Sheen will return to television this season via filmed re-runs of past programs.

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, which receives all revenues from Sheen's TV shows, will select 26 of his past programs for syndication to stations throughout the country. The re-runs will be called "The Best of Bishop Sheen."

Strong competition from CBS-TV's "I Love Lucy" and NBC-TV's "Twenty-One" was believed largely responsible for the demise of the Sheen series, which began in 1952 on the Dumont network and ended last April.

BRITAIN'S THE PLACE

Would-Be Actresses In U.S. Urged To Go East

By NORMAN ROSS

That's the advice from actress Anna Massey to American girls who yearn for a career upon the merry stage.

"If a girl is really serious about acting," she says, "England's the place. I don't mean that the acting is better here. But there's so much more chance.

"In America, there's much more competition for fewer places. It seems a miracle that anyone ever gets on the stage at all in America."

Anna, the auburn-haired, dainty-built English daughter of actor Raymond Massey, ought to know. Just turned 20, she has already played star parts in London and on Broadway—in "The Reluctant Debutant" earlier this year—and is now starring again in London, in a lightweight comedy called "Dear Delinquent."

Not Easy

It isn't, she says, an easy life for the American girl crashing the British stage, even if the girl can get a foreigner's working permit.

"If she gets a part, it'll probably be out-of-town repertory." About nine pounds—$25—a week, two shows a night and dreary theatrical boarding houses in provincial towns.

"But you get a chance to act, and often in a different play every week," says Anna. And—not like summer stock companies in the States—they don't give the big, juicy parts to a guest star. The members of the company play them all."

"Also," Anna points out, "with talent and luck, there is the London stage. There are nearly twice as many theaters here as in New York, and that means nearly twice as many parts."

Never Played Role

True, the round, blue, well-bred eyes through which Anna looks at the world may see the British stage through rose-colored glasses.

Anna never acted for $25 a week, nor smelled the inside of theatrical rooming houses.

But, speaking in a voice as delicate as the tinkle of tea cups, Anna denied earnestly that she can know only the soft, easy road.

"When this play was about to open," she says, "I knew what a lot of people were saying: 'She's just a one-play actress. She's a silly little debutante and she was just acting herself in that last play'—you can't just act yourself, but people don't understand that.

"I was scared stiff. If things went wrong, I was going to start all over again, and look for a part in a repertory—they're not easy to get, either. If you've got it in you, you'll act, I feel."

Asphalt Group Hits Petroleum Institute

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UP)—The Asphalt Institute has let loose a blast at the petroleum industry for failing to promote asphalt, one of its principal products.

The trade association expressed its sentiments in a current news letter. It said the industry is refusing to recognize a simple exercise in gasoline marketing logic—that more and better roads made of asphalt, which is cheaper than concrete, mean much heavier gasoline consumption and less taxes.

Institute President J. E. Buchanan began trumpeting the complaint two years ago. But only now, the institute said, are the industry press and gasoline marketers beginning to show interest.

Motorist Curbs Desire

"Gradually," it said, "it is dawning on them that the American motorist is curbing his enthusiasm for roaming the broad highway — principally because there isn't enough broad highway to go around."

Here is how Buchanan summed it up:

"The Portland Cement industry widely advertises expensive concrete roads, creating the public impression that only concrete makes good pavement and brazenly implying that because it is expensive it must be good. The oil industry collects and turns billions in taxes over to road-building authorities but it hardly peeps in rebuttal.

Oil Industry Caught

"Yet here is the oil industry, caught in the tight squeeze between the need for more roads and the fear of higher gasoline taxes; still it fails to push with characteristic vigor its own petroleum asphalt—the very material that can provide the needed roads with least tax burden."

The institute pointed out that so far in the government's multi-billion dollar interstate highway building program, asphalt has won a slight edge over cement. But it cautioned that hand-wringing could come later, depending on paving awards in the 48 states. Hence the reason the industry should beat the tom toms for asphalt.

It said a survey in what it called "division one" showed that asphalt was preferred by a slight margin in a 20-state bloc. It said asphalt was chosen for 44 per cent of the mileage (172), with concrete getting 39 per cent (154), and the remaining 17 per cent (65), unspecified.

Neighborhood incidents, Boggs is sure, will continue "because folks anywhere may not get along with the ones next door."

As to another bloody riot developing in Detroit, though, Boggs says: "I don't see any possibility of it."

Arthur L. Johnson, executive secretary of Detroit's chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People; Francis A. Kornegay, assistant executive director of Detroit's Urban League; and William Matney, Negro secretary of the Michigan Athletic Board of Control and managing editor of the Michigan Chronicle, agreed.

Richard V. Marks, secretary-director of the Detroit Commission on Community Relations, says his agency is pressing to assure "in fact as well as in law" the Negro's equal access to public accommodations.

Downtown, he says, this principle is pretty well established. Matney agrees that as long as a Negro meets reasonable standards of dress and behavior his wants usually are served without discrimination by downtown hotels, restaurants, bars and other public places.

Not Always Case

But such is not the case in some outlying areas, particularly in long time white neighborhoods or fringe areas. Only Monday five Negroes filed suit in U.. District Court here asking an injunction to prohibit seven bowling establishments in nearby Pontiac from allegedly discriminating against Negroes.

He said: "Because of racial prejudices, many home owner groups are only thin disguises—not for preserving residential characteristics of their blocks and neighborhoods—but for maintaining racial characteristics. This bars displaced families (from expressway routes and slum clearances) from moving into neighborhoods."

That is true. Some neighborhood associations admit it. Some others admit that's the aim, whatever the bylaws list as objectives. But there is at least one dedicated to bettering the understanding within its mixed area.

Protective Group

This is the Boston-Edison Protective Assn., which got its name 31 years ago when formed by its then all-white wealthy residents. Boston, Chicago, Longfellow and Edison boulevards have the mid-city's most expensively built homes. Both Negro and white professional men live there now.

The association's secretary is blonde Mrs. Lillian Engle, who describes the membership as "wonderful people, real proud of our objective to keep the area single-family and beautiful." Many homes occupied by Negroes, she said, "look much better than originally."

Originally Detroit's Negro population settled along what is known as "The Strip," parallesing Woodward Avenue north and south. Then it spread east.

As late as Sept. 4, the Police Department was giving "special attention" to 10 different Negro homes in newly mixed or previously all-white neighborhoods.

The usual complaints were windows broken by stones, paint flung on the outside, telephoned threats.

One of the "special attention" homes was that of Mrs. Ethel Watkins, a Negro seamstress, where police dispersed as many as 150 in protesting crowds last February in the all-white neighborhood. As many as 40 policemen were detailed there some nights; a two-man around-the-clock guard was maintained until six weeks ago.

The commission on community relations reports 15 housing complaints thus far this year, compared with 15 for all of 1956.

Michigan enacted a fair employment practices commission law last year. Its liquor control board has warned taverns and bars that discrimination will result in license revocation. The state's schools long have been integrated. Clerks and even administrative jobs now are open to Negroes in downtown Detroit stores.

Another great leveler is labor union policy of equal pay for equal work in contracts and seniority equality, regardless of race. And Detroit is a great union town.

TRICK OR TREAT PREPARATIONS — This scene will be enacted many times starting this week as the Junior Chamber of Commerce conducts its annual door-to-door sale of caramels used widely by housewives as a "trick or treat" favor for Hallowe'en. The sales will be made in both Monroe and West Monroe on Thursday night of this week and on Monday and Wednesday nights of next week, starting at 7 o'clock. In this sales prevue are, left to right, Joe Rabun, chairman of the Jaycee candy sale project; Bob Aymond, Jaycee vice-president; Mrs. T. H. Brode of 1206 South Ninth street, and her two sons, Ted Brode and Eric Brode, who watch the transaction with eagerness. (Staff photo by John Oldenburg)

Archaeologists Work On Site Believed Biblical Gath

JERUSALEM (AP) — Jewish immigrants from North Africa seeking a new future in Israel have begun by digging into their people's past.

At the thriving development center of Gath on the southwestern coastal plain they are excavating a hill that is a panorama of the country's history.

They hope they have found the Biblical city of Gath, by legend the home of giants and the birthplace of Goliath.

The excavations at hill Sheikh Ahmed el Areini, directed by the government's antiquities department, gave many immigrants their first work since arriving in Israel.

Remnants of Canaanite, Philistine and Persian civilzations have been found, as well as relics from the time when David conquered the Philistines for an earlier Israel.

The excavations, under way through the past two summers, have yielded Canaanite homes of sun-dried mud brick which date from the Bronze Age. It was during that period — 4,000 to 5,000 years ago — that the first Semitic tribes entered the country from the east.

Charred wheat and barley found on the Canaanite level will be studied for information about agriculture of the time.

A cobbled street on the same level leads to a circular platform, beside which a hippopotamus bone was found. Experts think it may have been part of a religious sacrifice.

Higher up the hill a fortress-like wall is being uncovered. Archaeologists believe the wall may have been one stormed by David when he defeated the Philistines. It will be followed in a search for Gath's city gate.

On another level, recent findings include remains from the time of early Israel, 800 to 600 B. C. There are walls of brick, clay ovens and indications of ceramic and glass production. Pieces of pottery and jar handles with the Hebrew inscription "lamelach," meaning "for the king," were taken from the same layer.

The digging will continue next summer. The excavators hope they then will find final proof that they have discovered Gath.

OUT OF THE PAST: These ancient ceramics, dating to 800 years before Christ, were found during excavations of site archaeologists hope is Biblical Gath.

NO EXTRAS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(UP)—Missouri Conservation Commission agent Mel Lee said he recently accosted an angler at Bennett Springs State Park who had three trout over the limit. The fisherman replied: "But I thought you could catch the limit, plus a few more for supper." Lee disagreed and so did the court.

PURIST POINTS OUT

Our Goulash Is Fraud

By CARL HARTMAN

BUDAPEST (AP) — It's not a major Cold War issue yet, but some Hungarians think the time has come to bring a halt to what the western world is consuming under the name of goulash.

First of all the purists point out, the proper name isn't goulash at all, but gulyas (pronounced goo-yash.) A "gulyas" is both a Hungarian cowboy and a dish of the Hungarian great plains. It's what the cowboys make when they have no one to

More Like Soup

Second, it's not a dish with a thick gooey sauce but a thin, soupy job with little square noodles floating on top and cubes of meat and potatoes sitting at the bottom.

Third, as a soup it should be served in a soup plate and eaten with a soup spoon.

The simple way of cooking it is in a big copper pot, suspended by it's handle from a tripod, over an open fire. That is, it's the simplest way for a Hungarian cowboy. He throws in water, beef, fat bacon, tomatoes and paprika in whatever form and quantity are most readily available and lets them cook until the meat is tender enough to chew. Outdoor cooks might like to try it.

Janos Rakoczy, the chef at Budapest's Duna Hotel, thinks you would find this way simpler in you kitchenette:

Here's How

Take a pound of beef brisket, cut into cubes about half the size of your fist. Wash and place in a saucepan. Chop six ounces of onions and fry in about three ounces of lard. Put in pan with beef. Add a dessert spoonful of sweet paprika, a little water and salt to taste

Simmer. When the meat is nearly tender add a pound of potatoes cut into small cubes and enough water to keep six people from thinking they're hungry after they've finished. Simmer again until the meat is as tender as you like. Before it's done, add a sliced tomato. Make a dough from about six ounces of flour, an egg and a pinch of salt. Roll it very thing, cut into little squares and boil it in the soup a minute or so just before serving.

There are several major variants — Alfoldi gulyas, with vegetables; Szekely gulyas, with pork, sour cream and cabbage. There is also poerkoelt, which is more like what you get as goulash in restaurants outside Hungary, but that's another story completely.

BISHOP RETURNS TO TV

NEW YORK (UP)—Bishop Fulton Sheen will return to television this season via filmed re-runs of past programs.

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, which receives all revenues from Sheen's TV shows, will select 26 of his past programs for syndication to stations throughout the country. The re-runs will be called "The Best of Bishop Sheen."

Strong competition from CBS-TV's "I Love Lucy" and NBC-TV's "Twenty-One" was believed largely responsible for the demise of the Sheen series, which began in 1952 on the Dumont network and ended last April.

BRITAIN'S THE PLACE

Would-Be Actresses In U.S. Urged To Go East

By NORMAN ROSS

That's the advice from actress Anna Massey to American girls who yearn for a career upon the merry stage.

"If a girl is really serious about acting," she says, "England's the place. I don't mean that the acting is better here. But there's so much more chance.

"In America, there's much more competition for fewer places. It seems a miracle that anyone ever gets on the stage at all in America."

Anna, the auburn-haired, daintily-built English daughter of actor Raymond Massey, ought to know. Just turned 20, she has already played star parts in London and on Broadway—in "The Reluctant Debutant" earlier this year—and is now starring again in London, in a lightweight comedy called "Dear Delinquent."

Not Easy

It isn't, she says, an easy life for the American girl crashing the British stage, even if the girl can get a foreigner's working permit.

"If she gets a part, it'll probably be out-of-town repertory." About nine pounds—$25—a week, two shows a night and dreary theatrical boarding houses in provincial towns.

"But you get a chance to act, and often in a different play every week," says Anna. And—not like summer stock companies in the States—they don't give the big, juicy parts to a guest star. The members of the company play them all."

"Also," Anna points out, "with talent and luck, there is the London stage. There are nearly twice as many theaters here as in New York, and that means nearly twice as many parts."

Never Played Role

True, the round, blue, well-bred eyes through which Anna looks at the world may see the British stage through rose-colored glasses.

Anna never acted for $25 a week, nor smelled the inside of theatrical rooming houses.

But, speaking in a voice as delicate as the tinkle of tea cups, Anna denied earnestly that she can know only the soft, easy road.

"When this play was about to open," she says, "I knew what a lot of people were saying: 'She's just a one-play actress. She's a silly little debutante and she was just acting herself in that last play'—you can't just act yourself, but people don't understand that.

"I was scared stiff. If things went wrong, I was going to start all over again, and look for a part in a repertory—they're not easy to get, either. If you've got it in you, you'll act, I feel."

Asphalt Group Hits Petroleum Institute

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UP)—The Asphalt Institute has let loose a blast at the petroleum industry for failing to promote asphalt, one of its principal products.

The trade association expressed its sentiments in a current news letter. It said the industry is refusing to recognize a simple exercise in gasoline marketing logic—that more and better roads made of asphalt, which is cheaper than concrete, mean much heavier gasoline consumption and less taxes.

Institute President J. E. Buchanan began trumpeting the complaint two years ago. But only now, the institute said, are the industry press and gasoline marketers beginning to show interest.

Motorist Curbs Desire

"Gradually," it said, "it is dawning on them that the American motorist is curbing his enthusiasm for roaming the broad highway — principally because there isn't enough broad highway to go around."

Here is how Buchanan summed it up:

"The Portland Cement industry widely advertises expensive concrete roads, creating the public impression that only concrete makes good pavement and brazenly implying that because it is expensive it must be good. The oil industry collects and turns billions in taxes over to road-building authorities but it hardly peeps in hebuttal.

Oil Industry Caught

"Yet here is the oil industry, caught in the tight squeeze between the need for more roads and the fear of higher gasoline taxes; still it fails to push with characteristic vigor its own petroleum asphalt—the very material that can provide the needed roads with least tax burden."

The institute pointed out that so far in the government's multi-billion dollar interstate highway building program, asphalt has won a slight edge over cement. But it cautioned that hand-wringing could come later, depending on paving awards in the 48 states. Hence the reason the industry should beat the tom toms for asphalt.

It said a survey in what it called "division one" showed that asphalt was preferred by a slight margin in a 20-state bloc. It said asphalt was chosen for 44 per cent of the mileage (172), with concrete getting 39 per cent (154), and the remaining 17 per cent (65), unspecified.

'Debutante' Draws Audience Approval

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

With all reservations taken, a full house was on hand Friday for the opening night of the 1957-58 season of the Little Theatre of Monroe. The play selected for the occasion was William Douglas Home's, "The Reluctant Debutante," a comedy in the British manner built around the "launching" of a London Miss into society.

After a few words of welcome from Mrs. Carl McHenry, Little Theatre president, the curtains opened to reveal some beautiful handwork on the sets — the living room scenery which served for the setting of the entire play. When an audience must face one set for an entire play, attractive scenery is a must. This was not only tastefully decorated, but sturdy as well.

In this "nerve center" of operation debutante, Jimmy and Shelia Broadbent — played by Frank Breese and Colleen Dent — strive to plot the course of daughter Jane's (Anne McCarty) London debut.

Also coming out is the daughter of Mable Crosswaite (Margarate Fryant), Clarissa (Portia Gould). One gets the idea Mable and Shelia went through the same social season as debutantes a little better than half - a - generation before the action of the play.

Same Objective

Both set their caps for the same young man, David Bulloch (played by Fred McDowell), but somehow another David Hoylake-Johnston (Chuck Morgan) enters the picture via some fouled - up telephone dialing of Mrs. Broadbent and a bridge game with her husband. The accidental David turns out to be the better choice as far as Jane and her dad are concerned. Father and daughter finally work a stunt to see that Mamma Broadbent unwittingly invites him to a party just after having him "thrown out."

Now the problem for director Ivan Uttal was to get his players to throw themselves into the maze of the plot and cause writer Home's impression of a London social season to reach the audience.

The playwright considered the seasons fun for the girl, an adroit exercise for the mothers, a chance for the eligible young men to "free load" on parties and drinks and a hopeless and unwanted expense for the fathers.

Proven Again

Uttal proved once again his ability to keep his mind on the whole show while pushing each individual player to his or her dramatic limits. This was particularly noticeable in a number of places throughout the play.

Shelia Broadbent, when she first encounters the "desirable" David in a telephone conversation, makes a few telling remarks and facial expressions. Jane uses the one word description, "goofy." Finally, David Bulloch appears on stage with a small, two - piece mustache, penetrating eyes with a wider space between them and, from subsequent actions, one supposes he must have the widest area of all between his ears. Excellent acting, Fred McDowell!

No one would ever accuse Colleen Dent of having been near England in recent years. New Orleans language and manners are too much a part of her. But her feelings in the part rang true; apparently, the New Orleans social season is as perplexing as that of any other city. In fact, how could the part be handled any other way with equal impact?

Convincing Job

Frank Breese, a veteran of 26 years on the local boards, did a thoroughly convincing job as the father. His lines describing the mother's lack of logic in a coming - out: "She sets out her daughter as bait, but is horrified when the hoped - for tiger starts to take it ..."were typical of the philosophical humor which was the basis of the play.

Margaret Fryant acted as a "friend" to Mamma Broadbent while trying to outmaneuver her for the attentions of "goofy" David for her own daughter. She kept the British setting alive since she really is a native of Warwickshire. Her daughter Clarissa, played by Portia Gould, looked and did a beautiful job.

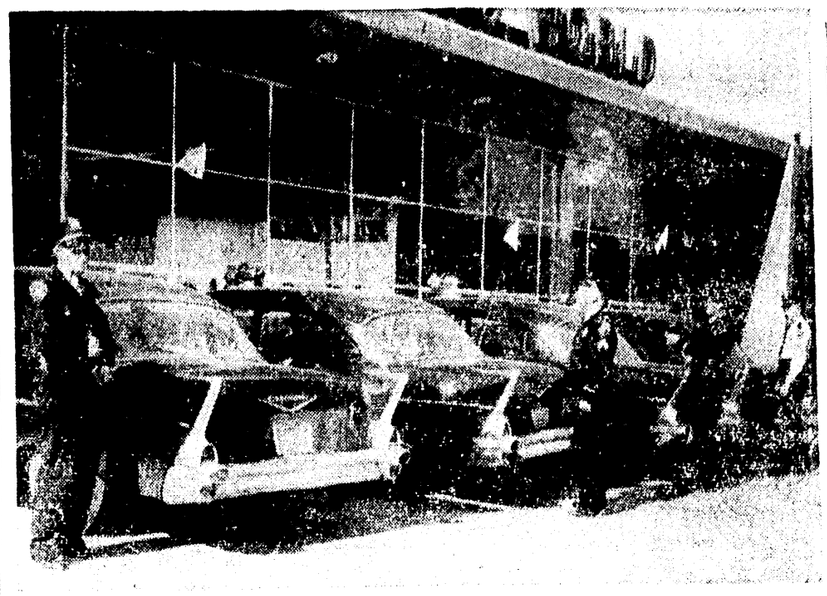
Anne McCarty, as Jane Broadbent, had the heavy part — as heavy as comedy will allow — of enjoying, then loathing, then discovering the presence of some degree of love within the social whirl.

Chuck Morgan as David Hoylake - Johnstone had the job of proving he really wasn't a heel. In a business - like manner, he manages to carry this off later with Pappa Broadbent, but a little more charm at his first walk - on would help. It's hard to arrange this, because Mamma Broadbent is not too happy to see him.

Other details such as the somewhat awkward group work in the second scene of the first act — where six are on stage at one time — will no doubt receive adequate correction in subsequent performances. Audience reaction was highly favorable; certainly this is the eating wherein lies the proof of the dramatic pudding.

Other bouquets to the maid, Kay McClure, and to Sandra Johnson and Naomi Campbell who did make - up and set work backstage.

Outstanding works of local artists Mary Dalton, Kathryn Magruder, Maud Mayo, Allen Trousdale and J. S. Washburn brightened the wall behind the coffee table in the foyer.



WHITE FLAGS FLY AGAIN — The Monroe Police Department's patrol cars were flying the white flags again after having displayed the black banners for three days denoting a traffic fatality. A Winnsboro man was fatally injured at a city street intersection Tuesday night for the first traffic death here in eight months. Remounting the white flags yesterday morning were, left to right, Sgt. Ocie Howard, Sgt. George Whitlow, Maj. Jack Davis and Pfc. H. R. Wall. (Staff photo by John Oldenburg)

Ample Supply Of Fuel Oils Now On Hand

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Reports from the oil industry indicate ample supplies of fuel oil for heat this winter, even if the winter is a severe one.

Gasoline stocks of both fuels are well above a year ago and, with the transportation facilities that are available, should mean no shortages anywhere in the country.

This assurance comes from the National Petroleum Council and the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA). IPAA reports stocks of some heating fuels totaled 173 million barrels Oct. 11, up 20 million barrels from a year ago. Gasoline stocks were 178 million barrels, 4 million barrels more than a year ago.

IPAA also said refining operations could be stepped up if more heating oil production should be required because of unusually cold weather. Refineries are operating at about 86 per cent of capacity.

In its October supply and demand outlook, the IPAA said sharp seasonal increases in domestic crude oil consumption are expected during the next three months as the heating season reaches its peak.

The weather, of course, will be the controlling factor. IPAA said a normal winter probably would mean a domestic demand for crude oil of three to five per cent above that of last winter.

Ex-Labor Czar Dies Of Liver Ailment In NY

MINEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—William C. De Koning Sr., 59, Long Island labor czar until he was imprisoned for extortion in 1954, died today in Nassau County Hospital. He entered the hospital five weeks ago with a liver ailment.

He pleaded guilty in Nassau County court April 1, 1954, to charges of extorting $850,000. The prosecution said that $500,000 of it came from raceway employes and $350,000 from Long Island builders. De Koning's son, William Jr., also was indicted on extortion charges, but was allowed to plead guilty to a lesser charge of coercion.

The elder De Koning served an 18-month term in Sing Sing and Attica Prisons. The son received a one-year suspended sentence.

After his release from prison, the senior De Koning lived at an estate at Golden Beach, Fla., later moving to a 3,500 acre ranch near Wauchula, Fla. He came to the hospital from Florida Sept. 12. His widow and the son survive.

Oppose Union In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP)—Employes of City Steel Co. voted 32-0 against union representation in an election conducted yesterday by the National Labor Relations Board.

Shopmen's local 702 of International Assn. of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers sought to organize the shop.

Vice President Praises Rault

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (UP)—Joseph M. Rault, president of International House, has praised Vice President Richard M. Nixon's support of a five-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade agreement.

International House launched a nationwide program for the extension last month.

Nixon's statement was made in San Francisco this week at a meeting of the International Industrial Development Conference.

Nixon said that the extension and an increase of American investments abroad are needed for the security of the free world.

Most of the New Orleans organizations affected by such an extension have voiced approval.

Rault said that copies of the resolutions have been sent to all members of Congress and that many other resolutions are being passed by organizations all over the nation.

Fire Ant Group To Meet In State

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19—UP—A steering committee for the control and extermination of fire ants will meet with officials of the Louisiana Agriculture Department Tuesday to discuss a state-wide eradication program.

Louisiana Farm Bureau President L. L. Lovell is chairman of the committee, composed of representatives from 32 parishes. Lovell said the eradication program would be started as soon as possible.

The Louisiana Legislature voted a $300,000 appropriation to fight the fire ant which damaged crops throughout the south.

The Southern Plant Board at Memphis, Tenn., this week established a fire ant eradication program. A hearing has been scheduled at Memphis Nov. 19 to discuss a federal quarantine in the infested areas.

It's hard to arrange this, because Mamma Broadbent is not too happy to see him.

Other details such as the somewhat awkward group work in the second scene of the first act — where six are on stage at one time — will no doubt receive adequate correction in subsequent performances. Audience reaction was highly favorable; certainly this is the eating wherein lies the proof of the dramatic pudding.

Other bouquets to the maid, Kay McClure, and to Sandra Johnson and Naomi Campbell who did make - up and set work backstage.

Ample Supply Of Fuel Oils Now On Hand

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Reports from the oil industry indicate ample supplies of fuel oil for heat this winter, even if the winter is a severe one.

Gasoline stocks of both fuels are well above a year ago and, with the transportation facilities that are available, should mean no shortages anywhere in the country.

This assurance comes from the National Petroleum Council and the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA). IPAA reports stocks of some heating fuels totaled 173 million barrels Oct. 11, up 20 million barrels from a year ago. Gasoline stocks were 178 million barrels, 4 million barrels more than a year ago.

IPAA also said refining operations could be stepped up if more heating oil production should be required because of unusually cold weather. Refineries are operating at about 86 per cent of capacity.

In its October supply and demand outlook, the IPAA said sharp seasonal increases in domestic crude oil consumption are expected during the next three months as the heating season reaches its peak.

The weather, of course, will be the controlling factor. IPAA said a normal winter probably would mean a domestic demand for crude oil of three to five per cent above that of last winter.

Ex-Labor Czar Dies Of Liver Ailment In NY

MINEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—William C. De Koning Sr., 59, Long Island labor czar until he was imprisoned for extortion in 1954, died today in Nssau County Hospital. He entered the hospital five weeks ago with a liver ailment.

He pleaded guilty in Nassau County court April 1, 1954, to charges of extorting $860,000. The prosecution said that $500,000 of it came from raceway employes and $360,000 from Long Island builders. De Koning's son, William Jr., also was indicted on extortion charges, but was allowed to plead guilty to a lesser charge of coercion.

The elder De Koning served an 18-month term in Sing Sing and Attica Prisons. The son received a one-year suspended sentence.

After his release from prison, the senior De Koning lived at an estate at Golden Beach, Fla., later moving to a 3,500 acre ranch near Wauchula, Fla. He came to the hospital from Florida Sept. 12. His widow and the son survive.

Oppose Union In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP)—Employes of City Steel Co. voted 32-0 against union representation in an election conducted yesterday by the National Labor Relations Board.

Vice President Praises Rault

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (UP)—Joseph M. Rault, president of International House, has praised Vice President Richard M. Nixon's support of a five-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade agreement.

International House launched a nationwide program for the extension last month.

Nixon's statement was made in San Francisco this week at a meeting of the International Industrial Development Conference.

Nixon said that the extension and an increase of American investments abroad are needed for the security of the free world.

Most of the New Orleans organizations affected by such an extension have voiced approval.

Rault said that copies of the resolutions have been sent to all members of Congress and that many other resolutions are being passed by organizations all over the nation.

Fire Ant Group To Meet In State

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19—UP—A steering committee for the control and extermination of fire ants will meet with officials of the Louisiana Agriculture Department Tuesday to discuss a state-wide eradication program.

Louisiana Farm Bureau President L. L. Lovell is chairman of the committee, composed of represetatives from 32 parishes. Lovell said the eradication program would be started as soon as possible.

The Louisiana Legislature voted a $300,000 appropriation to fight the fire ant which damaged crops throughout the south.

The Southern Plant Board at Memphis, Tenn., this week established a fire ant eradication program. A hearing has been scheduled at Memphis Nov. 19 to discuss a federal quarantine in the infested areas.

Mental Health Studied

"There has been a growing awareness among states that the rising cost of mental illness can be curbed only through improved treatment, backed by training and research. Louisiana has begun a program of mental health training and research designed to contribute to a solution of problems in mental illness."

These statements were made by the Public Affairs Research Council of Louisiana in its "Topic of the Month" discussion in PAR News Analysis. Continuing, the report said:

"If the state does not launch a total program of training, treatment and research which bears promise of getting in front of the problem of mental illness, there is no hope of cutting back on an enormous and ever-increasing social and economic burden of providing custodial care for the mentally ill in the years ahead."

The state now has 44 persons in training in a special program to develop better personnel for its mental institutions.

The program, which was autorized a year ago, is being sponsored by fees collected from persons given treatment in charity hospitals and found to be ineligible for free treatment and from payments made by relatives of persons in mental institutions. PAR reported fees collected last year totaled $336,988.

Those included in the program receive stipends from the state and they must agree to spend at least one year in state service upon completion of their training. A similar program financed in recent years from private funds has resulted in more than half the trainees remaining in state service longer than the required period.

It was pointed out that unless Louisiana takes immediate steps to curb the rising trends, the state would require an estimated 13,000 additional beds for mental patients by 1975, at a cost of $150 million, plus operating expenses.

It seems strange that the ever-increasing financial burden should be the thing necessary to awaken people to the importance of curing mental patients, yet this appears to be true.

Heretofore, it has been customary to toss mental patients into mental institutions for life, sometimes with no proof that they were actually insane. Now, since it has been found cheaper to cure them than to keep them, this practice may be changed.

Unless a person is so mentally deranged that he is unable to care for himself and is beyond the control of members of his family, there seems to be every reason to treat him as an outpatient, as is done with other ailments, instead of committing him. Those patients who are committed should be examined at frequent intervals to determine whether or not they have recovered enough to warrant discharge.

This system will make the mental care cost far less and will be far more humane as far as the patients are concerned.

Debt $800 Billion

The total debt of the people of the United States is now almost $800 billion. We seem to be rapidly approaching the era when trillions will become as familiar as billions have become during this generation. This is assuming that debt keeps growing at the rate we have experienced over the past ten years.

Is the total debt getting too big, is it getting out of hand, is it more than the people can safely carry? That is the question.

The national debt is limited by law—but, of course, the law could be changed. State and local debt is, in some cases, limited by law—but not to any appreciable extent. There is no law limiting private and personal debt—except good sense and the "law" of the creditor.

It is astounding to realize that our total debt has jumped from $446 billion at the end of 1946 to $783 billion at the end of 1956. But this is not the amazing part of the increase. Our federal debt at the end of 1946 was $259 billion and has only increased 7% to $276 billion at the end of 1956, whereas the balance of our total debt has increased from $187 billion at the end of 1946 to $506 billion at the end of 1956, an increase of 170%.

This balance of the total debt is divided into three groups—debt of individuals, debt of corporations and debt of state and local governments. The largest percentage increase in these groups during this period has been in the debt of individuals—up 245%—from $60 billion to $207 billion. The next largest percentage of increase has been in the debt of state and local governments—up 212%—from $16 billion to $50 billion. Debt of corporations increased from $110 billion to $249 billion—up 126%.

All these debts are heavy to bear and burdensome on the people—for, after all, they are debts of the people.

Just to carry the national debt is heavy enough, without paying anything on the principal, whereas we all know it is just good business to make substantial payments on the principal each year.

Corporations, we may assume, protect themselves in a businesslike manner, though even here there could be trouble in case of a recession or depression.

It is in the case of individuals that concern with the growing debt really lies. Governments, local, state and national, can increase taxes if necessary to take care of their debts. Of course, such a solution is of no consolation to the people; it just leaves them with that much less to take care of their personal debts—but it is nevertheless true. Corporations, generally speaking, have ample collateral to make good their debts and also, generally speaking, will continue to operate and work themselves out of their troubles, if any.

But with individuals, the situation is different. When the debt of the average individual increases three and one-half times in the space of ten years, it is quite clear that there is something going on in the country that should give us great concern. Either many individuals are getting out in the pool of debt beyond their depth or the problem of inflation is really much worse than we have realized. In either case, we should give this whole matter of individual debt serious though.

If there are a great many individuals beyond their debt in this country and there should be any appreciable recession and decrease in employment — and who is to think such a situation will not arise again, since that has been our experience throughout all history — then the inability of these individuals to take care of their debts will make the recession just that much worse. If the whole problem is one of inflation, then that is a matter to give everybody serious concern.

It is a matter for the individual to keep his own finances in order; it is a matter for the government to stop inflation.

Chain Letter Delusion

Chain letters, which have intermittently plagued officials of the postal service for years, are the subject of a recent blast from the office of Postmaster General Summerfield in Washington.

The chief inspector's office is investigating the application of chain letter methods to U.S. Savings Bonds. In this case the list is not sent by mail, but is exchanged by hand.

In due course, if the chain is not broken (and it is a big "if") the participant will receive a "harvest of bonds." Of course few, if any do.

"Chain letter schemes always turn out so the few who start them may get back a little more than their investment—at the risk of criminal prosecution—while practically all the others lose their money," Mr. Summerfield said. "Such outcome is inevitable as the supply of interested persons is soon exhausted."

On the subject of legality of chain letters the Postmaster General has this to say:

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Missile-Satellite Program Lag Is Laid To Impartiality

WASHINGTON, D. C. — To what extent President Eisenhower has brought his present troubles upon himself is a current subject for debate here, but one certainly is that the chief executive can blame his attitude of impartiality toward the military services which he has maintained from the beginning of his World War II service, in considerable measure for the lag in the missile-satellite program.

The President's critics say that his greatest difficulty is his reluctance to make important and vital decisions. That may still surprise those who think of him as a military man, accustomed to making such decisions as critical situations arise in a fast moving war. On the record, the truth seems to be that the criticism has justification.

As the history of World War II is clarified, it becomes more certain that General Eisenhower was the agent through whom higher authority directed the military strategy which led, at long last, to victory in Europe, and that the decisions were actually made by Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt and implemented by the Combined Chiefs of Staff of Britain and the U. S., with General George C. Marshall receiving much of the credit, whether he actually deserved it or not.

During his four years and nine months in the White House, even spokesmen of his own party have complained more and more frequently that the Prsident is more inclined to let important problems work themselves out than to make decisions at a point which would at least indicate beyond question where he stood.

His defenders can point out that frequently he has inaugurated broad programs of action which a majority of his constituents have welcomed as keeping the United States in the forefront of world affairs. Under these programs, however, many decisions which he might have made at important junctures have never seen the light of day.

Since the whole military organization is directly under the President as commander in chief, the responsibility for failure of any phase of the far flung defense program may be placed at his door, whatever difficulties he may have faced in advancing the more intricate phases to fulfillment.

The rocket-Missile-Satellite program definitely falls in the latter categories. The President is not a scientist, as few top military men are, but he is thoroughly cognizant of the never ceasing rivalry between the three branches of the armed services — Army, Navy and Air Force. Traditionally he believes that competition between the three is healthy and for the best interests of all.

Two developments have shattered the validity of that concept—the launching by the Soviets of an intercontinental missile and an earth girdling satellite. The Russian successes has served to strip all complacency from White House thinking on development of ballistic missiles. It has proved beyond contradiction that the three armed services, in thinking first of protecting their own share in future defense programs, have done their country an actual disservice.

Anyone with Pentagon contacts—and this refers particularly to those who negotiate defense contracts — knows that the Air Force fears that the guided missile age will limit the airborne defense arm to a point where military aviation will be only supplementary to the missile program, the Navy fears that its great aircraft carriers will become as obsolete as the battleship and the Army fears that ground troops will be limited to those adequate to an ICBM war.

This admittedly is not a healthy situation, even though the fears of all three services may not materialize for some time. Armed service thinking is linked to two factors — what changes in the pattern of defense preparations will mean to future officer promotions and what changes Congress will direct in expenditure by the armed services.

As the missile - satellite race between the world's leading military powers has narrowed, neither the president nor his National Security Council, which listens to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has foreseen that three services, working in competition, and each seeking to outstrip the other, would retard development of an effective inter continental ballistic missile.

Meanwhile Russia, free of any of the restrictions which the democratic system of checks and balances inevitably imposes, with its scientists responsive only to the uncompromising demands of a determined, harsh dictatorship has successfully concentrated the efforts of hundreds of scientists and engineers on being first in the missile satellite program. It is said that the late Franklin D. Roosevelt authorized the A-bomb project with one stroke of the pen. In such instances, the pen is really mightier than the sword.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Republicans Don't Want Session Now

Affliction's Sons — Administration would like to think up some startling action for the lagging satellite and missiles program which would take some of the heat off it. Last thing Administration wants is for Congress to come back in special session; it wants to be alone as long as possible. Ogre looms for one of those searching Senatorial investigations in which at any question a reputation could be lost. Republicans realizing that they are cast in the role of affliction's sons will try to extend scope of inquiry back beyond five years of Eisenhower Administration in hope of making Democrats their brothers in distress. Prediction is that lead in missile investigation for Democrats will be taken by Senators Stuart Symington of Missouri, and Harry M. Jackson of Washington, with help from Johnson of Texas and Kefauver of Tennessee. Southerners Russell of Georgia, Byrd of Virginia, Stennis of Mississippi and Ervin of North Carolina on Armed Services Committee are more interested in investigating bayonets.

Nervous Neillie — Oldest inhabitants of the Washington press corps cannot recall such an incident as that which occurred at the White House this week when Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy evaded questions about his missile talk with President Eisenhower, pushed reporters aside, bolted to his automobile and slammed the door. No one could explain reason for the new Cabinet officer's apparent panic. The questions had been very routine ones. Prediction is that McElroy faces a hard winter before Congressional Committees which will make the road ahead for Secretary of Agriculture Benson look like a rose-strewn one in comparison.

Bruised Innocent Bystanders — Democrats admitting their party split is so serious as to make their path to a 1960 Presidential victory a very rocky one nevertheless think they will gain in Congress in 1958. Republicans in House of Representatives now hold two seats each in Tennessee and Virginia, one each in Texas, N. Carolina and Florida. Republicans can be expected to hold Reece seat in Tennessee and probably Broyhill seat in Virginia. But wholesale desertions from G. O. P. of Eisenhower Democrats and even some orthodox Republicans jeopardizes seats of Alger of Texas, Jonas of North Carolina, Baker of Tennessee, Poff of Virginia and Cramer of Florida despite fact all of them voted against Civil Rights bill. Yawning prospects of defeat on a matter in which they had no voice was reason for frantic demands of these Congressmen for a White House conference. Some of the twelve Texans, who were only Southern Democrat Representatives to vote for the bill, may be defeated on the issue but if so will be succeeded by other Democrats.

The Book Will Be Rewritten — Thousans of government officials and employes are now at work on the estimates of expenditures which Budget Director Percival H. Brundage must have ready for the printer by December. But you may depend upon it that the 1,200 page book which emerges will mean less than heretofore. Congress is determined to exercise the power of the purse in real earnest. Legislative leaders think their judgment on how to spend the taxpayers' money is better than that of executive branch.

James A. Farley, former Democratic National Committee Chairman and former Postmaster General, now nearing 70, is not anxious to begin a new career as a member of the United States Senate. Strong pressure is being brought on him by New York Democrats who believe that with Harriman for Governor and Farley for Senator they can unite party and win both offices. Prediction is that Farley will ask leaders to find another candidate, but if they insist he run he will yield to entreaties.

Modern Republican to Move Up —Senator William Knowland up against a tough race for the California Gubernatorial nomination had just about made up his mind when in Washington this week to surrender his post as Senate Republican leader at the beginning of the coming session in January. His successor will be Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, like Knowland a Taft Republican.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Consent Decree Use Is Under Microscope

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (CQ) — Eisenhower administration use of consent decrees in antitrust cases goes under the congressional microscope Oct. 21 when the house anti - trust subcommittee begins extensive hearings.

Consent decrees are the much used and little known instruments by which the government agrees to drop civil proceedings against alleged monopolists, without going to trial, in return for a promise by the accused antitrust law violator to abide by certain conditions. Under these settlements both sides escape the cost and effort of a lengthy trial.

This helps to explain why, over the past 20 years, about three-fourths of all civil antitrust complaints have been settled via the consent route. In the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1957, for example, the government accepted consent decrees in 22 of 27 civil cases.

Numbers, however, are of less interest to Chairman Emanuel Celler (D N. Y.) and his fellow subcommittee members than are the methods of negotiating consent decrees, their terms and the extent to which they are enforced. Together, these factors may determine the way in which Assistant Attorney General Victor Hansen and his subordinates in the antitrust division of the justice department are doing their job of policing monopolistic practices.

A basic shortcoming of any consent decree, most lawyers agree, is that it provides little or no guidance on what's fair or foul in the muddled antitrust field. As Hansen's immediate predecessor, Stanley Barnes, once said: "Lawyers intent on counselling clients within the law gain little succor from the vacuous algebra of occasional consent provisions." Missing are the findings of fact and judicial interpretation that emerge following a court trial.

Beyond this, opinion is sharply divided. One view holds that, in negotiating any consent decree, the government is severely handicapped by lack of knowledge. Counsel for the antitrust violator knows what he may safely bargain away and what he must protect at all costs, whereas the government can obtain such information — and an effective settlement —only through the extensive questioning of witnesses and examination of documents incident to a trial.

Another complaint is that the injured competitors of the monopolist are "left out in the cold" whenever the government settles for a consent decree. The 1914 Clayton act says that in triple-damage suits by third parties a judgment won by the government may be cited as proof the defendant has violated the law. The private complainant then must show only that he has been damaged by these violations. But the Clayton act also exempts consent decrees from this provision. Without the proof of violation furnished by a government trial victory, the private complainant may be unable to muster a case. Evidence of this is the fact that three-quarters of all private antitrust suits are filed on the basis of judgments rendered in cases pressed to trial by the government.

Two proposals have been made to meet this objection, both calling for legislation. One would allow the judge to decide whether or not the consent decree might be employed as evidence in subsequent damage suits by third parties. The other would require a 30-day waiting period, following publication of a consent decree, before it took effect. During this period, private parties could ask the court to make changes in the decree — something which the courts never have done. Neither proposal has as yet made any headway in congress.

Both the Celler subcommittee and the justice department are close - mouthed about the forthcoming investigation. The subcommittee says only that it will devote the first four days of hearings to a review of a 1941 consent decree covering relationships between the major oil companies and their pipeline subsidiaries.

The original complaint charged that dividends paid by the pipeline companies to their shipper-owners were really rebates, which gave shipper - owners an unfair advantage over independent producers and refiners desiring to ship oil through the same pipeline investments.

Coincidentally, perhaps, the justice department filed a complaint Oct. 11 — 16 years after the pipeline decree was entered — charging that four pipeline companies have violated the terms of the 1941 consent agreement.

Later, the Celler subcommittee may review consent decrees negotiated by the anti-trust division in recent years. Several of these, and notably the one entered Jan. 24, 1956 involving the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and its manufacturing subsidiary western Electric, have provoked loud criticism from Democrats. Rep. James Roosevelt (D Calif.) called the AT&T decree "worse than nothing."

Barnes once extolled the "informality" of consent negotiations. "Shirt-sleeve conferences replace formal court trials; the give and take of bargaining supplants the atmosphere of an adversary proceeding." But in this happy process, say advocates of strong antitrust enforcement, the public stands a good chance of losing its shirt. As a long - standing foe of monopoly, Celler may find himself conducting an adversary proceeding against the antitrust division.

Head Of School Is Given Recognition

Max Chambers entered Central State College in Edmond, Okla., many years and many accomplishments ago.

The faculty at Central, then a two-year school, had no way of knowing that this freshman of modest means one day would reinvest his education so effectively.

He worked his way through school. Found time to be both a scholar and an athlete. From his meager earnings, he managed to send money home — sometimes.

A year and a baby daughter later Max Chambers decided to be a lawyer. Saved enough money to go to Harvard and graduate. Returned to Oklahoma and passed the bar.

But his heart was still in school. They offered to make him Superintendent of Schools, and did.

Oklahoma conferred other honors, culminating in a statewide Max Chambers Day.

So the administrative gifts which this man applied to the field of education have not been overlooked.

World War II had just ended. The school was run-down, insolvent, pathetic.

Max Chambers rolled up his academic sleeves and in ten years restored to his alma mater its former pride, prestige and self-confidence.

New buildings were built. Last month, a new library.

No, they did not call it Chambers Library. They named it Max Chambers Library, so there can never be any doubt about which Chambers is being honored.

It occurred to me, the day his granddaughter unveiled the oil portrait of Max Chambers in the modern library named in his honor, that I did not recall many living persons being thus honored.

And it saddened me.

In most every community there is some one deserving educator who has dedicated his life to the edification of others in an otherwise unrewarding occupation.

I can think of at least two who will be properly honored when they are dead . . . but why not now?

The pioneering years have been rough ones for "school people."

Perhaps they are now coming into their own. At least in this comparatively obscure instance in Edmond, Okla., one of them is benefiting from some deserved recognition while he can enjoy it.

Soon Americans must whet their appreciation for the "school people," and express it.

Lest one day we look out there at the little red schoolhouse and discover it really is.

"If the state does not launch a total program of training, treatment and research which bears promise of getting in front of the problem of mental illness, there is no hope of cutting back on an enormous and ever-increasing social and economic burden of providing custodial care for the mentally ill in the years ahead."

The state now has 44 persons in training in a special program to develop better personnel for its mental institutions.

The program, which was autorized a year ago, is being sponsored by fees collected from persons given treatment in charity hospitals and found to be ineligible for free treatment and from payments made by relatives of persons in mental institutions. PAR reported fees collected last year totaled $336,988.

Those included in the program receive stipends from the state and they must agree to spend at least one year in state service upon completion of their training. A similar program financed in recent years from private funds has resulted in more than half the trainees remaining in state service longer than the required period.

It was pointed out that unless Louisiana takes immediate steps to curb the rising trends, the state would require an estimated 13,000 additional beds for mental patients by 1975, at a cost of $130 million, plus operating expenses.

It seems strange that the ever-increasing financial burden should be the thing necessary to awaken people to the importance of curing mental patients, yet this appears to be true.

Heretofore, it has been customary to toss mental patients into mental institutions for life, sometimes with no proof that they were actually insane. Now, since it has been found cheaper to cure them than to keep them, this practice may be changed.

Unless a person is so mentally deranged that he is unable to care for himself and is beyond the control of members of his family, there seems to be every reason to treat him as an outpatient, as is done with other ailments, instead of commiting him. Those patients who are committed should be examined at frequent intervals to determine whether or not they have recovered enough to warrant discharge.

This system will make the mental care cost far less and will be far more humane as far as the patients are concerned.

Debt $800 Billion

The total debt of the people of the United States is now almost $800 billion. We seem to be rapidly approaching the era when trillions will become as familiar as billions have become during this generation. This is assuming that debt keeps growing at the rate we have experienced over the past ten years.

Is the total debt getting too big, is it getting out of hand, is it more than the people can safely carry? That is the question.

The national debt is limited by law—but, of course, the law could be changed. State and local debt is, in some cases, limited by law—but not to any appreciable extent. There is no law limiting private and personal debt—except good sense and the "law" of the creditor.

It is astounding to realize that our total debt has jumped from $446 billion at the end of 1946 to $783 billion at the end of 1956. But this is not the amazing part of the increase. Our federal debt at the end of 1946 was $259 billion and has only increased 7% to $276 billion at the end of 1956, whereas the balance of our total debt has increased from $187 billion at the end of 1946 to $506 billion at the end of 1956, an increase of 170%.

This balance of the total debt is divided into three groups—debt of individuals, debt of corporations and debt of state and local governments. The largest percentage increase in these groups during this period has been in the debt of individuals—up 245%—from $60 billion to $207 billion. The next largest percentage of increase has been in the debt of state and local governments—up 212%—from $16 billion to $50 billion. Debt of corporations increased from $110 billion to $249 billion—up 126%.

All these debts are heavy to bear and burdensome on the people—for, after all, they are debts of the people.

Just to carry the national debt is heavy enough, without paying anything on the principal, whereas we all know it is just good business to make substantial payments on the principal each year.

Corporations, we may assume, protect themselves in a businesslike manner, though even here there could be trouble in case of a recession or depression.

It is in the case of individuals that concern with the growing debt really lies. Governments, local, state and national, can increase taxes if necessary to take care of their debts. Of course, such a solution is of no consolation to the people; it just leaves them with that much less to take care of their personal debts—but it is nevertheless true. Corporations, generally speaking, have ample collateral to make good their debts and also, generally speaking, will continue to operate and work themselves out of their troubles, if any.

But with individuals, the situation is different. When the debt of the average individual increases three and one-half times in the space of ten years, it is quite clear that there is something going on in the country that should give us great concern. Either many individuals are getting out in the pool of debt beyond their depth or the problem of inflation is really much worse than we have realized. In either case, we should give this whole matter of individual debt serious though.

If there are a great many individuals beyond their debt in this country and there should be any appreciable recession and decrease in employment — and who is to think such a situation will not arise again, since that has been our experience throughout all history — then the inability of these individuals to take care of their debts will make the recession just that much worse. If the whole problem is one of inflation, then that is a matter to give everybody serious concern.

It is a matter for the individual to keep his own finances in order; it is a matter for the government to stop inflation.

Chain Letter Delusion

Chain letters, which have intermittently plagued officials of the postal service for years, are the subject of a recent blast from the office of Postmaster General Summerfield in Washington.

The chief inspector's office is investigating the application of chain letter methods to U.S. Savings Bonds. In this case the list is not sent by mail, but is exchanged by hand.

In due course, if the chain is not broken (and it is a big "if") the participant will receive a "harvest of bonds." Of course few, if any do.

"Chain letter schemes always turn out so the few who start them may get back a little more than their investment —at the risk of criminal prosecution— while practically all the others lose their money," Mr. Summerfield said. "Such outcome is inevitable as the supply of interested persons is soon exhausted."

On the subject of legality of chain letters the Postmaster General has this to say:

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Missile-Satellite Program Lag Is Laid To Impartiality

WASHINGTON, D. C. — To what extent President Eisenhower has brought his present troubles upon himself is a current subject for debate here, but one certainly is that the chief executive can blame his attitude of impartiality toward the military services which he has maintained from the beginning of his World War II service, in considerable measure for the lag in the missile-satellite program.

The President's critics say that his greatest difficulty is his reluctance to make important and vital decisions. That may still surprise those who think of him as a military man, accustomed to making such decisions as critical situations arise in a fast moving war. On the record, the truth seems to be that the criticism has justification.

As the history of World War II is clarified, it becomes more certain that General Eisenhower was the agent through whom higher authority directed the military strategy which led, at long last, to victory in Europe, and that the decisions were actually made by Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt and implemented by the Combined Chiefs of Staff of Britain and the U. S., with General George C. Marshall receiving much of the credit, whether he actually deserved it or not.

During his four years and nine months in the White House, even spokesmen of his own party have complained more and more frequently that the Prsident is more inclined to let important problems work themselves out than to make decisions at a point which would at least indicate beyond question where he stood.

His defenders can point out that frequently he has inaugurated broad programs of action which a majority of his constituents have welcomed as keeping the United States in the forefront of world affairs. Under these programs, however, many decisions which he might have made at important junctures have never seen the light of day.

Since the whole military organization is directly under the President as commander in chief, the responsibility for failure of any phase of the far flung defense program may be placed at his door, whatever difficulties he may have faced in advancing the more intricate phases to fulfillment.

The rocket-Missile-Satellite program definitely falls in the latter categories. The President is not a scientist, as few top military men are, but he is thoroughly cognizant of the never ceasing rivalry between the three branches of the armed services — Army, Navy and Air Force. Traditionally he believes that competition between the three is healthy and for the best interests of all.

Two developments have shattered the validity of that concept —the launching by the Soviets of an intercontinental missile and an earth girdling satellite. The Russian successes has served to strip all complacency from White House thinking on development of ballistic missiles. It has proved beyond contradiction that the three armed services, in thinking first of protecting their own share in future defense programs, have done their country an actual disservice.

Anyone with Pentagon contacts —and this refers particularly to those who negotiate defense contracts — knows that the Air Force fears that the guided missile age will limit the airborne defense arm to a point where military aviation will be only supplementary to the missile program, the Navy fears that its great aircraft carriers will become as obsolete as the battleship and the Army fears that ground troops will be limited to those adequate to an ICBM war.

This admittedly is not a healthy situation, even though the fears of all three services may not materialize for some time. Armed service thinking is linked to two factors — what changes in the pattern of defense preparations will mean to future officer promotions and what changes Congress will direct in expenditure by the armed services.

As the missile - satellite race between the world's leading military powers has narrowed, neither the president nor his National Security Council, which listens to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has foreseen that three services, working in competition, and each seeking to outstrip the other, would retard development of an effective intercontinental ballistic missile.

Meanwhile Russia, free of any of the restrictions which the democratic system of checks and balances inevitably imposes, with its scientists responsive only to the uncompromising demands of a determined, harsh dictatorship has successfully concentrated the efforts of hundreds of scientists and engineers on being first in the missile satellite program. It is said that the late Franklin D. Roosevelt authorized the A-bomb project with one stroke of the pen. In such instances, the pen is really mightier than the sword.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Republicans Don't Want Session Now

Affliction's Sons — Administration would like to think up some startling action for the lagging satellite and missiles program which would take some of the heat off it. Last thing Administration wants is for Congress to come back in special session; it wants to be alone as long as possible. Ogre looms for one of those searching Senatorial investigations in which at any question a reputation could be lost. Republicans realizing that they are cast in the role of affliction's sons will try to extend scope of inquiry back beyond five years of Eisenhower Administration in hope of making Democrats their brothers in distress. Prediction is that lead in missile investigation for Democrats will be taken by Senators Stuart Symington of Missouri, and Harry M. Jackson of Washington, with help from Johnson of Texas and Kefauver of Tennessee. Southerners Russell of Georgia, Byrd of Virginia, Stennis of Mississippi and Ervin of North Carolina on Armed Services Comittee are more interested in investigating bayonets.

Nervous Neillie — Oldest inhabitants of the Washington press corps cannot recall such an incident as that which occurred at the White House this week when Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy evaded questions about his missile talk with President Eisenhower, pushed reporters aside, bolted to his automobile and slammed the door. No one could explain reason for the new Cabinet officer's apparent panic. The questions had been very routine ones. Prediction is that McElroy faces a hard winter before Congressional Committees which will make the road ahead for Secretary of Agriculture Benson look like a rose-strewn one in comparison.

Bruised Innocent Bystanders — Democrats admitting their party split is so serious as to make their path to a 1960 Presidential victory a very rocky one nevertheless think they will gain in Congress in 1958. Republicans in House of Representatives now hold two seats each in Tennessee and Virginia, one each in Texas, N. Carolina and Florida. Republicans can be expected to hold Reece seat in Tennessee and probably Broyhill seat in Virginia. But wholesale desertions from G. O. P. of Eisenhower Democrats and even some orthodox Republicans jeopardizes seats of Alger of Texas, Jonas of North Carolina, Baker of Tennessee, Poff of Virginia and Cramer of Florida despite fact all of them voted against Civil Rights bill. Yawning prospects of defeat on a matter in which they had no voice was reason for frantic demands of these Congressmen for a White House conference. Some of the twelve Texans, who were only Southern Democrat Representatives to vote for the bill, may be defeated on the issue but if so will be succeeded by other Democrats.

The Book Will Be Rewritten — Thousand of government officials and employes are now at work on the estimates of expenditures which Budget Director Percival H. Brundage must have ready for the printer by December. But you may depend upon it that the 1,200 page book which emerges will mean less than heretofore. Congress is determined to exercise the power of the purse in real earnest. Legislative leaders think their judgment on how to spend the taxpayers' money is better than that of executive branch.

James A. Farley, former Democratic National Committee Chairman and former Postmaster General, now nearing 70, is not anxious to begin a new career as a member of the United States Senate. Strong pressure is being brought on him by New York Democrats who believe that with Harriman for Governor and Farley for Senator they can unite party and win both offices. Prediction is that Farley will ask leaders to find another candidate, but if they insist he run he will yield to entreaties.

Modern Republican to Move Up —Senator William Knowland up against a tough race for the California Gubernatorial nomination had just about made up his mind when in Washington this week to surrender his post as Senate Republican leader at the beginning of lican leader at the beginning of the coming session in January. His successor will be Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, like Knowland a Taft Republican.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Consent Decree Use Is Under Microscope

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (CQ) — Eisenhower administration use of consent decrees in antitrust cases goes under the congressional microscope Oct. 21 when the house anti - trust subcommittee begins extensive hearings.

Consent decrees are the much used and little known instruments by which the government agrees to drop civil proceedings against alleged monopolists, without going to trial, in return for a promise by the accused antitrust law violator to abide by certain conditions. Under these settlements both sides escape the cost and effort of a lengthy trial.

This helps to explain why, over the past 20 years, about three-fourths of all civil antitrust complaints have been settled via the consent route. In the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1957, for example, the government accepted consent decrees in 22 of 27 civil cases.

Numbers, however, are of less interest to Chairman Emanuel Celler (D N. Y.) and his fellow subcommittee members than are the methods of negotiating consent decrees, their terms and the extent to which they are enforced. Together, these factors may determine the way in which Assistant Attorney General Victor Hansen and his subordinates in the antitrust division of the justice department are doing their job of policing monopolistic practices.

A basic shortcoming of any consent decree, most lawyers agree, is that it provides little or no guidance on what's fair or foul in the muddled antitrust field. As Hansen's immediate predecessor, Stanley Barnes, once said: "Lawyers intent on counselling clients within the law gain little succor from the vacuous algebra of occasional consent provisions." Missing are the findings of fact and judicial interpretation that emerge following a court trial.

Beyond this, opinion is sharply divided. One view holds that, in negotiating any consent decree, the government is severely handicapped by lack of knowledge. Counsel for the antitrust violator knows what he may safely bargain away and what he must protect at all costs, whereas the government can obtain such information — and an effective settlement —only through the extensive questioning of witnesses and examination of documents incident to a trial.

Another complaint is that the injured competitors of the monopolist are "left out in the cold" whenever the government settles for a consent decree. The 1914 Clayton act says that in triple-damage suits by third parties a judgment won by the government may be cited as proof the defendant has violated the law. The private complainant then must show only that he has been damaged by these violations. But the Clayton act also exempts consent decrees from this provision. Without the proof of violation furnished by a government trial victory, the private complainant may be unable to muster a case. Evidence of this is the fact that three-quarters of all private antitrust suits are filed on the basis of judgments rendered in cases pressed to trial by the government.

Two proposals have been made to meet this objection, both calling for legislation. One would allow the judge to decide whether or not the consent decree might be employed as evidence in subsequent damage suits by third parties. The other would require a 30-day waiting period, following publication of a consent decree, before it took effect. During this period, private parties could ask the court to make changes in the decree — something which the courts never have done. Neither proposal has as yet made any headway in congress.

Both the Celler subcommittee and the justice department are close - mouthed about the forthcoming investigation. The subcommittee says only that it will devote the first four days of hearings to a review of a 1941 consent decree covering relationships between the major oil companies and their pipeline subsidiaries.

The original complaint charged that dividends paid by the pipeline companies to their shipper-owners were really rebates, which gave shipper - owners an unfair advantage over independent producers and refiners desiring to ship oil through the same pipeline investments.

Coincidentally, perhaps, the justice department filed a complaint Oct. 11 — 16 years after the pipeline decree was entered — charging that four pipeline companies have violated the terms of the 1941 consent agreement.

Later, the Celler subcommittee may review consent decrees negotiated by the anti-trust division in recent years. Several of these, and notably the one entered Jan. 24, 1956 involving the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and its manufacturing subsidiary western Electric, have provoked loud criticism from Democrats. Rep. James Roosevelt (D Calif.) called the AT&T decree "worse than nothing."

Barnes once extolled the "informality" of consent negotiations. "Shirt-sleeve conferences replace formal court trials; the give and take of bargaining supplants the atmosphere of an adversary proceeding." But in this happy process, say advocates of strong anti-trust enforcement, the public stands a good chance of losing its shirt. As a long - standing foe of monopoly, Celler may find himself conducting an adversary proceeding against the antitrust division.

Head Of School Is Given Recognition

Max Chambers entered Central State College in Edmond, Okla., many years and many accomplishments ago.

The faculty at Central, then a two-year school, had no way of knowing that this freshman of modest means one day would reinvest his education so effectively.

He worked his way through school. Found time to be both a scholar and an athlete. From his meager earnings, he managed to send money home — sometimes.

A year and a baby daughter later Max Chambers decided to be a lawyer. Saved enough money to go to Harvard and graduate. Returned to Oklahoma and passed the bar.

But his heart was still in school. They offered to make him Superintendent of Schools, and did.

Oklahoma conferred other honors, culminating in a statewide Max Chambers Day.

So the administrative gifts which this man applied to the field of education have not been overlooked.

World War II had just ended. The school was run-down, insolvent, pathetic.

Max Chambers rolled up his academic sleeves and in ten years restored to his alma mater its former pride, prestige and self-confidence.

New buildings were built. Last month, a new library.

No, they did not call it Chambers Library. They named it Max Chambers Library, so there can never be any doubt about which Chambers is being honored.

It occurred to me, the day his granddaughter unveiled the oil portrait of Max Chambers in the modern library named in his honor, that I did not recall many living persons being thus honored.

And it saddened me.

In most every community there is some one deserving educator who has dedicated his life to the edification of others in an otherwise unrewarding occupation.

I can think of at least two who will be properly honored when they are dead . . . but why not now?

The pioneering years have been rough ones for "school people."

Perhaps they are now coming into their own. At least in this comparatively obscure instance in Edmond, Okla., one of them is benefiting from some deserved recognition while he can enjoy it.

Soon Americans must whet their appreciation for the "school people," and express it.

Lest one day we look out there at the little red schoolhouse and discover it really is.

Teenagers Learn Phone Techniques

By DANNY BINGHAM
Staff Writer

Almost anyone, and especially parents will tell you that no teenager needs to be taught to use the telephone. It would appear on the surface, to be just like trying to teach a duck how to swim.

Many long - standing family jokes concern the tenacity and consistency with which "Junior" or "Sis" tie up the telephone day and night, and in too many instances, it's not just a gag. It's the pure, plain truth.

So, the question arises, "Why would anyone want to teach teenagers to use the telephone when they do so well at it now?"

But, there is a program under way in the schools of the Twin Cities and throughout Ouachita Parish to do just that - teach youngsters how to use the telephone.

"Teletraining"

It makes sense, though, the way it is explained by Southern Bell Telephone Company which has introduced young people in the effective use of the telephone. It is designed to start high school age students on the right road to correct telephone etiquette.

Telephone company officials point out that Ouachita Parish telephone subscribers make about 225,000 local calls every day, and of these, 14,000 are wrong numbers usually caused by folks who do not practice good telephone habits. It's a good guess, too, that teen-agers are responsible for a good many of these "wrong numbers."

The telephone company has assigned Mrs. Zelma Aycock the task of teaching and promoting better telephone habits. She is customer instructor for the company, and will be working closely with the high schools in this area.

"Today, the telephone is one of the most frequently used means of communication, and it is important to teach the future subscribers to use it correctly," Mrs. Aycock, declared.

Special Equipment

The actual teletrainer consist of a pair of activated telephones with loudspeaker, ringing and busy signals that will permit the entire class to listen in or and, in effect participate in the various calls. Practice calls in series are used in conjunction with the teletrainer, and the material has been designed so that principles of good usage can be learned through actual practice.

First Ouachita Parish school to begin the program was West Monroe High School where Lloyd Puckitt, teacher in distributive education, is leading the classes. The course takes about 18 hours to complete.

Southern Bell also makes available to the school motion pictures on telephone courtesy, and arrangements are being made to have teachers and groups of students from Ouachita Parish and Monroe city schools visit various buildings and offices of the telephone company to further broaden their background and improve their knowledge of communications systems.

R. A. Morrow, local Southern Bell manager, said, "when a student finishes the "Teletraining," he or she shou'd be able to go right into a business house and answer the telephone correctly."

All this adds up to the fact that if you notice a remarkable change in telephone habits of your teenager in the near future, you probably can thank "teletraining."

NSC Freshmen Elect Officers

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Burt Howard, Alexandria accounting major at Northwestern State College, has been elected president of the NSC freshman class, Director of Student Relations Dudley G. Fulton announced.

Howard, a graduate of Bolton High School of Alexandria, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Howard of Rt. 1, Hills Road, Pineville. He is a first-semester freshman at Northwestern this fall.

Other freshman class officers named were Wayne Williams, Montgomery, vice - president; Josette Null, Oakdale, secretary-treasurer, and Kitty Brown, Alexandria, representative.

Both the president and representative will serve on the NSC Student Council, headed this year by dent council, headed this year by Bill Stewart, senior from Colfax, president of the student body.

State Arrests 11 On Drunken Driving Charges

EISENHOWER

Amateur Presents Painting To Queen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UP) — Amateur painter Dwight D. Eisenhower has presented his latest work to Queen Elizabeth—an oil portrait of her young son and heir Prince Charles.

The White House announced today that the President made the presentation Friday night during an exchange of gifts at the White House.

He painted the 20 by 24 inch portrait from a description given by a "friend in the British embassy" and a five by seven inch black and white photograph and colored pictures clipped from magazines. In the lower left corner it bears the long-hand initials, "DE."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President completed the painting after the queen and Prince Philip arrived here Thursday.

The young heir to the British throne was pictured in a gray shirt and red tie.

The queen is a noted art connoisseur who owns one of the world's finest collections of paintings. Her comments on the President's work were not made public, but the portrait was sure to have a place in history.

In the gift exchange, the queen and prince gave the President an English walnut and black calfskin table decorated with a reproduction in color of the D-Day map used by Gen. Eisenhower in the invasion of Europe.

Teenagers Learn Phone Techniques

By DANNY BINGHAM
Staff Writer

Almost anyone, and especially parents will tell you that no teenager needs to be taught to use the telephone. It would appear on the surface, to be just like trying to teach a duck how to swim.

Many long - standing family jokes concern the tenacity and consistency with which "Junior" or "Sis" tie up the telephone day and night, and in too many instances, it's not just a gag. It's the pure, plain truth.

So, the question arises, "Why would anyone want to teach teenagers to use the telephone when they do so well at it now?"

But, there is a program under way in the schools of the Twin Cities and throughout Ouachita Parish to do just that - teach youngsters how to use the telephone.

"Teletraining"

It makes sense, though, the way it is explained by Southern Bell Telephone Company which has introduced young people in the effective use of the telephone. It is designed to start high school age students on the right road to correct telephone etiquette.

Telephone company officials point out that Ouachita Parish telephone subscribers make about 225,000 local calls every day, and of these, 14,000 are wrong numbers usually caused by folks who do not practice good telephone habits. It's a good guess, too, that teen-agers are responsible for a good many of these "wrong numbers."

The telephone company has assigned Mrs. Zelma Aycock the task of teaching and promoting better telephone habits. She is customer instructor for the company, and will be working closely with the high schools in this area.

"Today, the telephone is one of the most frequently used means of communication, and it is important to teach the future subscribers to use it correctly," Mrs. Aycock, declared.

Special Equipment

The actual teletrainer consist of a pair of activated telephones with loudspeaker, ringing and busy signals that will permit the entire class to listen in or and, in effect participate in the various calls. Practice calls in series are used in conjunction with the teletrainer, and the material has been designed so that principles of good usage can be learned through actual practice.

First Ouachita Parish school to begin the program was West Monroe High School where Lloyd Puckitt, teacher in distributive education, is leading the classes. The course takes about 18 hours to complete.

Southern Bell also makes available to the school motion pictures on telephone courtesy, and arrangements are being made to have teachers and groups of students from Ouachita Parish and Monroe city schools visit various buildings and offices of the telephone company to further broaden their background and improve their knowledge of communications systems.

R. A. Morrow, local Southern Bell manager, said, "when a student finishes the "Teletraining," he or she should be able to go right into a business house and answer the telephone correctly."

All this adds up to the fact that if you notice a remarkable change in telephone habits of your teenager in the near future, you probably can thank "teletraining."

Proposed Farm Plan May Sharply Cut Consumer Prices In Grocery Stores

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Should the government shift to the broad use of payments to bolster farm income, one of the results would be a big increase in the supply of beef, pork, lamb and chickens at grocery stores.

Along with this increase would be a sharp drop in prices.

The prospect of such a change in the meat situation was painted by the Agriculture Department in a recent study on the costs and effects of a payment program of aiding farmers.

The department said use of payments across the board on most farm products would cost consumers between 7 and 10 billion dollars a year compared with about two billion dollars for present farm price support programs.

Under the present program, the government seeks to remove some of the surplus supplies of farm products from markets so that they will not depress producer prices.

Under the payment plan, the full production would be allowed to move to market and pull down prices. But the difference between the market prices and the farm price goal of the program would be made up to producers in the form of payments.

The payment plan first was advanced as a major farm aid device in 1949 by the then Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan. Congress did not adopt it.

Nevertheless, it may attract strong support in the next session of Congress. Secretary of Agriculture Benson has called for new programs, saying that present ones will not solve farm problems of overproduction and low income.

However, Benson has declared that the Eisenhower administration opposes the payment method.

The department study on effects of the payment plan predicted that it would encourage a big increase in the production of hogs, cattle and chickens. This prediction was based upon the assumption that the price goal of the program would be 90 per cent of parity for affected farm products.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

A 90 per cent of parity price promise would make production of meat animals highly attractive. Farmers now in this type of farming could be expected to step up their operations and many farmers in other types of production would be encouraged to shift to it.

Another effect of the payment plan, the department said, would be a marked increase in the demand for livestock feed grains. At present, there is a surplus of such grains, with prices averaging less than 50 per cent of parity.

"Under the program of unlimited payments, the expansion of livestock would generate a demand for feed grains strong enough to lift feed grain prices close to or above the supports," the report said.

This demand, in turn, would be expected to stimulate further expansion in the acreage and production of corn.

In fact, the department said, the demand for feed would be so strong that livestock producers would turn to wheat to help meet their needs. The result would be, it said, a speedy depletion of the present wheat surplus.

The department figures that in the initial years of the program there would be no need to make payment to farmers on wheat and feed grains because the livestock feeding demand would be such as to hold prices up to the 90 per cent of parity level.

However, the costs of supporting returns on wheat and feed grains would be borne, in effect, by the payments on livestock. The department figures that under a payment program costing 10 billion dollars a year, fully seven billions dollars or 65 per cent would go to producers of livestock.

The department believes that the payment program would have widespread effects on the production of cotton. With a return of 90 per cent of parity promised, farmers would be encouraged to expand cotton production. The cotton support price now is 77 per cent of parity.

Since the market price would fall to low levels under the impact of increased production, the expansion of both domestic consumption and exports would be large. Under a program of unlimited production, the cotton payments would be close to 1½ billion dollars a year, the department estimates.

The department says that the output and acreage of tobacco and rice would show a similar pattern of expansion.

With respect to farm income, cash receipts for the major commodities under a program of unlimited payments would rise, the department says, to about $36,500,000,000 a year or 11 billion dollars more than in 1956.

But practically all this increase would be due, the department states, to government payments.

Broadway Focuses Eye On Mary Ure

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—As a sparkling new gem in Broadway's theatrical diadem, Mary Ure is getting double attention.

Miss Ure—pronounced You-ra—a redhead or Blonde with darkly mascaraed eyes, has just reaped a heavy of critical bouquets in her New York debut as the female star of "Look Back in Anger."

Four months ago she married the play's author, John Osborne, who has been separately hailed during the past year as the angriest new spirit to sweep across the English stage in a generation.

The result is that Glasgow-born Mary gets asked twice as many questions as normal, speaking for herself as well as her husband. She is skillfully handling the offstage assignment with a mixture of little girl smiles and dowager aplomb far beyond her 24 years.

Rather Boring

Concerning her husband's reputation as an angry young man Osborne finds the label "rather boring", Miss Ure replies with slow deliberation:

"I think he knows how to use words. To me is a wonderful poet.

The drama which has introduced their joint talents to New York is not she says, "a very angry play."

In London, she says, "many people were shocked."

"Look Back in Anger" concerns a wildly embittered young man in revolt against the stablished order without having any alternative hope. Miss Ure agrees that American writers such as Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams and Clifford Odets have been working with youthful rebellion for years, and U.S. audiences are more used to troubled studies.

"The audiences here don't seem to feel so personally involved," she says of Osborne's opus. "They see the play in a different way."

Hopes To Learn

"When I know Americans better, I'll understand the reasons better," says Miss Ure, who has a consuming ambition to explore this country, its people and their accents.

The greatest part of the Ure career to date has been involved with somber drama.

She began at 16 by participating in medieval mystery plays at York moved on after three years of speech training to such items as Miller's "The Crucible" and "A View From the Bridge," Ophelia in "Hamlet"—which took her to Moscow—and creation of her current role for six months in London.

Because of her heavy casting—there have also been a couple of movies—Mary would like some of these days to try her talents on a costume comedy.

Advance for ams of Sunday Oct.20

PRICE SPIRAL: Broadway box-office prices keep rising, but there are all kinds of opinions among producers and managers concerning the reasons and effects of the spiral.

The latest high mark is a $9.90 tab for the drama, "Time Remembered."

The problem was recently discussed in a symposium at the Drama Desk, New York's organization of theatrical reporters.

Producer Kermit Bloomgarden feels that the pressure of backstage costs is the main cause of ticket price boosts.

Tickets to hits, Stevens adds, are sold by speculators at high prices. Upping boxoffice prices, he says, simply means that "those entitled to it, the actors and writers," get a larger share of what the public is willing to spend.

RIALTO BRIEFS: Like Eugene O'Neill, Sean O'Casey and Dylan Thomas, a writer getting increased playhouse attention these days is Samuel Beckett, whose "Waiting for Godot" was one of Broadway's biggest dilemmas two seasons ago.

Now his "Endgame" has been scheduled for early production at the off-Broadway Rooftop Theater, and his "All That Fall" has been called back for repeat performance at the Carnegie Playhouse after being originally set for a solo showing. . . .

"Eddie Hodges, of Hattiesburg, Miss., a 10-year-old TV quiz winner on "Name That Tune" has been signed to play a pivotal juvenile role in "The Music Man," which arrives on Broadway in December. . . .

Explorers Drive 'Snowman' From Mountain Haunts

MILAN, Italy (UP) — The "abominable snowman" has vanished from its haunts in the ice-bound heights of the Himalyan mountains since Mt. Everest was conquered, an Italian magazine said today.

The mass circulation weekly "oggi" quoted Sherpa Tenzing Norkay, one of the two conquerors of the world's highest peak, as saying the storied half-man, half-beast creature disappeared after Norkay and Sir Edmund Hillary bested Mt. Everest.

The magazine said Norkay claimed he saw footprints left by he creature "countless times" on the snow-covered slopes of Chomolungma, the Nepalse name for Mt. Everest.

The article said that since Mt. Everest was climbed "no one found the abominable snowman's footprints."

There have been numerous reports of mountaineers spotting the tracks of the creature, but very few persons have ever claimed to have seen it.

According to those who said they had, the abominable snowman is a large, shaggy bear-like creature that resembles a man somewhat. Some said the upper part is like a man while the lower part of the body is covered with hair. All agreed the beast had a very bad odor.

Old Adage Drowned Out By Tin Pan Alley Tunes

By HUGH MULLIGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The discordant notes coming these days from Tin Pan Alley, the 10-story collection of tiny offices and tiny pianos on upper Broadway drown out the old adage: "Music hath charms to sooth the savage breast."

Instead, you hear the raucous snappings and snarlings of song writers and publishers belaboring each other in a real dog fight—a honest dog fight, you might say.

Arrayed on opposite sides are the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, better known as ASCAP, and Broadcast Music Inc., better known as BMI.

Both are engaged in collecting performance fees under the Copyright Act of 1909, which guarantees to owners of musical copyrights the exclusive right of public performance for profit. The courts have held this to mean that whenever a song is played on radio or television, in a movie sound track, in a restaurant, dance hall or burlesque house, someone must pay both the piper and the writer of the tune he pipes.

Can't Be Both

A song writer cannot belong to both, but a publisher can if he sets up separate companies.

Congress and the federal courts have been busy looking into charges that BMI, set up by the broadcasters in competition to ASCAP, is engaged in a conspiracy to keep ASCAP music off the air and thereby curb the earning power of some of the nation's leading song writers.

The public has been dragged into the act with claims that it is being rock-and-rolled to the cultural depths by some disc jockeys playing trashy, sometimes obscene songs behind a sinisterly controlled electronic curtain.

Is America's taste in popular music going to the hound dogs?

Several entertainers, Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra and Gisele MacKenzie among them, seem to think so.

Crosby Galled

"It galls me," said Crosby, "to see so much trash on our airlanes and TV screens while the work of dedicated song writers is crowded out." Crosby's objections, however, did not prevent him from contracting to do an album of BMI Christmas music.

Before leaving the "Hit Parade" to do her own show, Gisele MacKenzie took a blast at the caliber of today's hits and was particularly all shook up about a number called "All Shook Up."

But practically the same criticisms were leveled in another day against other musical innovations. Gilbert and Sullivan were assailed for producing junk. Victor Herbert was regarded as culturally uncouth, and George Gershwin heard the word trash echoing in his talented ear.

What the courts and Congress are interested in is not whether the songs are good or trashy but whether, as has been charged, the public is being forced to swallow them by being kept from hearing anything better.

To understand the nature of the fight it is necessary to go back to the days before ASCAP was formed.

Adope System

In Europe, song writers and publishers have been collecting fees for more than 100 years, but Americans never bothered about it until Giacomo Puccini arrived in New York in 1910 for the world premiere of "The Girl of the Golden West." One day, with George Maxwell, his American publisher, Puccini walked into a cabaret and heard the orchestra strike up a familiar tune. "They're playing our song," he cried, or words to that effect, and wanted to know how much he would receive.

Spurred by Puccini's objections to free music, Maxwell, Victor Herbert, John Philip Sousa and a few others founded ASCAP in 1914 as a non profit collecting agency. The society brought suit against various restaurants and hotels, losing every round until Herbert finally won vindication before the U.S. Supreme Court in a famous case against Shanley's Times Square Restaurant. Justice Oliver Wendall Holmes won musical immortality with his ruling that whether music in a restaurant "pays or not, the purpose of employing it is for profit, and that is enough."

When radio came along, ASCAP was strong enough to again battle successfully all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court against the contention that "radio doesn't broadcast music, it emanates electrical energy." But its success and dominant position in the music field soon bred other difficulties. Some song writers and publishers complained that they could not get into ASCAP and denounced it as a closed shop. Others claimed that ASCAP's complicated payment system favored the old guard over new writers by putting a premium on seniority.

Twice the federal courts found ASCAP to be a monopoly. In 1941, the society and its officers paid $35,250 in fines as a result of a criminal antitrust action brought by the Department of Justice. Through consent decrees, ASCAP was made to do away with its self-perpetuating board of directors, change its eligibility rules from five to one published song and desist from entering into exclusive agreements with foreign societies.

Legion Post Barbecue Set For Tomorrow

The American Legion Faulk Post 13 will stage its annual barbecue at 7 p.m. tomorrow, climaxing the yearly membership drive.

Morris Haas, Jr., vice commander and membership drive chairman, announced that a diamond ring will be presented the legionnaire who brings the largest number of 1958 members to the affair while a pen and pencil set will be awarded the member signing up the most members before tomorrow night.

The goal this year, Haas said, is every eligible veteran in Monroe. All are invited to attend the barbecue, he added.

The Legion sponsors candidate to Boys State, Junior Legion baseball team, oratorical contest and the Legion Rescue Truck.

Officers of the local post, in addition to Haas, include Milton W. Ford, commander; Anthony J. Buttita, vice commander; Harold Gill, finance officer; C. B. Braun, adjutant; and Sam Rubin, Jr., past commander.

Jaycee Sponsors Oratory Contest Set For Nov. 11

"I Speak For Democracy," a composition and orator contest, will be held here November 11, Stanton Huey, Jr., project chairman for the local junior chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday.

The 11th annual contest is open to 10-12 grade students of West Monroe High, Ouachita, Neville and St. Matthews. The basis of judging will be a five minute positive (not against any other form of government) speech on democracy.

The winner in the Monroe-West Monroe Jaycees contest will have his recorded speech forwarded to the state finals to be held November 23 at Bastrop. The state winner will receive an all - expense trip to the national "Voice of Democracy" contest to be held in February in Washington, D. C.

Proposed Farm Plan May Sharply Cut Consumer Prices In Grocery Stores

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Should the government shift to the broad use of payments to bolster farm income, one of the results would be a big increase in the supply of beef, pork, lamb and chickens at grocery stores.

Along with this increase would be a sharp drop in prices.

The prospect of such a change in the meat situation was painted by the Agriculture Department in a recent study on the costs and effects of a payment program of aiding farmers.

NEW DIADEM

Broadway Focuses Eye On Mary Ure

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—As a sparkling new gem in Broadway's theatrical diadem, Mary Ure is getting double attention.

Miss Ure—pronounced Your—a reed-sldner blonde with darkly magic eyes, has just reaped a bevy of critical bouquets in her New York debut as the female star of "Look Back in Anger."

Four months ago she married the play's author, John Osborne, who has been separately hailed during the past year as the rawest freshest new spirit to sweep across the English stage in a generation.

The result is that Glasgow-born Mary gets asked twice as many questions as normal, speaking for herself as well as her husband. She is skillfully handling the offstage assignment with a mixture of little girl smiles and dowager aplomb far beyond her 24 years.

Rather Boring

Concerning her husband's reputation as an angry young man (Osborne finds the label "rather boring"), Miss Ure replies with slow deliberation:

"I think he knows how to use words. To me is a wonderful poet.

The drama which has introduced their joint talents to New York is not she says, "a very angry play."

In London, she says, "many people wore shocked."

"Look Back in Anger" concerns a wildly embittered young man in revolt against the stablished order without having any alternative hope. Miss Ure agrees that American writers such as Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams and Clifford Odets have been working with youthful rebellion for years, and U.S. audiences are more used to troubled studies.

"The audiences here don't seem to feel so personally involved," she says of Osborne's opus. "They see the play in a different way."

Hopes To Learn

"When I know Americans better, I'll understand the reasons better says Miss Ure, who has a consuming ambition to explore this country, its people and their accents.

The greatest part of the Ure carrer to date has been involved with somber drama.

She began at 16 by participating in medieval mystery plays at York moved on after three years of speech training to such items as Miller's "The Crucible" and "A View From the Bridge," Ophelia in "Hamlet"—which took her to Moscow—and creation of her current role for six months in London.

Because of her heavy casting—there have also been a couple of movies—Mary would like some of these days to try her talents on a costume comedy.

Advance for ams of Sunday Oct.20

PRICE SPIRAL: Broadway box-office prices keep rising, but there are all kinds of opinions among producers and managers concerning the reasons and effects of the spiral.

Producer Kermit Bloomgarden feels that the pressure of backstage costs is the main cause of ticket price boosts.

Tickets to hits, Stevens adds, are sold by speculators at high prices. Upping boxoffice prices, he says, simply means that "those entitled to it, the actors and writers" get a larger share of what the public is willing to spend.

RIALTO BRIEFS: Like Eugene O'Neill, Sean O'Casey and Dylan Thomas, a writer getting increased playhouse attention these days is Samuel Beckett, whose "Waiting for Godot" was one of Broadway's biggest dilemmas two seasons ago.

Now his "Endgame" has been scheduled for early production at the off-Broadway Rooftop Theater, and his "All That Fall" has been called back for repeat performance at the Carnegie Playhouse after being originally set for a solo showing. . . .

"Eddie Hodges, of Hattiesburg, Miss., a 10-year-old TV quiz winner on "Name That Tune" has been signed to play a pivotal juvenile role in "The Music Man," which arrives on Broadway in December. . . .

Explorers Drive 'Snowman' From Mountain Haunts

MILAN, Italy (UP) — The "abominable snowman" has vanished from its haunts in the ice-bound heights of the Himalyan mountains since Mt. Everest was conquered, an Italian magazine said today.

The mass circulation weekly "oggi" quoted Sherpa Tenzing Norkay, one of the two conquerors of the world's highest peak, as saying the storied half-man, half-beast creature disappeared after Norkay and Sir Edmund Hillary bested Mt. Everest.

The magazine said Norkay claimed he saw footprints left by he creature "countless times" on the snow-covered slopes of Chomolungma, the Nepalse name for Mt. Everest.

The article said that since Mt. Everest was climbed "no one found the abominable snowman's footprints."

There have been numerous reports of mountaineers spotting the tracks of the creature, but very few persons have ever claimed to have seen it.

According to those who said they had, the abominable snowman is a large, shaggy bear-like creature that resembles a man somewhat. Some said the upper part is like a man while the lower part of the body is covered with hair. All agreed the beast had a very bad odor.

NEAR EAST 'TINDERBOX' — Sen. William F. Knowland points to Turkish-Syrian border, site of current international tensions, as he urges immediate creation of an U.N. investigating committee for on-the-spot survey of Near East border conditions, as he addresses the Commonwealth Club at San Francisco yesterday. He termed the present situation there as "a tinderbox that could explode into a serious fire at any time." Knowland, recent entry in the California gubernatorial race, urged a three-point U.N. program which would include the establishment of U.N. border patrols where needed. (AP Wirephoto)

By HUGH MULLIGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The discordant notes coming these days from Tin Pan Alley, the 10-story collection of tiny offices and tiny pianos on upper Broadway drown out the old adage: "Music hath charms to sooth the savage breast."

Instead, you hear the raucous snappings and snarlings of song writers and publishers belaboring each other in a real dog fight—a hound dog fight, you might say.

Arrayed on opposite sides are the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, better known as ASCAP, and Broadcast Music Inc., better known as BMI.

Both are engaged in collecting performance fees under the Copyright Act of 1909, which guarantees to owners of musical copyrights the exclusive right of public performance for profit. The courts have held this to mean that whenever a song is played on radio or television, in a movie sound track, in a restaurant, dance hall or burlesque house, someone must pay both the piper and the writer of the tune he pipes.

Can't Be Both

A song writer cannot belong to both, but a publisher can if he sets up separate companies.

Congress and the federal courts have been busy looking into charges that BMI, set up by the broadcasters in competition to ASCAP, is engaged in a conspiracy to keep ASCAP music off the air and thereby curb the earning power of some of the nation's leading song writers.

The public has been dragged into the act with claims that it is being rock-and-rolled to the cultural depths by some disc jockeys playing trashy, sometimes obscene songs behind a sinisterly controlled electronic curtain.

Is America's taste in popular music going to the hound dogs?

Several entertainers, Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra and Gisele MacKenzie among them, seem to think so.

Crosly Galled

"It galls me," said Crosby, "to see so much trash on our airlanes and TV screens while the work of dedicated song writers is crowded out." Crosby's objections, however, did not prevent him from contracting to do an album of BMI Christmas music.

Before leaving the "Hit Parade" to do her own show, Gisele MacKenzie took a blast at the caliber of today's hits and was particularly all shook up about a number called "All Shook Up."

But practically the same criticisms were leveled in another day against other musical innovations. Gilbert and Sullivan were assailed for producing junk. Victor Herbert was regarded as culturally uncouth, and George Gershwin heard the word trash echoing in his talented ear.

What the courts and Congress are interested in is not whether the songs are good or trashy but whether, as has been charged, the public is being forced to swallow them by being kept from hearing anything better.

To understand the nature of the fight it is necessary to go back to the days before ASCAP was formed.

Adope System

In Europe, song writers and publishers have been collecting fees for more than 100 years, but Americans never bothered about it until Giacomo Puccini arrived in New York in 1910 for the world premiere of "The Girl of the Golden West." One day, with George Maxwell, his American publisher, Puccini walked into a cabaret and heard the orchestra strike up a familiar tune. "They're playing our song," he cried, or words to that effect, and wanted to know how much he would receive.

Spurred by Puccini's objections to free music, Maxwell, Victor Herbert, John Philip Sousa and a few others founded ASCAP in 1914 as a non profit collecting agency. The society brought suit against various restaurants and hotels, losing every round until Herbert finally won vindication before the U.S. Supreme Court in a famous case against Shanley's Times Square Restaurant. Justice Oliver Wendall Holmes won musical immortality with his ruling that whether music in a restaurant "pays or not, the purpose of emplying it is for profit, and that is enough."

When radio came along, ASCAP was strong enough to again battle successfully all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court against the contention that "radio doesn't broadcast music, it emanates electrical energy." But its success and dominant position in the music field soon bred other difficulties. Some song writers and publishers complained that they could not get into ASCAP and denounced it as a closed shop. Others claimed that ASCAP's complicated payment system favored the old guard over new writers by putting a premium on seniority.

Twice the federal courts found ASCAP to be a monopoly. In 1941, the society and its officers paid $35,250 in fines as a result of a criminal antitrust action brought by the Department of Justice. Through consent decrees, ASCAP was made to do away with its self-perpetuating board of directors, change its eligibility rules from five to one published song and desist from entering into exclusive agreements with foreign societies.

Legion Post Barbecue Set For Tomorrow

The American Legion Faulk Post 13 will stage its annual barbecue at 7 p.m. tomorrow, climaxing the yearly membership drive.

Morris Haas, Jr., vice commander and membership drive chairman, announced that a diamond ring will be presented the legionnaire who brings the largest number of 1958 members to the affair while a pen and pencil set will be awarded the member signing up the most members before tomorrow night.

The goal this year, Haas said, is every eligible veteran in Monroe. All are invited to attend the barbecue, he added.

The Legion sponsors candidate to Boys State, Junior Legion baseball team, oratorical contest and the Legion Rescue Truck.

Officers of the local post, in addition to Haas, include Milton W. Ford, commander; Anthony J. Buttita, vice commander; Harold Gill, finance officer; C. B. Braun, adjutant; and Sam Rubin, Jr., past commander.

Jaycee Sponsors Oratory Contest Set For Nov. 11

"I Speak For Democracy," a composition and orator contest, will be held here November 11, Stanton Huey, Jr., project chairman for the local junior chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday.

The 11th annual contest is open to 10-12 grade students of West Monroe High, Ouachita, Neville and St. Matthews. The basis of judging will be a five minute positive (not against any other form of government) speech on democracy.

The winner in the Monroe-West Monroe Jaycees contest will have his recorded speech forwarded to the state finals to be held November 23 at Bastrop. The state winner will receive an all - expense trip to the national "Voice of Democracy" contest to be held in February in Washington, D. C.

Private Enterprise Gives Poles Bright New Store

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW (AP) — A quiet revolution has taken place smack in the middle of Warsaw. Forty-seven new stores are opening. They were planned, built and are operated by private enterprise.

The brightly painted shopfronts make a pleasant contrast with both the "Moscow massive" style of the state-run stores and the backstreet hovels in which most private traders operate here. Behind each shopfront lies a story of initiative — and determination to stay independent in face of the state - run machine.

The stores stand on a corner site which had lain idle since it was smashed by the retreating Germans in 1944. Under government plans it should by now be a subway station. But the subway project was abandoned long ago as too costly.

Surprise Acceptance

To Tadeusz Krakowski, a private mason, the site looked like an opportunity. Last September he went to city authorities with a scheme to develop it. To his surprise, they accepted it.

Building started in February and in six months the job was done. Leaseholders are moving in and business already is brisk. All leaseholders are craftsmen — tailors, watchmakers, shoe-makers, millinery. Each has a small workroom at the back of the store.

Krakowski joined up with seven other small builders to undertake the project. Each employs the legal maximum of five men and in this way they have a total labor force of 40.

He said the job went smoothly despite some difficulty getting raw materials and a disappointment over finance. Some of the would-be leaseholders expected government credits but didn't get them when the time came to start building.

Each store covers 24 square yards. The five - year leases cost either 80,000 zloty ($8,333) or 100,000 zloty ($11,000) according to their position on the site. Krakowski said 15 per cent of this went in tax and he reckoned his profit at 7 per cent.

Now, he said, the group already was at work on a similar project at another subway station site. This one would provide 187 stores. Planned after that is a private clinic and maternity home which he said the authorities had readily approved.

The prices in the shops look skyhigh in comparison with Poland's average industrial wage of 60 zloty a day. Plastic handbags get up to 420 zloty and more. A plastic belt was marked at 120 zloty. In another window, handmade shoes ranged from 700 zloty to 1,800. But it is difficult to get good quality shoes in the state stores and so to many people the craftsman's product looks a bargain.

Materials Short

Inside the stores you find a unanimous complaint about shortages of raw materials. The handbag maker said he bought plastics sent to Poles by relatives abroad. Some he bought from local small-scale producers.

To a Westerner, the shoemaker's store window looked surprisingly empty. Soon the reason became clear. One craftsman can turn out only one pair of shoes a day. And tax rate saiffens when more than one man is employed. The result is an effective damper on production in a country which needs more production.

Thus the bright new shop on a busy thoroughfare, which in a Western city of a million people would have immense site value, sold only 50 pairs or so a month.

Neither the shoemaker nor the other craftsmen seemed much disturbed by current talk of higher taxation. In the past they had to meet sudden demands for huge special taxes aimed at putting them out of business. That system vanished more than a year ago.

Now they were convinced they would be allowed and, within limits helped to make a modest living. All had long ago given up any idea of getting rich.

IRON CURTAIN CAPITALISM: Warsaw shoppers stop in droves to look at merchandise offered in windows of new stores built and operated by private capital.

Elderly Men In Death Duel Over Woman

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J. (UP)—Two elderly bachelors fought a duel to the death over "the platonic affections" of a 36 year old housekeeper, state police reported today.

Police said 71-year-old Antonio Gaeta, of Pine Grove, shot and killed his long - time friend, Michael Donegan, a 69-year-old cripple, after Donegan's ex-housekeeper quit work at his home to work for Gaeta.

The housekeeper, Mrs. Helen Williams, was held as a material witness.

Bad blood between the two friends apparently developed over the shift a month ago and moved to a tragic climax Thursday night. Donegan, in a rage, walked to Gaeta's house and called, "come out here and I'll club you to death."

Gaeta, a gun collector, came out into his yard carrying a .45 caliber pistol. Donegan began to pound him over the head with a hockey stick, and Gaeta shot him, police said.

Donegan was a World War I veteran. Gaeta is a retired railroad man.

Burlington County Detective Howard Nixon, asked if he thought the men were in love with Mrs. Williams, replied, "I guess you might call it a platonic affair."

Gaeta received a preliminary hearing Friday on a homicide charge. He is held without bail in Burlington county jail for grand jury action.

Science Bureau Suggested For Ike's Cabinet

"Science should have a policy voice in our government," J. Allen Hynek said in news conference at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, of which he is associate director.

A Cabinet post is needed to "coordinate all scientific activities," Hynek said. The new secretary "should not be a czar or dictator but someone to advise the president and a person through whom scientists could be heard," he said.

Hynek said, in answer to a newsman's questions, that the present United States scientific development program is "inadequate."

"We should have a 'bank account of science.' If we had such an 'account,' we would have the money to spend on basic research, the foundation for any new discovery."

Auto Dealers Feel Pinch Around Model Change Time

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Oct. 19 (AP)—If auto dealers could halt the persistent tread of time, they'd probably pick these days of model changeover to do it.

Since they can't, the late fall is becoming the time for the great bargain sale on cars for Americans who will trade prestige for economy.

In days now 1958 model cars will go on sale; you will hear that prices are higher but that broad engineering and styling changes justify the increases.

Leading industry agencies differ as to just how many new 1957 cars the retailers now have in stock. Automotive News reported recently that dealer inventories Sept. 1 numbered 728,595 units. Ward's automotive reports said the figure was closer to 620,000 units.

Stock High

Whichever is correct, stocks are greater than they have been at changeover for many years. Yet the car retailers generally appear unworried about the cleanup problem.

The retailers say demand is holding steady. And because it is, some of them say a fall boom has taken the place of the traditional spring boom that failed to materialize in 1956 or 1957.

Most dealers are confident, according to trade surveys, that they will clean up outgoing models.

But they admit they will sell most of the cars at bargain prices. Most of the cars sold since the start of the 1957 model year have been sold at less than "suggested list price."

Although dealers may cut prices a little more than they did earlier in the season, they are not going to give away their stock.

Generally speaking the car retailer may mark up his cars as much as 25 per cent over the wholesale price. But practically, he seldom does.

Questions Arise

The questions have been asked: How much does the average car dealer net in a normal model year and how can he slash prices so greatly and still survive? It also has been asked how can a car retailer cut his prices as much as $1,000.

Probably there are few, if any, instances in which a car retailer has actually cut $1,000 off the list price of a car. That would be the full markup on a car for which he paid $1,000.

Figures supplied by the National Automobile Dealers Assn. suggest that retailing new cars has not been especially profitable for several years although the net return has gone up somewhat this year.

Unit Profit Low

The association reports that aside from inventory investments the average new car dealer has $108,000 in his operation; that he has to spend $677 annually per new unit retailed to operate his business and that his operating profit per unit during the first half of 1957 was $85. It was $68 during the first quarter of this year. A year ago during the first half the profit per unit was $42.

Industry authorities sometimes question the exactness of these figures.

Obviously when the dealer starts slashing prices near the model year end he does not pocket all the price cut himself. Most car manufacturers have franchise agreements providing for rebates of around 5 per cent to their retailers for all unsold outgoing models at the start of the new model year.

Still another source of dollar help to the retailer is the many bonus contest sponsored by the manufacturers. These provide for extra allowances by the manufacturer to the retailer ranging from $30 up to as much as $200 per unit sold above a specified quota or percentage of that quota.

Gov. Embarrassed By Cocktail Party

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) —Gov. Raymond Gary has accused the sponsors of a cocktail party of embarrassing the vice president, the governor of Oklahoma, some federal judges, and several other prominent citizens who know it is a violation of the law to serve whisky in Oklahoma.

The incident occurred last Saturday at a reception at which Vice President Richard Nixon and Gary were guests of the National Conference of Editorial Writers.

The Oklahoma City Times reprinted an editorial Friday from the Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser, in which fun was poked at the Sooner state's prohibition laws and which told of the cocktail party.

"Governor Gary is the chief magistrate of Oklahoma, a personal and political day. But there he was and there was the liquor. Why didn't he send for the police," the editorial asked.

Gary did not answer that question but expressed his unhappiness over the situation.

States Future Policy

The governor did say that in the future if he knows liquor is being served at a social function, he will not attend.

"The law of the land in Oklahoma," said the editorial, "is prohibition, but of a Saturday night in the luxurious reception room of a hotel you can see the vice president of the United States and the governor of Oklahoma mid many gallons of liquor.

"Vice President Nixon and Gov. Gary are guests of the National Conference of Editorial Writers. There are 90 editors present and they represent leading newspapers in every section. Many of them have written law- of- the-land sermons and calls to arms but there they are in defiance of the Oklahoma law of the land, holding highballs in one hand and shaking the hand of the vice president with the other.

"The fact is that about half of Oklahoma does not believe in prohibition, so as happened with national prohibition, the law can't be enforced.

'Nixon Kept to Beer'

"Nixon kept to beer, which is legal in Oklahoma. But he stood between the tables heavy with their grog.

"Nixon wouldn't address a segregated assemblage, but he is unconcerned over lending himself to the free and unlimited consumption of illegal liquor.

"Nixon is concerned about the law of the land in Arkansas, but not the law of the land in Oklahoma."

Gary told newsmen today he didn't actually see liquor served but knew there was a bar there.

"Actually, I got there about the tail end of the reception," he said. "I was invited down by the president of the editorial writers and a local newspaper editorial writer to attend the reception for Vice President Nixon. As governor, I felt I should go down.

"When I shook hands with the vice president, he didn't have any beer in his hand."

TV, Radio Shops Organize For Better Service

To present to the public of the area improved servicing, full time television and radio repair shops have formed TESA of Northeast Louisiana, Inc.

The letters stand for "television and electronics servicemen's association," according to J. P. McKee, recently elected president of the professional organization. "We feel that all full time shops working in conjunction with one another through the association can offer the public more efficient service," he declared. McKee added the local group is an affiliate of the National Television and Electronics Servicemen's Association.

Other officers are Marvin Phillips, vice - president; and Guyton Powers, secretary - treasurer. Elected to the board of directors were James Grayson, Oren Batson, Edward Bice, H. T. Poulan, Jim Dimitry, Ben Parnell, Rick Sollinger, T. J. Langley, Norman Many, Jim Green, Marzell Hill and Richard Edmiston.

Other TESA chapters in the state are socated in Shreveport, Baton Rouge and New Orseans. It was pointed out recommendations to electronics manufactures as to desirable safety features, particularly in television sets, could be fowarded through the nation-wide organization of servicemen.

Vaticans Press Attack "Upsets" Movie Actress

ROME (UP)— Movie producer Carlo Ponti said today his bride actress Sophia Loren was "upset" by bitter Vatican press attacks on her marriage to a divorced man.

"Something like that would upset anybody," the 44-year-old producer said as he stepped off a plane from Paris without his 23-year-old ride.

Ponti, who married Miss Loren last month in a proxy Mexican ceremony, refused comment on the possibility of legal complications arising from the wedding.

The Vatican press has criticized Miss Loren for marrying a divorced man and said she had made herself liable to excommunication.

Technically, Ponti could face charges of abandoning his wife and family and of committing adultery, since divorce is not recognized in Italy. But legal experts considered it unlikely he would run into trouble unless his first wife decided to start action.

The producer's first wife lives with his son and daughter in Rome. They had been legally separated for some years and it was believed Ponti had reached an understanding with her about his divorce and re-marriage.

To a Westerner, the shoemaker's store window looked surprisingly empty. Soon the reason became clear. One craftsman can turn out only one pair of shoes a day. And tax rate saiffens when more than one man is employed. The result is an effective damper on production in a country which needs more production.

Thus the bright new shop on a busy thoroughfare, which in a Western city of a million people would have immense site value, sold only 50 pairs or so a month.

Neither the shoemaker nor the other craftsmen seemed much disturbed by current talk of higher taxation. In the past they had to meet sudden demands for huge special taxes aimed at putting them out of business. That system vanished more than a year ago.

Now they were convinced they would be allowed and, within limits helped to make a modest living. All had long ago given up any idea of getting rich.

Elderly Men In Death Duel Over Woman

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J. (UP)—Two elderly bachelors fought a duel to the death over "the platonic affections" of a 36 year old housekeeper, state police reported today.

Police said 71-year-old Antonio Gaeta, of Pine Grove, shot and killed his long - time friend, Michael Donegan, a 69-year-old cripple, after Donegan's ex-housekeeper quit work at his home to work for Gaeta.

The housekeeper, Mrs. Helen Williams, was held as a material witness.

Bad blood between the two friends apparently developed over the shift a month ago and moved to a tragic climax Thursday night. Donegan, in a rage, walked to Gaeta's house and called, "come out here and I'll club you to death."

Gaeta, a gun collector, came out into his yard carrying a .45 caliber pistol. Donegan began to pound him over the head with a hockey stick, and Gaeta shot him, police said.

Donegan was a World War I veteran. Gaeta is a retired railroad man.

Burlington County Detective Howard Nixon, asked if he thought the men were in love with Mrs. Williams, replied, "I guess you might call it a platonic affair."

Gaeta received a preliminary hearing Friday on a homicide charge. He is held without bail in Burlington county jail for grand jury action.

PRICE SLASHES

Auto Dealers Feel Pinch Around Model Change Time

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Oct. 19 (AP)—If auto dealers could halt the persistent tread of time, they'd probably pick these days of model changeover to do it.

Since they can't, the late fall is becoming the time for the great bargain sale on cars for Americans who will trade prestige for economy.

In days now 1958 model cars will go on sale; you will hear that prices are higher but that broad engineering and styling changes justify the increases.

Leading industry agencies differ as to just how many new 1957 cars the retailers now have in stock. Automotive News reported recently that dealer inventories Sept. 1 numbered 728,595 units. Ward's automotive reports said the figure was closer to 830,000 units.

Stock High

Whichever is correct, stocks are greater than they have been at changeover for many years. Yet the car retailers generally appear unworried about the cleanup problem.

The retailers say demand is holding steady. And because it is, some of them say a fall boom has taken the place of the traditional spring boom that failed to materialize in 1956 or 1957.

Most dealers are confident, according to trade surveys, that they will clean up outgoing models.

But they admit they will sell most of the cars at bargain prices. Most of the cars sold since the start of the 1957 model year have been sold at less than "suggested list price."

Although dealers may cut prices a little more than they did earlier in the season, they are not going to give away their stock.

Generally speaking the car retailer may mark up his cars as much as 25 per cent over the wholesale price. But practically, he seldom does.

Questions Arise

The questions have been asked: How much does the average car dealer net in a normal model year and how can he slash prices so greatly and still survive? It also has been asked how can a car retailer cut his prices as much as $1,000.

Probably there are few, if any, instances in which a car retailer has actually cut $1,000 off the list price of a car. That would be the full markup on a car for which he paid $4,000.

Figures supplied by the National Automobile Dealers Assn. suggest that retailing new cars has not been especially profitable for several years although the net return has gone up somewhat this year.

Unit Profit Low

The association reports that aside from inventory investments the average new car dealer has $108,000 in his operation; that he has to spend $677 annually per new unit retailed to operate his business and that his operating profit per unit during the first half of 1957 was $85. It was $68 during the first quarter of this year. A year ago during the first half the profit per unit was $48.

Industry authorities sometimes question the exactness of these figures.

Obviously when the dealer starts slashing prices near the model year end he does not pocket all the price cut himself. Most car manufacturers have franchise agreements providing for rebates of around 5 per cent to their retailers for all unsold outgoing models at the start of the new model year.

Still another source of dollar help to the retailer is the many bonus contest sponsored by the manufacturers. These provide for extra allowances by the manufacturer to the retailer ranging from $30 up to as much as $200 per unit sold above a specified quota or percentage of that quota.

Science Bureau Suggested For Ike's Cabinet

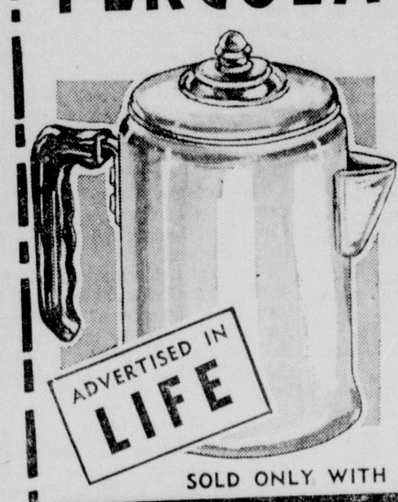
"Science should have a policy voice in our government," J. Allen Hynek said in news conference at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, of which he is associate director.

A Cabinet post is needed to "coordinate all scientific activities," Hynek said. The new secretary "should not be a czar or dictator but someone to advise the president and a person through whom scientists could be heard," he said.

Hynek said, in answer to a newsman's questions, that the present United States scientific development program is "inadequate."

"We should have a 'bank account of science.' If we had such an 'account,' we would have the money to spend on basic research, the foundation for any new discovery."



Gov. Embarrassed By Cocktail Party

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) —Gov. Raymond Gary has accused the sponsors of a cocktail party of embarrassing the vice president, the governor of Oklahoma, some federal judges, and several other prominent citizens who know it is a violation of the law to serve whisky in Oklahoma.

The incident occurred last Saturday at a reception at which Vice President Richard Nixon and Gary were guests of the National Conference of Editorial Writers.

The Oklahoma City Times reprinted an editorial Friday from the Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser, in which fun was poked at the Sooner state's prohibition laws and which told of the cocktail party.

"Governor Gary is the chief magistrate of Oklahoma, a personal and political dry. But there he was and there was the liquor. Why didn't he send for the police," the editorial asked.

Gary did not answer that question but expressed his unhappiness over the situation.

States Future Policy

The governor did say that in the future if he knows liquor is being served at a social function, he will not attend.

"The law of the land in Oklahoma," said the editorial, "is prohibition, but of a Saturday night in the luxurious reception room of a hotel you can see the vice president of the United States and the governor of Oklahoma mid many gallons of liquor.

"Vice President Nixon and Gov. Gary are guests of the National Conference of Editorial Writers. There are 90 editors present and they represent leading newspapers in every section. Many of them have written law- of- the-land sermons and calls to arms, but there they are in defiance of the Oklahoma law of the land, holding highballs in one hand and shaking the hand of the vice president with the other.

"The fact is that about half of Oklahoma does not believe in prohibition, so as happened with national prohibition, the law can't be enforced.

'Nixon Kept to Beer'

"Nixon kept to beer, which is legal in Oklahoma. But he stood between the tables heavy with their grog.

"Nixon wouldn't address a segregated assemblage, but he is unconcerned over lending himself to the free and unlimited consumption of illicit liquor.

"Nixon is concerned about the law of the land in Arkansas, but not the law of the land in Oklahoma."

Gary told newsmen today he didn't actually see liquor served but knew there was a bar there.

"Actually, I got there about the tail end of the reception," he said. "I was invited down by the president of the editorial writers and a local newspaper editorial writer to attend the reception for Vice President Nixon. As governor, I felt I should go down.

"When I shook hands with the vice president, he didn't have any beer in his hand."

TV, Radio Shops Organize For Better Service

To present to the public of the area improved servicing, full time television and radio repair shops have formed TESA of Northeast Louisiana, Inc.

The letters stand for "television and electronics servicemen's association," according to J. P. McKee, recently elected president of the professional organization. "We feel that all full time shops working in conjunction with one another through the association can offer the public more efficient service," he declared. McKee added the local group is an affiliate of the National Television and Electronics Servicemen's Association.

Other officers are Marvin Phillips, vice - president; and Guyton Powers, secretary - treasurer. Elected to the board of directors were James Grayson, Oren Batson, Edward Bice, H. T. Poulan, Jim Dimitry, Ben Parnell, Rick Sollinger, T. J. Langley, Norman Many, Jim Green, Marzell Hill and Richard Edmiston.

Other TESA chapters in the state are socated in Shreveport, Baton Rouge and New Orseans. It was pointed out recommendations to electronics manufactures as to desirable safety features, paritcularly in television sets, could be fowarded through the nation-wide organization of servicemen.

Vaticans Press Attack "Upsets" Movie Actress

ROME (UP)— Movie producer Carlo Ponti said today his bride actress Sophia Loren was "upset" by bitter Vatican press attacks on her marriage to a divorced man.

"Something like that would upset anybody," the 44-year-old producer said as he stepped off a plane from Paris without his 23-year-old ride.

Ponti, who married Miss Loren last month in a proxy Mexican ceremony, refused comment on the possibility of legal complications arising from the wedding.

The Vatican press has criticized Miss Loren for marrying a divorced man and said she had made herself liable to excommunication.

Technically, Ponti could face charges of abandoning his wife and family and of committing adultery, since divorce is not recognized in Italy. But legal experts considered it unlikely he would run into trouble unless his first wife decided to start action.

The producer's first wife lives with his son and daughter in Rome. They had been legally separated for some years and it was believed Ponti had reached an understanding with her about his divorce and re-marriage.

Eastland Says Polk Troops Given Riot Training After Order Cancelled

LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 20 (UP)—Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss) said today he had been informed that soldiers at Ft. Polk, La., received riot duty training after the Army's order for such training was countermanded.

Eastland said a soldier stationed at Ft. Polk wrote that his unit had been ordered to take part in riot training between Oct. 11 and Nov. 15.

Eastland refused to identify the soldier except to say that he came from "north of Mason - Dixon line."

Eastland was questioned about the letter but then admitted that he had heard about the letter by reporters when he arrived here to attend Parents' Day at Randolph-Macon Woman's College where his daughter is a student.

Distribute Copies

Eastland said he planned to give copies of the letter to Sens. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) and Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), members of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The letter, dated Oct. 11, said the riot training was ordered by Maj. Gen. Richard C. Farrand, according to Eastland.

The letter said: "I'm sure you would want to be informed of what took place this afternoon. Following a directive from the Department of the Army, Maj. Gen. Richard C. Farrand has directed that between now and 15 Nov. we will have 'riot training' which consists of not less than eight hours."

Give Riot Training

Shortly after federal troops were ordered to Little Rock, Ark., unit commanders in the South were directed to give their troops riot training, but Pentagon officials said the order was almost immediately rescinded.

The soldiers' letter said, however, that following the order from Farrand his unit had a four-hour session of riot training, including "two hours of 'civil disturbance,' in which the impact of the Little Rock situation was revised no less than eight times, and two hours of movies, one on riot control and the other on sabotage."

He said future training plans called for "actual riot control formation and drills and two alerts."

LSU Board Seeks Levee Agency Land For College

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Louisiana State University today gave the go-ahead to negotiations with the Orleans Levee Board for a portion of the New Orleans Naval Air Station as a site for a commuters college.

In other action, the board:

1. Referred to the athletic committee a protest by alumnus Carl E. Heck of Thibodaux on the board's policy of refusing to permit competition against Negroes either in or outside Louisiana. He claimed it would wreck the LSU athletic program.

2. Discussed but took no action on a proposal by New Orleans area legislators to place establishment of the New Orleans branch in the state constitution.

The Orleans Levee Board became news earlier this week when Gov. Earl Long fired four of its five members.

President Louis Roussel said his ouster came after he refused to turn over the side of the Naval Air Station, soon to move across the Mississippi River to Belle Chasse, for the LSU branch college.

75 Acre Limit

At a meeting of the new levee board yesterday, Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans urged only 75 acres be given LSU for the commuters college with the remaining 125 acres reserved for residential purposes which would produce an estimated $1,120,000 in city property taxes.

The board, now headed by attorney Claude Duke, agreed to study the proposal.

Tom Dutton, only New Orleans member of the LSU board, said the three-man commuters college committee he heads has not determined how much land would be required.

Other committee members are Theo Cangelosi and Louis Gottlieb, both of Baton Rouge.

"All we want is what we need to do the job," Dutton said. "We don't want to prepare for a large institution there to take care of the population in the area."

Previously, board members have indicated about 52 acres would be required.

College Authorized

The 1956 Legislature authorized the commuters college, designated LSU to establish it and appropriated some $600,000 for either capital outlay or operations through June 30, 1958.

Plans were slowed when a survey showed 7.5 million dollars would be required to build a suitable plant for the four-year college and an equal amount to operate it in the first four years.

President Troy Middleton said there was some chance the school could be operating by next fall, but first land must be obtained. He said he understood the Navy would not move out until about Jan. 1.

"The buildings will require considerable alteration and rehabilitation," he said. "Then we must assemble a faculty. This would be difficult under any circumstances and will be especially so unless we can sell the idea it will be a permanent institution."

One Year At A Time

Middleton said the four-year institution would open with a freshman class and be in full operation when the first class graduated.

Cangelosi, who acted as Long's intermediary with Roussel, said New Orleans area lawmakers want the college permanently tied with LSU in the constitution.

Member Tom Leigh of Monroe said the board should not advocate changes in the constitutional processes of state government. He suggested the committee discuss the matter informally with the legislators. The board approved the idea.

On the segregation issue, Middleton agreed with Heck. "There is some feeling we will have difficulty securing athletes because of our policy."

But the LSU president added, "I feel the issue is the Negro and not the place. We can't by hypocritical."

Heck cited sprinter John West, Memphis, Tenn., freshman last year who transferred this fall to the University of Kansas.

Not Displeased

Middleton said West was not displeased with LSU, but wanted a chance to compete in national track events. He is a fine prospect and probably will go to the top."

Under board policy, LSU athletes are barred from practically all national collegiate competition, since Negroes compete in most NCAA events.

Citing past national titles in track, golf and basketball, Heck said the board policy would force LSU into "second or third rate competition."

This was not necessary, he said, because the law "merely set into effect a procedure which has been carried out in Louisiana or many years of not permitting teams with Negroes to play here against whites."

Board members showed no signs of wanting to change the policy.

In referring it to the athletic committee, Gottlieb said:

"The committee should give the letter the importance they think it is entitled to receive. If they think the complaint is severe enough, they should reconsider the policy."

The board began preliminary planning for the LSU centennial observance in 1959-60 and approved appointment of the 13-member overall committee.

The board also:

1. Accepted the $894,455 bid of George A. Caldwell, Baton Rouge, for construction of new men's dormitory.

2. Accepted the $20,700 bid of Barksdale and LeBlanc, Baton Rouge, for construction of married students' apartments.

3. Approved a $45,000 outlay to renovate and repair the alumni house.

4. Accepted gifts and grants totaling $543,011.

Fire Destroys Residence Of Aged Couple

Roaring flames completely destroyed the small wooden home of an elderly Negro couple yesterday morning. Later, a hot-plate on fire on DeSiard street caused a down-town commotion, as fire trucks raced to the scene.

Losing all their possessions in the first blaze were Nathan Johnson, 73, and his wife. The house, located on Nutland lane, a dirt road near Milhaven road, had collapsed to the ground when firemen arrived.

Johnson had no phone, and the person who turned in the alarm was unknown. Engine companies 102 and 111 responded at 9:13 a.m., and returned to their stations by 10:44 a.m.

One fireman at Station Two said that he could see the spiral of smoke from the blaze as the engine left the station, headed for Nutland lane. The dwelling had burned for a long period of time before firemen were notified. It was owned by Charlie Williams, Negro.

Engine companies 101, 110 and ladder 1 went to 421 DeSiard street at 1:01 p.m., when a hot-plate used to heat material used in making eye-glass frames, caught the material on fire.

Labor Unions' Membership At 18.5 Million

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Labor Department reported today its latest survey shows a total labor union membership of about 18½ million.

The department said the membership claims of U.S. unions as of the beginning of 1958 added up to that figure. It is some 500,000 greater than the total in the department's last survey at the beginning of 1955.

More than one million of the 18½ million members of American unions were outside the United States, primarily in Canada. The survey showed about 16,000,000 of the members in unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO, which has been claiming only 15 million members.

The Labor Department said about one-fourth of the nation's total labor force, and about one-third of employes in nonfarm employment, belong to unions. It said these ratios have remained about the same since the end of World War II.

Kohler Speech Rejected For U. S. Broadcast

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 19 (AP)—A recorded speech criticizing Walter Reuther and the United Auto Workers has been ruled unacceptable by Mutual Broadcasting System attorneys for broadcast tomorrow.

The speech was recorded several days ago by Herbert V. Kohler, president of the Kohler Co. of Kohler, Wis., for a program directed by Clarence E. Manion, former law dean of Notre Dame University.

It was prepared for airing on the Manion Forum of the Air, a weekly radio program of political and economic opinion sponsored by Manion and others active in business and politics.

The weekly program, Manion said, is broadcast by about 120 stations, approximately one half of them on the Mutual network.

Earlier this week, Mutual lawyers auditioned the Sunday program featuring Kohler's remarks and advised Manion it was "unacceptable to the network, principaly because there is serious danger, in our opinion, that various portions of the address—by Kohler—may be held defamatory and we are unable to assume outselves or subject our affiliated stations to the serious risks which we consider to be involved in its broadcast."

Voters To Decide On Intergration

PLEASANTON, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP)—Voters in the Pleasanton school district will decide next Saturday whether to integrate schools here.

It will be the first local option election held under a state law enacted by the 55th Legislature which requires a favorable vote of the people before any further integration can take place in Texas schools.

"We are doing this primarily to protect our accreditation," said school Supt. J. D. Klingeman.

"Our Negro facilities are inadequate and have been declared so by the Texas Education Agency.

"We feel voters will put accreditation standards above the other issues involved," he said.

Klingeman said the district has only 36 Negroes out of 1,476 students in its 5-school system.

Klingeman said schools would be integrated immediately if the proposal passes.

The state law provides that state aid can be cut off from districts which integrate without favorable vote.

Weather Good In Most Of Texas

By UNITED PRESS

Clear to partly cloudy skies across Texas gave the state a perfect football Saturday, with only a slight drizzle of rain in the Panhandle area to mar the day.

W. Monroe Boy Struck By Car

Treated at St. Francis hospital was Michael Creighton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Creighton, 3101 N. Seventh street.

Mrs. Creighton stated that the youngster ran into the street as a delivery wagon, owned by Poe's Super Market, 1001 Texas avenue, came around the corner. She stated that she screamed at the child. He halted in the road, and although the driver slammed on his brakes, the boy was hit, and rolled several feet before halting.

The identity of the Negro driver was not known and West Monroe police had not been requested to investigate the mishap by late last night.

GETS BRONZE AWARD

Parish Library Cat, Gardenia, Honored

Gardenia, the Ouachita parish library cat, has been awarded the Puss'n Boots Bronze Award - a national award for "cats whose commendable characteristics and achievements have been considered worthy of recognition."

The Committee on Selections for the award learned of Gardenia's exploits through a feature story which appeared in the Monroe Morning World on June 2.

A bronze medal, inscribed with the white cat's name and a citation were presented to Miss Frances Flanders, librarian by Miss Mary Anne Corpin, World reporter, who wrote the original feature. The Bronze Award committee, located in New York, City, recommended that she make the presentation.

The citation, a tribute to Gardenia, states: "Equally at home with Proust or Petronius is Gardenia, faithful guardian cat of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Her doorway is the book depository slot. . .her bed the microfilming machine. For years she has served the arts deligently by patrolling the silent stacks for rodents. So from all book-lovers, this cadenced award to Gardenia for outstanding custodianship."

Miss Frances plans to place the citation near the front door of the library, next to the John Cotton Dana Publicity Award and the Modisette Award.

The Dana award, given each year to one library in a county tween 25,000 and 100,000, was for an outstanding campaign to win a successful bond and tax collection in 1956.

The Modisette Award was received for making the most library progress in Louisiana during 1956.

"I'm going to place Gardenia's award below the others, where it can be read easily by children," Miss Flanders revealed. "Gardenia is very popular with both adults and youngsters who come to the library."

Woman And Son Hurt In Wreck

A Simmsboro Negro and her eight - year - old son, suffered broken legs last night when their car went out of control on a gravel road near Simmsboro and turned over several times.

Ocenia Crawford, 29, and her son, Henry Crawford, 8, were taken to the Ruston Clinic by Willie Price Gorce, a Grambling Negro, and then brought to Conway Memorial Hospital where their legs were set.

Also in the car, but uninjured, was John Allen Crawford, 9.

"After the car turned over I came to lying on the road, the car was off in a ditch facing in the direction that I was coming from," revealed the injured woman. Both the children were still in the car. The Crawfords were in good condition last night, according to hospital officials.

Former Bastrop Resident Killed In Car Accident

BASTROP (Special) — Robert Earl Wilson, 28, a former resident of Bastrop died in a Bisbee, Arizona hospital shortly after his pick-up truck ran off the road near Sierra Vista Arizona late Friday night, it was learned here yesterday.

Sheriff's department personnel said Wilson was driving at a normal rate of speed and they could not determine cause of accident at this time.

He was a former resident of Bastrop and Monroe. He had been living in Sierra Vista for the past two years where he was employed by a garage.

The body will be shipped to Bastrop to the Blackwell - Golden Funeral Home today or tomorrow. Funeral arrangements last night were incomplete.

LSU Board Seeks Levee Agency Land For College

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP) — Louisiana State University today gave the go-ahead to negotiations with the Orleans Levee Board for a portion of the New Orleans Naval Air Station as a site for a commuters college.

1. Referred to the athletic committee a protest by alumnus Carl E. Heck of Thibodaux on the board's policy of refusing to permit competition against Negroes either in or outside Louisiana. He claimed it would wreck the LSU athletic program.

2. Discussed but took no action on a proposal by New Orleans area legislators to place establishment of the New Orleans branch in the state constitution.

The Orleans Levee Board became news earlier this week when Gov. Earl Long fired four of its five members.

President Louis Roussel said his ouster came after he refused to turn over the site of the Naval Air Station, soon to move across the Mississippi River to Belle Chasse, for the LSU branch college.

75 Acre Limit

At a meeting of the new levee board yesterday, Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans urged only 75 acres be given LSU for the commuters college with the remaining 125 acres reserved or residential purposes which would produce an estimated $1,120,000 in city property taxes.

The board, now headed by attorney Claude Duke, agreed to study the proposal.

Tom Dutton, only New Orleans member of the LSU board, said the three-man commuters college committee he heads has not determined how much land would be required.

Other committee members are Theo Cangelosi and Louis Gottlieb, both of Baton Rouge.

"All we want is what we need to do the job," Dutton said. "We want to prepare for a large institution there to take care of the population in the area."

Previously, board estimates have indicated about 82 acres would be required.

College Authorized

The 1956 Legislature authorized the commuters college, designated LSU to establish it and appropriated some $600,000 for either capital outlay or operations through June 30, 1958.

Plans were slowed when a survey showed 7.5 million dollars would be required to build a suitable plant for the four-year college and an equal amount to operate it in the first four years.

President Troy Middleton said there was some chance the school could be operating by next fall, but first land must be obtained. He said he understood the Navy would not move out until about Jan. 1.

"The buildings will require considerable alteration and rehabilitation," he said. "Then we must assemble a faculty. This would be difficult under any circumstances and will be especially so unless we can sell the idea it will be a permanent institution."

One Year At A Time

Middleton said the four-year institution would open with a freshman class and be in full operation when the first class graduated.

Cangelosi, who acted as Long's intermediary with Roussel, said New Orleans area lawmakers want the college permanently tied with LSU in the constitution.

Member Tom Leigh of Monroe said the board should not advocate changes in the constitutional processes of state government. He suggested the committee discuss the matter informally with the legislators. The board approved the idea.

On the segregation issue, Middleton agreed with Heck, "there is some feeling we will have difficulty securing athletes because of our policy."

But the LSU president added, "I feel the issue is the Negro and not the place. We can't by hypocritical."

Heck cited sprinter John West, Memphis, Tenn., freshman last year who transferred this fall to the University of Kansas.

Not Displeased

Middleton said West was not displeased with LSU, but wanted a chance to compete in national track events. He is a fine prospect and probably will go to the top."

Under board policy, LSU athletes are barred from practically all national collegiate competition, since Negroes compete in most NCAA events.

Citing past national titles in track, golf and basketball, Heck said the board policy would force LSU into "second or third rate competition."

This was not necessary, he said, because the law "merely set into effect a procedure which has been carried out in Louisiana or many years of not permitting teams with Negroes to play here against whites."

Board members showed no signs of wanting to change the policy.

In referring it to the athletic committee, Gottlieb said:

"The committee should give the letter the importance they think it is entitled to receive. If they think the complaint is severe enough, they should reconsider the policy."

The board began preliminary planning for the LSU centennial observance in 1959-60 and approved appointment of the 13-member overall committee.

The board also:

1. Accepted the $894,455 bid of George A. Caldwell, Baton Rouge, for construction of new men's dormitory.

2. Accepted the $20,700 bid of Barksdale and LeBlanc, Baton Rouge, for construction of married students' apartments.

3. Approved a $43,000 outlay to renovate and repair the alumni house.

4. Accepted gifts and grants totaling $543,011.

AWARD FOR GARDENIA—Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, holds Gardenia, the library cat, as she accepts the Puss 'n Boots Bronze Award and Citation awarded to the little white animal. GETS BRONZE AWARD

Parish Library Cat, Gardenia, Honored

Gardenia, the Ouachita parish library cat, has been awarded the Puss'n Boots Bronze Award - a national award for "cats whose commendable characteristics and achievements have been considered worthy of recognition."

The Committee on Selections for the award learned of Gardenia's exploits through a feature story which appeared in the Monroe Morning World on June 2.

A bronze medal, inscribed with the white cat's name and a citation were presented to Miss Frances Flanders, librarian by Miss Mary Anne Corpin, World reporter, who wrote the original feature. The Bronze Award committee, located in New York, City, recommended that she make the presentation.

The citation, a tribute to Gardenia, states: "Equally at home with Proust or Petronius is Gardenia, faithful guardian cat of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Her doorway is the book depository slot. . .her bed the microfilming machine. For years she has served the arts deligently by patrolling the silent stacks for rodents. So from all book-lovers, this cadenced award to Gardenia for outstanding custodianship."

Miss Frances plans to place the citation near the front door of the library, next to the John Cotton Dana Publicity Award and the Modisette Award.

The Dana award, given each year to one library in a county tween 25,000 and 100,000, was for an outstanding campaign to win a successful bond and tax collection in 1956.

The Modisette Award was received for making the most library progress in Louisiana during 1948.

"I'm going to place Gardenia's award below the others, where it can be read easily by children," Miss Flanders revealed. "Gardenia is very popular with both adults and youngsters who come to the library."

Kohler Speech Rejected For U. S. Broadcast

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 19 (AP) —A recorded speech criticizing Walter Reuther and the United Auto Workers has been ruled unacceptable by Mutual Broadcasting System attorneys for broadcast tomorrow.

The speech was recorded several days ago by Herbert V. Kohler, president of the Kohler Co. of Kohler, Wis., for a program directed by Clarence E. Manion, former law dean of Notre Dame University.

It was prepared for airing on the Manion Forum of the Air, a weekly radio program of political and economic opinion sponsored by Manion and others active in business and politics.

The weekly program, Manion said, is broadcast by about 120 stations, approximately one half of them on the Mutual network.

Earlier this week, Mutual lawyers auditioned the Sunday program featuring Kohler's remarks and advised Manion it was "unacceptable to the network, principaly because there is serious danger, in our opinion, that various portions of the address—by Kohler—may be held defamatory and we are unable to assume outselves or subject our affiliated stations to the serious risks which we consider to be involved in its broadcast."

Voters To Decide On Intergration

PLEASANTON, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP) —Voters in the Pleasanton school district will decide next Saturday whether to integrate schools here.

It will be the first local option election held under a state law enacted by the 55th Legislature which requires a favorable vote of the people before any further integration can take place in Texas schools.

"We are doing this primarily to protect our accreditation," said school Supt. J. D. Klingeman.

"Our Negro facilities are inadequate and have been declared so by the Texas Education Agency.

"We feel voters will put accreditation standards above the other issues involved," he said.

Klingeman said the district has only 36 Negroes out of 1,476 students in its 5-school system.

Klingeman said schools would be integrated immediately if the proposal passes.

The state law provides that state aid can be cut off from districts which integrate without favorable vote.

Weather Good In Most Of Texas

By UNITED PRESS

Clear to partly cloudy skies across Texas gave the state a perfect football Saturday, with only a slight drizzle of rain in the Panhandle area to mar the day.

Temperatures ranged from maximums of a chilly 50 at Dalhart to a cool 86 at Presidio, with minimums from 44 at Lufkin to 65 at Brownsville. Only Amarillo with .08 of an inch, Dalhart with .05 of an inch and Lubbock with .11 of an inch reported any rainfall.

Forecasters called for partly cloudy to cloudy and cool weather over the state Sunday with occasional light rain in West Texas and the west portion of South Central Texas.

Woman And Son Hurt In Wreck

A Simmsboro Negro and her eight - year - old son, suffered broken legs last night when their car went out of control on a gravel road near Simmsboro and turned over several times.

Ocenia Crawford, 39, and her son, Henry Crawford, 8, were taken to the Ruston Clinic by Willie Price Goree, a Grambling Negro, and then brought to Conway Memorial Hospital where their legs were set.

Also in the car, but uninjured, was John Allen Crawford, 9.

"After the car turned over I came to lying on the road, the car was off in a ditch facing in the direction that I was coming from." revealed the injured woman. Both the children were still in the car. The Crawfords were in good condition last night, according to hospital officials.

Fire Destroys Residence Of Aged Couple

Roaring flames completely destroyed the small wooden home of an elderly Negro couple yesterday morning. Later, a hot-plate on fire on DeSiard street caused a down-town commotion, as fire trucks raced to the scene.

Losing all their possessions in the first blaze were Nathan Johnson, 73, and his wife. The house, located on Nutland lane, a dirt road near Milhaven road, had collapsed to the ground when firemen arrived.

Johnson had no phone, and the person who turned in the alarm was unknown. Engine companies 102 and 111 responded at 9:13 a.m., and returned to their stations by 10:44 a.m.

One fireman at Station Two said that he could see the spiral of smoke from the blaze as the engine left the station, headed for Nutland lane. The dwelling had burned for a long period of time before firemen were notified. It was owned by Charlie Williams, Negro.

Engine companies 101, 110 and ladder 1 went to 421 DeSiard street at 1:01 p.m., when a hot-plate used to heat material used in making eye - glass frames, caught the material on fire.

Former Bastrop Resident Killed In Car Accident

BASTROP (Special) — Robert Earl Wilson, 28, a former resident of Bastrop died in a Bisbee, Arizona hospital shortly after his pick-up truck ran off the road near Sierra Vista, Arizona late Friday night, it was learned here yesterday.

Sheriff's department personnel said Wilson was driving at a normal rate of speed and they could not determine cause of accident at this time.

He was a former resident of Bastrop and Monroe. He had been living in Sierra Vista for the past two years where he was employed by a garage.

The body will be shipped to Bastrop to the Blackwell - Golden Funeral Home today or tomorrow. Funeral arrangements last night were incomplete.

Labor Unions' Membership At 18.5 Million

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Labor Department reported today its latest survey shows a total labor union membership of about 18½ million.

The department said the membership claims of U.S. unions as of the beginning of 195s added up to that figure. It is some 500,000 greater than the total in the department's last survey at the beginning of 1955.

More than one million of the 18½ million members of American unions were outside the United States, primarily in Canada. The survey showed about 16,900,000 of the members in unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO, which has been claiming only 15 million members.

The Labor Department said about one-fourth of the nation's total labor force, and about one-third of employes in nonfarm employment, belong to unions. It said these ratios have remained about the same since the end of World War II.

'IT'S DIFFERENT'

Northeast Yearbook Is Hit On Campus

It's quite different! That impression seemed to sweep the Northeast State campus as students viewed the 1957 Chacahoula, college yearbook, soon after its arrival from the publishers.

The new look, enhanced by the use of three colors, marks the current edition, which was delivered this week according to the publication's fall distribution plan which has been used for several years.

Largest yearbook in the college's history. The Chacahoula is bound in white and decorated with long, slender strips of yellow, blue, and green, colors which are noted in various pages of the book. Jet black lines, blocks, and panels add to the effectiveness of the layout.

"Keys to a New Golden Age" gives the keynote of the introductory pages which indicate accomplishments and growth of the various departments and student achievements.

Rich Color

Continuity of the rich black is accented in the feature section devoted to beauties, personalities, and Who's Who students from departments.

The sports section came in for a big share of color, large areas of gold which matched the shade in smaller units seen in other parts of the edition. This section carried still and action photographs of football, basketball baseball, track, and intramurals.

Other Beauties

Joe Monroe designed the publication.

FIRST VIEW—It's the new edition of the Northeast State yearbook, The Chacahoula, which captures attention of this student trio in the excitement which hit the campus with the fall delivery of the publication. ernment about Egyptian press reports that Turkey was massing troops on the Syrian frontier.

There were other reports that King Saud of Saudi Arabia was acting as behind-the-scenes mediator. He was reported to have been in contact with Turkish President Celal Bayar and to have received assurances that Turkey plans no attack on Syria.

WASHINGTON Oct. 19 (UP)—Two major world problems—how to overcome Russian successes in the diplomatic and scientific fields—will confront President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan when they confer here next week.

Other issues of equal importance, officials said today, are the Syrian-Turkish war threat and Russia's blustering moves in the tension-ridden Middle East.

The conference, starting Wednesday, was set up so the President and Macmillan can review face-to-face the ominous trend of world events and the implication of Russia's ballistic missiles and space satellite programs.

Seek Teamwork

At the outset the two leaders are exected to try and re-establish the Ang'o-American scientific teamwork which helped lead them to victory in World War II. Officials concede there has been a dangerous lapse in these relations.

The President and MacMillan last met at the Bermuda conference last March where they repaired strained diplomatic ties.

Officials said the two will range over a whole series of urgent matters but that emphasis will be on the rebuilding of scientific and technical cooperation and the turbulent Middle East.

Eisenhower has made it clear that he wants tighter scientific teamwork. On Thursday he called for the pooling of scientific talent and resources of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) countries.

London reports said that Macmillan, for one thing, would urge resumption of wartime atomic cooperation. This came to halt when the United States, fearful of British security safeguards, passed the atomic energy act of 1946 barring disclosure of atomic secrets to foreign nations.

tion earlier this week of Communist East Germany.

The recognition was in line with Russia's policy of building up the Red German regime and trying to compel direct negotiations between it and the West German government.

The United States together with Britain and France in effect supported Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany by expressing the sympathetic understanding of his move.

The American action in itself was secondary but by far the most important consequence of the Yugoslav - German dispute may be its impact on Yugoslavia's relations with the United States.

The situation has reached a critical point in the view of officials here for two reasons:

First, the increasing evidence that Tito, once reviled and condemned by Moscow, was becoming constantly more friendly with the Khrushchev regime.

Second, the fact that Congress has put increasingly heavy pressure on the State Department to prove that its Tito aid policy is justifiable by showing that Tito remains friendly and dependable so far as the west is concerned.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) called today for an end to all aid for Yugoslavia, calling such aid "a travesty on sound diplomacy and a waste of the taxpayer's money."

Bridges, top Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the United States has given Tito nearly 1½ billion dollars worth of military and economic aid.

TREATED

James Davis, 38, of 212 Adams street, Monroe, was treated at Conway Memorial hospital late last night for a laceration near the left eyebrow. Ouachita Parish Deputy Sheriffs investigated the incident. Davis stated that he had been hit by a blackjack in a West Monroe bar.

This is just what Johnny proceeded to do and an instant later she cried out, still oblivious of all else: "Johnny run with that ball and make a touchdown!" This is exactly what Johnny was doing.

Sid

Friend Sid was seated in a big room near a snack bar. In came a customer and said: "I'll have raw oysters, not too large or too small, not too salty, not too flat. They must be cold and I want them quickly."

And said the waitress: "Yes sir. With or without Mother of Pearls?"

Unusual

"Buck" Grandstaff on a periodic visit from Georgetown to Monroe yesterday waxed eloquent to a friend in the lobby of a downtown hotel.

"Yes sir, I have got a quite unusual daughter. Jimmy Elizabeth Grandstaff, who is close to the entering age of the first grade at school. But one thing she is insistent about. She wants to escape the first grade and enter grade two.

When Grandstaff was asked to explain the reason he said: "My daughter says if she is in grade one, she will have to be vaccinated, so if she gets in grade two she will escape having her arm scratched!"

New

Ouachita Parish Grammar school is proud of a new organization, the "Cubettes." It is for those in grades, five, six, and seven, and for girls with high scholastic averages. This group is for an honorary service project. During football season they do cheerleading. Friday they made quite an interesting addition to the parade in downtown Monroe.

White skirts and red tops is the uniform worn. Martha Peters is the head cheer leader. The group starts off with 37 members.

Hudson Leaves Home For Hotel

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19 (UP)—Rock Hudson has left his home and is living at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

The screen actor wouldn't say today whether the separation from his wife, the former Phyllis Gates, meant a divorce was planned. Mrs. Hudson also had no statement.

Woman, 44, Booked In Death Here

Zola Potter, 44, Negro of 3609 Pippin street, admitted the stabbing which resulted in the death of Willie Jackson, Monroe Negro, late Friday night, and was booked for murder yesterday by city police. She was later transferred to the parish jail.

The Potter woman maintained that she and Jackson, 29, argued over money in the Owl Street Bar.

She attacked him with a pocket knife, cutting him in the center section of the chest, according to Monroe police. Dr. J. T. French, coroner, gave a verdict of death by homicide, resulting from a massive thoracic hemmorhage, caused by the stab wound.

Others Wounded

Three other Negro men received minor stab wounds, when they went to Jackson's rescue and attempted to pull the woman away from him, police said.

Treated at Conway Memorial hospital and released were Ransom Howard of the Booker T. addition, Jim Hillman, 47, of 4112 Gayton, cut in the upper right chest, and Mose Scoby, 21, also of the Booker T. addition, who was stabbed in the upper center of the chest.

Principals Of District Slate Meet

School principals of the 3rd District Tuesday will meet at Northeast State for an annual election of officers and a program emphasizing a panel on discipline.

The conference is scheduled to open at 9 a.m. in the Administration Building, where coffee will be served until business starts at 9:30 in the faculty lounge on the second floor.

E. G. Brown, principal of the Rayville Elementary School, is president of the organization.

The session will end with a noon luncheon at a local restaurant, Brown announced.

Several school personnel will participate in the panel discussion which will follow questions on discipline. Some of these are: Should our ideas on discipline be overhauled? Do we want self directed or outwardly imposed discipline? What are some specific techniques found useful in maintaining good discipline?

Chairman Named

Joseph Davis, Swartz Elementary School principal, will serve as chairman of the group who participate in the discussion.

Panelists will include: L. L. Kilgore, Lake Providence High School principal; Charles Tillman, director of elementary student teaching at Northeast State; Mrs. Sara Kennon, child welfare supervisor of Ouachita Parish Department, Public Welfare; and Rev. John M. Allin, Grace Episcopal Church rector.

Special music will be presented by the Northeast choir, directed by Lee Fiser, of the Fine Arts Department.

P. M. Mangum, West Monroe High School principal, will give the invocation.

Racket Probers Turn Sights On Employer Group

ings. He said some witnesses from Texas also are among more than 50 subpoenaed to testify.

Not Cooperative

McClellan's statement said "many" officials of the companies involved "have been less than cooperative or fully responsive with their answers" when staff investigators quizzed them. Kennedy said some of them have sent word they will invoke the Fifth Amendment and refuse to answer some questions as witnesses, lest answers tend to incriminate them.

Kennedy said the charges under scrutiny are that employers "were the major offenders," in seeking out means to fulfill antilabor union aims prohibited by federal law. He said the evidence is that some companies sought at best from their viewpoint to keep employes from forming unions, and at worst to get a sweetheart contract that would provide substandard wages and other benefits.

Refusing to identify any unions or companies which might be involved, Kentucky said a typical case would work like this:

A company, learning its employes were about to form a union and demand a collective bargaining contract, would hire Shefferman. Suddenly a "spontaneous antiunion employes committee" would be set up in the plant, and a spy would appear on the scene to conduct a phony survey of employes' insurance needs, while appraising how each worker stood on the subject of a union.

"The company," Kennedy said, "then would fire those who seemed pro union, leaders of the 'spontaneous' committee would be entertained, given pay raises and promotions. And a plant election probably would go against the union."

But if that didn't work, he said, a rival union would appear on the scene, and before they knew what was happening the workers would find this union had been recognized as their bargaining agent, and it would sign a sweetheart contract.

Wyatt Saved In Atlantic Crash

more gas than he had planned on.

Ice on the wings just after dawn caused the plane to start losing altitude. He tried to contact the Santiago de Composela Airport in Spain but couldn't. Later, he sighted a freighter but was unable to contact it on his radio, either.

"I had just about given up hope when I saw the fishing boat," he said.

He flashed a signal with his mirror and the fishing craft—Virgen del Buen Consejo—Virgin of Good Advice—answered. Then, with a sputtering engine, he brought the plane down as close as he could to the boat.

Broke Windows

After the plane hit the water, Wyatt smashed the windows in the cabin, climbed out and waited 15 minutes for the fishermen. The Virgen del Buen Consejo docked with Wyatt and his crippled plane at noon.

In Galveston, Wyatt's employer, Hal Rachel, said he talked with the pilot by telephone and was told the plane's engine quit just before he ditched. Rachel called it a dead stick landing.

Rachel said Wyatt suffered minor bruises and the plane apparently only minor damage.

Wyatt will decide Monday whether the plane can be flown, Rachel said, and if so he will take it to Paris and fly it back to Galveston.

Wyatt took off from Galveston at 9:25 a.m. Thursday and had hoped to reach Rome in about 40 hours. He had fuel for 44 hours.

Wyatt estimated he had flown about 5,000 miles in 37 hours before landing at 1:20 a.m.—Greenwich Time.

Gives Account

Rachel said Wyatt gave him this account:

Wyatt's plane was under guard by customs officers and he couldn't get to it to check his charts. He estimated he flew 2,600 miles at 7,000 feet over the ocean which he didn't see because of clouds.

He made a perfect ditch landing but was too busy to put out a radio distress call. A wing strut on the plane was broken in landing.

Rachel quoted Wyatt as saying, "I believe I could have made it to Rome but it would have been close."

"He was congratulated but asked, 'For what, falling in the ocean?'" and was quite disappointed," Rachel said.

Wyatt is staying with a retired U.S. Army major, Antonio Couto.

J. W. Lane of the Galveston Progress Committee said Wyatt would be given the $1,000 he had been promised to fly to Rome.

William M. Minar, who installed a clocking device in the plane when Wyatt made his first attempt earlier this month, said Wyatt would have had to land only at Rome to break Odom's record officially.

The Texas bachelor was turned back on Oct. 4 by bad weather after reaching Charlottetown, P.E.I., just south of Newfoundland.

Michigan State And Minnesota Crumble

Texas moved into the title picture by shutting out Arkansas, a club that had high hopes of beating out Texas A&M for the title. The score was 17-0.

The Aggies, for their part, kept their streak going, but it was a close 7-0 verdict over Texas Christian that turned the trick.

Princeton, the power of the Ivy League, dropped a 12-10 decision to Colgate in a non-league game. But Dartmouth's smoothly executed 14-7 triumph over Holy Cross in another non-league encounter pushed the Hanover Indians into the favorite's post in the loop. Holy Cross was considered one of the East's better clubs.

Oklahoma, displaced as the top team in the country by Michigan State last week, took steps to return to the throne by crushing Kansas, 47-0, in a Big Eight game. It marked the Sooners' 44th straight victory and 61st game in Big Eight competition without a defeat.

Army took a big step toward the mythical eastern championship by turning back Pitt, 7-13 at West Point. Navy licked Georgia, 27-14, in Norfolk's Oyster Bowl. The two results could mean that the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia—the season finale for both teams—will be for the title.

Maryland picked an opportune moment to explode another upset. The Terps, who had been going nowhere under Tommy Mont the past two seasons, crushed North Carolina, 21-7, before Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, who appeared to enjoy the proceedings. It was a sweet victory, indeed, for Mont, who succeeded Jim Tatum—now coaching North Carolina—last year.

Negro Jailed For Assaulting White Woman

held it on Sandlin and started to call police. He came toward her. She pulled the trigger three times. The first two bullet chambers were empty. The third time the gun fired, but the bullet missed Sandlin. He wrested the gun from her and returned to the chair, trying to open the weapon, she said.

Husband Called

The woman's husband telephoned from his duty post on the air base. He said he was coming home to change clothes. She told Sandlin her husband would be home in 10 minutes. Sandlin locked the door and sat down again.

Sandlin said he wanted to go back to the hospital, then that he didn't. He changed his mind several times. The woman began dressing her baby for the trip.

Sandlin asked the woman again how to open the gun. She showed him how to eject the bullets. He grabbed her and assaulted her again.

Sandlin repeated his request to return to the hospital. This time, the woman took her baby and Sandlin and drove him to the base gate. She had to promise the airman she would tell authorities he came to her home sick and she brought him back.

She said Sandlin kept repeating:

"I'm sorry, lady, I'm sorry."

The woman had to be placed under sedatives. Authorities were unable to question her until yesterday morning.

The district attorney said he was not given Sandlin's exact age nor his hometown. Air Force authorities said Sandlin was treated a week ear ier for nervousness and headache and he seemed confused after regaining consciousness from the coma. He was awaiting sentence on conviction by a court martial of the unauthorized use of government property.

Sandlin said he did not remember either rape nor the woman's firing at him, but he did remember going to the woman's door and asking help.

Driving Student Faces 3 Charges

Charged with reckless driving, no driver's license, damage to city property - that's the sad story which Maggie Greer, 32, Negro of 305 N. Congo had to tell last night, after she was released on $200 bond from the city jail.

Maggie was learning to drive, with her husband, Cannon Greer, as instructor. She lost control of the car at the corner of Congo and Breard, and slammed into a fire hydrant, damaging both the hydrant and the front and side of Greer's car, police said.

NAACP Leader Charges Pupils Are Threatened

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UP)—Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said toight that white students in Little Rock's Central High School "fixed a hangman's noose" Friday and "handed it to one of the (colored) boys."

She reported the incident in a talk to a workshop of the American Council on Human Rights.

"In a short while," she said, it will be possible to withdraw federal troops guarding the school, where nine Negro students have been admitted.

She replied "I don't think it's time yet."

She declined to speculate what might happen at the school Monday if the troops were pulled out this weekend.

'IT'S DIFFERENT'

Northeast Yearbook Is Hit On Campus

It's quite different! That impression seemed to sweep the Northeast State campus as students viewed the 1957 Chacahoula, college yearbook, soon after its arrival from the publishers.

The new look, enhanced by the use of three colors, marks the current edition, which was delivered this week according to the publication's fall distribution plan which has been used for several years.

Largest yearbook in the college's history. The Chacahoula is bound in white and decorated with long, slender strips of yellow, blue, and green, colors which are noted in various pages of the book. Jet black lines, blocks, and panels add to the effectiveness of the layout.

"Keys to a New Golden Age" gives the keynote of the intruductory pages which indicate accomplishments and growth of the various departments and student achievements.

Rich Color

Continuity of the rich black is accented in the feature section devoted to beauties, personalities, and Who's Who students from departments.

The sports section came in for a big share of color, large areas of gold which matched the shade in smaller units seen in other parts of the edition. This section carried still and action photographs of football, basketball baseball, track, and intramurals.

Other Beauties

Joe Monroe designed the publication.

Michigan State And Minnesota Crumble

Texas moved into the title picture by shutting out Arkansas, a club that had high hopes of beating out Texas A&M for the title. The score was 17-0.

The Aggies, for their part, kept their streak going, but it was a close 7-0 verdict over Texas Christian that turned the trick.

Princeton, the power of the Ivy League, dropped a 12-10 decision to Colgate in a non-league game. But Dartmouth's smoothly executed 14-7 triumph over Holy Cross in another non-league encounter pushed the Hanover Indians into the favorite's post in the loop. Holy Cross was considered one of the East's better clubs.

Oklahoma, displaced as the top team in the country by Michigan State last week, took steps to return to the throne by crushing Kansas, 47-0, in a Big Eight game. It marked the Sooners' 44th straight victory and 61st game in Big Eight competition without a defeat.

Army took a big step toward the mythical eastern championship by turning back Pitt, 7-13 at West Point. Navy licked Georgia, 27-14, in Norfolk's Oyster Bowl. The two results could mean that the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia—the season finale for both teams—will be for the title.

Maryland picked an opportune moment to explode another upset. The Terps, who had been going nowhere under Tommy Mont the past two seasons, crushed North Carolina, 21-7, before Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, who appeared to enjoy the proceedings. It was a sweet victory, indeed, for Mont, who succeeded Jim Tatum—now coaching North Carolina—last year.

ernment about Egyptian press reports that Turkey was massing troops on the Syrian frontier.

There were other reports that King Saud of Saudi Arabia was acting as behind-the-scenes mediator. He was reported to have been in contact with Turkish President Celal Bayar and to have received assurances that Turkey plans no attack on Syria.

WASHINGTON Oct. 19 (UP)—Two major world problems—how to overcome Russian successes in the diplomatic and scientific fields—will confront President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan when they confer here next week.

Other issues of equal importance, officials said today, are the Syrian-Turkish war threat and Russia's blustering moves in the tension-ridden Middle East.

The conference, starting Wednesday, was set up so the President and Macmillan can review face-to-face the ominous trend of world events and the implication of Russia's ballistic missiles and space satellite programs.

Seek Teamwork

At the outset the two leaders are exected to try and re-establish the Ang'o-American scientific teamwork which helped lead them to victory in World War II. Officials concede there has been a dangerous lapse in these relations.

Officials said the two will range over a whole series of urgent matters but that emphasis will be on the rebuilding of scientific and technical cooperation and the turbulent Midd'e East.

Eisenhower has made it clear that he wants tighter scientific teamwork. On Thursday he called for the pooling of scientific talent and resources of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) countries.

London reports said that Macmillan, for one thing, would urge resumption of wartime atomic cooperation. This came to halt when the United States, fearful of British security safeguards, passed the atomic energy act of 1946 barring disclosure of atomic secrets to foreign nations.

tion earlier this week of Communist East Germany.

The recognition was in line with Russia's policy of building up the Red German regime and trying to compel direct negotiations between it and the West German government.

The United States together with Britain and France in effect supported Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany by expressing the sympathetic understanding of his move.

The American action in itself was secondary but by far the most important consequence of the Yugoslav - German dispute may be its impact on Yugoslavia's relations with the United States.

The situation has reached a critical point in the view of officials here for two reasons:

First, the increasing evidence that Tito, once reviled and condemned by Moscow, was becoming constantly more friendly with the Khrushchev regime.

Second, the fact that Congress has put increasingly heavy pressure on the State Department to prove that its Tito aid policy is justifiable by showing that Tito remains friendly and dependable so far as the west is concerned.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) called today for an end to all aid for Yugoslavia, calling such aid "a travesty on sound diplomacy and a waste of the taxpayer's money."

Bridges, top Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the United States has given Tito nearly 1½ billion dollars worth of military and economic aid.

TREATED

see him play the past week. She got wildly enthusiastic and unmindful of all in the grandstand when she saw opportunity, rose on her feet and screamed "Johnny, Johnny catch that ball"! This is just what Johnny proceeded to do and an instant later she cried out, still oblivious of all else: "Johnny run with that ball and make a touchdown!" This is exactly what Johnny was doing.

Sid

Friend Sid was seated in a big room near a snack bar. In came a customer and said: "I'll have raw oysters, not too large or too small, not too salty, not too flat. They must be cold and I want them quickly."

And said the waitress: "Yes sir. With or without Mother of Pearls?"

Unusual

"Yes sir, I have got a quite unusual daughter, Jimmy Elizabeth Grandstaff, who is close to the entering age of the first grade at school. But one thing she is insistent about. She wants to escape the first grade and enter grade two.

When Grandstaff was asked to explain the reason he said: "My daughter says if she is in grade one, she will have to be vaccinated, so if she gets in grade two she will escape having her arm scratched!"

New

Ouachita Parish Grammar school is proud of a new organization, the "Cubettes." It is for those in grades, five, six, and seven, and for girls with high scholastic averages. This group is for an honorary service project. During football season they do cheerleading. Friday they made quite an interesting addition to the parade in downtown Monroe.

White skirts and red tops is the uniform worn. Martha Peters is the head cheer leader. The group starts off with 37 members.

Hudson Leaves Home For Hotel

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19 (AP)—Rock Hudson has left his home and is living at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

The screen actor wouldn't say today whether the separation from his wife, the former Phyllis Gates, meant a divorce was planned. Mrs. Hudson also had no statement.

Woman, 44, Booked In Death Here

Zola Potter, 44, Negro of 3609 Pippin street, admitted the stabbing which resulted in the death of Willie Jackson, Monroe Negro, late Friday night, and was booked for murder yesterday by city police. She was later transferred to the parish jail.

The Potter woman maintained that she and Jackson, 29, argued over money in the Owl Street Bar.

She attacked him with a pocket knife, cutting him in the center section of the chest, according to Monroe police. Dr. J. T. French, coroner, gave a verdict of death by homicide, resulting from a massive thoracic hemmorhage, caused by the stab wound.

Others Wounded

Three other Negro men received minor stab wounds, when they went to Jackson's rescue and attempted to pull the woman away from him, police said.

Treated at Conway Memorial hospital and released were Ransom Howard of the Booker T. addition, Jim Hillman, 47, of 4112 Gayton, cut in the upper right chest, and Mose Scoby, 21, also of the Booker T. addition, who was stabbed in the upper center of the chest.

ings. He said some witnesses from Texas also are among more than 50 subpoenaed to testify.

Not Cooperative

McClellan's statement said "many" officials of the companies involved "have been less than cooperative or fully responsive with their answers" when staff investigators quizzed them. Kennedy said some of them have sent word they will invoke the Fifth Amendment and refuse to answer some questions as witnesses, lest answers tend to incriminate them.

Kennedy said the charges under scrutiny are that employers "were the major offenders," in seeking out means to fulfill antilabor union aims prohibited by federal law. He said the evidence is that some companies sought at best from their viewpoint to keep employes from forming unions, and at worst to get a sweetheart contract that would provide substandard wages and other benefits.

Refusing to identify any unions or companies which might be involved, Kentucky said a typical case would work like this:

A company, learning its employes were about to form a union and demand a collective bargaining contract, would hire Shefferman. Suddenly a "spontaneous antiunion employes committee" would be set up in the plant, and a spy would appear on the scene to conduct a phony survey of employes' insurance needs, while appraising how each worker stood on the subject of a union.

"The company," Kennedy said, "then would fire those who seemed pro union, leaders of the 'spontaneous' committee would be entertained, given pay raises and promotions. And a plant election probably would go against the union."

But if that didn't work, he said, a rival union would appear on the scene, and before they knew what was happening the workers would find this union had been recognized as their bargaining agent, and it would sign a sweetheart contract.

Principals Of District Slate Meet

School principals of the 3rd District Tuesday will meet at Northeast State for an annual election of officers and a program emphasizing a panel on discipline.

The conference is scheduled to open at 9 a.m. in the Administration Building, where coffee will be served until business starts at 9:30 in the faculty lounge on the second floor.

E. G. Brown, principal of the Rayville Elementary School, is president of the organization.

The session will end with a noon luncheon at a local restaurant, Brown announced.

Several school personnel will participate in the panel discussion which will follow questions on discipline. Some of these are: Should our ideas on discipline be overhauled? Do we want self directed or outwardly imposed discipline? What are some specific techniques found useful in maintaining good discipline?

Chairman Named

Joseph Davis, Swartz Elementary School principal, will serve as chairman of the group who participate in the discussion.

Panelists will include: L. L. Kilgore, Lake Providence High School principal; Charles Tillman, director of elementary student teaching at Northeast State; Mrs. Sara Kennon, child welfare supervisor of Ouachita Parish Department, Public Welfare; and Rev. John M. Allin, Grace Episcopal Church rector.

Special music will be presented by the Northeast choir, directed by Lee Fiser, of the Fine Arts Department.

P. M. Mangum, West Monroe High School principal, will give the invocation.

more gas than he had planned on.

Ice on the wings just after dawn caused the plane to start losing altitude. He tried to contact the Santiago de Composela Airport in Spain but couldn't. Later, he sighted a freighter but was unable to contact it on his radio, either.

"I had just about given up hope when I saw the fishing boat," he said.

He flashed a signal with his mirror and the fishing craft—Virgen del Buen Consejo—Virgin of Good Advice—answered. Then, with a sputtering engine, he brought the plane down as close as he could to the boat.

Broke Windows

After the plane hit the water, Wyatt smashed the windows in the cabin, climbed out and waited 15 minutes for the fishermen. The Virgen del Buen Consejo docked with Wyatt and his crippled plane at noon.

In Galveston, Wyatt's employer, Hal Rachel, said he talked with the pilot by telephone and was told the plane's engine quit just before he ditched. Rachel called it a dead stick landing.

Rachel said Wyatt suffered minor bruises and the plane apparently only minor damage.

Wyatt will decide Monday whether the plane can be flown, Rachel said, and if so he will take it to Paris and fly it back to Galveston.

Wytt took off from Galveston at 9:25 a.m. Thursday and had hoped to reach Rome in about 40 hours. He had fuel for 44 hours.

Wyatt estimated he had flown about 5,000 miles in 37 hours before landing at 1: 20 a.m.—Greenwich Time.

Gives Account

Rachel said Wyatt gave him this account:

Wyatt's plane was under guard by customs officers and he couldn't get to it to check his charts. He estimated he flew 2,600 miles at 7,000 feet over the ocean which he didn't see because of clouds.

He made a perfect ditch landing but was too busy to put out a radio distress call. A wing strut on the plane was broken in landing.

Rachel quoted Wyatt as saying, "'I believe I could have made it to Rome but it would have been close.'"

"He was congratulated but asked, 'For what, falling in the ocean?'" and was quite disappointed," Rachel said.

Wyatt is staying with a retired U.S. Army major, Antonio Couto.

J. W. Lane of the Galveston Progress Committee said Wyatt would be given the $1,000 he had been promised to fly to Rome.

William M. Minar, who installed a clocking device in the plane when Wyatt made his first attempt earlier this month, said Wyatt would have had to land only at Rome to break Odom's record officially.

The Texas bachelor was turned back on Oct. 4 by bad weather after reaching Charlottetown, P.E.I., just south of Newfoundland.

SAYS UNION HEAD

Sputnik To Solve Employment Woes

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19 (UP) — United Steelworkers President David J. McDonld said today the Russian Sputnik will solve this country's "spreading" unemployment problem, "because we have an awful lot of scared cookies in Washington."

Addressing a conference of USW District 15, McDonald said industry and science must produce now or let the Russians steal the whole show.

"If that's the way to keep pace, then let's build space platforms and shoot rockets at the moon," he told the cheering delegates.

He said recent talks with industrialists both here and in Washington have convinced him that big business feels the same way.

"I think the feeling that we are in a production spiral is past. If we must increase production to keep pace, let's do it and give more people jobs," he said.

Turning to internal affairs of the giant union, he admitted "we are far from invincible. . . we are extremely vulnerable in many ways and it's time we stop our internal squabbling and work for the people we union officials represent."

The USW president said many of the union's weaknesses are due to laxity of political action.

"At times we are derelict in political action," he said. "Therefore, I soon will propose to the international executive board that we mobilize union members to run for state legislatures."

Daniel Appoints Appeal Judge

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (UP) — Gov. Price Daniel today appointed Elco Walker, Abilene attorney and former Baylor classmate of the governor's, as an associate justice of the Eleventh court of Civil Appeals at Eastland.

He succeeds the late Judge Milburn S. Long.

Walker, a partner in the Abilene law firm of McMahon, Smart, Walker, Sprain and Wilson, served as 70th district attorney at Abilene before entering private practice in 1950.

He was elected to three terms as county attorney of Taylor county from 1934-40, and was elected to one term as justice of the peace after graduating from Baylor law school in 1932.

2 Teenagers Injured In Auto Crash

Two Monroe teenagers received minor injuries, and the car in which they were riding was a total loss, after it was hit by a truck at the intersection of Winnsboro road and Berg Jones Lane at 4:15 yesterday afternoon. The car landed in a 10-foot deep ditch.

O. Frank Shipley, 16, of 1612 Vaucluse street, driver of a 1950 Studebaker, suffered abrasions to the left knee, and a passenger, Sue Price, 16, 1602 S. Second, had bruises of the left arm, right leg, and forehead.

The mishap occurred when a truck driven north on Berg Jones lane by Charlie Dobins, 59, Negro of Route 1, Winnsboro, slowed at the intersection, then entered the Winnsboro Road and smashed into the right front of the other vehicle, which was going west.

The collision spun the car around, and it swerved into a ditch. The frame and axel were bent, and the left front fender was torn back. The right front of the bright red truck was crushed, and the radiator was broken.

Assault Case Suspect Freed On Bond Here

A Negro woman was out on bond yesterday, after she was charged with aggravated battery in the shooting of another Negro at 9:30 p.m. Friday.

Released was Trudy Statum, owner of Jack's Bar and Cafe, Parker street, West Monroe. Victim of the shooting was identified as Gilbert Myles, Negro, of 1112 N. Seventh street, West Monroe. The gun was a .38 revolver, police said. Myles was treated at St. Francis Hospital for gunshot wounds to the left wrist and thigh and a splinter fracture of the left wrist.

He told Ouachita parish sheriff's officials that the shooting occurred after he and the Statum woman argued over a shortage in the cash register. He said that she grabbed the revolver, they struggled, and he was wounded. She told a conflicting story.

Stabbing Victim Out Of Hospital; Suspect Jailed

The suspect, Dartho Sills, 47, Negro of 605 Adams street, was arrested at his home late Friday night, after the stabbing occurred at 2407 DeSiard street.

Sills was charged with aggravated battery with dangerous weapons, and was released on $500 bond.

Ike Plays Golf

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — President Eisenhower played golf at Burning Tree club in nearby Maryland today while his royal guest, Queen Elizabeth II, went to a football game.

The President left the White House in a chilly wind 15 minutes before Elizabeth departed for the game between the universities of Maryland and North Carolina at College Park, Md.

OVER $50 MILLION

U.S. Funds Pour Into Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. Oct. 19 (AP)—Federal funds pour into Mississippi at the rate of 50 million dollars a year in known grants and untold millions of dollars in individual or other grants.

The State Tax Commission said today it has been unable to ascertain the entire amount of federal money coming into Mississippi because apparently no overall record of such money is kept. The commission did determine some of the amounts received during the 1955-56 financial year.

Bulk of the known federal aid funds — some 5 million dollars a year — goes to the State Welfare Department. Most of that amount — 19 million dollars — is for old age pensions.

The state matches the federal old age pension money on a 1-to-4 basis, one state dollar for every four federal dollars, up to $30 month at age 65.

Matches Dollars

Above $50, the state matches the federal money dollar for dollar.

Among the undetermined amounts of federal money coming into Mississippi are those going to veterans as pensions, agricultural grants such as soil bank, special disaster relief funds, hospital and airport building funds and federal salaries.

Another heavy recipient of federal money is the Highway Department which receives some 12 million dollars a year for construction and maintenance of federal highways.

Now that the federal interstate highway system is in operation, that figure has been boosted considerably.

Civil defense operates mostly on federal funds. Last year, the federal government sent Mississippi $157,000 in matching funds alone.

Though the 1956 Legislature declined to appropriate state funds for civil defense, the state provides office space and equipment for the operation.

Dependent Children

Aid to dependent children in Mississippi includes 3¼ million dollars in federal funds, the third largest amount of federal aid to the state.

Next comes the school lunch program which uses nearly three million dollars a year to help guarantee underprivileged children a hot meal at noon.

The Employment Security Commission, which helps find jobs for Mississippians, receives 2¼ million dollars.

Agricultural Extension Service, 1¾ million; vocational education, 1½ million; public health, 1½ million; Commission on Hospital Care, one million; and aid to the blind, one million.

Other recipients of federal money are:

Mississippi State College, $42,000; Alcorn A&M (Negro) College, $19,000; forest protection, $750,000; child care, $154,000; vocational aid to the blind $174,000; other public welfare, $900,000; research and marketing, $25,000; flood control, $67,000; and the State Game and Fish Commission, $222,000.

Negro Woman Convicted On Murder Charge

GORESBECK, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—Varona Thomas, a Mexican Negro woman, was found guilty of murder today in connection with the death of a Negro school principal and sentenced to 50 years in prison.

An all-white jury of nine men and three women deliberated four hours before finding the Thomas woman guilty for her part in the death of Hayes Cotton, 48-year-old principal of Kate Long school in Springfield, Tex.

Tom Cobb, a former convict, is also accused in connection with Cotton's death and is in jail here awaiting trial.

Cotton disappeared the night of May 29. Several days later, Cobb was spotted driving Cotton's car. Cobb said that the Thomas woman planned to rob Cotton and afterwards insited on shooting him.

Cobb said the three had been drinking together in town and they enticed Cotton into going to the country with them, where the crime took place. Cobb testified that he drove the couple's truck and the defendant drove Cotton's car. Defense attorneys tried to break Cobb's story by trying to prove that their client could not drive.

Texan Winging Way To South Polar Region

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 19 (UP) — A Texan winged his way toward the South Pole today to try to determine the thickness of the ice cap.

Dr. John C. Cook, research manager in the department of electhiial engineering at Southwest Research Institute, San Antonio, heads a two-man team to make the study.

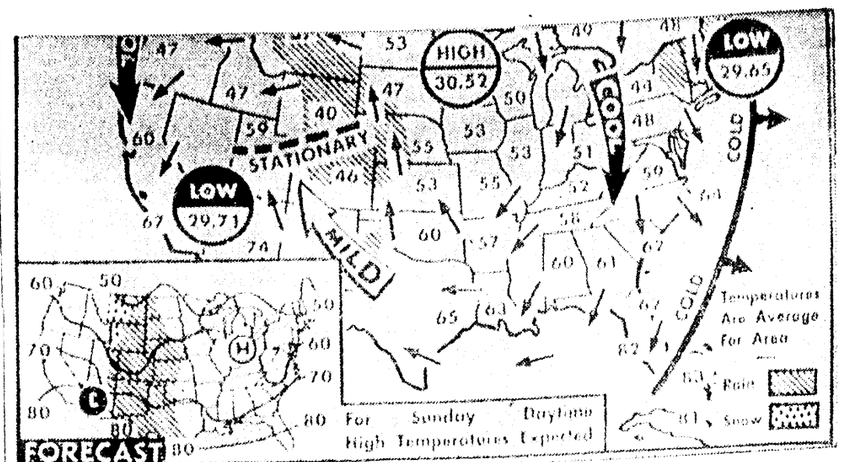
The U. S. National Committee for the International Geophysical Year and the National Academy of Sciences are sponsoring the airborne seismic and glaciological study of the interior of the Antarctic.

The team, with about 1,000 pohnds of slientifir equipment, will be flown to selected locations on what is known as the Ross Ice Shelf and polar plateau by the U. S. Navy.

After the party is landed, it will make seismic sounding to try to determine the thickness of the Antarctic ice sheet, dig a 20-foot deep snow pit to study the characteristics of the snow surface including annual accumulation, and fix the position of the study site by means of solar observations.

JOINT MEETING

FERRIDAY (Special) — The Man and Woman of the Year will be named November 14 at a joint meeting of the Ferriday Kiwanis and Chamber of Commerce, George R. Perry, president of the Kiwanis Club, announced yesterday.



WEATHER FORECAST—A band of precipitation consisting of showers or occasional rain, and snow in higher elevations, should extend from Rockies eastward through most of great Plains region today. There is a chance for showers in Nevada. Except for milder temperatures in western Great Lakes area, most of area east of Mississippi will have seasonable cool weather. There will be little change in temperature west of Mississippi except for cooler weather in parts of northern Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Meany Supports Public's Anger At Labor Groups

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—George Meany said today the public has a right to be angry over labor rackets disclosures but should prescribe to cure the patient, not kill him.

The AFL-CIO president, quarterback in a federation drive to rid union ranks of corruption, spoke in remarks prepared for a symposium at St. John's University in Brooklyn. Meany was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Meany recalled that following the 1946 postwar wave of labor strikes, widespread public hostility against labor unions paved the way for enactment of the Taft-Hartley law. Rather than dealing with strikes, he said, the law curbed labor in other ways.

Mother Saved By Young Son

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—A 12-year-old boy clung desperately to his despondent mother late today until neighbors helped him pull her back from the parapet of a six-story building in Greenwich Village.

Police said Mrs. Rose O'Neal, 34, a widow, was with her son in their top-floor apartment when Mrs. O'Neal suddenly dashed to the roof. She climbed over the parapet above the street and dangled there with her legs swinging free.

The boy ran after her as she left the apartment and, screaming at her not to jump, grabbed her as she dangled. The husky youth was able to hold his mother a small woman, until other tenants climbed to the roof to investigate the commotion and helped him pull her to safety.

By the time police arrived, Mrs. O'Neal was back in her apartment. Officers sent her to Bellevue Hospital for psychiatric observation.

Day, Night Sessions Of UN Expected

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly, it was said today, may hold day-and-night debate next week for quick disposal of Syrian-Soviet charges that Turkey plans to attack Syria with U.S. help.

Meanwhile the idea of sending a commission to investigate the situation seemed to have won wide acceptance. Various delegations consulted on the terms of a resolution to set up the commission.

A usually well informed diplomat said the president of the 82-nation Assembly had in mind to call morning, afternoon and night meetings Tuesday and Wednesday if necessary to reach a decision by Thursday.

Wants To Hurry

The diplomatic informant, speaking anonymously, told a reporter the Assembly president, Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, would like to finish with the matter before Thursday's celebration of U.N. Day, 12th anniversary of the U.N. Charter's coming into effect.

Munro, New Zealand's ambassador to the U.N. and the United States, was in Washington today, where Queen Elizabeth II is visiting. He is expected to announce the Assembly's schedule when he returns to New York Monday. The Assembly will hear an address by the Queen that afternoon.

The new Middle Eastern question seemed headed for action in little more than a week.

Only yesterday afternoon the Assembly, at Syria's request, decided to consider a "complaint about threats to the security of Syria and to international peace." This new item was added to the agenda by a vote of 66-0, Liberia abstained.

Two Awarded Scholarships In Journalism

DENTON, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP) James R. Caton of Dallas, a part-time United Press employe, and Margaret Faulkner of Fort Worth have been named recipients of $100 journalism scholarships at North Texas State College.

C. E. Shuford, journalism department head, said the awards were made possible by a grant from the Press Club of Dallas Foundation.

Winners were selected by a faculty committee on the basis of scholastic achievement, publications experience, and aptitude for a professional journalism career.

Caton, a senior journalism major, is editor of the Campus Chat. He was a Texas Daily Newspaper Association intern for the Sherman Democrat last summer.

Miss Faulkner is news editor of the Campus Chat and a pledge of Theeta Sigma Phi, national journalism student and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mayers Faulkner of Fort Worth.

Central School Has Quiet Week

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 19 (UP)—The Little Rock integration crisis was the quietest today that it has been since Central High School open Sept. 3.

A few paratroopers and federalized National Guardsmen went through the motions of patrolling the deserted schoolgrounds in a bright Indian summer sun.

On the surface, the crisis was no nearer solution. Both Gov. Orval E. Faubus and the NAACP agreed that troops may have to protect nine Negroes at Central until summer vacation.

School Official Asks State-Wide Assessment Hike

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19—(UP)—Acadia parish school Supt. Spencer D. Pollard today called for a state-wide re-assessment of property.

Pollard said more parishes could give teachers raises if property values are re-examined.

Pollard, who is in New Orleans to address a teachers' group, said education dollars are not stretching as far as they should.

Full Scale

In Pollard's parish the full teachers pay scale was reached recently, partly by using money allotted from the state board of education.

He admitted school appropriations will "definitely not fill the bill" for parish needs but the money can go farther.

The dollar will stretch, he said, if administrative personnel on both state and local levels is pared down. Parishes need to make serious effort to consolidate schools and he called for a property re-assessment.

Credits Officials

Pollard said Acadia parish Sheriff W. V. Larcade and Assessor C. J. Guidry helped make teachers raises possible in Acadia.

Guidry did "an honest job of assessing the parish property" and the sheriff takes only 8 per cent, while in some parishes the sheriff takes 16 per cent for his tax collection fee.

"The state as a whole is under assessed," he said. "re-assessment on the local level is one of the greatest needs of the state today."

Turkey Prices May Tumble

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (UP)—Texas housewives were told today they can anticipate more turkeys and at a lower price than last year.

The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said the U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates 4,724,000 turkeys will be sent to market this year by Texas producers. This represents a six per cent gain over last year, and is a record for the 23-year period covered by available records, the bureau said.

The size of the 1957 turkey crop, at record highs over the nation, and large stocks still in storage from last year, are largely responsible for the anticipated drop in prices, the bureau said.

OVER $50 MILLION

U.S. Funds Pour Into Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. Oct. 19 (AP)—Federal funds pour into Mississippi at the rate of 50 million dollars a year in known grants and untold millions of dollars in individual or other grants.

The State Tax Commission said today it has been unable to ascertain the entire amount of federal money coming into Mississippi oecause apparently no ofer-all record of such money is kept. The commission did determine some of the amounts received during the 1955-56 financial year.

Bulk of the known federal aid funds — some 5 million dollars a year — goes to the State Welfare Department. Most of that amount — 19 million dollars — is for old age pensions.

The state matches the federal old age pension money on a 1-to-4 basis, one state dollar for every four federal dollars, up to $30 month at age 65.

Matches Dollars

Above $30, the state matches the federal money dollar for dollar.

Among the undetermined amounts of federal money coming into Mississippi are those going to veterans as pensions, agricultural grants such as soil bank, special disaster relief funds, hospital and airport building funds and federal salaries.

Another heavy recipient of federal money is the Highway Department which receives some 12 million dollars a year for construction and maintenance of federal highways.

Now that the federal interstate highway system is in operation, that figure has been boosted considerably.

Civil defense operates mostly on federal funds. Last year, the federal government sent Mississippi $157,000 in matching funds alone.

Though the 1956 Legislature declined to appropriate state funds for civil defense, the state provides office space and equipment for the operation.

Dependent Children

Aid to dependent children in Mississippi includes 3¼ million dollars in federal funds, the third largest amount of federal aid to the state.

Next comes the school lunch program which uses nearly three million dollars a year to help guarantee underprivileged children a hot meal at noon.

The Employment Security Commission, which helps find jobs for Mississippians, receives 2¼ million dollars.

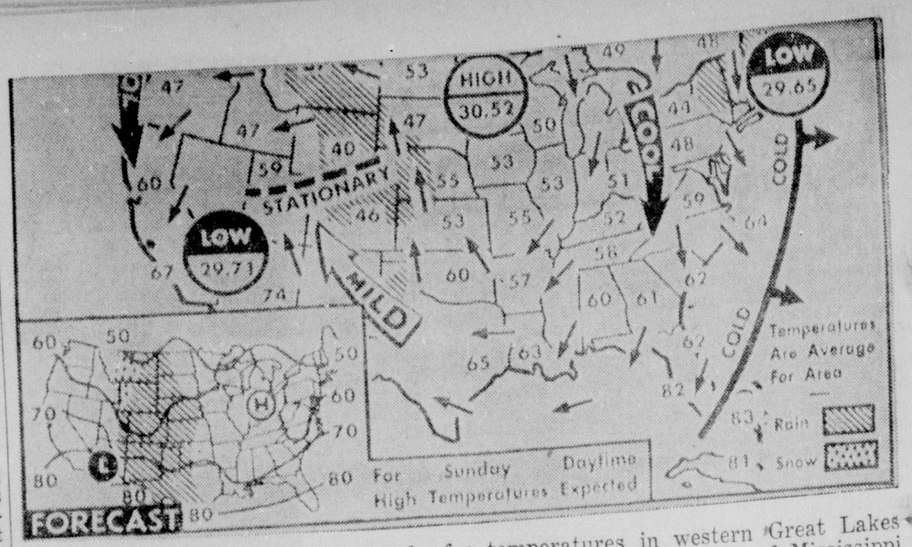
Agricultural Extension Service, 1¾ million; vocational education, 1½ million; public health, 1½ million; Commission on Hospital Care, one million; and aid to the blind, one million.

Other recipients of federal money are:

Mississippi State College, $42,000; Alcorn A&M (Negro) College, $49,000; forest protection, $750,-child care, $154,000; vocational aid to the blind $174,000; other public welfare, $900,000; research and marketing, $26,000; flood control, $67,000; and the State Game and Fish Commission, $222,000.



WEATHER FORECAST—A band of precipitation consisting of showers or occasional rain, and snow in higher elevations, should extend from Rockies eastward through most of great Plains region today. There is a chance for showers in Nevada. Except for milder temperatures in western Great Lakes area, most of area east of Mississippi will have seasonable cool weather. Asain Flu Continues To Make Gains

By UNITED PRESS

Asian flu gained strength throughout the nation Saturday, and deaths from either flu or its side affects pushed toward the 200 mark.

A United Press count disclosed at least 192 deaths from flu or respiratory infections since the Asian virus invaded the United States last summer after sweeping across the Orient.

Health officials said almost one third of the deaths attributed to the disease and its complications occurred in the past week

New York, with 54 deaths, topped the nation's flu toll. Three new deaths were reported Saturday in upstate New York. Contributing heavily to the state's toll were the 44 deaths in New York City where an epidemic began during the World Series.

Pennsylvania reported 31 deaths and Louisiana 21. In other states, Michigan had 17 deaths, Californuia 15, Illinois 10, Ohio and Utah 7 each, the territory of Hawaii 9 Wisconsin 6, Colorado 5, New Jersey 3, Iowa 2, and Indiana, Oklahoma, Oregon and the District of Columbia 1 apiece.

The disease struck hard at two schools for retarded children - causing eight deaths at the Pennhurst school at Spring Hall, Pa., and seven at the Dixon, Ill., state school.

Officials at the Dixon school Saturday said the flu outbreak definitely has been confirmed as that of the Asian virus. The school had 1,158 persons on the sick list—an addition of 65 since Friday. Two patients were in serious condition and one was critical.

SAYS UNION HEAD

Sputnik To Solve Employment Woes

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19 (UP)—United Steelworkers President David J. McDonld said today the Russian Sputnik will solve this country's "spreading" unemployment problem, "because we have an awful lot of scared cookies in Washington."

Addressing a conference of USW District 15, McDonald said industry and science must produce now or let the Russians steal the whole show.

"If that's the way to keep pace, then let's build space platforms and shoot rockets at the moon," he told the cheering delegates.

He said recent talks with industrialists both here and in Washington have convinced him that big business feels the same way.

"I think the feeling that we are in a production spiral is past. If we must increase production to keep pace, let's do it and give more people jobs," he said.

Turning to internal affairs of the giant union, he admitted "we are far from invincible. . .we are extremely vulnerable in many ways and it's time we stop our internal squabbling and work for the people we (union officials) represent."

The USW president said many of the union's weaknesses are due to laxity of political action.

"At times we are derelict in political action," he said. "Therefore, I soon will propose to the international executive board that we subsidize union members to run for state legislatures."

Daniel Appoints Appeal Judge

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (UP) Gov. Price Daniel today appointed Esco Walter, Abilene attorney and former Baylor classmate of the governor's, as an associate justice of the eleventh court of Civil Appeals at Eastland.

He succeeds the late Judge Milburn S. Long.

Walter, a partner in the Abilene law firm of McMahon, Smart, Walter, Sprain and Wilson, served nine years as district attorney at Abilene before entering private practice in 1950.

He was elected to three terms as county attorney of Taylor county from 1934-40, and was elected to one term as justice of the peace after graduating from Baylor law school in 1932.

2 Teenagers Injured In Auto Crash

Two Monroe teenagers received minor injuries, and the car in which they were riding was a total loss, after it was hit by a truck at the intersection of Winnsboro road and Berg Jones Lane at 3:45 yesterday afternoon. The car landed in a 10-foot deep ditch.

O. Frank Shipley, 16, of 1612 Alabama street, driver of a 1950 Studebaker, suffered abrasions to the left knee, and a passenger, Sue Price, 16, 1603 S. Second, had bruises of the left arm, right leg, and forehead.

The mishap occurred when a truck driven north on Berg Jones lane by Charlie Dobins, 59, Negro of Route 1, Winnsboro, slowed at the intersection, then entered the Winnsboro Road and smashed into the right front of the other vehicle, which was going west.

The collision spun the car around. and it swerved into a ditch. The frame and axel were bent, and the left front fender was torn back. The right front of the bright red truck was crushed, and the radiator was broken.

Assault Case Suspect Freed On Bond Here

A Negro woman was out on bond yesterday, after she was charged with aggravated battery in the shooting of another Negro at 9:30 p.m. Friday.

Released was Trudy Statum, owner of Jack's Bar and Cafe, Parker street, West Monroe. Victim of the shooting was identified as Gilbert Myles, Negro, of 1112 N. Seventh street, West Monroe. The gun was a .38 revolver, police said. Myles was treated at St. Francis Hospital for gunshot wounds to the left wrist and thigh and a splinter fracture of the left wrist.

He told Ouachita parish sheriff's officials that the shooting occurred after he and the Statum woman argued over a shortage in the cash register. He said that she grabbed the revolver, they struggled, and he was wounded. She told a conflicting story.

Stabbing Victim Out Of Hospital; Suspect Jailed

Sills was charged with aggravated battery with dangerous weapons, and was released on $500 bond.

Reds Say British Seeking A-Weapons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Soviets said today their satellite success is inspiring a drive by Britain to get nuclear weapon information from the United States.

Without remarking on this particular statement broadcast by Radio Moscow, U. S. Secretary of the Army Brucker said Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev has started "a clever campaign of exploitation to get all the propaganda value out of the Russian satellite."

Brucker in a talk at the dedication of a Revolutionary War monument at Yorktown, Va., said all right-thinking Americans support Secretary of State Dulles in warning "Khrushchev that America doesn't scare easily."

On the contrary, Brucker said, the danger is complacency after the initial effect of something like the satellite launching wears off.

Red Broadcast

The Moscow broadcast, quoting the government newspaper Izvestia, said that on his visit to Washington next week British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will use the Soviet earth satellite as justification for seeking information on nuclear weapon production.

There have been signs, during the current visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip to the United States, that further pooling of British and U. S. efforts in advanced scientific fields may be under consideration.

Earlier Rep. Keating of New York, a Republican who often handles White House legislation, had called for a greater integration of scientific efforts with those of NATO allies.

Want Single Head

A number of Congress members have urged establishment of a single authority over U.S. satellite and missile programs.

Yesterday Secretary of Defense McElroy took what might be one step in this direction by calling for weekly reports direct to him of progress in the missile work being carried on by the various armed services.

Meanwhile there was no public report on what apparently was postponement of a test of the Navy's Vanguard rocket, one designed to propel an American satellite into space. Observers at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., test area saw equipment that seemed to be designed for a Vanguard firing twice move into place yesterday and twice removed. The test reportedly would have been only of the first stage of the rocket—not those that would actually place a payload into an orbit around the earth.

The cause of all the talk, Sputnik the satellite, spun so routinely around the earth today, well into its third week in orbit, that there was little technical comment from observing scientists.

Lebanese Say Border Dispute 'Just A Bluff'

DALLAS, Oct. 19 (UP)— A member of the Lebanese parliament said today he didn't believe there was any real dispute between Turkey and Syrian in the Mideast.

Emile Bustani, member of the Lebanese parliament and negotiator between the English and Egyptians during the Suez crisis, said the trouble was "cooked up by both sides" and was actually "just a bluff."

One side is going along with the United States because they want to obtain arms from them. The other is following Russia, because the Communists have shown themselves on the side of the Arabs in their difficulties, Bustani said.

Bustani is a petroleum engineer by profession and is in Dallas on business.

"Syria took arms from the Soviet Union," he said, "because they couldn't get them from the U.S. Her Arab friends were glad to see her get the arms from someone, although they had rather see them come from America."

The reason the Arab nations need arms, he said is to make themselves strong enough to defend themselves against aggression from other nations.

"I am glad to see the United Nations decide to air the Turkish-Syrian difficulties," he said. "I am sure they will find it is 'much ado about nothing.'"

Pardon Board To Hear Houston Man

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (UP) — A Houston man serving five years in prison for possession of narcotics will get a hearing Monday by the State Board of Pardons and Paroles, at the request of state Rep. Joe Ed Winfree.

The convict, Kenneth Richard Marsh, 20, entered the state prison last Aug. 2 after pleading guilty to possession of narcotics. A spokesman for the paroles board said the hearing was "just a request of interested parties to appear before the board."

DOUBLE TAKE — Scientist checks optically precise concave mirror for use in the mirror landing system which U. S. Navy has adopted for guiding its jet pilots to carrier decks.

VITAMIN SOURCES

Fruit and vegetables, eaten every day, are good sources of vitamines and minerals provided they are not boiled too long in water.

WINE AGING

Champagne wines are at their best quality from eight to 12 years after bottling, and may deteriorate after 20 years.

Disc Jockey Lost On Atlantic Trip

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Coast Guard at Norfolk, Va., today ordered an alert of all ships for some trace of Melvin West, 28-year-old disc jockey who started a 580-mile ocean trip for Bermuda Thursday in a 15-foot outboard motorboat.

The adventurer, an experienced sailor, was overdue several hours. In the event of trouble, he could not have radioed for help because he had only receiving equipment aboard, no transmitter.

There were fears that heavy seas might have overtaken West in his open boat, which he dubbed the S. S. Impossible.

John Chavis, mate aboard the fishing boat Pandio which returned here yesterday, said there were heavy rains, winds in gusts up to 30 miles an hour and seas 12 to 18 feet high about 70 miles off the coast Thursday evening.

West left here Thursday morning, planning to make about 15 miles an hour and to reach Bermuda in 40 hours. He had a good weather forecast for 48 hours when he left, but a cold, turbulent weather front was reported moving eastward, behind him, a few hours after his departure.

West had enough fuel to last about 70 hours in the 30-horsepower boat. His course was off the customary shipping lanes.

Ester Yager West, the adventurer's wife and mother of his three children, said she disapproved of the trip. "But I saw that nothing I could do would stop him," she said, "so I shut up."

Bordelon Named To Alumni Post

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Dr. F. P. Bordelon of Marksville was elected president of the Louisiana State University alumni Federation today.

E. T. Monsour of Shreveport was named first vice president, and Thomas J. Jenny of New Orleans, second vice president.

The following were named to the alumni council:

Dalton Brady, Brookhaven, representative from Mississippi.

W. C. Cole, Little Rock, representative from Arkansas.

Joe E. Reid, Pampa, representative from Texas.

G. A. Morse, Baton Rouge, representative on the athletic council.

Woman Charged In Death Of Husband

BOONEVILLE, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP)—A 30-year-old farm woman was charged with murder today after her husband died after a pop bottle attack.

Sheriff George Rutherford identified the woman as Mrs. Connie Owens, mother of two children. John Owens, 34, died of several blows on the head.

The sheriff quoted the woman as saying her husband returned home last night after drinking and an argument started. She said Owens threatened to beat her and she fought him with the pop bottle, striking him on he head several times.

She was released on bond. A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Turks Again Rap Charges By Russia

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 19 (UP) —A government spokesman today accused Russia of spouting "nonsensical lies" with its charge that the United States drew up a blueprint for a joint attack on Syria by Turkey, Iran and Jordan.

The spokesman, Gundogu Ustun, said the "absurd" Soviet claim was beneath the dignity of a formal government denial. It was one of the strongest-worded statements by a Turkish official since the Syrian-Turkish border dispute flared less than one month ago.

Turkey, which has denied generally all Syrian charges of border violations, permitted Ustun to reply specifically to the Soviet charge that U.S. diplomatic troubleshooter Loy W. Henderson brought the "blueprint" for attack during his September trip to check up on expanding Communist influence in Syria.

African Claims New Distance Running Marks

WALTON, England, Oct. 19 (AP) South African long distance runner Gerald Walsh set an unofficial world record for 40 and 50 miles today.

He covered 40 miles in 4 hours, 4 minutes, 34 seconds and passed the 50-mile mark in five hours, 16 minutes and 7 seconds.

Afterwards Walsh, showing only a blistered toe on his left foot for his trouble, said he had run 2,400 miles in the last six months in preparation for a record attempt.

Jackie Mekler of South Africa set the previous best times for the distances. Walsh beat his countryman's 40-mile mark by 13 minutes, 40 seconds and the 50-mile time by 8 minutes, 50.8 seconds.

VISUALIZING HISTORY — Artist finishes diorama of Spanish attack on French-held Fort Caroline in 16th century Florida prior to installation in U. S. Parks Service museum.

ARMS FOR JORDAN — Jeeps armed with anti-armor weapons are lined up at Amman airport as U. S. Air Force transports speed up munitions shipments to Middle East nation.

Oct. 31 Deadline For SBA Lending

DALLAS, Oct. 19 (UP)— Residents of 13 Texas counties who suffered property loss during floods and tornadoes this year were reminded by the Small Business Administration today that Oct. 31 is the deadline to file disaster loan applications.

The counties include Limestone, Milam, Robertson, Taylor, Rains, Hamilton, Dallas, McLennan, Coryell, Gregg, Tarrant, Bell and Wood. Residents of those counties whose homes or businesses were hit by disaster are eligible to borrow from SBA at 3 per cent annual interest rate.

GIVES SPANKING

WARSAW, Oct. 17 (AP) — The newspaper Express Wieczorny gave an editorial spanking this week to Jozef Niesiolek of Poznan for international impudence.

It printed a piece from the British Yorkshire Evening Post saying Jozef found a balloon sent out in a race from Southport, Lancashire, and won a fountain pen worth $5.60 but wrote back asking instead for tea, gloves and a car or motorcycle.

The Polish paper added: "His impudence shocked even the phlegmatic British. His appeal can bring forth only the contempt and condemnation of our readers."

American motorists used 10,500,000 gallons of hydraulic brake fluid in 1955, an increase of 2,500,000 gallons over the previous year.

It takes a GIANT to reach across a river

A giant bridge stands as a familiar landmark on the local scene, conveying its traffic to a specific destination. And just as familiar is the daily newspaper, a giant medium continually conveying news and advertising into almost every home in the nation.

More than 57,000,000 newspapers are bought daily, reaching almost every prospective customer in the land. And just as a bridge connects people on opposite shores, so does the daily newspaper link people on opposite sides of business—the buyers and the sellers of goods.

For wholesalers, distributors, retailers and regional manufacturers the newspaper is an indispensable courier which calls on practically every family in the local market.

If you want the fastest way to get your story across, you should be using the daily newspaper. It's the surest bridge between you and the people you want to sell.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers.

Little Theater Curtain Call

By SANDRA JOHNSON

The Little Theatre has done it again! "The Reluctant Debutante" can now be added to the list of hits that have been chalked up by the Little Theatre in the years gone by.

The cast of "The Reluctant Debutante" has really out-done itself this time. Never has there been a play that was so completely delightful. The plot is so fast moving and so funny, that you hardly have time to catch your breath before you're laughing once again.

Only three more nights! That's right, "The Reluctant Debutante" will be running for just three more nights. If you haven't seen the play yet, and believe me, it's simply loaded with wonderful talent, riotous situations and a perfectly beautiful set, you'd better make your reservations well in advance. There will be someone at the theatre to take your reservation between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. remember the last three nights are Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

A final reminder about the Little Theatre membership drive. The last day you can obtain a season ticket is this coming Wednesday, October the 23rd. The time is rushing by and you won't want to miss any one of the wonderful plays in store for you this season.

There are four more marvelous productions to follow, all just as equally entertaining as "The Reluctant Debutante." Buy your membership now and enjoy the plans that your Little Theatre has made for you.

See you Wednesday.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The hunting season is here again with most sportsmen gleaning the benefits of the dwindling outdoors while the usual minority of armed vandals set about their villainy—the aftermath of which is tighter restrictions and fewer hunting rights for law-abiding and property-respecting hunters.

Maybe we should be turning today's efforts to some other sports subject and leaving anything pertaining to wildlife and the great outdoors to our capable columnist Sam Hanna for his regular Friday contribution of "Comin' Up Afield," but we felt compelled to get this message over today after hearing from a Union parish acquaintance of baseball days who had a taste of hunters' sportsmanship recently.

We had a letter from this Union parish man who requested that his name not be used, but we're certain everybody in his section around Nip and Tuck and Rocky Branch is well aware of the case wherein the tails were shot from two of his cows.

The letter, in part:

"The last day of dove season this year . . . I had two cows' tails shot off by dove hunters. The cattle were under pasture fence, but someone who couldn't find anything else to shoot made these milk cows their targets . . . .

"A man who would pull a stunt like this is a poor sportsman and that's exactly the reason why so many farmers post their land and allow no hunting whatsoever . . . .

"The cattle were seen at 4:30 Saturday evening and they hadn't been shot then, but at 5:15 they were found with their tails shot off and bleeding very much. I would like for you to put this in your sports section Sunday since squirrel season opened Friday."

Sheriff's departments of Union and Ouachita parish have reports on this shooting, and the writer said there is every reason to believe that the culprits were from Ouachita parish but so far haven't been caught.

Right now Union parish farms are among those showing fewest "posted" and "no trespassing" signs. But this one instance is bound to see some more signs go up. And there's always some character with a gun who just has to shoot something. He goes dove hunting or squirrel hunting, finds neither, and then begins banging away at about anything that moves. The poor hunter without skill to stalk his proper game, or wait until another day if it's scarce, turns to peacefully grazing livestock and then cusses the farmer when the "no trespassing" sign turns him back the next trip.

We had a request also for information about dove hunters recently driving along a road and shooting into property where registered cattle were grazing. This was down near Eros.

"What about persons driving along, shooting doves in your pasture, endangering the cattle, and then jumping the fences, grabbing up the birds and running back to their cars?" the question went.

These hunters violated the law when they shot from their automobile and while on a public road. The fact that dove season was open, they had licenses, and the property was not posted didn't excuse them from arrest if the game wardens or sheriff's deputies could find out who they are.

Nearly all hunters use automobiles to go to their favorite areas. A good practice is to take license numbers of any automobiles parked around your or your neighbor's farms. When cattle turn up shot or other vandalism is evident, turn these license numbers over to your sheriff and let him find out who was doing what around your place when.

Good Ground Attack Wins GSC Battle

McNeese unleased a murderous ground attack to ride rough shod over Northeast State, 26-6 in a Cowboys and Indians battle at Brown Stadium last night in a Gulf States Conference football game.

The cowpunchers from Lake Charles rolled up 266 yards, most of it in quick, short bursts, on the ground in the contest and held Northeast in check until the third quarter for the decision. All Gulf States halfback Rogers Hampton lead the way with fellow halfback Olen Clark, fullback Nyles Spurlock and quarterback Robert Morris chipping in.

STATISTICS
	Northeast	McNee
First downs	8	16
Rushing yards	179	266
Passing yardage	27	42
Passes	9-2	8-3
Passes intercepted by	0	3
Punts	3-34	2-37
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	1-10	3-45

Hampton got the first touchdown for the Cowboys, Clark the second and fourth and Morris got the third. Fullback Cleo Cooper kicked two extra points. End Joe Driskill scored the lone Indian touchdown on a 15 yard pass from quarterback Nathan Zametto in the third quarter.

The loss was the third of the season and second in Gulf States play for Coach Devone Payne's Indians. For Les DeVall's Cowboys, it was their second win in the GSC against a 23-20 loss to Northwestern and made them on of the top favorites for the conference title after the Louisiana Tech upset of Northwestern.

The first half was all McNeese with the visitors getting one TD in the first period and two in the second for a 20-0 lead at the intermission. Northeast rebounded well in the final half, scoring in the third quarter and threatening in the closing seconds of the game while limiting McNeese to one touchdown in the last half.

McNeese got under way with a long but unsuccessful drive to the Northeast one after taking the opening kickoff but Hampton fumbled at the goal line and Indian fullback Robert McGough recovered. The Indians moved the ball for a first down before getting tagged with a holding penalty and punted.

Hampton returned to the Northeast 42 and alternated with Clark and Spurlock in running the pigskin to the 21. Morris threw to Case at that point to advance the ball to the five from where Hampton sailed around right end for the score. Cooper booted the point after to make it 7-0.

A Northeast punt set the winners on their second scoring drive early in the second quarter. Reynolds punted to the McNeese 30 and a clipping penalty pushed the cowpokes back to the 15. From there McNeese punched 85 yards for a TD with the longest gain being an 8 - yard pickup by Paul Smith until Clark, a kid who spent last season as a student manager at Southeastern, egged 19 yards for the six pointer. Cooper again converted and it was 14-0.

Clark set up the third McNeese touchdown when he swiped a Zametto pass late in the quarter on the 50 and returned to the 9. With 14 seconds remaining in the half, quarterback Morris swept wide around right end for the touchdown on the first play after the interception. Morris's kick for the point was no good and the half ended before the kickoff at 20-0.

Midway of the third quarter, the Indians got started on their touchdown drive when Zametto made a fine 30 - yard return of a Hampton punt to the Northeast 39. McGough went for four and Benny Franklin ran for a first to the McNeese 49. Don Reynolds burst through the Cowboy line and was one man away from scoring when he was stopped at the 27.

McGough made four more and Reynolds went to the 17 for the third first down of the drive. Fullback McGough gained three more before Franklin lost two back to the 15. Heer Zametto uncorked his TD toss to Driskill in the right side of the end zone and Northeast had killed the shutout, 20-6. Don Reynolds' try for the point after was no good.

Northeast threatened in the fading minutes after taking a punt. The running of fullback Lloyd Ray Smith and quarterback Everett Reynolds and a Reynolds to Robert Earle pass moved the ball as far as the seven before McNese pushed them back to the 11. The game ended immediately after Reynolds threw low and into the dirt of the goal line.

MINNESOTA IS UPSET—Illinois back Jack Delveaux (35) carried ball to touchdown behind some neat blocking yesterday at Champaign, Ill.,—and Minnesota end Perry Gehring (83) is upset in this second Illini score. Also taking spill for Minnesota is back Bobby Cox (12). Minnesota, the favorite, lost, 34-13. (AP Wirephoto)

Illini Run Wild, Plaster Gophers In Upset, 34-13

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 19 (UP)—Ray Eliot's Illinois football team, a 13-point underdog, pulled a "patented" upset today, clipping the nation's third-ranked college team, Minnesota, 34-13, before 69,619 fans.

It was a team triumph for the Illini, beaten twice in three earlier starts this season, since the linemen outcharged the larger Gopher forwards constantly to give the speedster halfbacks and driving fullbacks a chance to run.

In fact, hard-hitting by the linemen and alert play by backs set up Illinois' first three touchdowns. In the first half, when the Illini rolled to a 21-0 edge, Minnesota lost the ball twice on fumbles and once on a pass interception.

It was the first loss of the season for the Gophers after three victories.

The Illini scored three of the first four times they had possession, piling to a touchdown after one of the Gopher fumbles and after the interception, and only a fumble by Don Grothe on the Gopher 12 prevented perhaps another score.

Illinois	14	7	13	0	—34
Minnesota	0	0	0	13	—13

Illinois scoring: Touchdowns, Delveaux 2 (11, plunge; 10, plunge), Smith (2, dive), Mitchell (1, plunge) Hill (38, pass from Haller). Conversions, Yeazel 4.

Baylor's Field Kick Nips Tech In 15-12 Scrap

LUBBOCK, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP)—Baylor's ponderous Bears had to dip deep into their reserves to stand off underdog Texas Tech and grind out a 15-12 non - conference football victory tonight.

Swift Ronnie Rice, who scampered 71 yards for one of his two touchdowns, almost paced Tech's Red Raiders to an upset before a Dad's Day crowd of 23,000.

Baylor	6	3	0	6	—15
Texas Tech	0	6	6	0	—12

Baylor scoring—touchdown: Hickman (2, plunge), Anderson (5, pass from Humphrey) Field goal: Beall (29)

Texas Tech scoring — touchdown: Rice (71, punge; 71,

Oregon Dims Bowl Dreams For Cougars

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Oregon Ducks popped the Rose Bowl bubble at Washington State today with a thrilling 14-13 victory by the margin of five seconds and a few inches.

It was a heartbreaking setback for the 19,000 homecoming day fans who were rooting the Cougars toward their first shot at the Rose Bowl since 1931.

The first Oregon touchdown, which turned out to be the margin of victory, came on a one-yard plunge by quarterback Jack Crabtree with only five seconds left in the first half.

The Cougars are still in the fight but they missed the chance today to go out ahead.

Oregon	0	7	0	7	—14
Washington State	0	0	0	13	—13

Rice Squeezes Out 27-21 Nod Over Mustangs

DALLAS, Oct. 19 (AP)—Charley Jackson ran a pass interception back 102 yards for a spectacular touchdown tonight but it couldn't offset an explosive offense along the ground and in the air and Rice won a 27-21 Southwest Conference victory over Southern Methodist.

The Rice two-pronged offense, triggered by Big King Hill, a passing, running quarterback, also produced some sensational plays, particularly a 55 - yard, pass-run from Hill to Rice's great end, Buddy Dial, and a 40-yard gainer by the same combination. But Jackson's great dash was the big thrill for the 36,000 who turned out to see two teams open the conference game.

Rice	6	14	0	7	—27
Southern Methodist	7	0	7	7	—21

Rice scoring — Touchdowns: Ducitt (18, run); Dial (35, pass; run from Hill); B. Williams (5, run), Chilton (2 feet, plunge). Conversions: Hill 3.

'Cats Outlast Texas Rivals

PINEVILLE, La., Oct. 19 (AP)—Jerry Eddy staged a 73-yard touchdown run in the first period today to start Louisiana College on a 26-20 homecoming victory over Texas Lutheran.

Keith Munyan added another touchdown on a 24-yard run and Bo Herring intercepted a pass and dashed 23 yards to give Louisiana College a 19-6 halftime advantage. Louisiana College wound up its scoring in the third period on a six-yard run by Tommy Guthrie. Munyan and Charlie Ward each converted once.

Charles McMan tallied twice for the Texans on short plunges in the second and third periods. The visitors wound up their scoring in the third period when Roger Wilkie scored on a 25-yard pass from Jack Kraus. Eddie Marburger made two conversions.

Memphis State Cross Country Beats Indians

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (Special) Memphis State University beat Northeast Louisiana State, 16 to 39 in a 3.8 miles cross country race here yesterday morning in the first meet of the season for the invading Indian team.

Placing for Northeast, which next meets McNeese at Monroe, La., next Saturday at 1:30 p.m., were Buddy McCullen, 5th; Jack Williams, 7th; Jim Flint, 8th; Gene Heaston, 9th; John Penford, 10th; and Harper McKay 11th.

Minnows Will Be Taken From Bayou DeSiard

Bayou DeSiard will be opened for commercial minnow seining, beginning tomorrow and running through next Saturday, it was announced yesterday by O. N. McNeil, member of the Ouachita Parish Fish and Game Commission.

"Since a plan is underway to start operations to remove shad from Bayou DeSiard, possibly in another week, and since minnows are becoming hard to find by fish bait operators at this time of the year, it has been decided to let them salvage the Bayou DeSiard minnow crop during the next week only," McNeil said.

No permit will be necessary and any persons wanting minnows will be allowed to take them. Bayou DeSiard is not normally open to seining of any kind.

Minnow hunters are requested to dispose of any "rough" fish they take, and not to leave them on the banks of the stream.

Tech Tags 20-13 Loss On Demons

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech scored twice in the last nine minutes to come from behind and upset Northwestern State, 20-13, here last night in a Gulf States Conference battle.

Behind 13-7, Tech put across the tying score with nine minutes left on the clock when halfback Paul Hynes took a pitchout from quarterback James McCabe and swept end for two yards and the score that made it 13-13.

Tech's winning score came with five minutes remaining when McCabe passed 2 yards to Hynes in the endzone.

The Bulldogs scored first in the game just two minutes before the halftime intermission when fullback Wayne Bourgeois went over from the one. Halfback J. W. Slack kicked the point after, and Tech had a 7-0 lead as the result of a 28 - yard drive.

Northwestern tied it up 7-7 early in the third quarter when fullback Charles Tolar dashed 65 yards to score. Jim Brunning, N.S.C. end, kicked the point after to know the score.

On the second play of the fourth period, Northwestern got ahead when quarterback Dale Hoffpauir passed to end Billy Booth who took it on the 20 and ran the rest of the way in a play that covered 56 yards.

Northwestern dominated the first quarter play to get one drive underway that ended on Tech's ten when Charlie Tolar fumbled and Tech's freshman sensation B. K. Miller recovered. Tech likewise lost the ball deep in Northwestern territory on a fumble in the second period when Hynes bobbled on the Demon nine and Charles Hennigan recovered.

The Demons end Billy Booth was voted most valuable lineman of this annual state fair clash, and the most valuable back award went to Tech's Haynes, freshman halfback.

Tolar game's leading ground gainer with 93 yards in 16 carries. Wayne Bourgeois, Tech's best rusher, had 49 yards in 14 carries. Tech's Hynes made 46 yards on 8 carries. Tech gained 170 yards rushing to Northwestern's 136, Northwestern gained 173 net passing to Tech's 64. Tech completed four of five passes, and Northwestern 14 out of 20. Tech's hard charging line set the Demons back 70 yards lost in rushing.

Oregon State Upset By Uclans, 26 To 7

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19 (AP)—The widespread epidemic of football upsets hit Los Angeles this afternoon when UCLA blasted Oregon State from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten teams 26-7.

The skies were dark and gloomy but this was a bright occasion for most of the 46,102 fans. Oregon State went into the game ranked No. 7 in the weekly ratings and was solidly favored to win its fifth straight game.

UCLA, loser to Oregon in its lone defeat but holding a sparkling victory over Illinois, took the opening kickoff and paraded by land and air 67 yards for a touchdown.

Coach Red Sanders' Bruins put on another 49-yard thrust in the second quarter for a 13-0 halftime lead, and that, to all intents, was the icing on the cake.

UCLA with halfbacks Don Long, Kirk Wilson and Chuck Kendall and fullback Barry Billington, outplayed the eared Beaver backs. The show was over when UCLA cashed in on a pass interception and a fumble for two more touchdowns in the third quarter.

Oregon State	0	0	0	7	—7
UCLA	6	7	13	9	—26

UCLA scoring — Touchdowns: Billington (2, run); Mason (11, pass from Long); Long (1, run); Kendall (5, run). Conversions: Duncan, Gertsman.

Grim Captures Featured Race At State Fair

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 19 (AP)—The feature event of the Louisiana State Fair auto races today went to Bobby Grim of Indianapolis, Ind.

Grim drove his Offenhauser over the 20-lap, 10-mile course in 8:32.21. He edged out Don Carr of Indianapolis and Ken Loetscher of Kirkwood, Mo., both in Offys.

Loetscher earlier set a new seven-lap track record of 2:59.89 in the opening race. The record was held by Grim.

The feature big car race tomorrow, second day of the fair, will be a 25-lap Dixie Sweepstakes.

L.S.U. Shatters Kentucky For 4th Straight Win, 21-0

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Louisiana State battered the Kentucky line with its one-two punch of Jimmy Taylor and Billy Cannon tonight, mauling the hapless Wildcats 21-0 for their fifth straight Southeastern Conference setback.

A happy homecoming crowd of 50,000 saw LSU win its fourth straight after an opening loss to Rice. It was the first time LSU has won four in a row since 1949.

Cannon, 196-pound halfback, scored two touchdowns with flashing runs right across the left tackle post guarded by Kentucky all-America candidate Lou Michaels. In the first period Cannon knifed seven yards to climax a 52-yard drive and bucked two yards in the fourth period after an 83-yard drive.

Taylor snatched a fumble in mid-air in the second quarter and raced 31 yards for a touchdown. The play was set up when sophomore halfback Johnny Robinson crashed in to nail Kentucky halfback Woody Herzog on an end sweep.

The 200 pound senior fullback also kicked all three conversions to boost his season's scoring total to 54 points, far ahead of all other SEC players.

In the second period Kentucky drove to the LSU eight and again to the 11 before penalties and the LSU defense stymied the drives.

The Wildcats went to the LSU four in the third period before LSU end Billy Hendrix hit quarterback Kenny Robertson for a loss on fourth down. Robertson tried to lateral and LSU quarterback Win Turner intercepted, running the ball to the LSU 17 to set the Tigers' final scoring drive.

On its first scoring drive, LSU ran plays away from Michaels, then on the scoring play faked to the opposite side, blocked him in and Cannon slashed over his vacant tackle post for the touchdown.

Michaels, who shifts and floats like a linebacker on defense, was the defensive standout for the Wildcats. Much of the Kentucky rushing yardage was made with him clearing the way.

Cannon, the SEC,s top ground gainer, gained 70 yards in 11 attempts for a 6.4 average, mostly on quick dashes through the line. Taylor carried 11 times for 56 yards, a 5.1 average.

Taylor, who calls defensive signals, did a fine job backing up the line. LSU also got outstanding defensive play from ends Hendrix and Billy Smith.

LSU scoring—Touchdowns: Cannon 2 (7, run; 2, run); Taylor (31, run). Conversions: Taylor 3.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The hunting season is here again with most sportsmen gleaning the benefits of the dwindling outdoors while the usual minority of armed vandals set about their villainy—the aftermath of which is tighter restrictions and fewer hunting rights for law-abiding and property-respecting hunters.

Maybe we should be turning today's efforts to some other sports subject and leaving anything pertaining to wildlife and the great outdoors to our capable columnist Sam Hanna for his regular Friday contribution of "Comin' Up Afield," but we felt compelled to get this message over today after hearing from a Union parish acquaintance of baseball days who had a taste of hunters' sportsmanship recently.

We had a letter from this Union parish man who requested that his name not be used, but we're certain everybody in his section around Nip and Tuck and Rocky Branch is well aware of the case wherein the tails were shot from two of his cows.

The letter, in part:

"The last day of dove season this year . . . I had two cows' tails shot off by dove hunters. The cattle were under pasture fence, but someone who couldn't find anything else to shoot made these milk cows their targets . . . .

"A man who would pull a stunt like this is a poor sportsman and that's exactly the reason why so many farmers post their land and allow no hunting whatsoever . . . .

"The cattle were seen at 4:30 Saturday evening and they hadn't been shot then, but at 5:15 they were found with their tails shot off and bleeding very much. I would like for you to put this in your sports section Sunday since squirrel season opened Friday."

Sheriff's departments of Union and Ouachita parish have reports on this shooting, and the writer said there is every reason to believe that the culprits were from Ouachita parish but so far haven't been caught.

Right now Union parish farms are among those showing fewest "posted" and "no trespassing" signs. But this one instance is bound to see some more signs go up. And there's always some character with a gun who just has to shoot something. He goes dove hunting or squirrel hunting, finds neither, and then begins banging away at about anything that moves. The poor hunter without skill to stalk his proper game, or wait until another day if it's scarce, turns to peacefully grazing livestock and then cusses the farmer when the "no trespassing" sign turns him back the next trip.

We had a request also for information about dove hunters recently driving along a road and shooting into property where registered cattle were grazing. This was down near Eros.

"What about persons driving along, shooting doves in your pasture, endangering the cattle, and then jumping the fences, grabbing up the birds and running back to their cars?" the question went.

These hunters violated the law when they shot from their automobile and while on a public road. The fact that dove season was open, they had licenses, and the property was not posted didn't excuse them from arrest if the game wardens or sheriff's deputies could find out who they are.

Nearly all hunters use automobiles to go to their favorite areas. A good practice is to take license numbers of any automobiles parked around your or your neighbor's farms. When cattle turn up shot or other vandalism is evident, turn these license numbers over to your sheriff and let him find out who was doing what around your place when.

Cowboys Batter Indians, 26-6

Good Ground Attack Wins GSC Battle

McNeese unleased a murderous ground attack to ride rough shod over Northeast State, 26-6 in a Cowboys and Indians battle at Brown Stadium last night in a Gulf States Conference football game.

The cowpunchers from Lake Charles rolled up 266 yards, most of it in quick, short bursts, on the ground in the contest and held Northeast in check until the third quarter for the decision. All Gulf States halfback Rogers Hampton lead the way with fellow halfback Olen Clark, fullback Nyles Spurlock and quarterback Robert Morris chipping in.

Hampton got the first touchdown for the Cowboys, Clark the second and fourth and Morris got the third. Fullback Cleo Cooper kicked two extra points. End Joe Driskill scored the lone Indian touchdown on a 15 yard pass from quarterback Nathan Zametto in the third quarter.

The loss was the third of the season and second in Gulf States play for Coach Devone Payne's Indians. For Les DeVall's Cowboys, it was their second win in the GSC against a 23-20 loss to Northwestern and made them on of the top favorites for the conference title after the Louisiana Tech upset of Northwestern.

The first half was all McNeese with the visitors getting one TD in the first period and two in the second for a 20-0 lead at the intermission. Northeast rebounded well in the final half, scoring in the third quarter and threatening in the closing seconds of the game while limiting McNeese to one touchdown in the last half.

McNeese got under way with a long but unsuccessful drive to the Northeast one after taking the opening kickoff but Hampton fumbled at the goal line and Indian fullback Robert McGough recovered. The Indians moved the ball for a first down before getting tagged with a holding penalty and punted.

Hampton returned to the Northeast 42 and alternated with Clark and Spurlock in running the pigskin to the 21. Morris threw to Case at that point to advance the ball to the five from where Hampton sailed around right end for the score. Cooper booted the point after to make it 7-0.

A Northeast punt set the winners on their second scoring drive early in the second quarter. Reynolds punted to the McNeese 30 and a clipping penalty pushed the cowpokes back to the 15. From there McNeese punched 85 yards for a TD with the longest gain being an 8 - yard pickup by Paul Smith until Clark, a kid who spent last season as a student manager at Southeastern, egged 19 yards for the six pointer. Cooper again converted and it was 14-0.

Clark set up the third McNeese touchdown when he swiped a Zametto pass late in the quarter on the 50 and returned to the 9. With 14 seconds remaining in the half, quarterback Morris swept wide around right end for the touchdown on the first play after the interception. Morris's kick for the point was no good and the half ended before the kickoff at 20-0.

Midway of the third quarter, the Indians got started on their touchdown drive when Zametto made a fine 30 - yard return of a Hampton punt to the Northeast 39. McGough went for four and Benny Franklin ran for a first to the McNeese 49. Don Reynolds burst through the Cowboy line and was one man away from scoring when he was stopped at the 27.

McGough made four more and Reynolds went to the 17 for the third first down of the drive. Fullback McGough gained three more before Franklin lost two back to the 15. Heer Zametto uncorked his TD toss to Driskill in the right side of the end zone and Northeast had killed the shutout, 20-6. Don Reynolds' try for the point after was no good.

Northeast threatened in the fading minutes after taking a punt. The running of fullback Lloyd Ray Smith and quarterback Everett Reynolds and a Reynolds to Robert Earle pass moved the ball as far as the seven before McNese pushed them back to the 11. The game ended immediately after Reynolds threw low and into the dirt at the goal line.

The lineups:

Illini Run Wild, Plaster Gophers In Upset, 34-13

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 19 (UP)—Ray Eliot's Illinois football team, a 13-point underdog, pulled a "patented" upset today, clipping the nation's third-ranked college team, Minnesota, 34-13, before 69,619 fans.

It was a team triumph for the Illini, beaten twice in three earlier starts this season, since the linemen outcharged the larger Gopher forwards constantly to give the speedster halfbacks and driving fullbacks a chance to run.

In fact, hard-hitting by the linemen and alert play by backs set up Illinois' first three touchdowns. In the first half, when the Illini rolled to a 21-0 edge, Minnesota lost the ball twice on fumbles and once on a pass interception.

It was the first loss of the season for the Gophers after three victories.

The Illini scored three of the first four times they had possession, piling to a touchdown after one of the Gopher fumbles and after the interception, and only a fumble by Don Grothe on the Gopher 12 prevented perhaps another score.

Baylor's Field Kick Nips Tech In 15-12 Scrap

LUBBOCK, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP)—Baylor's ponderous Bears had to dip deep into their reserves to stand off underdog Texas Tech and grind out a 15-12 non - conference football victory tonight.

Swift Ronnie Rice, who scampered 71 yards for one of his two touchdowns, almost paced Tech's Red Raiders to an upset before a Dad's Day crowd of 23,000.

Baylor	6	3	0	6	—15
Texas Tech	0	6	6	0	—12

Baylor scoring—touchdown: Hickman (2, plunge), Anderson (5, pass from Humphrey) Field goal: Beall (20)

Oregon Dims Bowl Dreams For Cougars

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Oregon Ducks popped the Rose Bowl bubble at Washington State today with a thrilling 14-13 victory by the margin of five seconds and a few inches.

It was a heartbreaking setback for the 19,000 homecoming day fans who were rooting the Cougars toward their first shot at the Rose Bowl since 1931.

The first Oregon touchdown, which turned out to be the margin of victory, came on a one-yard plunge by quarterback Jack Crabtree with only five seconds left in the first half.

The Cougars are still in the fight but they missed the chance today to go out ahead.

Oregon	0	7	0	7	—14
Washington State	0	0	0	13	—13

Rice Squeezes Out 27-21 Nod Over Mustangs

DALLAS, Oct. 19 (AP)—Charley Jackson ran a pass interception back 102 yards for a spectacular touchdown tonight but it couldn't offset an explosive offense along the ground and in the air and Rice won a 27-21 Southwest Conference victory over Southern Methodist.

The Rice two-pronged offense, trggered by Big King Hill, a passing, running quarterback, also produced some sensational plays, particularly a 55 - yard, pass-run from Hill to Rice's great end, Buddy Dial, and a 40-yard gainer by the same combination. But Jackson's great dash was the big thrill for the 36,000 who turned out to see two teams open the conference game.

Rice	6	14	0	7	—27
Southern Methodist	7	0	7	7	—21

Rice scoring — Touchdowns: Dueitt (18, run); Dial (35, pass; run from Hill); B. Williams (5, run), Chilton (2 feet, plunge). Conversions: Hill 3.

'Cats Outlast Texas Rivals

PINEVILLE, La., Oct. 19 (AP)—Jerry Eddy staged a 73-yard touchdown run in the first period today to start Louisiana College on a 26-20 homecoming victory over Texas Lutheran.

Keith Munyan added another touchdown on a 24-yard run and Bo Herring intercepted a pass and dashed 23 yards to give Louisiana College a 19-6 halftime advantage. Louisiana College wound up its scoring in the third period on a six-yard run by Tommy Guthrie. Munyan and Charlie Ward each converted once.

Charles McMan tallied twice for the Texans on short plunges in the second and third periods. The visitors wound up their scoring in the third period when Roger Wilkie scored on a 25-yard pass from Jack Kraus. Eddie Marburger made two conversions.

Memphis State Cross Country Beats Indians

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (Special) Memphis State University beat Northeast Louisiana State, 16 to 39 in a 3.8 miles cross country race here yesterday morning in the first meet of the season for the invading Indian team.

Placing for Northeast, which next meets McNeese at Monroe, La., next Saturday at 1:30 p.m., were Buddy McCullen, 5th; Jack Williams, 7th; Jim Flint, 8th; Gene Heaston, 9th; John Penford, 10th; and Harper McKay 11th.

Tech Tags 20-13 Loss On Demons

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech scored twice in the last nine minutes to come from behind and upset Northwestern State, 20-13, here last night in a Gulf States Conference battle.

Behind 13-7, Tech put across the tying score with nine minutes left on the clock when halfback Paul Hynes took a pitchout from quarterback James McCabe and swept end for two yards and the score that made it 13-13.

Tech's winning score came with five minutes remaining when McCabe passed 2 yards to Hynes in the endzone.

The Bulldogs scored first in the game just two minutes before the halftime intermission when fullback Wayne Bourgeois went over from the one. Halfback J. W. Slack kicked the point after, and Tech had a 7-0 lead as the result of a 28 - yard drive.

Northwestern tied it up 7-7 early in the third quarter when fullback Charles Tolar dashed 65 yards to score. Jim Brunning, N.S.C. end, kicked the point after to know the score.

On the second play of the fourth period, Northwestern got ahead when quarterback Dale Hoffpauir passed to end Billy Booth who took it on the 20 and ran the rest of the way in a play that covered 56 yards.

Northwestern dominated the first quarter play to get one drive underway that ended on Tech's ten when Charlie Tolar fumbled and Tech's freshman sensation B. K. Miller recovered. Tech likewise lost the ball deep in Northwestern territory on a fumble in the second period when Hynes bobbled on the Demon nine and Charles Hennigan recovered.

The Demons end Billy Booth was voted most valuable lineman of this annual state fair clash, and the most valuable back award went to Tech's Haynes, freshman halfback.

Tolar game's leading ground gainer with 93 yards in 16 carries. Wayne Bourgeois, Tech's best rusher, had 49 yards in 14 carries. Tech's Hynes made 46 yards on 8 carries. Tech gained 170 yards rushing to Northwestern's 136, Northwestern gained 173 net passing to Tech's 64. Tech completed four of five passes, and Northwestern 14 out of 20. Tech's hard charging line set the Demons back 70 yards lost in rushing.

Minnows Will Be Taken From Bayou DeSiard

Bayou DeSiard will be opened for commercial minnow seining, beginning tomorrow and running through next Saturday, it was announced yesterday by O. N. McNeil, member of the Ouachita Parish Fish and Game Commission.

"Since a plan is underway to start operations to remove shad from Bayou DeSiard, possibly in another week, and since minnows are becoming hard to find by fish bait operators at this time of the year, it has been decided to let them salvage the Bayou DeSiard minnow crop during the next week only," McNeil said.

No permit will be necessary and any persons wanting minnows will be allowed to take them. Bayou DeSiard is not normally open to seining of any kind.

Minnow hunters are requested to dispose of any "rough" fish they take, and not to leave them on the banks of the stream.

Grim Captures Featured Race At State Fair

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 19 (AP)—The feature event of the Louisiana State Fair auto races today went to Bobby Grim of Indianapolis, Ind.

Grim drove his Offenhauser over the 20-lap, 10-mile course in 8:32.21. He edged out Don Carr of Indianapolis and Ken Loetscher of Kirkwood, Mo., both in Offys.

Loetscher earlier set a new seven-lap track record of 2:59.89 in the opening race. The record was held by Grim.

The feature big car race tomorrow, second day of the fair, will be a 25-lap Dixie Sweepstakes.

Oregon State Upset By Uclans, 26 To 7

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19 (AP)—The widespread epidemic of football upsets hit Los Angeles this afternoon when UCLA blasted Oregon State from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten teams 26-7.

The skies were dark and gloomy but this was a bright occasion for most of the 46,102 fans. Oregon State went into the game ranked No. 7 in the weekly ratings and was solidly favored to win its fifth straight game.

UCLA, loser to Oregon in its lone defeat but holding a sparkling victory over Illinois, took the opening kickoff and paraded by land and air 67 yards for a touchdown.

Coach Red Sanders' Bruins put on another 49-yard thrust in the second quarter for a 13-0 halftime lead, and that, to all intents, was the icing on the cake.

UCLA with halfbacks Don Long, Kirk Wilson and Chuck Kendall and fullback Barry Billington, outplayed the eared Beaver backs. The show was over when UCLA cashed in on a pass interception and a fumble for two more touchdowns in the third quarter.

UCLA	6	7	13	9	—26

UCLA scoring — Touchdowns: Billington (2, run); Mason (11, pass from Long); Long (1, run); Kendall (5, run). Conversions: Duncan, Gertsman.

L.S.U. Shatters Kentucky For 4th Straight Win, 21-0

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Louisiana State battered the Kentucky line with its one-two punch of Jimmy Taylor and Billy Cannon tonight, mauling the hapless Wildcats 21-0 for their fifth straight Southeastern Conference setback.

A happy homecoming crowd of 50,000 saw LSU win its fourth straight after an opening loss to Rice. It was the first time LSU has won four in a row since 1949.

Cannon, 196-pound halfback, scored two touchdowns with flashing runs right across the left tackle post guarded by Kentucky all-America candidate Lou Michaels. In the first period Cannon knifed seven yards to climax a 52-yard drive and bucked two yards in the fourth period after an 83-yard drive.

Taylor snatched a fumble in mid-air in the second quarter and raced 31 yards for a touchdown. The play was set up when sophomore halfback Johnny Robinson crashed in to nail Kentucky halfback Woody Herzog on an end sweep.

The 200 pound senior fulback also kicked all three conversions to boost his season's scoring total to 54 points, far ahead of all other SEC players.

In the second period Kentucky drove to the LSU eight and again to the 11 before penalties and the LSU defense stymied the drives.

The Wildcats went to the LSU four in the third period before LSU end Billy Hendrix hit quarterback Kenny Robertson for a loss on fourth down. Robertson tried to lateral and LSU quarterback Win Turner intercepted, running the ball to the LSU 17 to set the Tigers' final scoring drive.

On its first scoring drive, LSU ran plays away from Michaels, then on the scoring play faked to the opposite side, blocked him in and Cannon slashed over his vacant tackle post for the touchdown.

Michaels, who shifts and floats like a linebacker on defense, was the defensive standout for the Wildcats. Much of the Kentucky rushing yardage was made with him clearing the way.

Cannon, the SEC,s top ground gainer, gained 70 yards in 11 attempts for a 6.4 average, mostly on quick dashes through the line. Taylor carried 11 times for 56 yards, a 5.1 average.

Taylor, who calls defensive signals, did a fine job backing up the line. LSU also got outstanding defensive play from ends Hendrix and Billy Smith.

LSU scoring—Touchdowns: Cannon 2 (7, run; 2, run); Taylor (31, run). Conversions: Taylor 3.

BASTROP TOURNEY POSTPONED

Leonard Warren has informed us that the Louisiana Professional Golfers Organization Pro-Am Tournament scheduled for tomorrow at Bastrop has been postponed because of a Louisiana Turf Grass Association meeting in Lafayette the same day. Most of the pros will attend this meeting as it affords them an opportunity to keep up on latest improvements in grass and turf for our fairways and greens in this state and throughout the south.

The L.P.G.O. tournament has been reset for Monday, November 4, at the same time, same station which is 1 p.m., Morehouse Country Club, Bastrop.

NEW DeSIARD RECORD

Leonard Warren drove over to Bayou DeSiard from Bastrop this past week for a game and burned up the first nine holes in a record 29 strokes, six under par.

Leonard went two over on the back nine but still managed a four-under-par 66. That 66 was his fourth four-under-par round in as many days. He had fired three straight 68's on the preceding days on his home course at Bastrop (We hear a critter named "Spot" is hanging around the first tee every time Leonard shows up these days!).

The 18-hole course record at DeSiard is held jointly by Jim McGonagill, state amateur champ, and Julius Boros, former National Open Champ. They both had 62's. Gene Dahlbender (former Cotton States Champion) holds the record for the back nine with another one of those rare 29's.

HIGHLAND PARK CHAMPIONSHIP

The Highland Park Club Championship has reached the next-to-last stage as the semi-final matches are to be played before this day is done. The matches to be completed today and quarter-final results are as follows: Championship Flight—Ken Holt vs. E. B. Peddy, and Louis Whitfield vs. T. O. Bancroft, Jr., in the semi-finals. Quarter-finals: Holt beat Ed Watkins 1 up, Peddy beat John Lacy, 4 and 3, Whitfield won by default from Dan Nevils, and Bancroft beat F. E. Maxwell, 2 and 1.

First Flight—Watkins vs. Eyre and Charlton vs. Coats. Quarter-finals: Watkins beat Williams 1 up, Eyre won over Barker 4 and 3, Charlton beat Adams 4 and 2, and Coats won on default from Lyons.

Second Flight—Haddad vs. Brooks and Eaves vs. DeLand. Quarter-finals: Haddad won by default from McElroy, Brooks beat Albritton, 1 up, Eaves won on default from Luffey, and DeLand had a bye.

MRS. MILLER RETAINS CROWN

Mrs. George Miller successfully defended her Twin City Amateur Golf Championship Thursday by defeating Mrs. C. B. McMahan, tourney medalist, with a 4 and 3 victory in the finals.

This marks the second tournament in as many weeks that Mrs. Miller has repeated as champion. Mrs. C. B. McMahan has been runner-up in both of these tournaments so our conclusion is that both ladies are playing some mighty fine golf!

LADIES' STATE AMATEUR

The annual Ladies' State Amateur Tournament begins with the 18-hole qualifying tomorrow over the fine Metarie Country Club Course in New Orleans. Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas is the defending champion for the second straight year and is a strong favorite to retain her crown. The tournament will run through Friday and the 16 low qualifiers will make up the championship flight.

Clifford Ann won her first big tournament right here in Monroe two years ago at the Bayou DeSiard C.C. when she beat Wanda Sanches in the finals of the 1955 State Amateur.

Monroe has seven representatives at the tournament now and they are Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Walter Kellog, Mrs. Frank Davis, Mrs. Ed Harper, and Mrs. John Kelso from Bayou DeSiard along with Mrs. F. E. Maxwell and Mrs. L. N. Copes from Highland Park. Good Luck!

VICKSBURG PRO-AM

There will be a $750 Pro-Am in Vicksburg, Miss., on Tuesday, November 5. John Stahl, host pro, says all entrants should be registered by 12 p.m. on Monday, November 4. Each pro will have at least one team with A, B, and C players. Tee time is 9 a.m. Tuesday.

21-7 REVENGE

Terps Topple Heels As Queen Looks On

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 19 (UP)—Forty-three thousand came to see a Queen today and stayed to cheer a 21-7 Maryland revenge victory over favored North Carolina.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were the main attractions for this sell-out crowd but it was a speedy halfback, senior Ted Kershner, of Martinsberg, W. Va., who grabbed the spotlight with an electrifying 81-yard clutch touchdown run in the fourth period.

That sudden lightning bolt broke a 7-7 tie, North Carolina's back and Jim Tatum's heart as Kershner squired through a gaping hole off Carolina's right tackle and out-raced Daley Goff to the end zone.

Maryland then iced the game with a savge 75-yard touchdown drive through the Tarheel's crumbling defenses. Then, at game's end, the jubilant Terrapin squad carried young coach Tommy Mont across the field and "presented" him to the Queen—the reward of a knight in shining armor for the upset win over his former boss, the man who once coached Maryland to football's big time.

If football is a game the Queen didn't understand, it was at least one she will never forget. For it was fought with the ferocity of the jousting knights of old.

The Tarheels, seven-point favorites and regarded as a traditionally cautious Tatum team, gave Maryland the opening it needed with a gamble that backfired.

Leading 7-0 in the third period, Goff tried to run on fourth down with two years to go. He failed. The Terps took over on the Tarheel 39 and eight plays later had the tying touchdown—a one yard sneak by quarterback Bob Ruseviyan.

That was all the aroused Terps needed after two quarters of frustration. The next time Maryland got the ball in the fourth quarter, Kershner bolted 81 yards for the winning score and sophomore Jim Joyce added the clincher on a 13-yard burst through the center of the big but demoralized Carolina line. John Fritsch kicked all three conversions.

Score by periods:

Maryland	0	0	7	14	—21
North Carolina	7	0	0	0	— 7

Maryland scoring: Touchdowns, Rusevlyn (1, plunge), Kershner (81, run), Joyce (13, run). Conversions, Fritsch (3).

North Carolina scoring: Touchdowns, Goff (11, run). Conversions, Blazer.

ALSO TAG MATCH

Midget Girls Head Wrestling Program

A match between two midget lady wrestlers and the alliance of Wild Bill Steddum with hero Jack Curtis highlight Monday night's double main event wrestling program at Kallio's Arena.

Gypsy Rose and Doll Paige, a couple of pint - size female toughies, will battle in one of the night's machines and Steddum and Curtis face Black Jack Dillon and Garza Lozano in a tag team match to complete the card. The night's show will start at 8:15 with the doors to open at 7. Both matches are over the hour and 15 minutes or less limit with two falls needed to win.

Long renowned as one of the meanest villains in southern wrestling rings, Steddum decided to make his big switch to the other side of the fence last Monday night after tag team partners Dillon and Lozano beat the dickens out of him.

The "falling out of the thieves" began when, up to their usual illegal tactics, Dillon and Steddum ganged up on Jack Curtis and Bill took a swing at Curtis, being held by Dillon. Curtis ducked and Wild Bill hit Dillon. Dillon and Lozano jumped on Steddum and socked him good, setting him up for George Curtis who beat him for the final fall.

After the match Bill told promoter Kallio he was on the wrong side and asked for Jack Curtis as a partner. "I don't care who is in the other corner — Jack and I will take care of them," Steddum said.

Curtis agreed, saying "I don't select my partners every time. Bill is a tough boy and I don't have anything against him. If he wants me to help him, I am willing to do my best to beat our opponents.

So there you have the tag match, Louisiana heavyweight champion Jack Curtis and a reformed (?) bad boy against two unrepentant villains.

Kallio says the night's other match will bring together the two smallest lady wrestlers ever to grapple here. Gypsy Rose weighs only 90 lbs. and stands 43 inches tall while Miss Paige has the same weight but stands two inches higher.

Miss Rose has wrestled all over the country and is a big drawing card, always entering the ring wearing a full gypsy outfit, such as six large rings on her fingers and a flashy robe. The daughter of normal parents, Gypsy is a rough grappler and says she likes to tear "fragile little darlings" apart.

Doll Paige won't be wrestling to far from home tomorrow night since she lives a few miles outside Jackson, Mississippi. Also a daughter of normal parents, she was in nurse's training until deciding she liked grappling better.

VMI Noses Out William & Mary In 14-13 Game

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Oct. 19 (UP)—Quarterback Duke Johnston, demoted to the second team after a dismal day last Saturday, won his job back today by marching Virginia Military Institute 81 yards for one touchdown and passing for another in a 14-13 win over William and Mary.

Fullback Sam Woolwine, who scored once himself on a terrific smash, kicked both of the extra points that kept the Keydets unbeaten, but once tied, before a crowd of 6,500.

But it was Johnston, a lean senior from New Castle, Del., who fired up the Keydets for the long march in the second period and flipped a 10-yard scoring pass with four minutes left to play for a come-from-behind victory.

Guard Lou Farmer recovered fumbles that set up both touchdowns.

Southeastern Tips Florence State, 21-19

FLORENCE, Ala., Oct. 19 (AP) — Southeastern Louisiana College won its first game of the season tonight by rallying to down Jack Redwine and his Florence State teammates, 21-19.

Redwine passed 26 yards to L. C. Faller for Florence's first touchdown and then ran five yards to score another before the first period ended. Redwine scored another touchdown in the second period on a 56-yard run. Joe Mosey made the only Florence conversion.

After recovering a fumble early in the second period, Tommy Bell tallied for SLC on an eight yard run. Wayne Dugas climaxed two long fourth period drives with scoring runs of five and two yards. Ken Bailey made the three conversions which spelled the difference.

Previously, SLC had scored only 14 points in three games, tying one and losing the other two.

SLC	0	7	0	14	—21
Florence	13	6	0	0	—19

SLC scoring—Touchdowns: Bell (8, run); Dugas 2 (5, run; 2, run). Conversions: Bailey 3.

Florence scoring — Touchdowns: Faller (26, pass-run from Redwine); Redwine 2 (5, run; 56, run). Conversion: Mosey.

U. S. Girls Win World Tourney

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 19 (AP)—The United States whipped Brazil, 67-44, tonight in the final round of the Women's World Basketball Championships.

Led by Nora White, of the Nashville Business College, who scored 28 points, the United States pulled away to an easy triumph after Brazil trailed by only 12-11 at the end of the first quarter.

WIN IN LAST PERIOD

Gordon Paces Vols Over Alabama, 14-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 19 (AP)—Bobby Gordon's running and passing in the final quarter gave Tennessee a 14-0 victory over arch rival Alabama today in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Gordon passed nine yards to end Tommy Potts for the first score with two minutes gone in the last period. Six minutes later he turned his right end for four and the other Vol touchdown.

Outplayed in the first half, Gordon got the Tennessee attack rolling quickly in the second half. The winners drove 60 yards midway of the third period only to have Gordon's fourth down plung stopped a foot away.

Their first scoring march, for 44 yards, was underway when that period ended. Their next drive was set up by a short 'Bama punt, which went out on the 33.

Alabama made two serious threats, one of 74 yards which died with a fumble at the Vol six, and another in the final seconds which got as far as the Vol two before two plays were smared.

Gordon raced 72 yards into the end zone with a 'Bama punt in the second quarter, but the run was nullified by a penalty.

Simms said his committee was checking reports on outstanding players but no final selections have been made.

Final selection will be made Nov. 15.

Haney Takes New Contract With Braves

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 19 (UP)—Little Fred Haney, who managed the Milwaukee Braves to the 1957 world series championship, signed a new contract today to be the field pilot for the team in 1958.

The 58 year-old Haney, whose Braves brought the baseball crown to Milwaukee for the first time in a thunderous wave of jubilation, signed the one-year pact after a short conference with team president Joseph Cairnes and general manager John Quinn.

Haney said he was "well pleased" with next season's working agreement that is believed to include a substantial raise over the reported $35,000 he received during the Braves successful 1957 campaign.

The one year working agreement between Haney and the club was in line with policy set by Cairnes.

SOUTHERN AT DALLAS

The twenty-first annual Southern Handicap Bowling Tournament gets underway February 22 and runs through March 30 in Dallas, Tex.

The tournament is scheduled for Hap Morse's bowling lanes and there'll be $25,000 in prizes.

Last year Monroe sent four teams to Memphis, Tenn., to participate in the Southern, and we're expecting to have a much larger local turnout for Dallas.

SPARE STUFF

June Baker bowled the high game in the Ladies League the past week—a big 202. Myrtle Draughn copped the high series—a fat 546. Congratulations, girls!

Tom Spatafora's Grocery, Fink's Men's Wear, Henderson Curb Market, and Schlitz Beer are having quite a battle for first place in the Pioneer League. Three points separate the four clubs. As of this week, it's Tom Spatafora on top by a game and a half.

Red Holley (Fink's) leads the league in average. Red currently carries a sporty 186, the highest average in Monroe. He helped himself plenty the past week with a 229 game and a 617 series.

Tom Spatafora Grocery turned in the highest team series of the season, putting a 3,129 on the boards. Charlie Walker and Ernest Carter were the big guns in the scoring department.

E. B. Peddy (currently a sports double-dipper—he's also active in golf) and Sonny Durham are in New Orleans this weekend giving the men's scratch championship meet a whirl. The bowlers roll 24 games to qualify. Phil Pepperone of New Orleans won the event last year.

Mary Correro, a comparative newcomer to bowling circles, fired a 206 single game the past week, setting a new individual high game for the Business Women's League. Mary sparked Fields to a four-point win, bringing her team within half point of first place with the fine feat.

Don Spatafora registered his first 60 series this year in the Kegler League. He put together games of 215-161-224 for an even 600. Hope you have many more of 'em, Don!

H. N. "Casey" Jones was seen wearing a sign on the back of his bowling shirt that read "Just Call Me Sputnik—Because The Scores I've Been Rolling Are Out of This World."

Every team has a low man, Casey.

PRO FOOTBALL

Browns, Colts Risk Unbeaten Records

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

The Cleveland Browns and Baltimore Colts, both undefeated and leading their divisions in the National Football League, will try to make it four straight today against teams they have beaten previously this season.

Cleveland, victor over the Eagles last Sunday 24-7, meets the Birds at Philadelphia, while the day's largest crowd, some 54,000 will jam Briggs Stadium at Detroit to watch the Colts against the Lions.

All 12 N.F.L. teams see action this afternoon with the San Francisco 49ers and Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee, the Los Angeles Rams playing the Bears at Chicago, the Chicago Cardinals meeting the Redskins at Washington; and the Pittsburgh Steelers opening the Giants' home season at New York.

Cleveland, which defeated the Giants and Steelers earlier, will be favored over the Eagles, who have a losing streak extending through eight league games in 1956 and 1957. Rookie Sonny Jurgensen and Al Dorow will quarterback the Eagles unless Bobby Thomason's throwing arm is completely healed. All-America Jimmy Brown is the top greund gainer for Cleveland, while Tommy O'Connell is the league's second best passer.

Detroit, which threw up a rugged defense to stop Los Angeles last week 10-7, is tied with San Francisco for second place, each 2 and 1, in the western conference.

The Lions must find a way to throttle Baltimore's Johnny Unitas, who completed 14 passes out of 23 for 241 yards and four touchdowns the last time the teams met. The Colts limited Detroit to a net gain of only 23 yards on the ground in their opener.

Green Bay, whipped 45-17 by Baltimore last Sunday after leading 10-7 at halftime, must tighten its defense against the running of the 49er's Hugh McElhenny and the passing of Y. A. Tittle. Tittle is third among the league passers with an average gain of 8.42 yards, with Unitas fourth at 8.41 O'Connell's average is 8.69.

Eddie LeBaron, diminutive Washington quarterback, is the N.F.L's top pasesr with an average of 10.67 yards, although the Redskins were downed 24-20 last week by the Giants. Washington and the Cardinals are tied in the eastern division with one victory and two defeats apiece.

The Bears, although beaten last week by San Francisco, 21-17, are favored over the Los Angeles Rams, who spent the league's leading ground gainer in Thomas Wilson, a Durham, N.C., high school graduate who never played college ball. The Bears have lost three straight after being one of the early choices and defending Western conference champs.

Probably the most important clash in the eastern division is the Yankee Stadium duel between Pittsburgh and the Giants, tied for second with two wins and one less.

New York's starting quarterback, Don Heinrich, is still sidelined with a broken thumb. In addition the Giants' may be without the services of Ben Agajanian, their ace field goal kicker, who has been in bed with the flu.

The "new look" Steelers, with 17 new players — 14 brought in by Buddy Parker since he became coach seven weeks ago—are a distinct threat to the world champion Giants as they open their 33rd season at home. Pittsburgh defeated the Cardinals last week, 29-20.

Segura Defeats Hoad In Africa

JOHANNESBURG, Oct. 19 (AP) — Pancho Segura defeated Hoad 6-2, 6-2, today in the second match of the professional tennis tour of South Africa.

Ken Rosewal beat Jack Kramer 6-3, 6-0, 6-2. Kramer and Segura lost to Hoad and Rosewall in doubles, 6-4, 6-3.

BASTROP TOURNEY POSTPONED

Leonard Warren has informed us that the Louisiana Professional Golfers Organization Pro-Am Tournament scheduled for tomorrow at Bastrop has been postponed because of a Louisiana Turf Grass Association meeting in Lafayette the same day. Most of the pros will attend this meeting as it affords them an opportunity to keep up on latest improvements in grass and turf for our fairways and greens in this state and throughout the south.

The L.P.G.O. tournament has been reset for Monday, November 4, at the same time, same station which is 1 p.m., Morehouse Country Club, Bastrop.

NEW DeSIARD RECORD

Leonard Warren drove over to Bayou DeSiard from Bastrop this past week for a game and burned up the first nine holes in a record 29 strokes, six under par.

Leonard went two over on the back nine but still managed a four-under-par 66. That 66 was his fourth four-under-par round in as many days. He had fired three straight 68's on the preceding days on his home course at Bastrop (We hear a critter named "Spot" is hanging around the first tee every time Leonard shows up these days!).

The 18-hole course record at DeSiard is held jointly by Jim McGonagill, state amateur champ, and Julius Boros, former National Open Champ. They both had 62's. Gene Dahlbender (former Cotton States Champion) holds the record for the back nine with another one of those rare 29's.

HIGHLAND PARK CHAMPIONSHIP

The Highland Park Club Championship has reached the next-to-last stage as the semi-final matches are to be played before this day is done. The matches to be completed today and quarter-final results are as follows: Championship Flight—Ken Holt vs. E. B. Peddy, and Louis Whitfield vs. T. O. Bancroft, Jr., in the semi-finals. Quarter-finals: Holt beat Ed Watkins 1 up, Peddy beat John Lacy, 4 and 3, Whitfield won by default from Dan Nevils, and Bancroft beat F. E. Maxwell, 2 and 1.

First Flight—Watkins vs. Eyre and Charlton vs. Coats. Quarter-finals: Watkins beat Williams 1 up, Eyre won over Barker 4 and 3, Charlton beat Adams 4 and 2, and Coats won on default from Lyons.

Second Flight—Haddad vs. Brooks and Eaves vs. DeLand. Quarter-finals: Haddad won by default from McElroy, Brooks beat Albritton, 1 up, Eaves won on default from Luffey, and DeLand had a bye.

MRS. MILLER RETAINS CROWN

Mrs. George Miller successfully defended her Twin City Amateur Golf Championship Thursday by defeating Mrs. C. B. McMahan, tourney medalist, with a 4 and 3 victory in the finals.

This marks the second tournament in as many weeks that Mrs. Miller has repeated as champion. Mrs. C. B. McMahan has been runner-up in both of these tournaments so our conclusion is that both ladies are playing some mighty fine golf!

LADIES' STATE AMATEUR

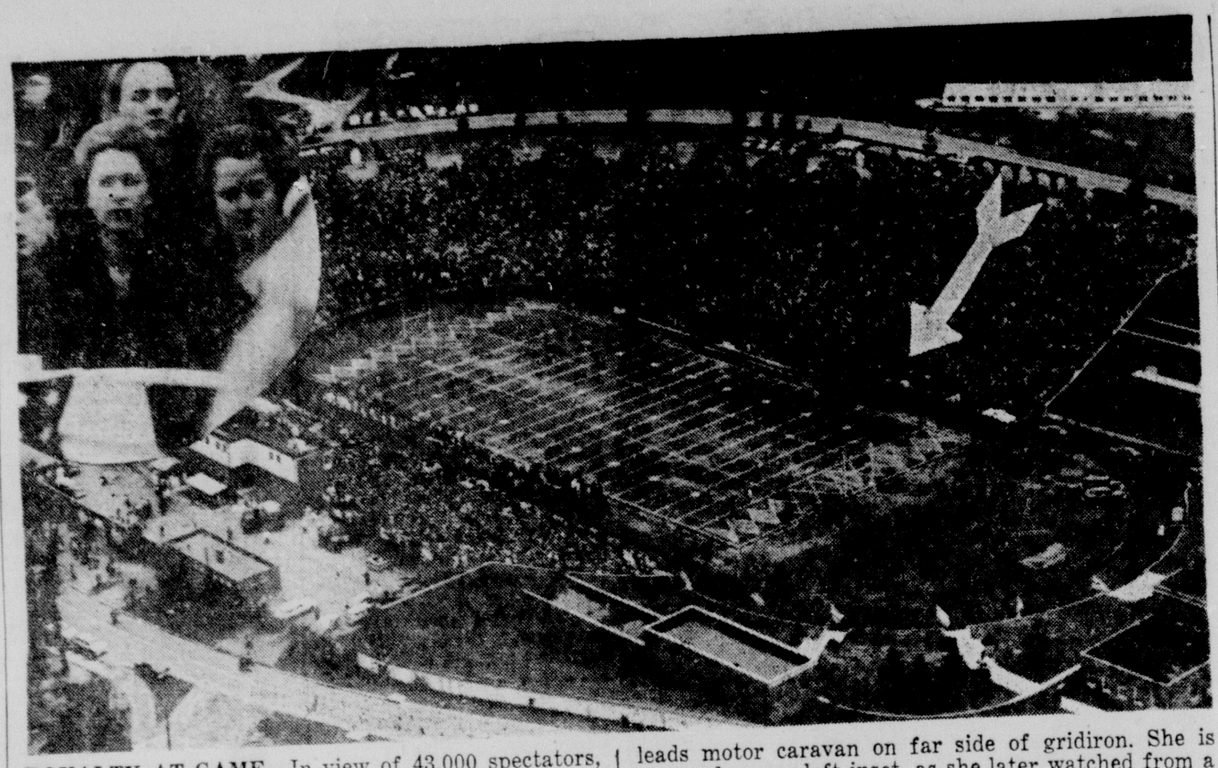
The annual Ladies' State Amateur Tournament begins with the 18-hole qualifying tomorrow over the fine Metarie Country Club Course in New Orleans. Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas is the defending champion for the second straight year and is a strong favorite to retain her crown. The tournament will run through Friday and the 16 low qualifiers will make up the championship flight.

Clifford Ann won her first big tournament right here in Monroe two years ago at the Bayou DeSiard C.C. when she beat Wanda Sanches in the finals of the 1955 State Amateur.

Monroe has seven representatives at the tournament now and they are Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Walter Kellog, Mrs. Frank Davis, Mrs. Ed Harper, and Mrs. John Kelso from Bayou DeSiard along with Mrs. F. E. Maxwell and Mrs. L. N. Copes from Highland Park. Good Luck!

VICKSBURG PRO-AM

There will be a $750 Pro-Am in Vicksburg, Miss., on Tuesday, November 5. John Stahl, host pro, says all entrants should be registered by 12 p.m. on Monday, November 4. Each pro will have at least one team with A, B, and C players. Tee time is 9 a.m. Tuesday.



ROYALTY AT GAME—In view of 43,000 spectators, Queen Elizabeth rides into the University of Maryland stadium yesterday to watch the Maryland-North Carolina football game. 21-7 REVENGE

Terps Topple Heels As Queen Looks On

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 19 (UP)—Forty-three thousand came to see a Queen today and stayed to cheer a 21-7 Maryland revenge victory over favored North Carolina.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were the main attractions for this sell-out crowd but it was a speedy halfback, senior Ted Kershner, of Martinsberg, W. Va., who grabbed the spotlight with an electrifying 81-yard clutch touchdown run in the fourth period.

That sudden lightning bolt broke a 7-7 tie, North Carolina's back and Jim Tatum's heart as Kershner squired through a gaping hole off Carolina's right tackle and out-raced Daley Goff to the end zone.

Maryland then iced the game with a savge 75-yard touchdown drive through the Tarheel's crumbling defenses. Then, at game's end, the jubilant Terrapin squad carried young coach Tommy Mont across the field and "presented" him to the Queen—the reward of a knight in shining armor for the upset win over his former boss, the man who once coached Maryland to football's big time.

If football is a game the Queen didn't understand, it was at least one she will never forget. For it was fought with the ferocity of the jousting knights of old.

The Tarheels, seven-point favorites and regarded as a traditionally cautious Tatum team, gave Maryland the opening it needed with a gamble that backfired.

Leading 7-0 in the third period, Goff tried to run on fourth down with two years to go. He failed. The Terps took over on the Tarheel 39 and eight plays later had the tying touchdown—a one yard sneak by quarterback Bob Rusevlyan.

That was all the aroused Terps needed after two quarters of frustration. The next time Maryland got the ball in the fourth quarter, Kershner bolted 81 yards for the winning score and sophomore Jim Joyce added the clincher on a 13-yard burst through the center of the big but demoralized Carolina line. John Fritsch kicked all three conversions.

Score by periods:
Maryland	0	0	7	14	—21
North Carolina	7	0	0	0	— 7

Maryland scoring: Touchdowns, Rusevlyn (1, plunge), Kershner (81, run), Joyce (13, run). Conversions, Fritsch (3).

North Carolina scoring: Touchdowns, Goff (11, run). Conversions, Blazer.

ALSO TAG MATCH

Midget Girls Head Wrestling Program

A match between two midget lady wrestlers and the alliance of Wild Bill Steddum with hero Jack Curtis highlight Monday night's double main event wrestling program at Kallio's Arena.

Gypsy Rose and Doll Paige, a couple of pint - size female toughies, will battle in one of the night's machines and Steddum and Curtis face Black Jack Dillon and Garza Lozano in a tag team match to complete the card. The night's show will start at 8:15 with the doors to open at 7. Both matches are over the hour and 15 minutes or less limit with two falls needed to win.

Long renowned as one of the meanest villains in southern wrestling rings, Steddum decided to make his big switch to the other side of the fence last Monday night after tag team partners Dillon and Lozano beat the dickens out of him.

The "falling out of the thieves" began when, up to their usual illegal tactics, Dillon and Steddum ganged up on Jack Curtis and Bill took a swing at Curtis, being held by Dillon. Curtis ducked and Wild Bill hit Dillon. Dillon and Lozano jumped on Steddum and socked him good, setting him up for George Curtis who beat him for the final fall.

After the match Bill told promoter Kallio he was on the wrong side and asked for Jack Curtis as a partner. "I don't care who is in the other corner — Jack and I will take care of them," Steddum said.

Curtis agreed, saying "I don't select my partners every time. Bill is a tough boy and I don't have anything against him. If he wants me to help him, I am willing to do my best to beat our opponents. So there you have the tag match, Louisiana heavyweight champion Jack Curtis and a reformed (?) bad boy against two unrepentant villains.

Kallio says the night's other match will bring together the two smallest lady wrestlers ever to grapple here. Gypsy Rose weighs only 90 lbs. and stands 43 inches tall while Miss Paige has the same weight but stands two inches higher.

Miss Rose has wrestled all over the country and is a big drawing card, always entering the ring wearing a full gypsy outfit, such as six large rings on her fingers and a flashy robe. The daughter of normal parents, Gypsy is a rough grappler and says she likes to tear "fragile little darlings" apart.

Doll Paige won't be wrestling to far from home tomorrow night since she lives a few miles outside Jackson, Mississippi. Also a daughter of normal parents, she was in nurse's training until deciding she liked grappling better.

VMI Noses Out William & Mary In 14-13 Game

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Oct. 19 (UP)—Quarterback Duke Johnston, demoted to the second team after a dismal day last Saturday, won his job back today by marching Virginia Military Institute 81 yards for one touchdown and passing for another in a 14-13 win over William and Mary.

Fullback Sam Woolwine, who scored once himself on a terrific smash, kicked both of the extra points that kept the Keydets unbeaten, but once tied, before a crowd of 6,500.

But it was Johnston, a lean senior from New Castle, Del., who fired up the Keydets for the long march in the second period and flipped a 10-yard scoring pass with four minutes left to play for a come-from-behind victory.

Guard Lou Farmer recovered fumbles that set up both touchdowns.

U. S. Girls Win World Tourney

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 19 (AP)—The United States whipped Brazil, 67-44, tonight in the final round of the Women's World Basketball Championships.

Led by Nora White, of the Nashville Business College, who scored 28 points, the United States pulled away to an easy triumph after Brazil trailed by only 12-11 at the end of the first quarter.

Southeastern Tips Florence State, 21-19

FLORENCE, Ala., Oct. 19 (AP) — Southeastern Louisiana College won its first game of the season tonight by rallying to down Jack Redwine and his Florence State teammates, 21-19.

Redwine passed 26 yards to L. C. Faller for Florence's first touchdown and then ran five yards to score another before the first period ended. Redwine scored another touchdown in the second period on a 56-yard run. Joe Mosey made the only Florence conversion.

After recovering a fumble early in the second period, Tommy Bell tallied for SLC on an eight yard run. Wayne Dugas climaxed two long fourth period drives with scoring runs of five and two yards. Ken Bailey made the three conversions which spelled the difference.

Previously, SLC had scored only 14 points in three games, tying one and losing the other two.

SLC	0	7	0	14	—21
Florence	13	6	0	0	—19

SLC scoring—Touchdowns: Bell (8, run); Dugas 2 (5, run; 2, run). Conversions: Bailey 3.

Florence scoring — Touchdowns: Faller (26, pass-run from Redwine); Redwine 2 (5, run; 56, run). Conversion: Mosey.

Haney Takes New Contract With Braves

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 19 (UP)—Little Fred Haney, who managed the Milwaukee Braves to the 1957 world series championship, signed a new contract today to be the field pilot for the team in 1958.

The 58 year-old Haney, whose Braves brought the baseball crown to Milwaukee for the first time in a thunderous wave of jubilation, signed the one-year pact after a short conference with team president Joseph Cairnes and general manager John Quinn.

Haney said he was "well pleased" with next season's working agreement that is believed to include a substantial raise over the reported $35,000 he received during the Braves successful 1957 campaign.

The one year working agreement between Haney and the club was in line with policy set by Cairnes.

Junior College Classic Dec. 7

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP)—The second annual national junior college all-American all-star football game will be played at Hinds County Memorial Stadium Dec. 7.

Mose Simms, chairman of the selecting committee, said the game is played for Mississippi charities selected by The Clarion-Ledger and Jackson Daily News.

Simms said his committee was checking reports on outstanding players but no final selections have been made.

Final selection will be made Nov. 15.

WIN IN LAST PERIOD

Gordon Paces Vols Over Alabama, 14-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 19 (AP)—Bobby Gordon's running and passing in the final quarter gave Tennessee a 14-0 victory over arch rival Alabama today in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Gordon passed nine yards to end Tommy Potts for the first score with two minutes gone in the last period. Six minutes later he turned his right end for four and the other Vol touchdown.

Outplayed in the first half, Gordon got the Tennessee attack rolling quickly in the second half. The winners drove 60 yards midway of the third period only to have Gordon's fourth down plung stopped a foot away.

Their first scoring march, for 44 yards, was underway when that period ended. Their next drive was set up by a short 'Bama punt, which went out on the 33.

Alabama made two serious threats, one of 74 yards which died with a fumble at the Vol six, and another in the final seconds which got as far as the Vol two before two plays were smared.

Gordon raced 72 yards into the end zone with a 'Bama punt in the second quarter, but the run was nullified by a penalty.

SOUTHERN AT DALLAS

The twenty-first annual Southern Handicap Bowling Tournament gets underway February 22 and runs through March 30 in Dallas, Tex.

The tournament is scheduled for Hap Morse's bowling lanes and there'll be $25,000 in prizes.

Last year Monroe sent four teams to Memphis, Tenn., to participate in the Southern, and we're expecting to have a much larger local turnout for Dallas.

SPARE STUFF

June Baker bowled the high game in the Ladies League the past week—a big 202. Myrtle Draughn copped the high series—a fat 546. Congratulations, girls!

Tom Spatafora's Grocery, Fink's Men's Wear, Henderson Curb Market, and Schlitz Beer are having quite a battle for first place in the Pioneer League. Three points separate the four clubs. As of this week, it's Tom Spatafora on top by a game and a half.

Red Holley (Fink's) leads the league in average. Red currently carries a sporty 186, the highest average in Monroe. He helped himself plenty the past week with a 229 game and a 617 series.

Tom Spatafora Grocery turned in the highest team series of the season, putting a 3,129 on the boards. Charlie Walker and Ernest Carter were the big guns in the scoring department.

E. B. Peddy (currently a sports double-dipper —he's also active in golf) and Sonny Durham are in New Orleans this weekend giving the men's scratch championship meet a whirl. The bowlers roll 24 games to qualify. Phil Pepperone of New Orleans won the event last year.

Mary Correro, a comparative newcomer to bowling circles, fired a 206 single game the past week, setting a new individual high game for the Business Women's League. Mary sparked Fields to a four-point win, bringing her team within half point of first place with the fine feat.

Don Spatafora registered his first 60 series this year in the Kegler League. He put together games of 215-161-224 for an even 600. Hope you have many more of 'em, Don!

H. N. "Casey" Jones was seen wearing a sign on the back of his bowling shirt that read "Just Call Me Sputnik—Because The Scores I've Been Rolling Are Out of This World."

Every team has a low man, Casey.

PRO FOOTBALL

Browns, Colts Risk Unbeaten Records

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

The Cleveland Browns and Baltimore Colts, both undefeated and leading their divisions in the National Football League, will try to make it four straight today against teams they have beaten previously this season.

Cleveland, victor over the Eagles last Sunday 24-7, meets the Birds at Philadelphia, while the day's largest crowd, some 54 000 will jam Briggs Stadium at Detroit to watch the Colts against the Lions.

All 12 N.F.L. teams see action this afternoon with the San Francisco 49ers and Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee, the Los Angeles Rams playing the Bears at Chicago, the Chicago Cardinals meeting the Redskins at Washington; and the Pittsburgh Steelers opening the Giants' home season at New York.

Cleveland, which defeated the Giants and Steelers earlier, will be favored over the Eagles, who have a losing streak extending through eight league games in 1956 and 1957. Rookie Sonny Jurgensen and Al Dorow will quarterback the Eagles unless Bobby Thomason's throwing arm is completely healed. All-America Jimmy Brown is the top ground gainer for Cleveland, while Tommy O'Connell is the league's second best passer.

Detroit, which threw up a rugged defense to stop Los Angeles last week 10-7, is tied with San Francisco for second place, each 2 and 1, in the western conference.

The Lions must find a way to throttle Baltimore's Johnny Unitas, who completed 14 passes out of 23 for 241 yards and four touchdowns the last time the teams met. The Colts limited Detroit to a net gain of only 23 yards on the ground in their opener.

Green Bay, whipped 45-17 by Baltimore last Sunday after leading 10-7 at halftime, must tighten its defense against the running of the 49er's Hugh McElhenny and the passing of Y. A. Tittle. Tittle is third among the league passers with an average gain of 8.42 yards, with Unitas fourth at 8.41 O'Connell's average is 8.69.

Eddie LeBaron, diminutive Washington quarterback, is the N.F.L's top pasesr with an average of 10.67 yards, although the Redskins were downed 24-20 last week by the Giants. Washington and the Cardinals are tied in the eastern division with one victory and two defeats apiece.

The Bears, although beaten last week by San Francisco, 21-17, are favored over the Los Angeles Rams, who spent the league's leading ground gainer in Thom-

PASSES HELP

Arkansas Upset, 17 To 0, By Texas Ground Attack

By PHILIP NEWMAN

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 19 (UP)—The University of Texas Longhorns combined a slow but steady ground assault with a sprinkling of passes to upset Arkansas 17-0 before 27,000 fans today.

The game, with Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the stands, marked the end of the Porkers' three-year win streak over the Texans and gave the Steers a fresh start in Southwest Conference play with a 1-0 record. It also nipped the Razorbacks' record of four straight.

Fullback Fred Bednarski, a Polish displaced person only five years ago, opened the Texas scoring with a 23-yard field goal. The kick, executed in Bednarski's distinctive soccer style, came early in the opening period.

Season's First Pass

Halfback Max Alvis threw his first pass of the season, 27 yards to halfback George Blanch, for the Longhorns' first touchdown and the first play in the second quarter. Quarterback Walt Fondren converted.

Arkansas threatened throughout the third quarter with an effective ground attack spearheaded by fullback Gerald Nesbit and, late in the quarter, by third-string quarterback Freddy Akers. A series of penalties and incomplete passes, however, kept the Porkers out of the end zone.

The Longhorns' back - breaking ground yardage reflected most of the story of their triumph. Paced by the pounding Dowle who knifed seven times for 74 yards, the Longhorns rolled up 246 yards to 192 for Arkansas.

In passes, it was a different story. Arkansas moved 126 yards through the air, while Texas picked up only 31, coming on two completed passes.

Arkansas won in total yardage with 318 to the Longhorns 277.

Halfback Donnie Stone and quarterback George Walker contributed most in Arkansas's offensive superiority. Stone romped for 77 yards in 12 carries, and Walker ran for 16 in five. Walker passed for 97 more.

Score by periods:

Texas	3	7	0	7—17

OPEN TUESDAY

Pro Cagers Expect Another Big Season

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — The National Basketball Association, fortified with a pair of transplanted franchises and George Mikan as the lone coaching change, swings into its 12th season this week on a note of high optimism.

A 288-game schedule, calling for each team to play 72 games, opens Tuesday night at St. Louis with the Hawks playing host to the defending champion Boston Celtics. By Saturday night all the clubs — including Detroit and Cincinnati, the new cities — will have seen action.

The Pistons and the Royals have done the franchise shifting while Mikan, an all - time N.B.A. playing great, has switched jobs with John Kundla. Mikan moves from general manager of the Minneapolis Lakers to coach and Kundla replaces big George in the front office.

The Pistons have transferred their franchise from Fort Wayne to Detroit with the Royals relocating their team in Cincinnati from Rochester.

Detroit fans get a chance to see their club for the first time Wednesday night when the Pistons meet Boston in he second game of a double header. The Hawks and the New York Knickerbackers tangle in the opener.

Cincinnati's home Lid-lifter takes place Saturday with the Syracuse Nats as the opposition. Other home openers this week included the Philadelphia Warriors at Syracuse Friday night, and Boston at New York Saturday night. Other Saturday night games pair Philadelphia at Detroit and Minneapolis at St. Louis.

Mauric Podoloff, president of the league, is enthusiastic over the season's outlook. "In presenting the schedule of the National Basketball Association for the season 1957-58," Podoloff said, "I do so with the expectation that as last year was the greatest season we ever had, the one we are about to enter on will exceed this.

"The keen competition which resulted in a three - way tie in the western division and a near duplication of the same situation in the eastern division, will be intensified this coming season by the addition of new players and the return of some of those who have been serving in the armed forces.

"I also believe that the addition of two major cities to our league, Cincinnati and Detroit, will do much to increase spectator interest in all of our cities, which is already being stimulated by wider press and national magazine coverage as well as our National Broadcasting Company Saturday afternoon game of the week."

The first of a series of 12 regular season Saturday afternoon telecasts will begin Dec. 14 with the New York at St. Louis game on the NBC network. Three additional telecasts are scheduled for the league playoffs which start in mid-March.

The rosters of most of the clubs will be sprinkled with newcomers and veterans alike resulting from several trades as well as the college draft.

In the eastern division the champion Celtics, headed by Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman, will field a veteran array, including Bill Russell and Frank Ramsay, both of whom were missing at last season's outset.

Philadelphia will get back Tom Gola from service to go along with veterans Paul Arizin, Neil Johnston and Joe Graboski.

Syracuse will display Larry Costello, formerly of the Warriors, in the backcourt with player-coach Paul Seymour and Dolph Schayes the mainstays. Ed Conlin expects to be discharged from service shortly.

New York will sport a new look with Mel Hutchins, obtained from the Pistons and Charlie Tyra, former All - America at Louisville, the best of the newcomers. The Knicks will be handicapped at the start with injuries and ailments to Richie Guerin and former Harlem Globetrotter, Willie Gardner. Carl Braun heads the vets.

St. Louis' western division titleholders, who bowed to the Celtics in seven games in the final playoffs, welcomes back Frank Selvy from the army. Last season's experienced hands also will be around with Bob Pettit and Slater Martin leading the way.

Cincinnati has obtained Clyde Lovellette and Jim Paxson from Minneapolis and purchased George King from Syracuse. This trio augments an imposing list of returnees including Maurice Stokes and Dick Ricketts.

Detroit, fielding its first pro basketball team in 11 years, has acquired three former Knicks—Harry Gallatin, Sweets Clifton and Dick McGuire — to team with mainstay George Yardley.

Rookies Hot Rod Hundley and Jim Krebs give Minneapolis a new look along with Ed Fleming, Bob Burrow and Art Spoelstra, obtained from the Royals and Larry Foust, traded from the Pistons for Walt Dukes.

Yale Rallies In Second Half To Defeat Cornell

ITHACA, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP) — Yale struck for three touchdowns in a second half, come - from-behind effort to defeat Cornell 18-7 before 20,000 homecoming fans today.

The victory was the Bulldog's third in four games. Cornell has a 1-3 record.

GATORS FUMBLE 6 TIMES

Miss. State Tops Fumbling Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP) —Underdog Mississippi State pounced on six Florida fumbles and Billy Stacy took it from there to a 29-20 Maroon football victory today.

Cook kicked a field goal in the fourth quarter that brought Mississippi State from behind to a 22-20 lead.

That was the second time the Maroons surged back after trailing.

They went down 13-0 midway in the second quarter when Miller set the team on fire with a 55-yard run. He and Stacy shared credit with a Florida fumble for getting the Maroons even 13-13 at halftime.

Although the field goal by Cook, after the final Florida fumble, scored the key three points, they wouldn't have meant a thing if Stacy's flashy running and tricky quarterbacking hadn't kept Mississippi State close enough to benefit.

It was easy to see why Stacy was chosen all Southeastern Conference quarterback as a sophomore last year even after Florida's Joe Brodsky ruined his collegiate debut with pass interceptions that led the Gators to a 26-0 victory.

This was Stacy's revenge. And though his passing was no better today—only one completion in seven tries and two interceptions—his running was. And so was his field generalship.

Miss. State	0	13	6	10—29
Florida	0	13	7	0—20

Florida scoring — touchdowns: Roanirez (46, pass-run from Parrish); Parrish (1, plunge); Dunn (3, run). Conversions: Parrish 2.

Hartack, Idun Team To Take Garden Stakes

CAMDEN, N.J., Oct. 19 (AP) — Willie Hartack, king of the jockey's and Idun, queen of the 2 - year - old fillies, teamed for a smashing victory in the $144,975 Gardenia Stakes at Garden State Park today.

Idun eliminated any doubts to her claim for juvenile filly honors and Hartack tied a record of 40 stakes victories in one year held by Eddie Arcaro with a front running triumph in the mile and one sixteenth race.

Hartack was looking back over his shoulder as he eased the Royal Charger - Tige O'Myheart filly in the stretch. He sent Idun winging to the front as the field of 15 came charging out of the gate. He widened his margin with every stride and at one time led by almost eight lengths. The official final margin was 3½ lengths.

Idun earned $102,475 for her owner, Mrs. C. Ulrick Bay, who purchased the yearling at Keeneland in 1956 for an American record price of $53,000. Even at that price, the filly apparently is a bargain. She now has earned $163,205, winning seven races in an unbeaten career. The only blot on her record, if it is a blot, was in her first start when she finished second and was moved up on a disqualification.

The bay was timed in 1:45.2 over a muddy track, the same time turned in by the two previous winners of the Gardenia. A crowd of 33,314 jammed Garden State on a cold, clear day following yesterday's all - day rain.

They backed Idun into 6-3 favoritism and the fleet filly didn't give her backers an anxious moment.

Idun paid $4.60, $3 and $3 across the board. Second in the race—and a well beaten runnerup she was — was Craftiness, a surprise entry yesterday by owner Joseph M. Roebling. Ridden by Robert J. Martin, Craftiness was a field horse, as was the third finisher, meant well, owned by Circle M farm and handled by jockey George Taniguchi. Charles S. Quigley's Quig Flame was fourth.

Earlier, the combination of owners Mrs. G. E. Lewis, tnainen Willie Molter and jockey Willie Harmatz accounted for both ends of the split Garden State Trail race, although the second half of the preliminary to next week's $300,000 plus Garden State Stakes wound up in a dead heat.

Mantins Rullah, a bsown 2 - year - old colt, took the first half of the trial, winging through the stretch after trailing most of the mile and a sixteenth, to nip R. D. Prewitt's Terra Firma by a head. Harmatz booted the Nasrullah colt home to pay the nifty win price of $19.60. Martins Rullah has been nominated for the Garden State, but it will cost Terra Firma's owner $10,000 as a supplementary fee if he wishes to enter his colt in the big race.

In the scond part of the trial, the Lewis - Molter - Harmatz triumvirate, saddled Music Man Fox, a 12-1 shot, who battled to a deadheat with Caliborne farm's Nadir, a 3-1 co -favorite in the field of 10. Steve Brooks handled Nadir, like Music Man Fox an eligible for the rich Garden State. Music Man Fox returned an $11 win pay off, and Nadir $5 in the split deadheat pool.

Ouachita Parish Grammar School To Play Crosley

Coach K. L. Lindsay's Ouachita Grammar School football team will play Crosley Grammar School of West Monroe here Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock.

Like many others, Lindsay's team has been unable to play part of their scheduled games because of flu and has met only one team, Claiborne of West Monroe. Ouachita won, 16-7.

Pastrano 2-1 Favorite Over British Rival

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Eleven thousand fight fans are in for an unusual experience at London's Harringay Arena Tuesday night—watching an American boxer against a British slugger.

Willie Pastrano, the stylist from New Orleans, will match his boxing abilities and a straight left against the slugging Welsh Milkman, Dick Richardson, in a 10 - rounder.

Usually it's the other way around — the Briton who hits and runs, trying to pile up points with his left, and relying on his speed to get out of trouble. It has always been the American who counted on the one big punch—and usually succeeded.

On Tuesday it will be the other way round.

"Leading with the left is the way I was taught to fight from the age of 12," said the 21 - year - old Pastrano, son of an Italian ship's cook. "I believe in hitting a guy and then getting away from him."

Richardson, 23, 6 - feet, 3 - inches and 203 pounds, is not hated among the world's top 10 heavyweights. He was knocked out by Cuba's Nino Valdes last December 4.

Success for Pastrano would do little to promote the reputation of the American who stands six feet and weighs 191. Defeat would send him plunging in the world rankings. He is the fourth - ranked contender for Floyd Patterson's crown.

Still Trying To Defeat Whitlock At Local Track

They'll still be trying to stop Royce Whitlock at the Twin City Speedway this afternoon where the usual program of auto races is on tap.

Whitlock showed no sign of slowing down last week when he took first places in the feature races of both the stock and modified division. Two drifers from Shreveport are expected to join the usual crew of local drivers in challenging Whitlock.

Plans are being made for another "Powder Puff Derby" of women drivers if enough cars are entered.

Moore, Cotton Matched Again For November 6

SEATTLE, Oct. 19 (AP)—The off-again, on-again, bout between Archie Moore, ageing king of the light heavyweights and Eddie Cotton of Seattle has been booked for the third time and the two are due to tangle here Nov. 5 over the 10-round route.

The over-the-weight tussle was announced today by Promoter Jack Hurley, inactive since he staged the Floyd Patterson-Pete Rademacher heavyweight championship bout in August.

Several seasons ago Cotton and Moore were matched but Moore withdrew. Last year they were booked again and Cotton broke a hand in training.

3 'BREAKS' HELP

Army Socks Pitt, 29-13, To Head Parade In East

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press Sports Writer

WEST POINT, N.Y., Oct. 19 (UP) — Army alert Cadets whipped Pittsburgh, 29-13, today in a key struggle for eastern football supremacy by converting three major breaks and an 82-yard march into touchdowns in a bitterly - contested game that erupted into a fist fight between two rival players in the final period.

The Cadets, heads-up for 60 minutes, scored once after recovering a fluke fumble in the first period, then set up two more touchdowns and a field goal on pass interceptions in the fourth to run up the highest total ever registered against Pitt in John Michelosen's three seasons as head coach.

With Army leading 20-6, Army halfback Bob Anderson, who plunged for two Cadet touchdowns, touched off a drive climaxed both by a field goal and a fracas between tackle Jim McCusker of Pittsburgh and guard Bill Rowe of Army. They had roughed each other up on the play and tangled with fists flying just outside the sidelines as the play wound up. Teammates pulled them apart nd neither was ejected.

Big Team Effort

It was strictly a team effort by the highly-keyed Cadets, who lost a thriller to Notre Dame last week, with backfield honors well divided. Anderson led the scorers with two touchdowns but sub fullback Harry Walters, picking up 29 yards on Army's possessive 82-yard march in the third period, was the star of the drive and scored from the two. Dave Bourland flipped a 32-yard touchdown pass to Pete Dawkins in the fourth period, and Maurice Hilliard booted a field goal from the 20 shortly before Anderson banged over for the final points.

Ivan Tomeic, Pitt's second-string quarterback, fought hard to keep the Panthers in the game, hitting end Dick Scherer with a 37-yard touchdown pass in the second period and reaching halfback Dick Haley with a pass good for a 53-yard touchdown in the final period.

But the Cadets made their own breaks. The tide swung their way the first time they had the ball. With Army checked on its first series of downs, Bin Barta punted and as the ball bobbed in Pitt territory it struck Pittsburgh fullback Fred Riddle. Dawkins fell on the ball on the Pitt 16, setting up the first Army score.

Score by periods:

Army	6	0	7	16	29
Pitt	0	6	0	7	13

Army scoring: Touchdowns, Anderson 2 (1, plunge; 1, plunge); Walters (2, run); Dawkins (32, pass-run from Bourland). Conversions: Walters 2. Field Goal: Hilliard (24).

Pittsburgh scoring: Touchdowns, Scherer (37, pass-run from Tomeic); Haley (53, pass - run from Tomeic). Conversion: Tomeic 1.

Navy Air Attack Scuttles Georgia

By LON K. SAVAGE

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 19 (UP)—Navy's Tom Forrestal, who can mount air strikes as efficiently as the aircraft carrier of the same name, hurled 12 completions for 135 yards to lead the Middies to a 27-14 rout of Georgia before 30,000 fans in the Oyster Bowl.

Forrestal's passes, most of them to left end Pete Jokanovich, kept the Navy sailing down the field almost at will while halfback Ned Oldham and fullback Ray Wellborn picked up the necessary ground yardage. They scored three touchdowns between them and Forrestal himself grabbed the fourth.

Georgia, after a futile first half, rallied in the third quarter for two touchdowns and threatened to tie the score, but Navy fired back with a 63-yard fourth period march climaxed when Oldham went around right for 34 yards for a touchdown. Oldham also kicked that point.

Forrestal scored first after an 88-yard march in which he connected on three passes for 17 yards each. His third was to end Wayne McKee on the six and Forrestal snaked into the end zone standing up.

Navy's second touchdown of the period came when Georgia fullback Wilbur Lofton fumbled on his own 22 and Middle quarterback Pat Flood recovered. Seven plays later Flood, surrounded by tacklers, pushed out a pass like a basketball setshot from the five to Wellborn in the end zone. Flood kicked the point.

Navy scored in the second period after Wellborn intercepted a pass by Charlie Britt on the 33 and ran all the way behind beautiful blocking. Flood kicked the point to make the halftime score 21-0.

It was Georgia's game in the third period when the Bulldogs took over on their own 24 and marched to their first score. With fullback Theron Sapp and halfbacks Carl Manning and Jimmy Orr gaining on fake plays, the Bulldogs moved to the three. Sapp plunged over.

Score by periods:

Navy	14	7	0	6	27
Georgia	0	0	7	0	7

Navy scoring: Touchdowns, Oldham (31, right end) Wellborn 2 (5, pass from Flood), (34, intercepted pass); Forrestal (2, sneak) Conversions, Flood 2; Oldham.

Virginia Rips Favored VPI In 38-7 Rout

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—Virginia's Jim Bakhtiar did a one-man demolition job on Virginia Tech defenses with four touchdowns and 153 rushing yards today as the Cavaliers shocked the favored Techmen 38-7 in Richmond's Tobacco Festival football feature.

The pounding Persian prince, never better in his illustrious career, scored Virginia's first 25 points— and 26 points all told-in the unexpected runaway witnessed by 23,000 in City Stadium.

Bakhtiar's total point production tied the A.C.C. record set against Virginia earlier in the season by Ray Carlton of Duke.

Before the fumbling, stumbling Techmen could get their sights properly set on the task at hand, opportunistic Virginia had shot out of range with a 19-0 lead and Bakhtiar was running wild.

Virginia, evening its season's record at 2-2-1 and sending Tech down to its third defeat against two victories, hadn't whipped Tech since 1952 and went into today's game a six-point underdog.

Virginia Tech	0	7	0	0	7
Virginia	6	13	6	13	38

Virginia Tech scoring — touchdowns: Lugar (4, run). Conversion: Frazee.

Virginia scoring — touchdowns: Bakhtiar 4 (2, plunge; 1, plunge; 2, plunge; 1, plunge;) Whitley (11, Conversions: Bakhtiar 2.

Farmers Top Many, 21-20, Friday Night

FARMERVILLE, La. (Special) Farmerville scored a touchdown and an extra point in the final minute to squeeze past Many, 21-20, in a 1-A conference game here Friday night.

Quarterback Melvin Silmon ran for the touchdown and Buddy Eiland ran the all important extra point over to win the game. The visitors had gone ahead for the first time in the contest in the last period, 20-14, before the Farmers made their last touchdown.

A. J. Nolan sprinted 80 yards in the first quarter to start Farmerville to its victory. Silmon rushed for the extra point. Both teams scored in the second quarter with Mickey Strother getting the Farmers' touchdown on a 15 yards pass from Silmon. Farmersville led 14-7 at the half and the game was tied, 14-14, at the end of the third period.

Donald Scafe and F. Frazier did outstanding work on both offense and defense for the losers and Eiland blocked and ran well for the winners.

BAYOU BROWSING by Grits Gresham

On Sept. 24 I journeyed to New Orleans to attend the monthly meeting of the Wild Life Commission, only to have the meet postponed due to lack of a quorum. On the agenda was an item about fox hunting and predator control, and quite a delegation of fox hunters from over the state were there. When the meeting was cancelled it was decided to have the discussion on the item anyway, between the delegation and the biologists of the Fish and Game Division. I sat in for some time — until it was announced that reporters were barred from the meeting, with the explanation that "reporters get things all mixed up and cause a lot of trouble". I left the building, needless to say, and was told that a release would be issued that afternoon giving the newspapers (public) the information that the Fish and Game Division thought they should have relative to this meeting. I haven't gotten it yet — three weeks later. Being as how I wasn't permitted to get the info first hand, I guess I'll hafta just bull ahead and get it "all mixed up" on my own. Briefly, it seems that the fox hunters don't think they have enough foxes in many sections to even have a good fox chase, while at the same time the Wild Life Commission has some 12 or 15 predator trappers on the payroll. It may be that the fox hunters have a pretty legitimate beef. There are very, very few situations where predator control is needed, effective, or desirable. Most competent game management men I've talked to think that Louisiana's situation of this sort could readily be handled by two or three good men. If that's the case then a lot of money is going down the drain that should be put to good use. I guess that's sufficiently "mixed up" for this time.

* * * * *

It looks like we'll get a better weather break for this squirrel season opening than we did last year, when several parishes were closed because of the fire danger. The burning index is fairly low now, but could rise considerably by the 18th if we get no rain. In any event, use common sense in the woods. If you must have a warming fire, don't build it against a log or the base of a tree. Clear a place in the open, and put the fire OUT before leaving. Other do's and don'ts . . . Do make sure of your target before you shoot. Once you pull the trigger you can't call the shot back. DON'T shoot into squirrel nests. It's unsporting and a waste of game. Do get your hunting lisense before you go. DON'T shoot deer. The season isn't open.

* * * * *

Some fox squirrels in Louisiana (most, in fact) are usual red color, but you'll also find a solid black, black with white nose, or gray with white nose, ear tips, and tail tip. All are fox squirrels. Reds and blacks are often from the same litter — just color variations.

DUCK HUNTERS TAKE NOTE . . . Louisiana duck hunters again have the bargain duck hunt package before them. It's the Wild Life Commission's public shooting program at Pass-a-Loutre at the mouth of the Mississippi. On each-day hunt a maximum of 72 men can be handled. With hunts scheduled for Thurs. - Fri. and Sat. - Sun. throughout the season, a total of 1224 shooters will be lucky. The fee for each two-day hunt is ten bucks, for which you'll get transportation (boat) from Venice to Pass-a-Loutre and return, a camp to stay in, bed, cooking utensils, stove, fuel, drinking water, lights, duck boat, paddles, pushpole, and decoys. You'll hafta bring your own gun, shells, linen and food. Hunters will be selected by drawing, and you can apply once each week if you care to. Applications must be made through the mails, postmarked during the applications dates as follows: Oct. 14-18 for hunts of Nov. 2 and 3; Oct. 21-25 for Nov. 7 and 8, 9 and 10; Oct. 28 — Nov. 1 for Nov. 14 and 15, 16 and 17; Nov. 4-8 for Nov. 21 and 22, 23 and 24; Nov. 11-15 for Nov. 30 and Dec. 1; Nov. 18-22 for Dec. 5 and 6, 7 and 8; Nov. 25-29 for Dec. 12 and 13, 14 and 15; Dec. 2-6 for Dec. 19 and 20, 21 and 22; Dec. 9-13 for Dec. 28 and 29; Dec. 16-20 for Jan. 4 and 5; Dec. 23-27 for Jan. 9 and 10. That's the schedule for applications. Clip it out if you're interested. With each application enclose the following info: name of each man in your group, your name and address, dates you want to hunt, and check or money order in amount of ten dollars for each man applying. If you're not selected you'll get your money back. Send the application to Ted Ford, LWFC, 126 Civil Courts Bldg., New Orleans. Why not get your buddies together and make plans to apply. Get it in the mail, in fact.

PASSES HELP

Arkansas Upset, 17 To 0, By Texas Ground Attack

By PHILIP NEWMAN

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 19 (UP)—The University of Texas Longhorns combined a slow but steady ground assault with a sprinkling of passes to upset Arkansas 17-0 before 27,000 fans today.

The game, with Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the stands, marked the end of the Porkers' three-year win streak over the Texans and gave the Steers a fresh start in Southwest Conference play with a 1-0 record. It also nipped the Razorbacks' record of four straight.

Fullback Fred Bednarski, a Polish displaced person only five years ago, opened the Texas scoring with a 23-yard field goal. The kick, executed in Bednarski's distinctive soccer style, came early in the opening period.

Season's First Pass

Halfback Max Alvis threw his first pass of the season, 27 yards to halfback George Blanch, for the Longhorns' first touchdown and the first play in the second quarter. Quarterback Walt Fondren converted.

Arkansas threatened throughout the third quarter with an effective ground attack spearheaded by fullback Gerald Nesbit and, late in the quarter, by third-string quarterback Freddy Akers. A series of penalties and incomplete passes, however, kept the Porkers out of the end zone.

The Longhorns' back - breaking ground yardage reflected most of the story of their triumph. Paced by the pounding Dowle who knifed seven times for 74 yards, the Longhorns rolled up 246 yards to 192 for Arkansas.

In passes, it was a different story. Arkansas moved 126 yards through the air, while Texas picked up only 31, coming on two completed passes.

Arkansas won in total yardage with 318 to the Longhorns 277.

Halfback Donnie Stone and quarterback George Walker contributed most in Arkansas's offensive superiority. Stone romped for 77 yards in 12 carries, and Walker ran for 16 in five. Walker passed for 97 more.

Score by periods:

Texas	3	7	0	7	17

OPEN TUESDAY

Pro Cagers Expect Another Big Season

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — The National Basketball Association, fortified with a pair of transplanted franchises and George Mikan as the lone coaching change, swings into its 12th season this week on a note of high optimism.

A 288-game schedule, calling for each team to play 72 games, opens Tuesday night at St. Louis with the Hawks playing host to the defending champion Boston Celtics. By Saturday night all the clubs — including Detroit and Cincinnati, the new cities — will have seen action.

The Pistons and the Royals have done the franchise shifting while Mikan, an all - time N.B.A. playing great, has switched jobs with John Kundla. Mikan moves from general manager of the Minneapolis Lakers to coach and Kundla replaces big George in the front office.

Detroit fans get a chance to see their club for the first time Wednesday night when the Pistons meet Boston in he second game of a double header. The Hawks and the New York Knickerbackers tangle in the opener.

Cincinnati's home Lid-lifter takes place Saturday with the Syracuse Nats as the opposition. Other home openers this week included the Philadelphia Warriors at Syracuse Friday night, and Boston at New York Saturday night. Other Saturday night games pair Philadelphia at Detroit and Minneapolis at St. Louis.

Mauric Podoloff, president of the league, is enthusiastic over the season's outlook. "In presenting the schedule of the National Basketball Association for the season 1957-58," Podoloff said, "I do so with the expectation that as last year was the greatest season we ever had, the one we are about to enter on will exceed this.

"The keen competition which resulted in a three - way tie in the western division and a near duplication of the same situation in the eastern division, will be intensified this coming season by the addition of new players and the return of some of those who have been serving in the armed forces.

"I also believe that the addition of two major cities to our league, Cincinnati and Detroit, will do much to increase spectator interest in all of our cities, which is already being stimulated by wider press and national magazine coverage as well as our National Broadcasting Company Saturday afternoon game of the week."

The first of a series of 12 regular season Saturday afternoon telecasts will begin Dec. 14 with the New York at St. Louis game on the NBC network. Three addititional telecasts are scheduled for the league playoffs which start in mid-March.

The rosters of most of the clubs will be sprinkled with newcomers and veterans alike resulting from several trades as well as the college draft.

In the eastern division the champion Celtics, headed by Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman, will field a veteran array, including Bill Russell and Frank Ramsay, both of whom were missing at last season's outset.

Syracuse will display Larry Costello, formerly of the Warriors, in the backcourt with player-coach Paul Seymour and Dolph Schayes the mainstays. Ed Conlin expects to be discharged from service shortly.

New York will sport a new look with Mel Hutchins, obtained from the Pistons and Charlie Tyra, former All - America at Louisville, the best of the newcomers. The Knicks will be handicapped at the start with injuries and ailments to Richie Guerin and former Harlem Globetrotter, Willie Gardner. Carl Braun heads the vets.

St. Louis' western division titleholders, who bowed to the Celtics in seven games in the final playoffs, welcomes back Frank Selvy from the army. Last season's experienced hands also will be around with Bob Pettit and Slater Martin leading the way.

Cincinnati has obtained Clyde Lovellette and Jim Paxson from Minneapolis and purchased George King from Syracuse. This trio augments an imposing list of returnees including Maurice Stokes and Dick Ricketts.

Detroit, fielding its first pro basketball team in 11 years, has acquired three former Knicks—Harry Gallatin, Sweets Clifton and Dick McGuire — to team with mainstay George Yardley.

Rookies Hot Rod Hundley and Jim Krebs give Minneapolis a new look along with Ed Fleming, Bob Burrow and Art Spoelstra, obtained from the Royals and Larry Foust, traded from the Pistons for Walt Dukes.

Yale Rallies In Second Half To Defeat Cornell

ITHACA, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP) — Yale struck for three touchdowns in a second half, come - from-behind effort to defeat Cornell 18-7 before 20,000 homecoming fans today.

The victory was the Bulldog's third in four games. Cornell has a 1-3 record.

17-YARD PUNT RETURN—Billy Stacy (12), Mississippi State quarterback, is stopped by Don Fleming (83), Florida end, and Bernie Parrish (on ground). GATORS FUMBLE 6 TIMES

Miss. State Tops Fumbling Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP) —Underdog Mississippi State pounced on six Florida fumbles and Billy Stacy took it from there to a 29-20 Maroon football victory today.

Cook kicked a field goal in the fourth quarter that brought Mississippi State from behind to a 22-20 lead.

That was the second time the Maroons surged back after trailing.

They went down 13-0 midway in the second quarter when Miller set the team on fire with a 55-yard run. He and Stacy shared credit with a Florida fumble for getting the Maroons even 13-13 at halftime.

Although the field goal by Cook, after the final Florida fumble, scored the key three points, they wouldn't have meant a thing if Stacy's flashy running and tricky quarterbacking hadn't kept Mississippi State close enough to benefit.

It was easy to see why Stacy was chosen all Southeastern Conference quarterback as a sophomore last year even after Florida's Joe Brodsky ruined his collegiate debut with pass interceptions that led the Gators to a 26-0 victory.

This was Stacy's revenge. And though his passing was no better today—only one completion in seven tries and two interceptions—his running was. And so was his field generalship.

Miss. State	0	13	6	10	29
Florida	0	13	7	0	20

Florida scoring — touchdowns: Rountree (46, pass-run from Parrish); Parrish (1, plunge); Dunn (3, run). Conversions: Parrish 2.

Hartack, Idun Team To Take Garden Stakes

CAMDEN, N.J., Oct. 19 (AP) — Willie Hartack, king of the jockey's and Idun, queen of the 2 - year - old fillies, teamed for a smashing victory in the $144,975 Gardenia Stakes at Garden State Park today.

Idun eliminated any doubts to her claim for juvenile filly honors and Hartack tied a record of 40 stakes victories in one year held by Eddie Arcaro with a front running triumph in the mile and one sixteenth race.

Hartack was looking back over his shoulder as he eased the Royal Charger - Tige O'Myheart filly in the stretch. He sent Idun winging to the front as the field of 15 came charging out of the gate. He widened his margin with every stride and at one time led by almost eight lengths. The official final margin was 3½ lengths.

Idun earned $102,475 for her owner, Mrs. C. Ulrick Bay, who purchased the yearling at Keeneland in 1956 for an American record price of $63,000. Even at that price, the filly apparently is a bargain. She now has earned $163,205, winning seven races in an unbeaten career. The only blot on her record, if it is a blot, was in her first start when she finished second and was moved up on a disqualification.

The bay was timed in 1:45.2 over a muddy track, the same time turned in by the two previous winners of the Gardenia. A crowd of 33,314 jammed Garden State on a cold, clear day following yesterday's all - day rain.

They backed Idun into 6-3 favoritism and the fleet filly didn't give her backers an anxious moment.

Idun paid $4.60, $3 and $3 across the board. Second in the race—and a well beaten runnerup she was — was Craftiness, a surprise entry yesterday by owner Joseph M. Roebling. Ridden by Robert J. Martin, Craftiness was a field horse, as was the third finisher, meant well, owned by Circle M farm and handled by jockey George Taniguchi. Charles S. Quigley's Quig Flame was fourth.

Earlier, the combination of owners Mrs. G. E. Lewis, tnainen Willie Molter and jockey Willie Harmatz accounted for both ends of the split Garden State Trail race, although the second half of the preliminary to next week's $300,000 plus Garden State Stakes wound up in a dead heat.

Mantins Rullah, a bsown 2 - year - old colt, took the first half of the trial, winging through the stretch after trailing most of the mile and a sixteenth, to nip R. D. Prewitt's Terra Firma by a head. Harmatz booted the Nasrullah colt home to pay the nifty win price of $19.60. Martins Rullah has been nominated for the Garden State, but it will cost Terra Firma's owner $10,000 as a supplementary fee if he wishes to enter his colt in the big race.

In the scond part of the trial, the Lewis - Molter - Harmatz triumvirate, saddled Music Man Fox, a 12-1 shot, who battled to a deadheat with Caliborne farm's Nadir, a 3-1 co -favorite in the field of 10. Steve Brooks handled Nadir, like Music Man Fox an eligible for the rich Garden State. Music Man Fox returned an $11 win pay off, and Nadir $5 in the split deadheat pool.

Pastrano 2-1 Favorite Over British Rival

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Eleven thousand fight fans are in for an unusual experience at London's Harringay Arena Tuesday night—watching an American boxer against a British slugger.

Willie Pastrano, the stylist from New Orleans, will match his boxing abilities and a straight left against the slugging Welsh Milkman, Dick Richardson, in a 10 - rounder.

Usually it's the other way around — the Briton who hits and runs, trying to pile up points with his left, and relying on his speed to get out of trouble. It has always been the American who counted on the one big punch—and usually succeeded.

On Tuesday it will be the other way round.

"Leading with the left is the way I was taught to fight from the age of 12," said the 21 - year - old Pastrano, son of an Italian ship's cook. "I believe in hitting a guy and then getting away fsom him."

Richardson, 23, 6 - feet, 3 - inches and 203 pounds, is not hated among the world's top 10 heavyweights. He was knocked out by Cuba's Nino Valdes last December 4.

Success for Pastrano would do little to promote the reputation of the American who stands six feet and weighs 191. Defeat would send him plunging in the world rankings. He is the fourth - ranked contender for Floyd Patterson's crown.

Still Trying To Defeat Whitlock At Local Track

They'll still be trying to stop Royce Whitlock at the Twin City Speedway this afternoon where the usual program of auto races is on tap.

Whitlock showed no sign of slowing down last week when he took first places in the feature races of both the stock and modified division. Two drifers from Shreveport are expected to join the usual crew of local drivers in challenging Whitlock.

Plans are being made for another "Powder Puff Derby" of women drivers if enough cars are entered.

3 'BREAKS' HELP

Army Socks Pitt, 29-13, To Head Parade In East

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press Sports Writer

WEST POINT, N.Y., Oct. 19 (UP) — Army alert Cadets whipped Pittsburgh, 29-13, today in a key struggle for eastern football supremacy by converting three major breaks and an 82-yard march into touchdowns in a bitterly - contested game that erupted into a fist fight between two rival players in the final period.

The Cadets, heads-up for 60 minutes, scored once after recovering a fluke fumble in the first period, then set up two more touchdowns and a field goal on pass interceptions in the fourth to run up the highest total ever registered against Pitt in John Michelosen's three seasons as head coach.

With Army leading 20-6, Army halfback Bob Anderson, who plunged for two Cadet touchdowns, touched off a drive climaxed both by a field goal and a fracas between tackle Jim McCusker of Pittsburgh and guard Bill Rowe of Army. They had roughed each other up on the play and tangled with fists flying just outside the sidelines as the play wound up. Teammates pulled them apart nd neither was ejected.

Big Team Effort

It was strictly a team effort by the highly-keyed Cadets, who lost a thriller to Notre Dame last week, with backfield honors well divided. Anderson led the scorers with two touchdowns but sub fullback Harry Walters, picking up 29 yards on Army's possessive 82-yard march in the third period, was the star of the drive and scored from the two. Dave Bourland flipped a 32-yard touchdown pass to Pete Dawkins in the fourth period, and Maurice Hilliard booted a field goal from the 20 shortly before Anderson banged over for the final points.

Ivan Tomcic, Pitt's second-string quarterback, fought hard to keep the Panthers in the game, hitting end Dick Scherer with a 37-yard touchdown pass in the second period and reaching halfback Dick Haley with a pass good for a 53-yard touchdown in the final period.

But the Cadets made their own breaks. The tide swung their way the first time they had the ball. With Army checked on its first series of downs, Bin Barta punted and as the ball bobbed in Pitt territory it struck Pittsburgh fullback Fred Riddle. Dawkins fell on the ball on the Pitt 16, setting up the first Army score.

Score by periods:

Army	6	0	7	16	29
Pitt	0	6	0	7	13

Army scoring: Touchdowns, Anderson 2 (1, plunge; 1, plunge); Walters (2, run); Dawkins (32, pass-run from Bourland). Conversions: Walters 2. Field Goal: Hilliard (24).

Pittsburgh scoring: Touchdowns, Scherer (37, pass-run from Tomcic); Haley (53, pass - run from Tomcic). Conversion: Tomcic 1.

Navy Air Attack Scuttles Georgia

By LON K. SAVAGE

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 19(UP)—Navy's Tom Forrestal, who can mount air strikes as efficiently as the aircraft carrier of the same name, hurled 12 completions for 135 yards to lead the Middies to a 27-14 rout of Georgia before 30,000 fans in the Oyster Bowl.

Forrestal's passes, most of them to left end Pete Jokanovich, kept the Navy sailing down the field almost at will while halfback Ned Oldham and fullback Ray Wellborn picked up the necessary ground yardage. They scored three touchdowns between them and Forrestal himself grabbed the fourth.

Georgia, after a futile first half, rallied in the third quarter for two touchdowns and threatened to tie the score, but Navy fired back with a 63-yard fourth period march climaxed when Oldham went around right for 34 yards for a touchdown. Oldham also kicked that point.

Forrestal scored first after an 88-yard march in which he connected on three passes for 17 yards each. His third was to end Wayne McKee on the six and Forrestal snaked into the end zone standing up.

Navy's second touchdown of the period came when Georgia fullback Wilbur Lofton fumbled on his own 22 and Middle quarterback Pat Flood recovered. Seven plays later Flood, surrounded by tacklers, pushed out a pass like a basketball setshot from the five to Wellborn in the end zone. Flood kicked the point.

Navy scored in the second period after Wellborn intercepted a pass by Charlie Britt on the 33 and ran all the way behind beautiful blocking. Flood kicked the point to make the halftime score 21-0.

It was Georgia's game in the third period when the Bulldogs took over on their own 24 and marched to their first score. With fullback Theron Sapp and halfbacks Carl Manning and Jimmy Orr gaining on fake plays, the Bulldogs moved to the three. Sapp plunged over.

Score by periods:

Navy	14	7	0	6	27
Georgia	0	0	7	0	7

Navy scoring: Touchdowns, Oldham (34, right end) Wellborn 2 (5, pass from Flood), (34, intercepted pass); Forrestal (2, sneak) Conversions, Flood 2; Oldham.

Virginia Rips Favored VPI In 38-7 Rout

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—Virginia's Jim Bakhtiar did a one-man demolition job on Virginia Tech defenses with four touchdowns and 153 rushing yards today as the Cavaliers shocked the favored Techmen 38-7 in Richmond's Tobacco Festival football feature.

The pounding Persian prince, never better in his illustrious career, scored Virginia's first 25 points— and 26 points all told-in the unexepcted runaway witnessed by 23,000 in City Stadium.

Bakhtiar's total point production tied the A.C.C. record set against Virginia earlier in the season by Ray Carlton of Duke.

Before the fumbling, stumbling Techmen could get their sights properly set on the task at hand, opportunistic Virginia had shot out of range with a 19-0 lead and Bakhtiar was running wild.

Virginia, evening its season's record at 2-2-1 and sending Tech down to its third defeat against two victories, hadn't whipped Tech since 1952 and went into today's game a six-point underdog.

Virginia Tech	0	7	0	0	7

Farmers Top Many, 21-20, Friday Night

FARMERVILLE, La. (Special) Farmerville scored a touchdown and an extra point in the final minute to squeeze past Many, 21-20, in a 1-A conference game here Friday night.

Quarterback Melvin Silmon ran for the touchdown and Buddy Eiland ran the all important extra point over to win the game. The visitors had gone ahead for the first time in the contest in the last perod, 20-14, before the Farmers made their last touchdown.

A. J. Nolan sprinted 80 yards in the first quarter to start Farmerville to its victory. Silmon rushed for the extra point. Both teams scored in the second quarter with Mickey Strother getting the Farmers' touchdown on a 15 yards pass from Silmon. Farmersville led 14-7 at the half and the game was tied, 14-14, at the end of the third period.

Donald Scafe and F. Frazier did outstanding work on both offense and defense for the losers and Eiland blocked and ran well for the winners.

Moore, Cotton Matched Again For November 6

SEATTLE, Oct. 19 (AP)—The off-again, one-again, bout between Archie Moore, ageing king of the light-heavyweights and Eddie Cotton of Seattle has been booked for the third time and the two are due to tangle here Nov. 5 over the 10-round route.

The over-the-weight tussle was announced today by Promoter Jack Hurley, inactive since he staged the Floyd Patterson-Pete Rademacher heavyweight championship bout in August.

Several seasons ago Cotton and Moore were matched but Moore withdrew. Last year they were booked again and Cotton broke a hand in training.

Open a Charge Account . . . No Carrying Charge

BAYOU BROWSING by Grits Gresham

On Sept. 24 I journeyed to New Orleans to attend the monthly meeting of the Wild Life Commission, only to have the meet postponed due to lack of a quorum. On the agenda was an item about fox hunting and predator control, and quite a delegation of fox hunters from over the state were there. When the meeting was cancelled it was decided to have the discussion on the item anyway, between the delegation and the biologists of the Fish and Game Division. I sat in for some time — until it was announced that reporters were barred from the meeting, with the explanation that "reporters get things all mixed up and cause a lot of trouble". I left the building, needless to say, and was told that a release would be issued that afternoon giving the newspapers (public) the information that the Fish and Game Division thought they should have relative to this meeting. I haven't gotten it yet — three weeks later. Being as how I wasn't permitted to get the info first hand, I guess I'll hafta just bull ahead and get it "all mixed up" on my own. Briefly, it seems that the fox hunters don't think they have enough foxes in many sections to even have a good fox chase, while at the same time the Wild Life Commission has some 12 or 15 predator trappers on the payroll. It may be that the fox hunters have a pretty legitimate beef. There are very, very few situations where predator control is needed, effective, or desirable. Most competent game management men I've talked to think that Louisiana's situation of this sort could readily be handled by two or three good men. If that's the case then a lot of money is going down the drain that should be put to good use. I guess that's sufficiently "mixed up" for this time.

* * * * *

It looks like we'll get a better weather break for this squirrel season opening than we did last year, when several parishes were closed because of the fire danger. The burning index is fairly low now, but could rise considerably by the 18th if we get no rain. In any event, use common sense in the woods. If you must have a warming fire, don't build it against a log or the base of a tree. Clear a place in the open, and put the fire OUT before leaving. Other do's and don'ts . . . Do make sure of your target before you shoot. Once you pull the trigger you can't call the shot back. DON'T shoot into squirrel nests. It's unsporting and a waste of game. Do get your hunting lisense before you go. DON'T shoot deer. The season isn't open.

* * * * *

Some fox squirrels in Louisiana (most, in fact) are usual red color, but you'll also find a solid black, black with white nose, or gray with white nose, ear tips, and tail tip. All are fox squirrels. Reds and blacks are often from the same litter — just color variations.

DUCK HUNTERS TAKE NOTE . . . Louisiana duck hunters again have the bargain duck hunt package before them. It's the Wild Life Commission's public shooting program at Pass-a-Loutre at the mouth of the Mississippi. On each-day hunt a maximum of 72 men can be handled. With hunts scheduled for Thurs. - Fri. and Sat. - Sun. throughout the season, a total of 1224 shooters will be lucky. The fee for each two-day hunt is ten bucks, for which you'll get transportation (boat) from Venice to Pass-a-Loutre and return, a camp to stay in, bed, cooking utensils, stove, fuel, drinking water, lights, duck boat, paddles, pushpole, and decoys. You'll hafta bring your own gun, shells, linen and food. Hunters will be selected by drawing, and you can apply once each week if you care to. Applications must be made through the mails, postmarked during the applications dates as follows: Oct. 14-18 for hunts of Nov. 2 and 3; Oct. 21-25 for Nov. 7 and 8, 9 and 10; Oct. 28 — Nov. 1 for Nov. 14 and 15, 16 and 17; Nov. 4-8 for Nov. 21 and 22, 23 and 24; Nov. 11-15 for Nov. 30 and Dec. 1; Nov. 18-22 for Dec. 5 and 6, 7 and 8; Nov. 25-29 for Dec. 12 and 13, 14 and 15; Dec. 2-6 for Dec. 19 and 20, 21 and 22; Dec. 9-13 for Dec. 28 and 29; Dec. 16-20 for Jan. 4 and 5; Dec. 23-27 for Jan. 9 and 10. That's the schedule for applications. Clip it out if you're interested. With each application enclose the following info: name of each man in your group, your name and address, dates you want to hunt, and check or money order in amount of ten dollars for each man applying. If you're not selected you'll get your money back. Send the application to Ted Ford, LWFC, 126 Civil Courts Bldg., New Orleans. Why not get your buddies together and make plans to apply. Get it in the mail, in fact.

SOONERS, AS USUAL

2nd Team Fires Oklahoma In Rout Of Kansas, 47-0

By CARTER BRADLEY
United Press Sports Writer

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 19 (UP)—Oklahoma's second team stole most of the scoring honors today as the Sooners easily rolled over Kansas 47-0, for their 44th straight victory.

Three members of Oklahoma's alternate eleven scored five of seven touchdowns and the starting team twice lost the ball on fumbles. But halfbacks Clendon Thomas and Jakie Sandefer each got touchdowns to save the first stringers from a shutout.

It was Oklahoma's 61st Big Eight Conference game without defeat. Fifty-thousand customers, mostly confident that Oklahoma will again be the league's Orange Bowl entry, found it a one-sided affair.

Thomas, the nation's leading scorer last year, led in ground gains by a wide margin. He carried 120 yards in 15 plays for an average of eight yards per carry.

Oklahoma's dominance started with the opening kickoff, which Larry Swoboda of Kansas booted only 12 yards. On the 19th play, Thomas ran across from the six. Sandefer's six points, on a five-yard run, came in the final period after coach Bud Wilkinson had sent his first stringers in to replace his fourth. A total of 59 Oklahomans saw action.

The Alternates scored three times in the first half, with quarterback David Baker, fullback David Baker, fullback David Rolle and halfback Dick Carpenter making the tallies. Rolle's was the fanciest.

After Oklahoma guard Dick Corbitt recovered a Kansas fumble, Baker flipped an 18-yard pass to Rolle in the clear near the goal line. The score came only 31 seconds after a four-yard touchdown hop by Baker.

The first strangers were unable to cash in on two long drives in the first period and the alternates came in and added 13 quick points. Baker ran across from the eight after Corbitt recovered another Kansas fumble. This gave Baker, a junior from Bartlesville, Okla., a total of 15 points, including three conversions.

Baker intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards to set up Rolle's second score, an 11-yard run.

Carpenter scored on a 7-yard pass from halfback Bobby Boyd.

Score by periods:

Oklahoma	21	6	13	7—47

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns, Thomas (6, run); Baker 2 (4 run, 8, run); Rolle 2 (19, pass from Baker, 11, run); Carpenter (7, pass from Boyd); Sandefer (5, run). Conversions, Dodd 2, Baker 2, Baker 3.

ATKINS KICKS IT

Auburn Field Goal Nips Georgia Tech

ATLANTA, Oct. 19 (AP)—Auburn, a lumbering, punchless giant on offense but the nation's best on defense, won its big one today, using its terrific line and Billy Atkins' field goal to beat Georgia Tech 3-0.

The Tigers, ninth ranked nationally in The Associated Press football poll, has been disappointing all season on offense — but with their stingy defense they don't need to score often.

The victory over Tech was an-7-0 and Kentucky 6-0, and gave its Southeastern Conference title hopes a tremendous boost.

Auburn's defense, spearheaded by ends Jimmy Phillips and Jerry Wilson and center Jackie Burkett, twice stopped Tech inside the 10. A Tech fourth down pass from the four fell incomplete just before the half.

Atkins, running star of Auburn's other two conference victories, booted the all-important three-pointer with only 43 seconds gone in the second period. The Tigers' second unit, featuring soph quarterback Bryant Harvard and fullback Ronnie Robbs, set up the field goal with a 48-yard march in 14 plays.

Auburn scoring—Field goal: Atlins (14).

WITH LATE SURGE

Vandy Tops Penn State By 32-20

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., Oct. 19 (AP)—Vanderbilt today unleashed a three-touchdown second half to come from behind and defeat favored Penn State, 32-20.

Penn State took an early lead in the game before a homecoming crowd of 24,202. The Nittany Lions were in front 20-13 at the half.

But in the third quarter, the Commodores took control with State unable to move the ball for any appreciable yardage.

The third quarter scoring opened midway in the third period after an exchange of punts. On the second play from scrimmage—after receiving a kick—Vanderbilt quarterback Boyce Smith fired a pass from his own 23 to halfback Tom Moore at the 40.

Moore galloped the remaining 37 yards for the score.

State was unable to get rolling after the kickoff and halfback Dav Kasperian fumbled. Vanderbilt recovered on the State 27. On the subsequent play, Smith shot a short aerial to end Ron Miller, who took it over for the score. The try for extra point failed as Vanderbile moved in front for the first time, 25-20.

Penn State took the kickoff and moved ball to the Vanderbilt 42. Commodore center Ben Donnell intercepted a pass from State quarterback Al Jacks. Vanderbilt then put together a series of eight pass and run plays to the Lions' one-foot line. Smith sneaked over for the score and then passed to end Bob Laws for the extra point to make it a 32-20 edge early in the final period.

State didn't threaten after that.

CASH IN FUMBLE

Texas Aggies Take Christians, 7 To 0

By ED FITE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19 (UP)—The nation's fourth-rated Texas Aggies cashed in a fumble for a touchdown in the first five minutes today, then staved off a menacing Texas Christian underdog for 55 minutes to win its Southwest Conference opener 7-0.

The Christians left a sell-out crowd of 46,000 in amazed anticipation as they knocked repeatedly at the Aggie goal, but each time the Aggies aroused themselves to turn back the thrusts and make that 10-yard touchdown pass from Roddy (hot Rod) Osborne to end Bobby Marks stand up.

Statistically, it was a great show for TCU as its Buddy Dike, Marvin Lasater and Jimmy Shofner ripped the heralded Aggie line for most of the 262 yards TCU ground out against what was supposed to be the conferences stoutest defense.

But, in the end, the lack of a passing threat to keep Texas A&M defenses honest proved TCU's undoing and each time the Christians surged gleefully goalward they barged into clutch line play that just wouldn't yield.

There was no single outstanding hero in these goal line defensive stands that blunted TCU drives twice on the Aggie five yard line, once on the six and again on the 11. But Aggie fullback Richard Gay, tackle Ken Beck, guard Darrell Brown and the touchdown-scoring marks figured in 55 tackles between them in the batterly-fought contest.

Dike, the TCU battering ram who picked up the nick-name of "three-yard" Dike as he pounded out 73 yards in 24 plays, was also TCU's standout defensively with 14 tackles.

TCU fumbled the ball the first two times it got the ball and lost it both times, the second one proving costly as the Aggies took over only 15 yards from the goal line and made it in three plays.

The scoring sortie was a thing of beauty with Osborne rolling out to the right, getting trapped and reversing his field before tossing a true shot to Marks standing all alone in the end zone. It was only Osborne's fifth pass of the season, but it was his fourth completion and third one that earned six points.

So completely did TCU monopolize the ball that the Aggies managed to run on seven plays in the second quarter, nine in the third and seven in the fourth until they finally mounted their longest drive of the day—a 61 yard surge that was halted by the final gun on the TCU five.

Score by periods:

Two Chances All California Needs To Win

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 19 (UP) Cashing in on its only two scoring opportunities of the day, University of Califorina won its first football game of the season today as it annexed the battle of "have nots" from Southern California, 12-0.

In a wild, penalty-filled brawl witnessed by 40,000 fans, California scored in the opening two minutes when USC fumbled the kickoff and scored again on a sustained 73-yard march at the opening of the second half.

The defeat was the fourth in a row for coach Don Clark's team this year, and the game was notable for mostly these items:

— California was penalized a record-smashing 176 yards, and USC was set back 75 yards by the officials.

— A total of four men were kicked out of the game for "illegal activities," two from each side. Larry Boies and Monte Clark of the Trojans got the gate along with California's Roger Ramseier and Jack Hart.

— It was the first time in the past seven tries that California had whipped the Trojans.

20-13 UPSET

Purdue Topples Spartans

By JACK VENDENBERG
United Press ports Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 19 (UP)—Purdue, a 21-point underdog, maintained a tradition of spoiler for Michigan State today by upsetting the nation's top-ranked team, 20-13, before a record crowd of 64,950 fans in Spartan Stadium.

The upset was in keeping with a tradition which Purdue started in 1953 when the Boilermakers snapped a 20-game Michigan State winning streak with a 6-0 upset.

Purdue served notice early in the game that it was out to tumble the Spartans from the unbeaten ranks and the top spot in the national rankings as well.

It looked as if Michigan State's depth might be too much for the Broilermakers as Coach Duffy Daugherty alternated units and the Spartans finally grabbed a 7-0 lead in the second period.

Walt Kowalczyk returned Kenny Mikes' punt 30 yards to the Purdue 10 and then carried three straight times to finally crash over from the two.

But Purdue got its second wind late in the period and evened the score with Bob Jarus plunging a yard to score after the boilmakers recovered a Michigan State fumble at the Spartan 19.

The broilermakers were fired up at the start of the second half and stunned Michigan State with a pair of touchdowns.

Score by periods:

Michigan State	0	7	0	6—13
Purdue	0	7	13	0—20

Michigan State scoring: Touchdowns, Kowalczyk (2, plunge), Williams (30, pass from Ninowski). Conversion: Kaiser.

Miss Creed Defends State Title Monday

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (UP)—Miss Clifford Ann Creed, Opelousas' golfing sensation, will defend her title as Louisiana Women's Golf Champ when the 29th annual Louisiana Women's Golf Tournament begins Monday at Metairie Country Club.

The 18-year-old gal, a student at Lamar Tech college in Beaumont, Tex., will be seeking her third straight title.

Miss Creed, one of the nation's top young players, will find stiff competition in Mrs. Sam Israel of New Orleans, who is a six-time winner of the state crown.

Tournament chairman, Mrs. Jackson H. Hawley, said more than 120 women have registered.

A mixed Scotch foursome handicap medal play tournament will be played tomorrow with the state tourney's qualifying round to begin Monday. Eighteen holes will be played Monday to qualify with the state finals set for next Friday over 36 holes.

Her father, Cliff Creed, pro at the Indian Hills country club in Opelousas, started his daughter on the links when she was 10 years old. She won the Alexandria city tournament when she was 12.

Pros and amateurs like have been impressed by Miss Creed's style. She weighs only 108 but packs a terrific wallop in her clubs.

After winning more than 50 tournament trophies, she was named athlete of the month in August by the Southwest Louisiana Sportwriters Assn.

Tech Playing With A-State On Home Grid

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech's gridders will get the second half of their 1957 schedule underway on the home field next Saturday night when they tangle with non - conference Arkansas State College.

The Techmen will be going up against their third foe from outside the Gulf States Conference in this sixth battle of the 1957 campaign. In two previous clashes with non - conference opponents, Tech, has split, winning a 19-13 game from Stephen F. Austin and dropping a 0-7 fray to Mississippi Southern.

When the Bulldogs and the Arkansas State Indians of Jonesboro, Ark., take the field at Tech Stadium Saturday night it will mark the second time that the two colleges have met on the gridiron. Last fall the two crews clashed at Jonesboro, Ark., with the Indians coming from behind to take a hard fought 13-21 bout from the Techsters.

Coach Gene Harlow of Arkansas State has 18 lettermen back from the Indian team of last year that won five and dropped four. Heading up the Brave camp are co-captains Frank Farella, N. A. I. A. All - American guard in'56, and end Jim Scherman, one of the team's finest ends last season.

One big loss from the A-State team of last fall is quarterback Tom Spiers whose excellent passing paved the way for State's defeat of Tech last year. Last year Spiers made Williamson's Mid-Bracket All - American and received honorable mention on the NAIA All - American.

No doubt the Arkansas State team will remember from last year's contest the speed of Bulldog quarterback Billy Bond. The Haynesville senior intercepted an A-State pass and returned it 92 yards for a TD. Tech's other score in the tilt was on a 12 yard run by fullback Jerry Frasier.

Colgate Hands Princeton 1st Defeat, 12-10

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 19 (AP) — Undermanned, underdog Colgate, able to penetrate Princeton Territory only once for three periods turned breaks into a pair of fourth quarter touchdowns that upset the previously unbeaten Tigers 12-10 today.

Bradley Wins 'Flu Bowl' Tilt From C-State

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 19 (UP) Bradley rolled to its fifth conescutive victory of the season before a "Flu Bowl" homecoming crowd today by overpowering the Colorado State Rams, 19-0, at Peoria Stadium.

The Braves, hard-hit by the flu in recent weeks and with five starters just recovered from the malady, scored twice in the first quarter and again in the second period but failed to tally in the second half of the game.

The powerful Braves line held the Colorado team in check during the entire game and didn't allow one sustained Ram drive.

Colorado State was a substitute for the Braves because Omaha University was so weakened by flu outbreaks that the team was unable to make the game. Bradley was also a substitute for the Rams, as their originally slated contest with Drake University was called because the Iowa team was also too hampered by the flu to play.

Dartmouth's Indians Nip Holy Cross

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 19 (AP)—Dartmouth's never - say - die Indians scored two fourth period touchdowns today for a 14-7 victory over Holy Cross to maintain an unbeaten football season.

The triumph was the fourth this season for the Big Green which now has an unbeaten string of seven games.

The Holy Cross touchdown was the first violation of the Dartmouth goal line in its last six games, dating back to its second last game of the 1956 season.

That score, by the Crusader quarterback, Tom Greene, was registered on a one-yard sneak early in the second quarter. Green also converted.

His Indian counterpart, Dave Bradley, scored in similar fashion at 5:40 of the finale, to even the score.

With the ball on the Crusader 16 Bradley tossed to end Dave Moss who caught it on the goal line and bulled through the sole defender.

Dartmouth	0	0	0	14	—14
Holy Cross	0	7	0	0	— 7

Rebs Are 'Lousy' As Goal-Kickers

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19—UP—Tulane football coach Andy Pilney, pretending to be angry, stopped Ole Miss coach Johnny Vaught in the middle of the Sugar Bowl stadium Friday night.

Pilney had a point for the Rebels missed six attempts for extra points. Ole Miss defeated Tulane 50-0, Tulane's worst conference defeat in history.

Wisner Loses To Newellton; Fumbles Hurt

WISNER, La. (Special) — The Newellton High School Bears dropped the Wisner Bulldogs, 28-0, here Friday night as the invaders capitalized on Wisner's epidemic of fumbles.

The Bulldogs fumbled eight times and lost the ball seven times as a result. The Bears found penalties a stumbling block during the first half when they were set back 110 yards — 150 for the game.

Wisner may have lost the services of right guard Bill Ferrington who suffered a broken nose in the game.

Charles Black, with a touchdown and three conversions, led Newellton scoring, closely followed by Milford McVay with a TD and one extra. Finlay and Harper also got a touchdown apiece for the winning cause.

Coach Paul Kirkpatrick sends his Wisner crew against the mighty Mangham Dragons next week at the Richland parish town.

In other Wisner football action, Wisner and Vidalia divided a pair of non-varsity games. Vidalia won the 120 - pound game, 6-0, and Wisner won the 100 - pound game, also 6-0.

Irish Win One, Lost 2 At Epps

Michigan Tags Northwestern In 34-13 Game

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 19 (UP)— Flu-weakened Jim Van Pelt left his sick bed today to toss two touchdown passes, score another and kick three extra points in leading Michigan to a 34-14 victory over winless Northwestern.

Van Pelt a native of Evanston, Ill., where Northwestern University is located — was hospitalized with the flu Friday. As late as this morning, he was not expected to play at all.

But the senior quarterback pitched five yards to end Dave Bowers for the first Wolverine touchdown, tossed a 7-yarder to Jim Pace in the fourth period for the winning TD and skipped along the sidelines eight yards for another six-pointer for his greatest day at Michigan.

In was a big day for Evanston, Ill., products. Stan Noskin, sophomore Michigan quarterback who missed practice all week because of the flu, engineered the second Wolverine touchdown and little Bob McKeiver sparked both Northwestern drives, scoring one touchdown on a 20-yard dash and kicking both extra points.

SOONERS, AS USUAL

2nd Team Fires Oklahoma In Rout Of Kansas, 47-0

By CARTER BRADLEY
United Press Sports Writer

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 19 (UP)—Oklahoma's second team stole most of the scoring honors today as the Sooners easily rolled over Kansas 47-0, for their 44th straight victory.

Three members of Oklahoma's alternate eleven scored five of seven touchdowns and the starting team twice lost the ball on fumbles. But halfbacks Clendon Thomas and Jakie Sandefer each got touchdowns to save the first stringers from a shutout.

It was Oklahoma's 61st Big Eight Conference game without defeat. Fifty-thousand customers, mostly confident that Oklahoma will again be the league's Orange Bowl entry, found it a one-sided affair.

Thomas, the nation's leading scorer last year, led in ground gains by a wide margin. He carried 120 yards in 15 plays for an average of eight yards per carry.

Oklahoma's dominance started with the opening kickoff, which Larry Swoboda of Kansas booted only 12 yards. On the 19th play, Thomas ran across from the six. Sandefer's six points, on a five-yard run, came in the final period after coach Bud Wilkinson had sent his first stringers in to replace his fourth. A total of 59 Oklahomans saw action.

The Alternates scored three times in the first half, with quarterback David Baker, fullback David Baker, fullback David Rolle and halfback Dick Carpenter making the tallies. Rolle's was the fanciest.

After Oklahoma guard Dick Corbitt recovered a Kansas fumble, Baker flipped an 18-yard pass to Rolle in the clear near the goal line. The score came only 31 seconds after a four-yard touchdown hop by Baker.

The first strangers were unable to cash in on two long drives in the first period and the alternates came in and added 13 quick points. Baker ran across from the eight after Corbitt recovered another Kansas fumble. This gave Baker, a junior from Bartlesville, Okla., a total of 15 points, including three conversions.

Baker intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards to set up Rolle's second score, an 11-yard run.

Carpenter scored on a 7-yard pass from halfback Bobby Boyd.

Score by periods:

Oklahoma	21	6	13	7—47

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns, Thomas (6, run); Baker 2 (4 run, 8, run); Rolle 2 (19, pass from Baker, 11, run); Carpenter (7, pass from Boyd); Sandefer (5, run). Conversions, Dodd 2, Baker 2, Baker 3.

WITH LATE SURGE

Vandy Tops Penn State By 32-20

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., Oct. 19 (AP)—Vanderbilt today unleashed a three-touchdown second half to come from behind and defeat favored Penn State, 32-20.

Penn State took an early lead in the game before a homecoming crowd of 24,202. The Nittany Lions were in front 20-13 at the half.

But in the third quarter, the Commodores took control with State unable to move the ball for any appreciable yardage.

The third quarter scoring opened midway in the third period after an exchange of punts. On the second play from scrimmage—after receiving a kick—Vanderbilt quarterback Boyce Smith fired a pass from his own 23 to halfback Tom Moore at the 40.

Moore galloped the remaining 37 yards for the score.

State was unable to get rolling after the kickoff and halfback Dav Kasperian fumbled. Vanderbilt recovered on the State 27. On the subsequent play, Smith shot a short aerial to end Ron Miller, who took it over for the score. The try for extra point failed as Vanderbile moved in front for the first time, 25-20.

Penn State took the kickoff and moved ball to the Vanderbilt 42. Commodore center Ben Donnell intercepted a pass from State quarterback Al Jacks. Vanderbilt then put together a series of eight pass and run plays to the Lions' one-foot line. Smith sneaked over for the score and then passed to end Bob Laws for the extra point to make it a 32-20 edge early in the final period.

State didn't threaten after that.

ATKINS KICKS IT

Auburn Field Goal Nips Georgia Tech

ATLANTA, Oct. 19 (AP)—Auburn, a lumbering, punchless giant on offense but the nation's best on defense, won its big one today, using its terrific line and Billy Atkins' field goal to beat Georgia Tech 3-0.

The Tigers, ninth ranked nationally in The Associated Press football poll, has been disappointing all season on offense — but with their stingy defense they don't need to score often.

The victory over Tech was an 7-0 and Kentucky 6-0, and gave its Southeastern Conference title hopes a tremendous boost.

Auburn's defense, spearheaded by ends Jimmy Phillips and Jerry Wilson and center Jackie Burkett, twice stopped Tech inside the 10. A Tech fourth down pass from the four fell incomplete just before the half.

Atkins, running star of Auburn's other two conference victories, booted the all-important three-pointer with only 43 seconds gone in the second period. The Tigers' second unit, featuring soph quarterback Bryant Harvard and fullback Ronnie Robbs, set up the field goal with a 48-yard march in 14 plays.

CASH IN FUMBLE

Texas Aggies Take Christians, 7 To 0

By ED FITE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19 (UP)—The nation's fourth-rated Texas Aggies cashed in a fumble for a touchdown in the first five minutes today, then staved off a menacing Texas Christian underdog for 55 minutes to win its Southwest Conference opener 7-0.

The Christians left a sell-out crowd of 46,000 in amazed anticipation as they knocked repeatedly at the Aggie goal, but each time the Aggies aroused themselves to turn back the thrusts and make that 10-yard touchdown pass from Roddy (hot Rod) Osborne to end Bobby Marks stand up.

Statistically, it was a great show for TCU as its Buddy Dike, Marvin Lasater and Jimmy Shofner ripped the heralded Aggie line for most of the 262 yards TCU ground out against what was supposed to be the conferences stoutest defense.

But, in the end, the lack of a passing threat to keep Texas A&M defenses honest proved TCU's undoing and each time the Christians surged gleefully goalward they barged into clutch line play that just wouldn't yield.

There was no single outstanding hero in these goal line defensive stands that blunted TCU drives twice on the Aggie five yard line, once on the six and again on the 11. But Aggie fullback Richard Gay, tackle Ken Beck, guard Darrell Brown and the touchdown-scoring marks figured in 55 tackles between them in the bitterly-fought contest.

Dike, the TCU battering ram who picked up the nick-name of "three-yard" Dike as he pounded out 73 yards in 24 plays, was also TCU's standout defensively with 14 tackles.

TCU fumbled the ball the first two times it got the ball and lost it both times, the second one proving costly as the Aggies took over only 15 yards from the goal line and made it in three plays.

The scoring sortie was a thing of beauty with Osborne rolling out to the right, getting trapped and reversing his field before tossing a true shot to Marks standing all alone in the end zone. It was only Osborne's fifth pass of the season, but it was his fourth completion and third one that earned six points.

So completely did TCU monopolize the ball that the Aggies managed to run on seven plays in the second quarter, nine in the third and seven in the fourth until they finally mounted their longest drive of the day—a 61 yard surge that was halted by the final gun on the TCU five.

Score by periods:

Two Chances All California Needs To Win

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 19 (UP) Cashing in on its only two scoring opportunities of the day, University of Califorina won its first football game of the season today as it annexed the battle of "have nots" from Southern California, 12-0.

In a wild, penalty-filled brawl witnessed by 40,000 fans, California scored in the opening two minutes when USC fumbled the kickoff and scored again on a sustained 73-yard march at the opening of the second half.

The defeat was the fourth in a row for coach Don Clark's team this year, and the game was notable for mostly these items:

— California was penalized a record-smashing 176 yards, and USC was set back 75 yards by the officials.

— A total of four men were kicked out of the game for "illegal activities," two from each side. Larry Boies and Monte Clark of the Trojans got the gate along with California's Roger Ramseier and Jack Hart.

— It was the first time in the past seven tries that California had whipped the Trojans.

20-13 UPSET

Purdue Topples Spartans

By JACK VENDENBERG
United Press ports Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 19 (UP)—Purdue, a 21-point underdog, maintained a tradition of spoiler for Michigan State today by upsetting the nation's top-ranked team, 20-13, before a record crowd of 64,950 fans in Spartan Stadium.

The upset was in keeping with a tradition which Purdue started in 1953 when the Boilermakers snapped a 20-game Michigan State winning streak with a 6-0 upset.

Purdue served notice early in the game that it was out to tumble the Spartans from the unbeaten ranks and the top spot in the national rankings as well.

It looked as if Michigan State's depth might be too much for the Broilermakers as Coach Duffy Daugherty alternated units and the Spartans finally grabbed a 7-0 lead in the second period.

Walt Kowalczyk returned Kenny Mikes' punt 30 yards to the Purdue 10 and then carried three straight times to finally crash over from the two.

But Purdue got its second wind late in the period and evened the score with Bob Jarus plunging a yard to score after the boilmakers recovered a Michigan State fumble at the Spartan 19.

The broilermakers were fired up at the start of the second half and stunned Michigan State with a pair of touchdowns.

Score by periods:

Michigan State	0	7	0	6—13
Purdue	0	7	13	0—20

Michigan State scoring: Touchdowns, Kowalczyk (2, plunge), Williams (30, pass from Ninowski). Conversion: Kaiser.

Miss Creed Defends State Title Monday

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (UP)—Miss Clifford Ann Creed, Opelousas' golfing sensation, will defend her title as Louisiana Women's Golf Champ when the 29th annual Louisiana Women's Golf Tournament begins Monday at Metairie Country Club.

The 18-year-old gal, a student at Lamar Tech college in Beaumont, Tex., will be seeking her third straight title.

Miss Creed, one of the nation's top young players, will find stiff competition in Mrs. Sam Israel of New Orleans, who is a six-time winner of the state crown.

Tournament chairman, Mrs. Jackcon H. Hawley, said more than 120 women have registered.

A mixed Scotch foursome handicap medal play tournament will be played tomorrow with the state tourney's qualifying round to begin Monday. Eighteen holes will be played Monday to qualify with the state finals set for next Friday over 36 holes.

Her father, Cliff Creed, pro at the Indian Hills country club in Opelousas, started his daughter on the links when she was 10 years old. She won the Alexandria city tournament when she was 12.

Pros and amateurs like have been impressed by Miss Creed's style. She weighs only 108 but packs a terrific wallop in her clubs.

After winning more than 50 tournament trophies, she was named athlete of the month in August by the Southwest Louisiana Sportwriters Assn.

Tech Playing With A-State On Home Grid

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech's gridders will get the second half of their 1957 schedule underway on the home field next Saturday night when they tangle with non - conference Arkansas State College.

The Techmen will be going up against their third foe from outside the Gulf States Conference in this sixth battle of the 1957 campaign. In two previous clashes with non - conference opponents, Tech, has split, winning a 19-13 game from Stephen F. Austin and dropping a 0-7 fray to Mississippi Southern.

When the Bulldogs and the Arkansas State Indians of Jonesboro, Ark., take the field at Tech Stadium Saturday night it will mark the second time that the two colleges have met on the gridiron. Last fall the two crews clashed at Jonesboro, Ark., with the Indians coming from behind to take a hard fought 13-21 bout from the Techsters.

Coach Gene Harlow of Arkansas State has 18 lettermen back from the Indian team of last year that won five and dropped four. Heading up the Brave camp are co-captains Frank Farella, N. A. I. A. All - American guard in'56, and end Jim Scherman, one of the team's finest ends last season.

One big loss from the A-State team of last fall is quarterback Tom Spiers whose excellent passing paved the way for State's defeat of Tech last year. Last year Spiers made Williamson's Mid-Bracket All - American and received honorable mention on the NAIA All - American.

No doubt the Arkansas State team will remember from last year's contest the speed of Bulldog quarterback Billy Bond. The Haynesville senior intercepted an A-State pass and returned it 92 yards for a TD. Tech's other score in the tilt was on a 12 yard run by fullback Jerry Frasier.

Bradley Wins 'Flu Bowl' Tilt From C-State

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 19 (UP) Bradley rolled to its fifth conescutive victory of the season before a "Flu Bowl" homecoming crowd today by overpowering the Colorado State Rams, 19-0, at Peoria Stadium.

The Braves, hard-hit by the flu in recent weeks and with five starters just recovered from the malady, scored twice in the first quarter and again in the second period but failed to tally in the second half of the game.

ON BUSINESS SCENE

Sputnik Casting Lengthy Shadows

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—Syria and Sputnik cast long shadows over the nation's business scene this week.

Distant rumbling of war drums in Syria produced loud echoes in Wall Street where the stock market plunged to its lowest levels in more than two-and-a-half years.

At the same time, the Middle East crisis and the global revolutions of the Russian moon posed new uncertainties for consumers.

One question was whether America's supereconomy could keep on providing an abundance of both guns and butter—of modern weapons and complicated consumer gadgets—in a tense era of high-flying rocket missiles and space launching sites.

There were some who said consumers might have to tighten their belts a little.

At the moment, consumer spending was still the strongest spot in the business picture. Business in the nation's retail stores was down just a shade from the stratospheric heights of last year. Those who usually make good guesses said Christmas retail trade would show a gain of about three per cent over last year's record high.

Most of the other key indicators pointed lower.

Production of crude oil sagged to a two-year low. Housing starts, which had shown promising signs of a fall pickup, drifted down again. Steel oupput backed the usual fall bounce; production scheduled for this week was down 16 per cent from a year ago.

Both industrial production and personal income declined in September—when they should have been going up. Freight car loadings in the second week of October trailed last year by nearly 10 per cent. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad said it would lay off 2,500 employes Nov. 1 because of a continuing decline in freight business. Boeing Airplane Co. said reduced monthly payments from the Air Force might force the company to schedule a major production slowdown, but hinted the Air Force might reconsider its policy and restore at least part of the cut.

Prices of raw materials, notably copper and scrap steel, lost a little more ground this week. Prices of finished goods (home appliances, fiberboard boxes, original equipment auto tires) trended higher.

It was still evident that the sum total of all business activity, or "gross national product," would set new highs this year. So would jobs and personal income. But the gain would be much smaller than in recent boom years. Some areas of the economy were slipping back, others were standing still.

OLD-TIMER—Nearly a half-century of GMC Truck manufacturing was spanned recently when this 1915 truck rolled on to GMC Truck and Coach Division's final conditioning lines for painting. Used in various GMC exhibits, the old-timer last fall was victim of a warehouse fire in Chicago and had to be re-built. The ancient GMC, still in good running order, was manufactured early in the century in a building within two miles of GMC's present assembly plant in Pontiac, Mich. Note the chain drive and hard rubber tires.

Cotton Futures In Gains

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) —The cotton futures market rose and fell this week but finished with a net advance of good proportions.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange racked up net gains ranging from $1.85 to $3.45 a bale. The more distant months made the best showing.

The market started out with a substantial rise, which continued until about half way through the week. From then on, gains were clipped by hedge selling and active profit taking.

Bolstered by short covering and prompt stopping of 50 notices of delivery, the October 1957 contract went off the board Tuesday at 35.27 cents a pound — a gain of 0.53 of a cent since the previous week's closing.

List Buoyed

Strength in the spot month buoyed the rest of the list, but there were other supporting factors, including more unfavorable weather news from the belt. The market was also helped along by new indications that no new price support legislation would be enacted in time to affect the 1958 crop.

Attention of traders was drawn to a U.S. Census Bureau report on consumption of cotton by U.S. mills in September. Measured on a daily rate basis, it showed a smaller than average decline.

At 33,000 bales a day, use of the staple last month compared with a daily rate of 33,300 bales in August and 33,000 in September last year. The decline from August was 0.9 per cent. This compared with an average dip of 2.6 per cent from August to September during the five previous seasons.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 138,000 bales — a new record for this season. It compared with 73,000 bales in the previous week for this season. It compared with 73,000 bales in the previous week and 105,000 bales in the corresponding week of last season.

For the entire season through Oct. 15, exports were estimated at 932,000 bales against 1,242,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Mississippi Oil Men Complete 1 Gasser, 3 Oilers

JACKSON, Miss. Oct. 19 (AP)—Mississippi oil men completed one gas condensate and three oil wells in known fields last week.

The gas condensate well came in in Fayette field in Jefferson County. Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. completed its Hirsch No. 1 well and reported it flowed one million cubic feet of gas and 50 barrels of condensate a day from a lower Tuscaloosa sand at 9,628-32 feet.

Oil wells completed:

Larco and Durbin Bond said the Gray Estate No. 2 in the Diamond field of Wayne County flowed 176 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 9,355-67 feet.

Rimrock Tidelands said its USA No. 6-A well in Adams County flowed 135 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 6,425-26 feet.

Germany and Gulmon said the Pierce Butler No. b-3 well in the Laurel Hill field of Adams County flowed 133 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 6,583-85 feet.

Other Activity

Other oil activity last week included:

Gulf Oil Corp. prepared to test its Green No. 1 well in Eucutta oil field of Wayne County to evaluate commercial worth of the Paluxy sands at 9,000 feet.

The well was abandoned in 1944 at 5,717 feet after failing to log production in the Eutaw sands at 5,200 feet. It was re-opened last month and, if productive, will be the first deep production for the semi-shallow field.

Amerada Petroleum Corp. was drilling a head below 12,425 feet after logging salt in its USA Vaughey No. 1 well in Sharkey County.

The venture was scheduled to be drilled to the Smackover lime with the thickness of the salt determining the depth.

Rimrock-Tidelands was below 12,000 feet in its Smith County wildcat J.C. Hester No. 1 10 miles southeast of the Raleigh field. Contract depth is 13,300 feet.

Carter Oil Co. was below 12,000 feet in the deep Rankin County wildcat Henry Persh No. 1 with no shows reported. Contract depth is 13,900 feet.

Cost Of Living Index Figured On Many Items

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—You may be surprised to learn the government keeps taps on costs of whisky and funerals as well as pork chops and overalls in measuring monthly changes in living costs.

Most people haven't the foggiest notion how the Bureau of Labor Statistics comes up with readings on its living costs thermometer —now suffering from a touch of inflation fever.

The government index has been rising to record levels for a dozen straight months. It now shows consumer prices 3.6 er cent higher than a year ago.

Most people are watching for announcement of the newest index reading next week in hopes the price climb has stalled. The Labor Statistics Bureau is busy now in its complex task of putting the sumer prices 3.6 per cent higher figures together.

From All Over

Data is collected from all over the country on the normal grocery, rent, clothing and similar purchases shelled out by the moderate-income city family. Even whisky, beer and appendectomies are priced.

A committee of Congress has called the living cost index the government's most important single statistic. Wage rates of millions of workers are geared to its changes. For example, nearly one million railroad workers stand to gain a boost from the past six months' climb. Next week's index reading will determine whether it is four or five cents an hour.

Not so well known is that the same escalading principle, based on the bureau's consumer and other price data, triggers changes in the cost of billions of dollars worth of federal and private contracts—and even such things as alimony payments.

These long term contracts for labor, materials or future services provide for prearranged cost adjustment based on the rise and fall of the bureau's indexes. It's a hedge against loss.

Odd Items

Inclusion of such things as whisky, movie admissions and milk of magnesia in its "market basket"—about 300 items regularly priced to determine living cost change—is not a matter of government choice.

Food, for example, was found to account for approximately 30 per cent of a family budget, clothing 10, housing 32, transportation 11, and medical care 5.

Bureau agents visit stores in a variety of establishments to check personally on prices in 46 cities. Care is taken that articles of the same type and quality are regularly priced. Other data comes in from carefully selected individual consumers and merchants.

When all this is assembled into the government index, it doesn't show the living cost total of any particular family. But it does indicate how much more, or less, it costs the family to live this month than it did last month, or last year.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Educators, business men and State Employment Service representatives heard a detailed explanation on how recent high school and college graduates and others can become independent business operators through service station management, at a dinner meeting Wednesday night at the Rendezvous Restaurant.

The meeting was conducted by Esso Standard Oil Company personnel from Monroe and Shreveport.

Explaining his company's program for encouraging young men to enter the service station business was L. H. Unglesby, assistant district manager for Esso with headquarters in Shreveport. Other Esso personnel who participated were T. B. Miller, district manager, Shreveport; E. A. Coppejans, sales supervisor, Shreveport; R. D. Cannon, salesman, Monroe; F. J. Mundo, salesman, Monroe, and J. L. Overton, plant supervisor, Monroe.

The first large industry to be located in Bernice since the launching of a recent industrial emphasis program has been opened.

It is the new $300,000 C. A. Reed Lumber Company sawmill, situated near the outskirts of Bernice. Partners in the mill are C. A. Reed of Ruston, and his son, C.A. Reed, Jr., who will make his home in Bernice.

The mill is the first industry located in Bernice through the efforts of the Industrial Development Committee of which Dr. M. W. Laurence, Jr., is chairman. It is producing pine and hardwood lumber at the rate of 200,000 board feet per week, and the output will be increased soon when the present nine-hour workday is extended to 16 hours.

S. E. Campbell and L. F. Church of the Sherwin-Williams Company in Monroe attended a company sales conference in New Orleans, Friday. The meeting was held to acquaint field personnel with new products soon to be marketed and to bring them up-to-date on recent technical advances in the paint field.

Campbell is area manager for the paint firm in Monroe, and also manages the branch at 113 Catalp Street. Church is a dealer sales representative for the company in the Monroe area.

Representatives of Monroe Auto Mart, Inc., local Dodge dealership, attended a special preview showing of the 1958 line of Dodge passenger cars and trucks in New Orleans on Thursday.

Also attending the meeting, one of 17 similar showings held across the country, were officials of the Detroit auto firm. Public announcement of the 1958 Dodge is scheduled November 6.

Market Unsettled By Syrian Crisis

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Syrian crisis unsettled the stock market this week and prices were jogged back on their heels once more.

Losses were nothing like what they were in the prior week when news of Russia's space satellite was predominant.

This week it was a case of war jitters. Both this weekand last, the nature of the news was such as to build hopes for more spending on aircrafts and missiles. Stocks representing those industries did rather well despite the nervous retreat for the list as a whole.

The Associated Press average declined $2.70 to $156.70, lowest since March 22, 1955.

The quoted value of New York Stock Exchange issues fell an estimated 3 1-3 billion dollars this week. This compared with an estimated 10 billion dollar loss the week before.

Although news at the start of the week was far from inspiring to traders, the market snapped back from its terrific beating of the previous week and rallied for two straight days.

By the closing trades of Tuesday, the two-day rally was frayed. The trend became moderately lower early Wednesday.

Not until the investing public had digested the news of Syria did the market put on a bad case of war jitters Thursday.

The five most active issues this week were: North American Aviation up 1⅝ at 26¼, Bethlehem Steel off 1¼ at 39¾; Standard Oil (New Jersey) off ¾ at 52⅝; General Dynamics up ⅞ at 52 and Boeing up ½ at 32¼.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were lower this week in the bond market.

OIL PROGRESS

6 Wells Finished In Monroe District During Past Week

In keeping with Oil Progress week, six wells were completed in the Monroe District during the past week, the Monroe office of the State Conservation announced yesterday in its weekly report.

Completions were:

Catahoula

Tew Lake field: Jack W. Tippett et al Bouton No. 2, sec. 2-8-6E, was completed Oct. 12, testing 279 barrels of 42 gravity oil daily on a 6-64 choke. Production is from sands perforated at 4,332 to 4,338 feet with a tubing pressure of 400 pounds and a casing pressure of 560 pounds. The gas - oil ratio was 500 to 1 and the total depth of the well is 4,410 feet.

Grant

Georgetown field: Charles S. McKendrick - Swope No. 6, sec. 18-9-1E, was finaled Oct. 17, with an estimated 10 barrels pumping daily from 1,590 to 1,595 feet. Total depth of the well is 1,620 feet.

LaSalle

Indian Bayou Field: Justiss Mears Oil Co. McCain Monley - Stephens - Ten. Delta No. F-1, sec. 25-6-3E, completed Oct. 15 flowing 115 barrels of oil daily on an 8-64 choke. Production is from perforations at 4,288 to 4,300 feet.

Tensas

Killens Ferry field: American Petrofina Inc. A. Thr. Co. Inc. No. C-3, sec. 30, 14-10E, finaled Oct. 15, flowing 162 barrels of 41.4 gravity oil daily on a 9-64 choke. Production is from perforations at 6,925-6,532 feet with a tubing pressure of 1,025 pounds and a casing pressure of 550 feet. The gas - oil ratio was 586 to 1 and total depth is 6,990 feet.

Union

Monroe field: La. Gas. Prod. Co. La Gas Lands No. 6, sec. 35-22-3E, finaled Oct. 15 testing 2,893 MCF of gas daily after acid with a rock pressure of 415 pounds. Total depth is 2,168 feet.

Olin Oil and Gas Corp. Olin - Sinclair No. M-3, was finaled Oct. 9 flowing 2,760 MCF after acid. The hole was plugged back to 2,219 feet from 2,714 feet.

Abandonments were:

Catahoula

North Saline Lake field: Olin Oil and Gas Corp. La Delta Corp. No. 2, sec. 30-5-5E on Oct. 15 at 6,305 feet.

Concordia

Wildcat field: Marlin Exp. Inc. McNeely No. 1, sec. 10-6-7E, on Tel. 13 at 6,211 No. 1, sec. 10-6-7E on Oct. 13 at 6,211

Franklin

Wildcat field: David Crow et al T. R. Brinson No. 1, sec. 36-16-6E, on Oct. 10 at 4,692 feet. Murphy - Sun Oil Co. J. E. Holt "D" No. 12, sec. 5-15-8E, on Oct. 14 at 4,150 feet.

LaSalle

Wildcat field H. L. Hunt Co. La. Del. Hrd. Lbr. Co. Inc. F-3, sec. 13-5-4E, Oct. 12 at 6,016 feet.

New locations are:

Catahoula

Wildcat field: Durbin Bond Co. Harmon No. 1, sec. 2-8-7E, 660 feet of the east line and 330 feet of the south line of the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter.

Mean Lake field: Durbin Bond Co. Tensas Delta No. C-1, sec. 32-9-7E, 330 feet of south line and southwest quarter of the northeast quarter.

Concordia

Wildcat field: R. A. Campbell Fritz Hooper No. 1, sec. 32-8-7E, from the northeast corner of section 32, run south 760 feet then west 660 feet to location.

Milestone Forks field: Gauthier and Heard, Otto Lanester No. 2, sec. 51-9-10E, from the southwest corner of section 51, go northerly along the westerly line 1507 feet then southerly at right angles 615 feet to location. To be drilled 5500 feet by Sunnyland Construction Co.

Crude Output At Lowest Ebb In Two Years

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP) — Crude oil production in the United States has dropped to its lowest point in two years.

Despite optimistic predictions, both for the immediate future and on a long-range basis, crude output last week averaged only 6,728,700 barrels a day. This is the lowest rate since an average of 6,713,700 barrels daily the week ending Oct. 14, 1955.

Domestic production reached an all-time high of 7,818,400 just seven months ago at the peak of the oil-for-Europe program during the Suez crisis.

During the Middle East emergency, the United States boosted its production by 837,300 barrels a day. Since the end of the crisis, however, domestic output has been slashed 1,089,700 barrels daily, leaving the current level over a quarter of million barrels below early November when the Suez was closed.

Back To Normal

Middle East countries, with the lone exception of Iraq, meanwhile have returned to normal operations and now are producing more oil than ever before.

The Oil & Gas Journal reports Middle East production in July averaged 3,989,400 barrels a day, compared to 3,873,000 in October and a low of 2,142,800 in November.

Several pipelines dropped Iraq's output from 765,000 barrels a day in October to only 189,000 in November. While its neighbors already are setting new records, Iraq by July still was averaging only 464,200 barrels a day.

The October edition of Supply and Demand Outlook as published by the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America forecasts a sharp seasonal increase in domestic demand the next three months. The forecast was based on an assumption, however, there will be normal weather for the start of the winter heating season IPAA statisticians also said schedules filed in Washington by importers of foreign crude indicate "near compliance" with the government's voluntary imports limitations program.

Market To Climb

IPAA said there was indication the market for domestic crude will increase in November and reach a level of about 7,300,000 barrels daily in December and January.

The Interior Department meanwhile predicted November demand for domestic crude will average 6,850,000 barrels a day, compared to 6,700,000 in October.

Interior officials also estimated November imports will average 1,085,000 barrels a day, compared to 1,286,000 in August. The quotas under the voluntary cutback program total 1,032,000 barrels daily.

Purchasers of crude in Texas have indicated to state officials they will need 16,867 barrels daily more in November than in October.

Business Failures Dip In September

NEW YORK (Special) —Manufacturing and retailing accounted for a decline in total business failures to 1,071 in September. Despite this 6 per cent dip from August, casualties exceeded any previous September since 1933 and lifted the aggregate for the first nine months of 1957 to 10,364, some 9 per cent above the comparable period of 1956.

The rate of failure continued up to a new post-war peak of 59 per 10,000 listed businesses, but it remained below the pre-war rate of 65 per 10,000 in September, 1940.

High Appliance Casualties

Fewer retail stores failed in September than in any other month this year. Totals dropped considerably in general merchandise, furniture, and eating and drinking places. However, casualties in the appliance and automotive trades remained close to the high levels of the preceding month.

Among manufacturers, failures were lighter in the textile and apparel industry, where the total was the lowest in two years, and in the chemical and leather industries. In contrast, casualties in the food industry climbed to a 19-month peak. More businesses succumbed than a year ago in all industry and trade groups, with manufacturing and service failures climbing 30 per cent above last year, and construction and wholesaling totals advancing a moderate 12 to 13 per cent. Retailers showed the smallest increase from 1956.

The liabilities involved in September failures edged up 4 per cent to $45.4 million, ending a four-month decline. The rise was concentrated in casualties with liabilities above $100,000, while fewer concerns succumbed in all smaller size groups.

Regional trends were mixed; five regions reported dips in September and four suffered slight increases.

Grains On Edge In Week's Deals

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Tension created by the cold war between Syria and Turkey kept the grain trade on edge most of this week.

Principal concern among grain traders was the possibility that a conflict in the Middle-East might spark a third world war.

New style wheat ended the week 1 to 2 cents a bushel higher than Friday a week ago. Corn was up 1½ to 2 cents, oats were ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher, rye advanced 3 to 3½ cents, soybeans gained 3⅛ to 4 cents, and lard was 2 cents lower to 18 cents higher per hundred pounds.

Texans Final 260 Oil Wells

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today 260 oil wells were completed during the past week, making a total of 12,714 for the year compared to 13,252 for 1956.

There were 45 gas wells completions and 154 dry holes. Wildcats drilled included 8 oil and 2 gas wells and 87 dry holes. A total of 222 wells were plugged, including 61 oil and 9 gas wells.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,955,567 barrels compared to the Oct. 12 allowable of 2,940,139.

A few friendly words on the art of upping your income

A very nice thing about this suggestion for a possible way to increase your income is this: you don't have to be ingenious or talented or even expert to follow it.

The coupon below will bring it to you free. It's called "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." It lists more than 300 common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange that have paid dividends every year from 25 to 109 years. It tells which have increased their dividends over the last ten years, which paid 5 to 6 percent at recent prices, which are especially favored by big institutional investors.

And it describes the increasingly popular Monthly Investment Plan, which enables you to own stock in some of America's most successful companies for as little as $40 every three months, up to $1000 a month. More than 8½ million people own stock. The number is increasing every month. And two out of three shareowners have incomes under $7500 a year.

Here are some important things to remember:

The prices of stocks can go down as well as up. A company may not be able to pay a dividend. So always get the facts about a company before you buy its stock. Never depend on tips or rumors. And use extra money left over after living expenses are met and emergencies provided for.

This is how to help build your income.

Ownership of stock makes you part-owner of a company. Through dividends paid you can share in any profits it may make. And you can share in any growth through increase in the value of your investment. In this way you can get extra income from sources other than your job — income that can help you along toward financial independence, help make it easier for you to do what you want to do in life.

So waste no time dropping in to see a nearby broker — making sure he's with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. You'll find a cordial welcome there. He'll help you set up a sensible investment program, perhaps recommending bonds instead of stocks — and charge you nothing for his advice. He'll help you buy or sell and from time to time you can ask him to review your securities with you.

Be sure to ask him for your free copy of "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." Or send the coupon and you'll have it by return mail. Isn't it high time you began learning the art of upping your income?

Sputnik Casting Lengthy Shadows

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—Syria and Sputnik cast long shadows over the nation's business scene this week.

Distant rumbling of war drums in Syria produced loud echoes in Wall Street where the stock market plunged to its lowest levels in more than two-and-a-half years.

At the same time, the Middle East crisis and the global revolutions of the Russian moon posed new uncertainties for consumers.

One question was whether America's supereconomy could keep on providing an abundance of both guns and butter—of modern weapons and complicated consumer gadgets—in a tense era of high-flying rocket missiles and space launching sites.

There were some who said consumers might have to tighten their belts a little.

At the moment, consumer spending was still the strongest spot in the business picture. Business in the nation's retail stores was down just a shade from the stratospheric heights of last year. Those who usually make good guesses said Christmas retail trade would show a gain of about three per cent over last year's record high.

Most of the other key indicators pointed lower.

Production of crude oil sagged to a two-year low. Housing starts, which had shown promising signs of a fall pickup, drifted down again. Steel oupput backed the usual fall bounce; production scheduled for this week was down 16 per cent from a year ago.

Both industrial production and personal income declined in September—when they should have been going up. Freight car loadings in the second week of October trailed last year by nearly 10 per cent. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad said it would lay off 2,500 employes Nov. 1 because of a continuing decline in freight business. Boeing Airplane Co. said reduced monthly payments from the Air Force might force the company to schedule a major production slowdown, but hinted the Air Force might reconsider its policy and restore at least part of the cut.

Prices of raw materials, notably copper and scrap steel, lost a little more ground this week. Prices of finished goods (home appliances, fiberboard boxes, original equipment auto tires) trended higher.

It was still evident that the sum total of all business activity, or "gross national product," would set new highs this year. So would jobs and personal income. But the gain would be much smaller than in recent boom years. Some areas of the economy were slipping back, others were standing still.

OLD-TIMER—Nearly a half-century of GMC Truck manufacturing was spanned recently when this 1915 truck rolled on to GMC Truck and Coach Division's final conditioning lines for painting. Used in various GMC exhibits, the old-timer last fall was victim of a warehouse fire in Chicago and had to be re-built. The ancient GMC, still in good running order, was manufactured early in the century in a building within two miles of GMC's present assembly plant in Pontiac, Mich. Note the chain drive and hard rubber tires.

Cotton Futures In Gains

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) —The cotton futures market rose and fell this week but finished with a net advance of good proportions.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange racked up net gains ranging from $1.85 to $3.45 a bale. The more distant months made the best showing.

The market started out with a substantial rise, which continued until about half way through the week. From then on, gains were clipped by hedge selling and active profit taking.

Bolstered by short covering and prompt stopping of 50 notices of delivery, the October 1957 contract went off the board Tuesday at 35.27 cents a pound — a gain of 0.53 of a cent since the previous week's closing.

List Buoyed

Strength in the spot month buoyed the rest of the list, but there were other supporting factors, including more unfavorable weather news from the belt. The market was also helped along by new indications that no new price support legislation would be enacted in time to affect the 1958 crop.

Attention of traders was drawn to a U.S. Census Bureau report on consumption of cotton by U.S. mills in September. Measured on a daily rate basis, it showed a smaller than average decline.

At 33,000 bales a day, use of the staple last month compared with a daily rate of 33,300 bales in August and 33,000 in September last year. The decline from August was 0.9 per cent. This compared with an average dip of 2.6 per cent from August to September during the five previous seasons.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 138,000 bales — a new record for this season. It compared with 73,000 bales in the previous week for this season. It compared with 73,000 bales in the previous week and 105,000 bales in the corresponding week of last season.

For the entire season through Oct. 15, exports were estimated at 932,000 bales against 1,242,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Mississippi Oil Men Complete 1 Gasser, 3 Oilers

JACKSON, Miss. Oct. 19 (AP)—Mississippi oil men completed one gas condensate and three oil wells in known fields last week.

The gas condensate well came in in Fayette field in Jefferson County. Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. completed its Hirsch No. 1 well and reported it flowed one million cubic feet of gas and 50 barrels of condensate a day from a lower Tuscaloosa sand at 9,628-32 feet.

Oil wells completed:

Larco and Durbin Bond said the Gray Estate No. 2 in the Diamond field of Wayne County flowed 176 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 9,355-67 feet.

Rimrock Tidelands said its USA No. 6-A well in Adams County flowed 135 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 6,425-26 feet.

Germany and Gulmon said the Pierce Butler No. b-3 well in the Laurel Hill field of Adams County flowed 133 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 6,583-85 feet.

Other Activity

Other oil activity last week included:

Gulf Oil Corp. prepared to test its Green No. 1 well in Eucutta oil field of Wayne County to evaluate commercial worth of the Paluxy sands at 9,000 feet.

The well was abandoned in 1944 at 5,717 feet after failing to log production in the Eutaw sands at 5,200 feet. It was re-opened last month and, if productive, will be the first deep production for the semi-shallow field.

Amerada Petroleum Corp. was drilling a head below 12,425 feet after logging salt in its USA Vaughey No. 1 well in Sharkey County.

The venture was scheduled to be drilled to the Smackover lime with the thickness of the salt determining the depth.

Rimrock-Tidelands was below 12,000 feet in its Smith County wildcat J.C. Hester No. 1 10 miles southeast of the Raleigh field. Contract depth is 13,300 feet.

Carter Oil Co. was below 12,000 feet in the deep Rankin County wildcat Henry Persh No. 1 with no shows reported. Contract depth is 13,900 feet.

Cost Of Living Index Figured On Many Items

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—You may be surprised to learn the government keeps taps on costs of whisky and funerals as well as pork chops and overalls in measuring monthly changes in living costs.

Most people haven't the foggiest notion how the Bureau of Labor Statistics comes up with readings on its living costs thermometer —now suffering from a touch of inflation fever.

The government index has been rising to record levels for a dozen straight months. It now shows consumer prices 3.6 er cent higher than a year ago.

Most people are watching for announcement of the newest index reading next week in hopes the price climb has stalled. The Labor Statistics Bureau is busy now in its complex task of putting the sumer prices 3.6 per cent higher figures together.

From All Over

Data is collected from all over the country on the normal grocery, rent, clothing and similar purchases shelled out by the moderate-income city family. Even whisky, beer and appendectomies are priced.

A committee of Congress has called the living cost index the government's most important single statistic. Wage rates of millions of workers are geared to its changes. For example, nearly one million railroad workers stand to gain a boost from the past six months' climb. Next week's index reading will determine whether it is four or five cents an hour.

Not so well known is that the same escalading principle, based on the bureau's consumer and other price data, triggers changes in the cost of billions of dollars worth of federal and private contracts—and even such things as alimony payments.

These long term contracts for labor, materials or future services provide for prearranged cost adjustment based on the rise and fall of the bureau's indexes. It's a hedge against loss.

Odd Items

Inclusion of such things as whisky, movie admissions and milk of magnesia in its "market basket"—about 300 items regularly priced to determine living cost change—is not a matter of government choice.

Food, for example, was found to account for approximately 30 per cent of a family budget, clothing 10, housing 32, transportation 11, and medical care 5.

Bureau agents visit stores in a variety of establishments to check personally on prices in 46 cities. Care is taken that articles of the same type and quality are regularly priced. Other data comes in from carefully selected individual consumers and merchants.

When all this is assembled into the government index, it doesn't show the living cost total of any particular family. But it does indicate how much more, or less, it costs the family to live this month than it did last month, or last year.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Educators, business men and State Employment Service representatives heard a detailed explanation on how recent high school and college graduates and others can become independent business operators through service station management, at a dinner meeting Wednesday night at the Rendezvous Restaurant.

The meeting was conducted by Esso Standard Oil Company personnel from Monroe and Shreveport.

Explaining his company's program for encouraging young men to enter the service station business was L. H. Unglesby, assistant district manager for Esso with headquarters in Shreveport. Other Esso personnel who participated were T. B. Miller, district manager, Shreveport; E. A. Coppejans, sales supervisor, Shreveport; R. D. Cannon, salesman, Monroe; F. J. Mundo, salesman, Monroe, and J. L. Overton, plant supervisor, Monroe.

The first large industry to be located in Bernice since the launching of a recent industrial emphasis program has been opened.

It is the new $300,000 C. A. Reed Lumber Company sawmill, situated near the outskirts of Bernice. Partners in the mill are C. A. Reed of Ruston, and his son, C.A. Reed, Jr., who will make his home in Bernice.

The mill is the first industry located in Bernice through the efforts of the Industrial Development Committee of which Dr. M. W. Laurence, Jr., is chairman. It is producing pine and hardwood lumber at the rate of 200,000 board feet per week, and the output will be increased soon when the present nine-hour workday is extended to 16 hours.

S. E. Campbell and L. F. Church of the Sherwin-Williams Company in Monroe attended a company sales conference in New Orleans, Friday. The meeting was held to acquaint field personnel with new products soon to be marketed and to bring them up-to-date on recent technical advances in the paint field.

Campbell is area manager for the paint firm in Monroe, and also manages the branch at 113 Catalp Street. Church is a dealer sales representative for the company in the Monroe area.

Representatives of Monroe Auto Mart, Inc., local Dodge dealership, attended a special preview showing of the 1958 line of Dodge passenger cars and trucks in New Orleans on Thursday.

Also attending the meeting, one of 17 similar showings held across the country, were officials of the Detroit auto firm. Public announcement of the 1958 Dodge is scheduled November 6.

Market Unsettled By Syrian Crisis

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Syrian crisis unsettled the stock market this week and prices were jogged back on their heels once more.

Losses were nothing like what they were in the prior week when news of Russia's space satellite was predominant.

This week it was a case of war jitters. Both this weekand last, the nature of the news was such as to build hopes for more spending on aircrafts and missiles. Stocks representing those industries did rather well despite the nervous retreat for the list as a whole.

The Associated Press average declined $2.70 to $156.70, lowest since March 22, 1955.

The quoted value of New York Stock Exchange issues fell an estimated 3 1-3 billion dollars this week. This compared with an estimated 10 billion dollar loss the week before.

Although news at the start of the week was far from inspiring to traders, the market snapped back from its terrific beating of the previous week and rallied for two straight days.

By the closing trades of Tuesday, the two-day rally was frayed. The trend became moderately lower early Wednesday.

Not until the investing public had digested the news of Syria did the market put on a bad case of war jitters Thursday.

The five most active issues this week were: North American Aviation up 1⅝ at 26¼, Bethlehem Steel off 1¼ at 39¾; Standard Oil (New Jersey) off ¾ at 52⅝; General Dynamics up ⅞ at 52 and Boeing up ½ at 32¼.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were lower this week in the bond market.

OIL PROGRESS

6 Wells Finished In Monroe District During Past Week

In keeping with Oil Progress week, six wells were completed in the Monroe District during the past week, the Monroe office of the State Conservation announced yesterday in its weekly report.

Completions were:

Catahoula

Tew Lake field: Jack W. Tippett et al Routon No. 2, sec. 2-8-6E, was completed Oct. 12, testing 279 barrels of 42 gravity oil daily on a 6-64 choke. Production is from sands perforated at 4,332 to 4,338 feet with a tubing pressure of 400 pounds and a casing pressure of 560 pounds. The gas - oil ratio was 500 to 1 and the total depth of the well is 4,410 feet.

Grant

Georgetown field: Charles S. McKenderick - Swope No. 6, sec. 18-9-1E, was finaled Oct. 17, with an estimated 10 barrels pumping daily from 1,591 to 1,595 feet. Total depth of the well is 1,620 feet.

LaSalle

Indian Bayou Field: Justiss Mears Oil Co. McCain Monley - Stephens - Ten. Delta No. F-1, sec. 25-6-3E, completed Oct. 15 flowing 115 barrels of oil daily on an 8-64 choke. Production is from perforations at 4,288 to 4,300 feet.

Tensas

Killens Ferry field: American Petrofina Inc. A. Tbr. Co. Inc. No. C-3, sec. 30, 14-10E, finaled Oct. 15, flowing 162 barrels of 41.4 gravity oil daily on a 9-64 choke. Production is from perforations at 6,925-6,932 feet with a tubing pressure of 1,025 pounds and a casing pressure of 550 feet. The gas - oil ratio was 586 to 1 and total depth is 6,990 feet.

Union

Monroe field: La. Gas. Prod. Co. La. Gas Lands No. 6, sec. 35-22-3E, finaled Oct. 15 testing 2,893 MCF of gas daily after acid with a rock pressure of 415 pounds. Total depth is 2,168 feet.

Olin Oil and Gas Corp. Olin - Sinclair No. M-3, was finaled Oct. 9 flowing 2,760 MCF after acid. The hole was plugged back to 2,219 feet from 2,714 feet.

Abandonments were:

Catahoula

North Saline Lake field: Olin Oil and Gas Corp. La Delta Corp. No. 2, sec. 30-5-5E on Oct. 15 at 6,005 feet.

Concordia

Wildcat field: Marlin Exp. Inc. McNeely No. 1, sec. 10-6-7E, on Tct. 13 at 6,211
No. 1, sec. 10-6-7E on Oct. 13 at 6,211

Franklin

Wildcat field: David Crow et al T. R. Brinson No. 1, sec. 36-16-8E, on Oct. 10 at 4,692 feet. Murphy - Sun Oil Co. J. E. Holt "D" No. 12, sec. 5-15-8E, on Oct. 14 at 4,150 feet.

LaSalle

Wildcat field H. L. Hunt Co. La. Del. Hrd. Lbr. Co. Inc. F-3, sec. 13-5-4E, Oct. 12 at 6,016 feet.

New locations are:

Catahoula

Wildcat field: Durbin Bond Co. Harmon No. 1, sec. 2-8-7E, 660 feet of the east line and 330 feet of the south line of the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter.

Mean Lake field: Durbin Bond Co. Tensas Delta No. C-1, sec. 32-9-7E, 330 feet of south line and southwest quarter of the northeast quarter.

Concordia

Crude Output At Lowest Ebb In Two Years

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP) — Crude oil production in the United States has dropped to its lowest point in two years.

Despite optimistic predictions, both for the immediate future and on a long-range basis, crude output last week averaged only 6,728,700 barrels a day. This is the lowest rate since an average of 6,713,700 barrels daily the week ending Oct. 14, 1955.

Domestic production reached an all-time high of 7,818,400 just seven months ago at the peak of the oil-for-Europe program during the Suez crisis.

During the Middle East emergency, the United States boosted its production by 837,300 barrels a day. Since the end of the crisis, however, domestic output has been slashed 1,089,700 barrels daily, leaving the current level over a quarter of million barrels below early November when the Suez was closed.

Back To Normal

Middle East countries, with the lone exception of Iraq, meanwhile have returned to normal operations and now are producing more oil than ever before.

The Oil & Gas Journal reports Middle East production in July averaged 3,989,400 barrels a day, compared to 3,873,000 in October and a low of 2,142,800 in November.

Several pipelines dropped Iraq's output from 765,000 barrels a day in October to only 189,000 in November. While its neighbors already are setting new records, Iraq by July still was averaging only 464,200 barrels a day.

The October edition of Supply and Demand Outlook as published by the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America forecasts a sharp seasonal increase in domestic demand the next three months. The forecast was based on an assumption, however, there will be normal weather for the start of the winter heating season IPAA statisticians also said schedules filed in Washington by importers of foreign crude indicate "near compliance" with the government's voluntary imports limitations program.

Market To Climb

IPAA said there was indication the market for domestic crude will increase in November and reach a level of about 7,300,000 barrels daily in December and January.

The Interior Department meanwhile predicted November demand for domestic crude will average 6,850,000 barrels a day, compared to 6,700,000 in October.

Interior officials also estimated November imports will average 1,085,000 barrels a day, compared to 1,286,000 in August. The quotas under the voluntary cutback program total 1,032,000 barrels daily.

Purchasers of crude in Texas have indicated to state officials they will need 16,867 barrels daily more in November than in October.

Business Failures Dip In September

NEW YORK (Special) —Manufacturing and retailing accounted for a decline in total business failures to 1,071 in September. Despite this 6 per cent dip from August, casualties exceeded any previous September since 1933 and lifted the aggregate for the first nine months of 1957 to 10,364, some 9 per cent above the comparable period of 1956.

The rate of failure continued up to a new post-war peak of 59 per 10,000 listed businesses, but it remained below the pre-war rate of 65 per 10,000 in September, 1940.

High Appliance Casualties

Fewer retail stores failed in September than in any other month this year. Totals dropped considerably in general merchandise, furniture, and eating and drinking places. However, casualties in the appliance and automotive trades remained close to the high levels of the preceding month.

Among manufacturers, failures were lighter in the textile and apparel industry, where the total was the lowest in two years, and in the chemical and leather industries. In contrast, casualties in the food industry climbed to a 19-month peak. More businesses succumbed than a year ago in all industry and trade groups, with manufacturing and service failures climbing 30 per cent above last year, and construction and wholesaling totals advancing a moderate 12 to 13 per cent. Retailers showed the smallest increase from 1956.

The liabilities involved in September failures edged up 4 per cent to $45.4 million, ending a four-month decline. The rise was concentrated in casualties with liabilities above $100,000, while fewer concerns succumbed in all smaller size groups.

Regional trends were mixed; five regions reported dips in September and four suffered slight increases.

Grains On Edge In Week's Deals

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Tension created by the cold war between Syria and Turkey kept the grain trade on edge most of this week.

Principal concern among grain traders was the possibility that a conflict in the Middle-East might spark a third world war.

New style wheat ended the week 1 to 2 cents a bushel higher than Friday a week ago. Corn was up 1½ to 2 cents, oats were ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher, rye advanced 3 to 3½ cents, soybeans gained 3⅛ to 4 cents, and lard was 2 cents lower to 18 cents higher per hundred pounds.

Texans Final 260 Oil Wells

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today 260 oil wells were completed during the past week, making a total of 12,714 for the year compared to 13,252 for 1956.

There were 45 gas wells completions and 154 dry holes. Wildcats drilled included 8 oil and 2 gas wells and 87 dry holes. A total of 222 wells were plugged, including 61 oil and 9 gas wells.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,955,567 barrels compared to the Oct. 12 allowable of 2,940,139.

A few friendly words on the art of upping your income

A very nice thing about this suggestion for a possible way to increase your income is this: you don't have to be ingenious or talented or even expert to follow it.

The coupon below will bring it to you free. It's called "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." It lists more than 300 common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange that have paid dividends every year from 25 to 109 years. It tells which have increased their dividends over the last ten years, which paid 5 to 6 percent at recent prices, which are especially favored by big institutional investors.

And it describes the increasingly popular Monthly Investment Plan, which enables you to own stock in some of America's most successful companies for as little as $40 every three months, up to $1000 a month. More than 8½ million people own stock. The number is increasing every month. And two out of three shareowners have incomes under $7500 a year.

Here are some important things to remember:

The prices of stocks can go down as well as up. A company may not be able to pay a dividend. So always get the facts about a company before you buy its stock. Never depend on tips or rumors. And use extra money left over after living expenses are met and emergencies provided for.

This is how to help build your income.

Ownership of stock makes you part-owner of a company. Through dividends paid you can share in any profits it may make. And you can share in any growth through increase in the value of your investment. In this way you can get extra income from sources other than your job — income that can help you along toward financial independence, help make it easier for you to do what you want to do in life.

So waste no time dropping in to see a nearby broker — making sure he's with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. You'll find a cordial welcome there. He'll help you set up a sensible investment program, perhaps recommending bonds instead of stocks — and charge you nothing for his advice. He'll help you buy or sell and from time to time you can ask him to review your securities with you.

Be sure to ask him for your free copy of "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." Or send the coupon and you'll have it by return mail. Isn't it high time you began learning the art of upping your income?

GENTLE TIGER

Excellent Story Of State's Civil War Fighting Troops

GENTLE TIGER, The Gallant Life of Roberdeau Wheat By Charles L. Dufour (Louisiana State University Press, $3.50).

This is a must book for Louisianians who would like an excellent closeup of the part played in the Civil War by the state's famed Louisiana Tigers" and their leader.

Chatham Roberdeau Wheat wrote at twenty: "O how I long to put my armor on and try my lance." Within weeks he was a lieutenant in the Mexican War, boasting he "had the best saber, the finest belt, and fine uniform, cavalry gloves, spurs and the finest horse in the regiment and the way he rides through the streets of Matamoros is death to the Signoritas (sic)."

This handsome giant of a man went onto do all the things other men of his era only dreamed about, in a career as intensely spectacular as it was brief. A gentleman by birth and a lawyer by profession, Wheat was before all else a soldier. In rapid succession he fought with Lopez in Cuba, with Carvajal and Alvarez in two Mexican revolutions, with Walker in Nicaragua and Garibaldi in Italy. Between campaigns he fell in and out of love, dabbled in politics, and displayed his amazing talents as an orator and bon vivant.

With the outbreak of the Civil War, Wheat found the great cause worthy of his steel. He hurried home from the camp of Garibaldi in Italy to become leader of the famed "Louisiana Tigers" and with them fought in some of the war's bloodiest battles — at Bull Run, in the Valley with Stonewall Jackson, in the Seven Days. Idolized by his men for his courage and camaraderie, he was loved by women for his dash and gallantry and gentleness.

Wheat was universally liked and by his friends was genuinely beloved. A Cuban associate called him a "noble fellow, young and ardent in dangerous enterprise." He was "dear, affectionate, tender Major Wheat," to an impressionable girl in New Orleans. Stonewall Jackson said that Wheat was "too brave ever to think of himself."

Wheat's Louisiana Tigers enjoyed a less genteel reputation. Freeman has called them "the toughest battalion in the army." "They neither fear God, man or the Devil," confided a Virginia soldier to his diary. A lad from South Carolina said of the Tigers "the worst men I ever saw: I understand that they are mostly wharf rats from New Orleans, and that Major Wheat was the only man that could do anything with them. They were always ready to fight, and it made little difference to them who they fought."

Certainly, they rushed gaily into battle under their ridiculous standard, a picture of a lamb with the legend "as gentle as"; and once engaged, anything went.

As Pie Dufour, Charles L. Dufour is the writer of the widely read column, "A La Mode" which appears daily in the New Orleans States and Sunday in the Times Picayune - New Orleans States. He is also a popular public speaker, a special lecturer in history at University College of Tulane University. Mr. Dufour writes with the authority of a long-time student of the Civil War and with the drama and gusto of a veteran newspaper man. Basing his account largely on letters and unpublished family documents, he makes unforgettable the story of Roberdeau Wheat's life and loves from his turbulent school days to his heroic death at Gaine's Mill in the Chickahominy swamps.

2 Top Books For Reading By Juniors

The David McKay Company has come up with a couple of good junior books. They are: ROCKET TO LIMBO By Alan E. Nourse, $3 and INDIDAN TALES of The Desert People by William D. Hayes, $3.

In Rocket to Limbo, Lars Heldrigssen, trained as a planetary ecologist to assist in Earth's search for new and habitable planets for colonization, is assigned to the Star Ship Ganymede for his first field experience, on what is supposed to be a routine run to a known star system, Vega.

But it was altogether different and the following mutiny, led by Heldrigssen and the landing on an unknown planet is just about tops for the juniors. It is a story you'll be a long time forgetting—particular with the current satellite in the news.

Indian Tales of The Desert People are particularly interesting. The people who first told these stories were the Aw-aw-tam, which means "Desert People" or "People of Peace." They lived in the valleys of the Gila River and the Salt River in the desert country of what is now South Central Arizona.

VISIONARIES

Dreamers Of The American Dream Is A Top Work

DREAMERS OF THE AMERICAN DREAM By Stewart H. Holbrook, edited by Lewis Gannett (Doubleday, $5.75.) This is another book in the Mainstream of American Series. It is an account of the great accomplishments and the magnificent failures of the visionaries who sought to create what they could not find.

Only a few of their names can be found in our schoolbooks. Fewer still stand in marble or bronze in our halls and parks. The mass of Americans knows little or nothing of them . . . They dreamed nobly, and they acted . . . They were a daft, honest, and all-but-incredible lot of men and women.

These are the persons of whom Holbrook has written in Dreamers of the American Dream, tenth volume in the Mainstream of America Series. Some of them were successes; some of them were failures. All of them — visionaries, indomitable pioneers, ranting fanatics, or patient doers — helped to build America.

In these pages are the stories of Sylvester Graham, who campaigned against "adulterated" bread but only succeeded in having a cracker named for him; of Orson Fowler, who made a fortune exploiting phrenology; of George Evans, who conceived the Homestead Act; of Henry George, who propounded the idea of a single tax on land; and, among the many others, of Dorothea Dix, who struggled to improve the asylums of the mentally ill.

Far more than being merely stories of American history's off-beat characters, these are the stories — woven together by the author into a single narration — of the heroes and heroines of the temperance and the suffragette movements; of the persons who worked for the deaf and dumb, the insane, and the blind — or who brought about prison reforms, or led the fight for the workingman. Stewart H. Holbrook's special genius to dramatize and deal with many little - related lives in a single book, as was displayed in his The Age of the Moguls, is again shown here.

THE AUTHOR

Portland, Oregon's eminent historian, Stewart H. Holbrook, was born in Vermont but moved to the Northwest some thirty years ago. From lumberjacking he turned to writing his first book being published in 1938. With the publication of The Age of the Moguls, his fourteenth book, Mr. Holbrook's very great ability to tell as a single narration the stories of many persons who were widely separated in time and place was conclusively demonstrated. This same ability has been brought into play here in Dreamers of the American Dream.

This Novel Is Long Enough For Any Body

ATLAS SHRUGGED. By Ayn Rand. Random House. $6.95.

Bearing on his bowed shoulders an ungrateful world that grows heavier and heavier, Atlas shrugs and lets it fall to destruction — and a proper comeuppance it is, by the terms of Miss Rand's ideology.

Atlas, according to what some readers will regard as a monolithic conception, is the rich man, the doer, the builder and material creator. In this novel he is Rearden, inventor of Rearden Metal; his counterpart in what is by no means the weaker sex is Dagny Taggart; John Galt stands for the spirit of their heroism. They find the world is their ball and chain; they are fettered by social movements, sissy notions about the majority and the good of the majority, or utopian theories that would require a business-man to look out for the welfare of his employes.

In the course of a highly involved and unlikely plot developed with a maximum of wordiness, Miss Rand expresses considerable contempt for books that sell only 3,000 copies. She's certainly in a position to, for there are already 100,000 copies of this one in print, says her publisher. At $5.95 it is practically a $700,000 operation. But then, with 1,168 pages, this is as long as four novels; and I'd rather read the four.

Stamp Honoring Free Religious Activities

A United States stamp honoring religious freedom in America and the "Flushing Remonstrance" will be issued on Dec. 27, it was announced by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

The 3-cent stamp will be placed on first day sale at the Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., post office as a commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the signing of the "Flushing Remonstrance." This pact was a protest by the citizens of Flushing against a law put into effect by Gov. Peter Stuyvesant, violating the principles of religious freedom.

Said Summerfield: "The Post Office Department is happy to call to the attention of the American people the significance of the Flushing Remonstrance, through the issuance of a commemorative stamp."

Details and design of the stamp will be announced soon.

The long awaited "Europa" stamps issued by the countries of Western Europe now are on the philatelic market.

The Saar and Western Germany each have issued two adhesives of identical design — the silhouette of a tree. Germany's stamps are 10-pfennig green and 40-pf blue. The Saar's are 20-f orange and 35-f violet.

Belgium's pair, 2-franc brown and 4-f blue, show a symbolic montage of a factory, wheat field and bridge.

The Netherlands has put forth a 10-c grey and blue and a 30-c green and blue. The central design features a six pointed star with the letters Europa emanating from each point of the star.

Luxembourg has issued three stamps — 2-f brown, 3-f orange and 4-f violet. Depicted is a tower of pleaty symbolizing the united strength of the European community of nations.

France's two adhesives feature a pair of hands. One holds a stalk of grain while the other grasps a cogwheel. The denominations are 20 franc and 35 francs.

CAMERA NOTES

Sign Subject Of Unusual Picture

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Six times daily I passed by this sign, but not until I reminded myself that today I needed to find an unusual picture, did I realize that I was passing one up.

Much improvement as to picture quality could be made; however, the subject matter seems to overpower your attention. Evidently the sign meant to say "Special Sweet Potatoes."

This picture was made with a 35 Rollie on a rainy day, shot at F-11 with a shutter speed of 1-50 of a second. No flash was used.

Second Meeting

The North Louisiana Camera Club held its second meeting at Daly's Studio last Tuesday night, with 15 members present. Some very fine work was shown by each one present, and was offered for constructive criticism. Many said that the constructive remarks were just what they needed to iron out some difficulities they had been having with their shooting.

Lee Eotes, program chairman of the club, told all black and white shooters to have a portrait of some kind ready for showing at the next meeting, set for Nov. 5 at Daly's Studio. Color shooters are asked to bring four or five color slides for the program.

In the meantime, let's shoot an extra one for this column. Send it in to Camera Notes, with a short paragraph of explanation telling how you shot it. Thanks.

Beecham's Musical Lollipops Send Customers Home Happy

By HUGH MULLIGAN

No one would have suspected it but for many years now tart-tongued, terrible - tempered Sir Thomas Beecham, conductor of the Royal Philharmonic has been handing out lollipops to his concert audiences.

Beecham distributes his lollipops for the same reason a barber does — to send his customers home happy, contented and anxious to return for more. His, however, are a musical rather than an edible variety.

As Beecham himself defines it, his lollipops are musical sweets served up as encores at the end of a concert to restore the equilibrium of the audience. If the main piece on the program has a grand slam bang ending, then Beecham selects an encore of "an essentially syrupy, soapy, soothing and even soporific nature" to becalm his listeners. On the other hand, if the concert has a quiet ending, he says, "the character of the lollipop suffers a slight change and the former tranquilizer is replaced by something of a more genial type."

The lollipops served up on Beecham's baton have been brightly packaged by Angel Records for distribution during the Christmas season. The flavors range from sweet to spicy, from Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" and Berlioz' "Dance of the Sylphs" to Von Suppe's explosive "Poet and Peasant Overture," and the Royal Hunt and Storm from Berlioz' "The Trojans." All make for delicious listening.

Without using Beecham's lollipop term, many record companies have been successfully catering to the sweet tooth of hi-fi fans with musical confections played by major orchestras. Overtures from operas and symphonies have figured prominently in the assortment, prompted no doubt by the stunning success of Mercury's recording of the Tchaikovsky "1812 Overture," one of the finest hi-fi records ever made.

Recent and outstanding recordings in this diversified field include:

"Overture," a Capitol album with Felix Slatkin and the Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra in a dazzling and acoustically exciting rendition of two Von Suppe overtures, Rossini's "Overture to William Tell" and Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture."

Columbia's album of overtures by Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra. The selections include the William Tell overture, Smentana's overture to "The Bartered Bride," Von Suppe's "The Beautiful Galatea" and a spirited, explosive performance of Offenbach's overture to "Orpheus in the Underworld" known more popularly as the "can - can overture."

Angel devotes a whole album to Franz Von Suppe, the overture king, with Henry Krips and the Philharmonia Promenade Orchestra handing out the lollipops.

In the same light concert vein, Design Records offers D'Artega conducting a "Pop Concert in Carnegie Hall," with selections ranging from Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," featuring piano soloist Rosa Linda, to the tone poem "Caves of Granada" by Rebekah Harkness, one of the outstanding women composers in the world. D'Arteza, handling the orchestra with deft artistry, is given an added assist by the engineering staff which managed a frequency limit from a low of 16 to a high of 25,000 cycles per second.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Marshall Recognized As Prolific Writer

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Edison Marshall is one of the most prolific of present day writers and chooses for his backgrounds an infinite variety of locations. With his newest book "The Inevitable Hour" he has chosen a time and a place that captured the interest o the world in May of 1902 and has continued to hold it for many years. Against a background of the beautiful island of Martinique, green jewel of the Windward Islands which rim the eastern edges of the Caribbean, Mr. Marshall has set a truly exciting novel. It is a story of turbulent love and flashing hate, of the mystic powers of dark voodoo and the unchainable primeval forces of the natural world. But above else it is a novel of people, men and women caught in the grip of violently conflicting emotions and above all of the eruption of the volcano, Pelee.

"Remember Me To God" is the title of the new book by Myron S. Kaufmann, which he took eight years to write. It is a long story, but it moves swiftly and absorbs the reader so entirely that it has the effect of a novel one-third as long, even while encompassing a whole world of its own, which one hates to leave when the book is completed. It is a family story and social comedy of a high order. It is a book which you will not want to miss.

Elizabeth Borton de Trevion is an American who married into a prominent Mexican family and makes her home in that country. Several years ago she wrote the true story of her life in a fascinating book called "My Heart Lies south." Now she has again drawn on her experience to produce a novel entitled "Even As You Love' This is a story of Mexican family life and is one which will appeal especially to women.

Dorothy Erskine and Patrick Dennis have produced a best seller which threatens to rival "Auntie Mame" in "The Pink Hotel." This book has for its setting a resort hotel and for its content the assortment of guests who frequent it. If you want a good laugh you can get it from "The Pink Hotel."

A serious and sincere novel is "The Glorious Folly" by Louis De Wohl, which will inevitably be compared to Lloyd C. Douglas's "The Robe." The setting and the period are the same. This continues the story of Casius Longinus, the soldier who thrust the spear into Christ's side and whose life was changed from that day. This story was told in Mr. De Wohl's previous book "The pear." Now he picks Casius up again and tells of his meeting with Saul of Trasus, who became St. Paul. It is a book which will appeal to readers who like a book with a Biblical background and a religious emphasis. It is a very fine book and can be heartily recommended for family reading.

Readers who want a light book of fiction to read will welcome several recent additions. There is Josephine Lawrence's new family story "The Prodigal," Elizabeth Seifert's new book with a medical background called "The Doctor's Husband and Amelia Elizabeth Walden's absorbing family story called "Flight Into Morning." These are not serious books, but they do have their public.

At long last publishers are giving special emphasis to the reading interests of teen-agers in the books which they publish. This week we have seven new titles for teen-agers. "Clue in the Antique Clock" is a mystery written by Helen Girvan. Stephen Meader is the author of an exciting story, set in the great swamps of Florida, which he calls "Everglades Adventure." Another mystery story is "The Empty House" mystery by Norvin Pallas. Still another exciting book is "Lights Over Skeleton Ridge" by Manly Wade Wellman. Two books which will appeal especially to girls are "A Way with Boys" by Viola Rowe and 'Always Anne" by Holly Wilson. A teenage book which we purchased especially for the readers of the Carver branch is "Reach for A Star" by Florence Crannell Means and is the story of a girl's experience at Fisk University. Teenagers who are interested in chemistry will welcome a very fine new book by Bernard Jaffe called "Chemistry Creates A New World."

A Musical Prodigy's Tragic Childhood And Her Father

FORBIDDEN CHILDHOOD By Ruth Slenczynska and Louis Biancolli (Doubleday, $3.95).

Before her birth, Ruth's father decided she was to be a musical prodigy. But no one dreamed the methods he would use to make her one. This is the story of a genius whose childhood was traded for tragedy.

At the age of four little Ruth, her feet propped on a box because her chubby legs were too short to reach the pedals, played her first public piano concert. It was a sensation, and her father knew then that his most fantastic hopes for her would be realized. The amazingly talented child went on playing to rave notices here and in Europe. But a shadow loomed over her life: her father, insatiably ambitious, drove her with threats and shockingly brutal beating until the gifted, sensitive child broke down.

Never before has there been such a frank and startling account of a parent's attempt to fulfill his own frustrated ambitions through his child. How Ruth finally freed herself from her father's Svengali - like domination and returned to the concert stage is a dramatic story.

There is bitterness in this book in its revelation of the terrible price Ruth paid for her music—but there is inspiration, too, in her courageous and hard-won victory as an artist — and as a human being.

GENTLE TIGER

Excellent Story Of State's Civil War Fighting Troops

GENTLE TIGER, The Gallant Life of Roberdeau Wheat By Charles L. Dufour (Louisiana State University Press, $3.50).

This is a must book for Louisianians who would like an excellent closeup of the part played in the Civil War by the state's "famed Louisiana Tigers" and their leader.

Chatham Roberdeau Wheat wrote at twenty: "O how I long to put my armor on and try my lance." Within weeks he was a lieutenant in the Mexican War, boasting he "had the best saber, the finest belt, and fine uniform, cavalry gloves, spurs and the finest horse in the regiment and the way he rides through the streets of Matamoros is death to the Signorittas (sic)."

This handsome giant of a man went onto do all the things other men of his era only dreamed about, in a career as intensely spectacular as it was brief. A gentleman by birth and a lawyer by profession, Wheat was before all else a soldier. In rapid succession he fought with Lopez in Cuba, with Carvajal and Alvarez in two Mexican revolutions, with Walker in Nicaragua and Garibaldi in Italy. Between campaigns he fell in and out of love, dabbled in politics, and displayed his amazing talents as an orator and bon vivant.

With the outbreak of the Civil War, Wheat found the great cause worthy of his steel. He hurried home from the camp of Garibaldi in Italy to become leader of the famed "Louisiana Tigers" and with them fought in some of the war's bloodiest battles — at Bull Run, in the Valley with Stonewall Jackson, in the Seven Days. Idolized by his men for his courage and camaraderie, he was loved by women for his dash and gallantry and gentleness.

Wheat was universally liked and by his friends was genuinely beloved. A Cuban associate called him a "noble fellow, young and ardent in dangerous enterprise." He was "dear, affectionate, tender Major Wheat," to an impressionable girl in New Orleans. Stonewall Jackson said that Wheat was "too brave ever to think of himself."

Wheat's Louisiana Tigers enjoyed a less genteel reputation. Freeman has called them "the toughest battalion in the army." "They neither fear God, man or the Devil," confided a Virginia soldier to his diary. A lad from South Carolina said of the Tigers "the worst men I ever saw: I understand that they are mostly wharf rats from New Orleans, and that Major Wheat was the only man that could do anything with them. They were always ready to fight, and it made little difference to them who they fought." Certainly, they rushed gaily into battle under their ridiculous standard, a picture of a lamb with the legend "as gentle as"; and once engaged, anything went.

As Pie Dufour, Charles L. Dufour is the writer of the widely read column, "A La Mode" which appears daily in the New Orleans States and Sunday in the Times Picayune - New Orleans States. He is also a popular public speaker, a special lecturer in history at University College of Tulane University. Mr. Dufour writes with the authority of a long-time student of the Civil War and with the drama and gusto of a veteran newspaper man. Basing his account largely on letters and unpublished family documents, he makes unforgettable the story of Roberdeau Wheat's lite and loves from his turbulent school days to his heroic death at Gaine's Mill in the Chickahominy swamps.

2 Top Books For Reading By Juniors

The David McKay Company has come up with a couple of good junior books. They are: ROCKET TO LIMBO By Alan E. Nourse, $3 and INDIDAN TALES of The Desert People by William D. Hayes, $3.

In Rocket to Limbo, Lars Heldrigssen, trained as a planetary ecologist to assist in Earth's search for new and habitable planets for colonization, is assigned to the Star Ship Ganymede for his first field experience, on what is supposed to be a routine run to a known star system, Vega.

But it was altogether different and the following mutiny, led by Heldrigssen and the landing on an unknown planet is just about tops for the juniors. It is a story you'll be a long time forgetting—particular with the current satellite in the news.

Indian Tales of The Desert People are particularly interesting. The people who first told these stories were the Aw-aw-tam, which means "Desert People" or "People of Peace." They lived in the valleys of the Gila River and the Salt River in the desert country of what is now South Central Arizona.

VISIONARIES

DREAMERS OF THE AMERICAN DREAM By Stewart H. Holbrook, edited by Lewis Gannett (Doubleday, $5.75.) This is another book in the Mainstream of American Series. It is an account of the great accomplishments and the magnificent failures of the visionaries who sought to create what they could not find.

Only a few of their names can be found in our schoolbooks. Fewer still stand in marble or bronze in our halls and parks. The mass of Americans knows little or nothing of them . . . They dreamed nobly, and they acted . . . They were a daft, honest, and all-but-incredible lot of men and women.

These are the persons of whom Holbrook has written in Dreamers of the American Dream, tenth volume in the Mainstream of America Series. Some of them were successes; some of them were failures. All of them — visionaries, indomitable pioneers, ranting fanatics, or patient doers — helped to build America.

In these pages are the stories of Sylvester Graham, who campaigned against "adulterated" bread but only succeeded in having a cracker named for him; of Orson Fowler, who made a fortune exploiting phrenology; of George Evans, who conceived the Homestead Act; of Henry George, who propounded the idea of a single tax on land; and, among the many others, of Dorothea Dix, who struggled to improve the asylums of the mentally ill.

Far more than being merely stories of American history's off-beat characters, these are the stories — woven together by the author into a single narration — of the heroes and heroines of the temperance and the suffragette movements; of the persons who worked for the deaf and dumb, the insane, and the blind — or who brought about prison reforms, or led the fight for the workingman. Stewart H. Holbrook's special genius to dramatize and deal with many little - related lives in a single book, as was displayed in his The Age of the Moguls, is again shown here.

THE AUTHOR

Portland, Oregon's eminent historian, Stewart H. Holbrook, was born in Vermont but moved to the Northwest some thirty years ago. From lumberjacking he turned to writing his first book being published in 1938. With the publication of The Age of the Moguls, his fourteenth book, Mr. Holbrook's very great ability to tell as a single narration the stories of many persons who were widely separated in time and place was conclusively demonstrated. This same ability has been brought into play here in Dreamers of the American Dream.

This Novel Is Long Enough For Any Body

ATLAS SHRUGGED. By Ayn Rand. Random House. $6.95.

Bearing on his bowed shoulders an ungrateful world that grows heavier and heavier, Atlas shrugs and lets it fall to destruction — and a proper comeuppance it is, by the terms of Miss Rand's ideology.

Atlas, according to what some readers will regard as a monolithic conception, is the rich man, the doer, the builder and material creator. In this novel he is Rearden, inventor of Rearden Metal; his counterpart in what is by no means the weaker sex is Dagny Taggart; John Galt stands for the spirit of their heroism. They find the world is their ball and chain; they are fettered by social movements, sissy notions about the majority and the good of the majority, or utopian theories that would require a businessman to look out for the welfare of his employes.

In the course of a highly involved and unlikely plot developed with a maximum of wordiness, Miss Rand expresses considerable contempt for books that sell only 3,000 copies. She's certainly in a position to, for there are already 100,000 copies of this one in print, says her publisher. At $5.95 it is practically a $700,000 operation. But then, with 1,168 pages, this is as long as four novels; and I'd rather read the four.

Stamp Honoring Free Religious Activities

A United States stamp honoring religious freedom in America and the "Flushing Remonstrance" will be issued on Dec. 27, it was announced by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

The 3-cent stamp will be placed on first day sale at the Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., post office as a commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the signing of the "Flushing Remonstrance." This pact was a protest by the citizens of Flushing against a law put into effect by Gov. Peter Stuyvesant, violating the principles of religious freedom.

Said Summerfield: "The Post Office Department is happy to call to the attention of the American people the significance of the Flushing Remonstrance, through the issuance of a commemorative stamp."

Details and design of the stamp will be announced soon.

The long awaited "Europa" stamps issued by the countries of Western Europe now are on the philatelic market.

The Saar and Western Germany each have issued two adhesives of identical design — the silhouette of a tree. Germany's stamps are 10-pfennig green and 40-pf blue. The Saar's are 20-f orange and 35-f violet.

Belgium's pair, 2-franc brown and 4-f blue, show a symbolic montage of a factory, wheat field and bridge.

The Netherlands has put forth a 10-c grey and blue and a 30 c green and blue. The central design features a six pointed star with the letters Europa emanating from each point of the star.

Luxembourg has issued three stamps — 2-f brown, 3-f orange and 4-f violet. Depicted is a tower of plenty symbolizing the united strength of the European community of nations.

France's two adhesives feature a pair of hands. One holds a stalk of grain while the other grasps a cogwheel. The denominations are 20 franc and 35 francs.

CAMERA NOTES

Sign Subject Of Unusual Picture

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Six times daily I passed by this sign, but not until I reminded myself that today I needed to find an unusual picture, did I realize that I was passing one up.

Much improvement as to picture quality could be made; however, the subject matter seems to overpower your attention. Evidently the sign meant to say "Special Sweet Potatoes."

This picture was made with a 35 Rollie on a rainy day, shot at F-11 with a shutter speed of 1-50 of a second. No flash was used.

Second Meeting

The North Louisiana Camera Club held its second meeting at Daly's Studio last Tuesday night, with 15 members present. Some very fine work was shown by each one present, and was offered for constructive criticism. Many said that the constructive remarks were just what they needed to iron out some difficulities they had been having with their shooting.

Lee Eotes, program chairman of the club, told all black and white shooters to have a portrait of some kind ready for showing at the next meeting, set for Nov. 5 at Daly's Studio. Color shooters are asked to bring four or five color slides for the program.

In the meantime, let's shoot an extra one for this column. Send it in to Camera Notes, with a short paragraph of explanation telling how you shot it. Thanks.

Beecham's Musical Lollipops Send Customers Home Happy

By HUGH MULLIGAN

No one would have suspected it but for many years now tart-tongued, terrible - tempered Sir Thomas Beecham, conductor of the Royal Philharmonic has been handing out lollipops to his concert audiences.

Beecham distributes his lollipops for the same reason a barber does — to send his customers home happy, contented and anxious to return for more. His, however, are a musical rather than an edible variety.

As Beecham himself defines it, his lollipops are musical sweets served up as encores at the end of a concert to restore the equilibrium of the audience. If the main piece on the program has a grand slam bang ending, then Beecham selects an encore of "an essentially syrupy, soapy, soothing and even soporific nature" to becalm his listeners. On the other hand, if the concert has a quiet ending, he says, "the character of the lollipop suffers a slight change and the former tranquilizer is replaced by something of a more genial type."

The lollipops served up on Beecham's baton have been brightly packaged by Angel Records for distribution during the Christmas season. The flavors range from sweet to spicy, from Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" and Berlioz' "Dance of the Sylphs" to Von Suppe's explosive "Poet and Peasant Overture," and the Royal Hunt and Storm from Berlioz' "The Trojans." All make for delicious listening.

Without using Beecham's lollipop term, many record companies have been successfully catering to the sweet tooth of hi-fi fans with musical confections played by major orchestras. Overtures from operas and symphonies have figured prominently in the assortment, prompted no doubt by the stunning success of Mercury's recording of the Tchaikovsky "1812 Overture," one of the finest hi-fi records ever made.

Recent and outstanding recordings in this diversified field include:

"Overture," a Capitol album with Felix Slatkin and the Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra in a dazzling and acoustically exciting rendition of two Von Suppe overtures, Rossini's "Overture to William Tell" and Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture."

Columbia's album of overtures by Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra. The selections include the William Tell overture, Smentana's overture to "The Bartered Bride," Von Suppe's "The Beautiful Galatea" and a spirited, explosive performance of Offenbach's overture to "Orpheus in the Underworld" known more popularly as the "can - can overture."

Angel devotes a whole album to Franz Von Suppe, the overture king, with Henry Krips and the Philharmonia Promenade Orchestra handing out the lollipops.

In the same light concert vein, Design Records offers D'Artega conducting a "Pop Concert in Carnegie Hall," with selections ranging from Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," featuring piano soloist Rosa Linda, to the tone poem "Caves of Granada" by Rebekah Harkness, one of the outstanding women composers in the world. D'Artega, handling the orchestra with deft artistry, is given an added assist by the engineering staff which managed a frequency limit from a low of 16 to a high of 25,000 cycles per second.

A Musical Prodigy's Tragic Childhood And Her Father

FORBIDDEN CHILDHOOD By Ruth Slenczynska and Louis Biancolli (Doubleday, $3.95).

Before her birth, Ruth's father decided she was to be a musical prodigy. But no one dreamed the methods he would use to make her one. This is the story of a genius whose childhood was traded for tragedy.

At the age of four little Ruth, her feet propped on a box because her chubby legs were too short to reach the pedals, played her first public piano concert. It was a sensation, and her father knew then that his most fantastic hopes for her would be realized. The amazingly talented child went on playing to rave notices here and in Europe. But a shadow loomed over her life: her father, insatiably ambitious, drove her with threats and shockingly brutal beating until the gifted, sensitive child broke down.

Never before has there been such a frank and startling account of a parent's attempt to fulfill his own frustrated ambitions through his child. How Ruth finally freed herself from her father's Svengali - like domination and returned to the concert stage is a dramatic story.

There is bitterness in this book in its revelation of the terrible price Ruth paid for her music—but there is inspiration, too, in her courageous and hard-won victory as an artist — and as a human being.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Marshall Recognized As Prolific Writer

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Edison Marshall is one of the most prolific of present day writers and chooses for his backgrounds an infinite variety of locations. With his newest book "The Inevitable Hour" he has chosen a time and a place that captured the interest o the world in May of 1902 and has continued to hold it for many years. Against a background of the beautiful island of Martinique, green jewel of the Windward Islands which rim the eastern edges of the Caribbean, Mr. Marshall has set a truly exciting novel. It is a story of turbulent love and flashing hate, of the mystic powers of dark voodoo and the unchainable primeval forces of the natural world. But above else it is a novel of people, men and women caught in the grip of violently conflicting emotions and above all of the eruption of the volcano, Pelee.

"Remember Me To God" is the title of the new book by Myron S. Kaufmann, which he took eight years to write. It is a long story, but it moves swiftly and absorbs the reader so entirely that it has the effect of a novel one-third as long, even while encompassing a whole world of its own, which one hates to leave when the book is completed. It is a family story and social comedy of a high order. It is a book which you will not want to miss.

Elizabeth Borton de Trevion is an American who married into a prominent Mexican family and makes her home in that country. Several years ago she wrote the true story of her life in a fascinating book called "My Heart Lies south." Now she has again drawn on her experience to produce a novel entitled "Even As You Love' This is a story of Mexican family life and is one which will appeal especially to women.

Dorothy Erskine and Patrick Dennis have produced a best seller which threatens to rival "Auntie Mame" in "The Pink Hotel." This book has for its setting a resort hotel and for its content the assortment of guests who frequent it. If you want a good laugh you can get it from "The Pink Hotel."

A serious and sincere novel is "The Glorious Folly" by Louis De Wohl, which will inevitably be compared to Lloyd C. Douglas's "The Robe." The setting and the period are the same. This continues the story of Casius Longinus, the soldier who thrust the spear into Christ's side and whose life was changed from that day. This story was told in Mr. De Wohl's previous book "The pear." Now he picks Casius up again and tells of his meeting with Saul of Trasus, who became St. Paul. It is a book which will appeal to readers who like a book with a Biblical background and a religious emphasis. It is a very fine book and can be heartily recommended for family reading.

Readers who want a light book of fiction to read will welcome several recent additions. There is Josephine Lawrence's new family story "The Prodigal," Elizabeth Seifert's new book with a medical background called "The Doctor's Husband and Amelia Elizabeth Walden's absorbing family story called "Flight Into Morning." These are not serious books, but they do have their public.

At long last publishers are giving special emphasis to the reading interests of teen-agers in the books which they publish. This week we have seven new titles for teen-agers. "Clue in the Antique Clock" is a mystery written by Helen Girvan. Stephen Meader is the author of an exciting story, set in the great swamps of Florida, which he calls "Everglades Adventure." Another mystery story is "The Empty House" mystery by Norvin Pallas. Still another exciting book is "Lights Over Skeleton Ridge" by Manly Wade Wellman. Two books which will appeal especially to girls are "A Way with Boys" by Viola Rowe and 'Always Anne" by Holly Wilson. A teenage book which we purchased especially for the readers of the Carver branch is "Reach for A Star" by Florence Crannell Means and is the story of a girl's experience at Fisk University. Teenagers who are interested in chemistry will welcome a very fine new book by Bernard Jaffe called "Chemistry Creates A New World."

ON MISSILES

Secrecy May Be Dropped By U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UP)—The Defense Department is planning to strip away part of the secrecy surrounding U. S. rocket tests to provide a clearer picture of this country's progress compared with Russia, it was learned today.

The disclosure coincided with an announcement that the House Government Information Subcommittee was checking into orders directing military personnel to steer clear of controversy over the satellite program.

The current secrecy regarding the U. S. missile and satellite programs has been sharply criticized by those who believe the public should have a clearer picture of where this nation stands.

New Policy Change

The new policy change would apply mainly to reports of test firings at Cape Canaveral, Fla., where the huge intercontinental and intermediate range ballistic missiles are put through their paces.

President Eisenhower was said to have approved the proposal Tuesday.

Until now, Defense Department policy merely has been to confirm that a missile had been fired. Officials decline to identify the type of rocket involved, how far it travelled or whether the test succeeded.

Officials indicated the new policy would permit identification of the rocket and some clues about its performance within security bounds. They said the move had been under consideration for several months.

But the proposal apparently was given a strong push by Russia's successful launching of an earth satellite and a subsequent flood of charges and counter-charges concerning U. S. missiles progress compared with that of Russia.

Meanwhile, Chairman John E. Moss (D-Calif.) revealed that the House government information group was investigating the Oct. 9 orders issued by the Army, Navy and Air Force barring military discussion of satellite programs.

Moss wrote Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy asking him to provide an immediate report on "what orders or instructions, written or verbal" led to simultaneous issuance of the orders.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (UP)—The General Services Administration today said it would seek bids on a post office-federal office building at Gainesville, Tex., after removing the 4 per cent interest rate limit on the government's lagging lease-purchase construction program.

Cen. America Mission Leader Local Speaker

The federation meeting of the Business Women's Circle of Ouachita parish will be at the Calvary Baptist Church, Tuesday, October 22nd at 7:30 p.m. The missionary speaker will be Mrs. C. S. (Dorothy) Cadwallader, who is on furlough from Guatemala.

Rev. and Mrs. Cadwallader were for several years in the pastorate at College Place Baptist Church, when they left for the mission field in Central America.

Mrs. Cadwallader is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Paul C. Bell who also served for a number of years as missionaries in Panama.

All B. W. C. members and any visitors who may so desire, are urged to attend this important meeting.

MONROE MORNING WORLD

Mrs. James Pender, of the Bosco Club, having planned a budget of the family food needs is ready for winter with a well filled freezer and well stocked pantry.

An important and popular project of the Club year is clothing. Blue ribbon winners in the recent annual Ouachita Parish Casual Dress contest are left to right, Mrs. Garland Shipp and Mrs. Marvin Shipp, both of the Logtown Club, Mrs. Herbert Strozier, Drew Club, Mrs. Edward S. Blackmon, Thrifty Homemakers and seated, Mrs. Cleborne White, of the Cadeville Club.

One of the most interesting community services of the Extension Department of L. S. U. is the help given by the agent, Mrs. Euna Spielman in the re-modeling of the home. Mrs. Earl Garland, with her son Gregg, is shown in her remodeled kitchen where she can plan and execute the family needs of food conservation and preservation more easily and more efficiently.

One of the most interesting community services of the Extension Department of L. S. U. is the help given by the agent, Mrs. Euna Spielman in the re-modeling of the home. Mrs. Earl Garland, with her son Gregg, is shown in her remodeled kitchen where she can plan and execute the family needs of food conservation and preservation more easily and more efficiently.

The First Of A Series Of Bridal Parties Was Given Yesterday For Miss Davis

Yesterday afternoon one of the beautiful parties of the early fall season was given for Miss Lynda Davis, the bride-elect of Thomas C. Dansby, when Mrs. Herman Mickel and her daughter, Mrs. William Husted Jr. Mrs. Charles Foster and daughter, Mrs. Harold McSween, of Alexandria, gave an announcement tea in the Mickel home on Glenmar.

The mantle in the living room held an antique gold and white urn of white and gold. Placed on the piano was a large arrangement of autumn foliage. Mrs. Dansby with Henry and Mrs. T. Fitzhugh Wilson greeted the guests and presented them to the receiving line where the hostesses stood with Miss Davis, wearing an afternoon frock of nile green peau de soie, her mother, Mrs. William Thomas Davis and Mrs. Emory C. Dansby, of Lafayette, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

The tea table in the dining room was centered with a crystal epergne overflowing with white roses. Presiding at alternate hour were Mrs. Claude Harrison, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. John Fox and Mrs. James Horton. Assisting them were Miss Virginia Scheen, Mrs. Lawrence Fox, Mrs. William Rhodes, Mrs. Carl Kinney, Mrs. T. B. Godfrey, Jr., Miss Caroline Dansby and Miss Nancy Wilson.

Fruits and fall blossoms decorated the sunroom overlooking the patio where punch was served by Mrs. Charles Wilds, Jr. and Mrs. Archie Dickerson. Others assisting were Mrs. Harry Mores, of Shreveport, Mrs. Wayne Woods, Miss Jo Marie Ellett, Mrs. Albin Lassiter, Mrs. D. X. Ellett, Mrs. Harry Fraser and Mrs. Maurice Lindsay.

Re-Opened Chapter House Setting For DAR Meeting

Mrs. Duncan Cook, Regent, presided at a regular meeting of Fort Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution which was held in the newly decorated Chapter House on Saturday afternoon.

A prayer, given by Mrs. C. E. Slade, chaplain, opened the meeting and was followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, led by Mrs. W. B. Inabnet.

The regent introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. W. C. Oliver, a former regent, who has been an active member of Fort Miro Chapter since 1918. Mrs. Oliver gave an interesting discourse upon the subject, "Our Artistic Heritage."

Reports were presented on the following topics: National Defense, Mrs. H. M. Butler; the tea given by the Lieutenant Bowmar Chapter of the Children of the American Revolution by Miss Frances Flanders; the National Magazine, Mrs. George Hemphill; the Third District Conference, Mrs. Duncan Cook; Approved Schools, in which Mrs. John J. Stack told of plans made by the State of Louisiana DAR to furnish a bedroom in the proposed new dormitory for girls at Tamassee. Fort Miro Chapter expressed willingness to support the project materially.

Mrs. C. E. Faulk and Miss Eleona Brinsmade reported upon the progress made in renovation of the Chapter House and the plan to open the house for public viewing on certain specified days.

Mrs. Fred Amman and Mrs. Milling Bernstein were appointed tellers for membership election which resulted in unanimous vote for Mrs. Henry Montgomery, Mrs. Henson Coon, Sr., Mrs. C.A. Caldwell, Mrs. S. A. Collins, Miss Genevra Washburn, Mrs. T. F. Wilson and Miss Hazel Mitchell.

The meeting was dismissed with a prayer by Mrs. Slade, after which delicious refreshments were served and members availed themselves of the opportunity to inspect the improved house.

Members of the hostess committee for the afternoon were, Mrs. W. E. Leigh, chairman, Mrs. John Elton Coon, Mrs. A. E. Guyton, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. D. G. Nichols, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. Robert Layton, Mrs. Robert A. Baylor, Mrs. David Agnew, Sr., Mrs. Fred Hancock, Mrs. J. B. Filhiol, Sr., Miss Marie Filhiol, Mrs. A. E. Montgomery. Colorful Chrysanthemums Monroe Garden Club Topic

The October meeting of the Monroe Garden Club was held at St. Paul's Methodist Church. The president, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, opened the meeting. The minutes were read by Mrs. L. H. Carter and Mrs. C. Elliot Thompson gave the treasurers report.

Mrs. Turpin introduced the speaker, Dr. E. E. Puls, dean of Applied Science, Southeastern College, Hammond. His subject for the afternoon was "Cheerful Chrysanthemums." He stressed the importance of location, breeding and a system of planned control of insects and diseases in growing specimen plants. Chrysanthemums should be planted in half-shade, in soil with plenty of organic matter and good drainage. The plants should be dusted regularly.

At the end of his lecture, Dr. Puls showed colored slides of some of the newer varieties and some of the plants grown at the test gardens at Southeastern.

"Artistic Exhibits," by the members, on display were: "Woodland Fantasy," Mrs. Claire Chennault; "Morning Paints the Orient," Mrs. P. A. Colvin; "Color Magic," Mrs. Henry Mayo, "Cat Whiskers," Mrs. Luther Branch; "Autumn Bounty," Mrs. M. W. Montgomery; "Mums Not the Word," Mrs. Henson Coon, also a group of corsages, made by Mrs. Floyd Stone, Mrs. John P. Lewis, Mrs. D. F. Dennis and Dr. Katherine Foster.

Mrs. J. Q. Graves and Mrs Charles McKenzie served at the tea table, and were assisted by Mrs. Archie Dickerson, and Mrs Henry Mayo, chairman and co chairman of the meeting. The other hostesses were, Mrs. Luther Branch, Mrs. Claire Chennault, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. E. F. Dalton, Mrs. R. N. Davis, Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs J. V. Gaines, Mrs. R. B. Why Not Trim Party Sweater

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Every girl needs at least one sweater that is dressy enough for a date. Why not make one for a mid-season surprise for a favorite high school or college girl? It's surprisingly easy and inexpensive, if you follow these tips from the experts at your local sewing center.

As any home seamstress knows, lace can be a pretty expensive proposition if you buy the imported Chantilly variety. Inexpensive laces usually are woven in wide strips and cut apart, while the more costly kind is woven in single strips, with an edge design. The usual kind of cheaper lace thus often has straight edges on both sides.

However, here's a trick to stretch your fashion pennies and make budget lace look like the real thing. There is a new Chantilly-type nylon lace available nowadays in 10-cent stores that has a pretty design woven on a sheer strip. Simply cut away the sheer part and presto — you have a lace edging that looks like imported lace.

If you buy it in white, it may be dyed to match any sweater. About two and a half yards will decorate a cardigan sweater with strips around the neck and down both sides of the front closing. Set your sewing machine for a fine zigzag stitch and follow the outline of the lace. At the neckline, pleat lace slightly at inside edge and leave outside edge unstitched.

Miss Barnett, Mr. Cheek Exchange Nuptial Vows In Late Afternoon Ceremony

Autumn foliage with baskets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and lighted yellow cathedral candles decorated the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church Saturday for the marriage of Miss Helen Marie Barnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barnett, of West Monroe, to Kenneth Newton Cheek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Cheek, of Transylvania. The Reverend A. T. Mitchell officiated at the ceremony which took place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the young couple. Miss Mary Jane Dreas, organist, Mrs. Herbert Peterson at the piano and Luther Barnes, soloist, presented the nuptial music.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her bridal gown of satin was made with a lace bodice featuring a scooped neckline encircled with iridescent sequins and seed pearls and long sleeves which tapered to points over the wrists. The full circular skirt swept into a short train. Her veil of illusion was held to her head by a bandeaux of bridal pearls and sequins. She carried a white Bible, topped with a bouquet of yellow cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. John E. Barber was her sister's matron of honor and the other attendants included Miss Pommie Jean Vance, Mrs. R. E. Woodard, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Donald E. Paul, another sister of the bride. Their street length gowns were of gold taffeta made with low rounded necklines and three quarter length sleeves. The tight fitted bodices were finished with large bows at back. On their heads they wore coronets of gold tulle and flowers and carried wedding ring bouquets of bronze and gold chrysanthemums. Miss Linda Ruth Barber and Miss Sherry Ann Cheek, dressed like the bridesmaids, were the candlelighters.

Edward C. Cheek was his brother's best man and serving as groomsmen and ushers were Alson J. Barnett, Jr., Donald E. Paul, John E. Barber, Russell White and Dave Walters.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony in the social rooms of the church — where a profusion of fall foliage and blossoms were used in decorations. The bride's table was covered with cut work cloth over yellow and the tiered wedding cake was frosted white and decorated with yellow roses. A brass candelabra burning yellow tapers and surrounded by the bridesmaid's bouquets centered the table. Here Mrs. Gene Funk, and Mrs. J. A. Clark served. Mrs. James R. Mathai registered the guests.

Later in the day Mr. Cheek and his bride left on a motor trip to Biloxi, Miss. and on their return they will take possession of an apartment at 115 Delano St. The bride traveled in a two piece suit of black and periwinkle tweed trimmed in black velvet and worn with black velvet accessories.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thomas and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Paul, and Mr. Edward Cheek, all of Shreveport. Dave Walters, of St. Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Cheek and Sherry Ann, Rev. and Mrs. F. J. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ragus, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winters, of Transylvania, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Woodard, Jr. of Taylor.

WHY GROW OLD?

Every Woman Has Time For Regular Exercises

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

We so often hear women say, "I just do not have time for exercise." This is a question of attitude rather than time. It is an admission of lack of vision, lack of information, poor organization or a "give up" outlook.

Any woman who knows about the value of exercise and is determined to take care of her health and figure will arrange time for it somehow. We are hearing more and more about the importance of exercise to health. We have known for a long time, or many of us have, about its effect on figure.

In case you do not know about the latter I can promise you, from long experience, that exercise can redistribute your poundage. Many women who are the correct weight are out of proportion. Exercise is the magic answer to this problem. Even when you are overweight, and must diet, exercise plays an important part in speeding the loss in certain spots and building up in others.

What Kind and When

Perhaps you would like a few suggestions about what kind of exercises to take and when it is best to do them. What kind you take depends on your physical condition and in what way you wish to change your figure. If you are new to exercise, you should try easy ones at first and gradually work up to more difficult ones. You should also gradually increase the length of your exercise period. Be sure to have your heart and blood pressure checked before beginning.

When you exercise depends on your individual situation. If you have very young children, the best time is probably before your lunch but after they are in bed for their afternoon nap. Whether or not they are old enough to enjoy them with you or to enjoy watching you, is for you to decide. If they are old enough to play volley ball or badminton with you, th se games would be splendid for you and the children.

If your children are school age, of course, there is no problem as to opportunity for your daily dozen. Some wives and mothers like to take mat exercises just before going to sleep at night.

Tomorrow: "Lady, You Must Exercise Mind as Well as Muscle."

Fall Flowers Decorate For Caddoan Meet

Beautiful arrangements of fall flowers and berries were used to decorate the Community Center in Oak Ridge when Mrs. Norman Simmons and Mrs. Weldon Fitch were hostesses to the Caddoan Club for their regular October meeting.

Mrs. Simmons opened the meeting with a prayer followed by the pledge of allegiance. Roll call was answered with each member displaying a family relic or small antique.

A talk titled "1300—Point Jefferson and 1900—Oak Ridge," was given by Mrs. William Nolan. An interesting history of the settlement of this community during those years was related by Mrs. Nolan who used pictures and maps to add to her talk. The group was delighted to hear many names that played important roles in the history of Oak Ridge and many of the present citizens are descendants and many have the familiar names.

The lawn and gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke M. Williams received the marker for the yard of the month.

The president, Mrs. C. M. Williams appointed Mrs. Joe Cabuck, chairman with Mrs. W. P. Smith and Mrs. Weldon Fitch on committee to formulate plans for a variety show to be given as a money making project by the Caddoan Club in November.

To close the meeting the Junior Club pledge was repeated and song, Louisiana sung. Present were Mrs. W. M. Nolan, Mrs. H. A. Wiggers, Jr., Mrs. Clarke Williams, Mrs. J. E. Files, Mrs. Joe Cabuck, Mrs. Henry A. Pipes, Jr., and Mrs. Will M. Rolfe.

Some cooks like to add minced parsley and anchovy fillets to a sauce for steak.

Mrs. Sevier Is Garden Club Guest Speaker

LAKE PROVIDENCE — Mrs. Albert Sevier of Tallulah, was the guest speaker at the October meeting of the Town and Country Garden Club held in the home of Mrs. L. L. Kilgore, Jr. on Brown Street.

Mrs. Sevier gave a most interesting and informative talk on design and color in arrangements.

Mrs. Pearce Bailey, president, appointed Mrs. B. H. Rosenzweig to replace Mrs. Ted Ramsey as treasurer for the year, due to Mrs. Ramsey's resignation.

The club discussed the naming of a project for the year, but since the organization is still in the formative stage, it was decided to wait until next year to undertake this work. The attention of club members wils be concentrated this year on care and beautification of individual yards and flowers.

Prior to Mrs. Sevier's talk, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Jr., discussed a number of helpful hints for October planting.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments to the following: Mrs. Pearce Bailey, Mrs. William E. Clark, Mrs. W. B. Cone, Mrs. Jack Hamilton, Mrs. W. A. Harris, Mrs. Harvey

St. David's Is Setting For Morning Vows Uniting Dr. Haley And Rev. Pope

In a ceremony marked by reverent beauty and worshipful simplicity, Dr. Martha Julia Haley of Rayville, became the bride of the Rev. Clarence Cullam Pope, Jr., of Bossier City. The lovely Anglican service of solemnization of holy matrimony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Girault M. Jones, D. D., bishop of the diocese of Louisiana, and was followed by service of the nuptial Eucharist, celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Iveson B. Noland, D. D., suffragan bishop of the diocese of Louisiana.

The ceremony was solemnized at St. David's Episcopal Church in Rayville on the morning of Tuesday, October first. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Haley of Rayville. The Rev. Pope is the son of Mrs. Clarence Cullam Pope Sr., of Shreveport and the late Mr. Pope.

The altar was laid with crimson and white hangings and the altar candles were augmented by the branched cathedral candelabra on either side. Altar flowers were of white gladioli and white button mums, and pew markers were of white gladioli and button mums, tied with white satin ribbon streamers.

William C. Teague, organist and choirmaster of St. Mark's Church Shreveport, rendered the nuptial music and played the hymns sung during the service, he also accompanied responses of the choral Eucharist. Candles were lighted by William Luther Francis, acolyte at St. David's.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her becoming frock was of morning length, and fashioned of eggshell peau de soie. A panel of imported lace was inserted in front of the skirt, with scallops and design of the lace appliqued at the square neckline. Carrying out the bridal rhyme, she wore a diamond ring of her mother's for something old, gloves borrowed from her sister, a blue garter, and a sixpence in her shoe, a gift from England. Her shoulder - length veil of illusion cascaded from a half - hat of lace, studded with rhinestones and pearls. Her bouquet was of white butterfly orchids, surmounted on a white - lace - covered prayerbook, the gift of her groom. Lilies of the valley were interspersed in the bouquet, and the streamers were of pearls.

Miss Harriette Nan Haley, was her sister's maid of honor, bridesmaids, were Miss Camille Clark, Mrs. Mary Helen White and Miss Patti Pope. Their gowns were cut on identical lines of fall gold taffeta, and lighter gold crystalline over the taffeta. Fashioned with close - fitting bodice and bouffant skirt, each frock was cut with inset sleeves and scalloped neckline. Round velvet caps held dainty wisps of gold net with the same gold net used for the matching mitts. Covering the crown were velvet petals, matching shade of the bouquets of Talisman roses, carried by each attendant.

REVEREND AND MRS. CLARENCE C. POPE, JR.

Attendants for the groom were the Rev. A. S. Lawrence, Jr., of Baton Rouge, who served as best man, and groomsmen, the Rev. Charles McKemmon of Livingston, Ala., the Rev. Robert Witcher of Baton Rouge, and the Rev. Richard W. Wilson of Rayville.

Mrs. Haley wore for her daughter's wedding a becoming gown of mauve lace over matching satin, with a small hat of sequins and pearls and wisp of veil, also of mauve. Her corsage was of purple baby orchids.

The groom's mother chose a dress of soft blue lace over blue taffeta, with matching hat trimmed in pearls. Her corsage was of pink orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Hayward Hall of the church parish house, where the hostesses were Mrs. W. F. Johnston, Mrs. Pat Earle, Mrs. Lasley Richardson, Mrs. Oliver Lowery, Mrs. Carl Earle, Mrs. R. R. Rhymes and Mrs. J. E. Stodghill.

The beautiful reception table was appointed in bridal white and silver with centerpiece of white carnations, and glowing white tapers in silver candelabra.

The tiered wedding cake was in glistening white, embossed with white roses, and topped by china bride and groom figurines. The cake was served from an heirloom cake stand, which had belonged to the bride's great, great, great, grandmother, Emmaline Archibald.

Serving the cake were the bride's aunts, Mrs. Emmett B. Bell of New Boston, Texas, and Mrs. Ernest J. Archibald, of Archibald.

Presiding at the punch service, alternately, were Mrs. F. Roy Williams and Mrs. W. L. Calhoun.

Mrs. Frances H. Green alternated with Mrs. William Norris Gaines at the guest book.

Assisting in extending the courtesies as tea girls were Mrs. Froman Ellerbe, Mrs. Jack Lamie, and Miss Mary Wells Ferguson, while Mrs. Ellis Barinsfather played appropriate soft music at the piano throughout the reception hour.

For her going - away ensemble, Dr. Pope chose a two - piece wool suit, worn with a daintily embroidered white crepe blouse and accented by the orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet. Her black velvet hat was sparkled with rhinestones, and shoes and bag were of matching black.

Out - of - town guests for the wedding were the Rt. Rev. Girault M. Jones New Orleans; Rt. Rev. Iveson B. Noland, Alexandria; Mrs. Elizabeth Bucher, Memphis, Tenn.; Rev. Charles McKimmon, Livingston, Ala.; Rev. Robert C. Witcher, Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Lawrence, Jr., Mrs. Malcolm Stewart Dougherty, Miss Gloria Dodwell, Mrs. Basil Lawrence Dodwell, Mr Robert Magee Mrs. J. A. Tinsley, Richard R. Cook, James E. Hargrove Family Have Fourth Annual Meeting

The Warren Hargrove reunion met Sunday, Oct. 13, at Mt. Zion Church near Vernon, in Jackson parish for its fourth annual meeting.

The group went as a body to attend church services in the old building, which was built about 110 years ago by early settlers of which the Hargroves had a part.

At noon a bountiful lunch was spread and at 1 p.m. they were called together by Ralph Hargrove, chairman. An interesting talk was given by James E. Walker, of Calhoun, on what "Reunions Mean to Me." Afterwards Marshall D. Peel, Jr., of Winnsboro entertained with a song. The group decided to meet the 2nd Sunday in October, 1958 with Mrs. Frank Peel, in Kirbyville, Texas. She is the only surviving child of the late Warren and Canary Hargrove.

Present were Mrs. Theo James, Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Barber and Shirley Tarver of Columbia. Mrs. Lula Tarver, of Kelly; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lewis, C. U. Lewis, of Natchitoches; Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Thrasher, Transylvania. James E. Walker, of Calhoun.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sturdivant, Steve, and Peggy, of Crossett, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Adams, of Kirbyville, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Adams, of Orange, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. James V. Bailey, of Bossier City, Carl Jones, of Shreveport; N. O. Walker, of Opelousas; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Peel, Mrs. Laverne Edmiston, Miss Sandra Edmiston, Frank Pell, of Quitman, Marshall D. Pell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Pell, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Watson, Walon Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Caldwell and LNette, ofe Winnsboro and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hargrove, Debra Hargrove and Miss Janis Ponder, of Jonesboro.

Every Child Deserves The Fun Of Holloween

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE M.D.

Is there to be a Halloween party in your child's school? If your youngster is not too talkative about such things, better make a home call or two and find out. Most schools do have Halloween parties. The important thing about the party is the costume — that's what it's all about. The children parade about and win prizes for the most outstanding costume. Often there are several categories—the prettiest, the funniest, the most original and so on.

If every child in the class, except one, has some kind of a costume, it's going to be very hard indeed on that one child. Don't let it happen to your youngster.

Mike had just entered school in September. He was in first grade. He was pretty overwhelmed by this whole business of school and lots of the time he wasn't quite sure what was going on. There was talk about a party next Thursday. He was all for it. Mother didn't seem too interested in what went on at school, so he didn't say anything to her about the party. Thursday came and every child in the class, except Mike, came in with a big bundle. Mike was a little surprised at all these packages, but there were lots of things he didn't know, so he didn't pay much attention. Ten o'clock came and the teacher said:

"Now everyone can put on his costume and we will all go into the assembly room."

There was a great bustling about, the bundles popped open, witches, ballerinas, clowns, Davy Crocketts appeared all over the room. The teacher was jumping about helping Mary with her sash, Bob with his holster and Tomothy with his boots. Poor Mike, he just sat there; nobody paid any attention to him.

Finally Miss Fullerton did see him.

"Where's your costume, Mike?" she asked.

Mike just looked blank.

"Didn't your mother get you anything?" Miss Fullerton was very busy and annoyed at this new problem. Her voice was sharp and condemning.

Mike began to cry.

Miss Fullerton was a good teacher, and a warm friendly girl. Quickly she said:

"Here, Mike, you wear my hat and scarf and gloves, and you can be the schoolteacher."

Mike took the things, but he wasn't happy. He felt left out and somehow different from everyone else.

As all the children were marching into the assembly room, Mike heard Tom say to Bill:

"Look, Mike's wearing Miss Fullerton's hat 'cause his mother didn't get him anything. That's no costume."

Unhappy Day

That was too much for Mike. He tore off the hat, gloves and scarf, threw them on the floor, and ran back to his room, where he began throwing all the books from the bookcase on the floor.

Miss Fullerton's new fall hat was ruined. She had lost her hat and hadn't accomplished a thing for Mike.

Children, especially little children, must be like the other children if ahey are to feel comfortable. You have to be very grown up and mature to be able to be different.

See to it that you never let a child of yours suffer as Mike did — and so needlessly. Halloween costumes do not have to be elaborate nor costly.

Girl Scout News

Five girls were greatly surprised to learn that they had won ribbons at the Columbia Art Festival in the Girl Scout exhibit. Susan Cowder, of troop 10, received a blue ribbon for a small tray of enameled copper, Becky Middleton, of Troop 24, a red ribbon for enameled cuff links, and Michele Varnado, also of Troop 24, a white ribbon for a copper tray. Wanda Gaaes, Brownie Shout of Troop 12, won a blue ribbon for the reed basket she made at day camp and Dianna Dillingham, of Troop 58, a red ribbon for hers.

Troop 2 has promptly re-registered for its second year of Brownie Scouting and the girls are proudly wearing a membership star on their uniform pockets to indicate a year's membership. Mary Tom Keller, a member of the troop, made a birthday cake decorated in brown and yellow and bearing the Brownie insigna for the birthday ceremony, at which time new membership cards were given out along with the stars. Leaders are Mrs. W.T. King and Mrs. George Rorex. Mrs. T. M. Keller, Mrs. R. C. Meek, Mrs. Leo Montgomery Mrs. J. W. Usrey are members of the troop committee. The following girls are registered: Susan Cochran, Nancy Edelman, Mary Louise Hunnicutt, Mary Tom Keller, Donna Jean King, Sharon Masur, Paula Meek, Cheryl Montgomery, Janna Rorex, Delane Ruddick, Sandra Seale, Ilala Snapp, Gale Summerfield, Sherry Usrey, Mimi Williamson. At a recent meeting this group had a cookout in the backyard of one of their members, making breadtwists over a fire of coals. At their last meeting, Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr., came to teach the girls to weave baskets. According to Mrs. Noland, the girls expect to spend three meetings on the project. We're going to expect many good craft projects this winter as a result of the workshop held recently in the college neighborhood.

The girls of Troop 8 spic and span in uniform, appeared on the program of the Plum Street P.-T. A. at its last meeting, giving the Brownie Scout Promise and singing "The Brownie Smile Song" as part of a program that also included Cub Scouts. Leaders of Troop 8, Mrs. E. M. Varnado and Mrs. C. E. Leath, were introduced, along with leaders of the boy's groups. It was a busy week for the troop, as their regular meeting had consisted of a bicycle trip to Bernstein Park.

This troop is pleased to know that there is to be another troop available to the fourth grade girls at their school who wish to be Brownie Scouts. Mrs. J. L. Keyes and Mrs. W.M. Tullos will be leaders of the troop, which began meeting last week.

New and prospective leaders are enrolled in the leadership course now being given at the office on Wednesday and Friday mornings. Neighborhood meetings to be held this week are West Monroe, at Highland School, Tuesday at 1:30, Northside, Monroe, Wednesday at 1:30, Grace Church Parish House.

The wedding will be an event of December 21 at the First Baptist Church in Monroe.

Miss Yeager is a graduate of Neville High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. She is employed by the Louisiana Power and Light Company.

Mr. Nelson is a graduate of Neville High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. He is employed by the Louisiana Power and Light Company.

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY RAY NORDAN

Nordan-Hartley Vows Are Said By Candlelight

Miss Patricia Ann Hartley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hartley of Stuttgart, Arkansas, became the bride of Bobby Ray Nordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Nordan of West Monroe, in a candlelight ceremony, Friday at 7:30 o'clock.

The double ring nuptials were heard by the Rev. M. D. Treece. The vows were exchanged before an arch of white candles in wrought - iron candelabra entwined with southern smilax, forming the background for large arrangements of giant white mums and greenery.

Mrs. M.D. Treece served as organist and accompanied the soloist, Tommy Davis of Jonesboro.

The candle lighters were Miss Brenda Bellew and David Nordan a brother to the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was fashioned of deep - lustre satin, overlaid with embroidered net. The ballerina length skirt swept from a sculptured bodice complimented by a high neckline and peter - pan collars outlined with seed pearls. The fitted sleeves came to petal points over her wrists, and were fastened with tiny satin buttons. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a pillbox fashioned of Alencon lace over cuponi silk, trimmed in seed pearls as featured on her collar.

The bride's sister, Miss Mary Hartley of Lake Providence, served as maid of honor. Her dress of brocaded satin cascaded from a pointed bodice to ballerina length. She wore a small headpiece of same material and carried a bouquet of split carnations outlined with net and long satin stremers dyed to match her gown.

Miss Rebecca Caughron of De Ridder, and Miss Mary Jones served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were of yellow and orchid brocaded satin with matching headpieces and bouquets.

Little Miss Barbara Dee Simpkins of Lake Charles, cousin of the groom, served as flower girl. She wore yellow brocaded satin, with a tiny wristlet dyed to match her dress and carried a basket of flower petals.

Tommy Davis served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were James Bingaman of Anacoco, and Jimmy Nordan, a brother to the groom, Kennith Long and Aubrey Simpkins served as ushers.

Master Terry Oglethorpe was ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose for her daughters wedding a dress of navy crepe with pink accessories. The bridegrooms mother chose a fall grey suit with pink accessories. Both mothers wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed in the annex of the church. The brides table and punch table were overlaid with lace cloths and decorated with white baby mums and fern. The snowy three - tiered cake was studded with white rosebuds and green leaves served with the frosty green punch carried out the colors used in the wedding.

Misses Geneva Free, Marie Fuller, Margie Edwards and Mrs. Ruth Oglethorpe served as tea girls, being assisted by Misses Jeanette and Irita Burnett and Mrs. M. D. Treece.

For a week-end trip to Vicksburg and Jackson, Miss. the bride wore a navy wool dress with red accessories. The orchid from her wedding bouquet completed her ensemble. The couple will make their home in Monroe.

MISS FRANCES GERALDINE WEBB

Miss Webb Is Engaged To Ralph Gibson Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Webb of Kansas City, Missouri announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Geraldine Webb, to Ralph H. B. Gibson, Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gibson, of this city.

Miss Webb graduated from Leslie High nScheol in Leslie, Ark., and attended college at St. Teresa in Kansas City.

Mr. Gibson graduated from Neville High School and Louisiana State University, doing graduate work at Asbury Seminary in Wilmore, Ky.

The wedding has been set for January 18, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Gospel Tabernacle in Kansas City, Kansas.

Chapel On Base Setting For Military Rites

An announcement of interest throughout this area is of the marriage of Miss Alyce Edmondson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson of Lake Providence and Francis Coy Henley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Henley of Norphlet, Arkansas.

The marriage was solemnized on September 28th, at the Bossier Base Chapel in Shreveport, with Chaplin Kenneth Smith officiating at the military double ring ceremony.

Large arrangements of white mums at the foot of a huge cross, decorated the chapel. Miss Jackie Moore served as organist and accompanied Miss Karen Stone who sang "The Air Force Hymn," "Because," "God Protect the Men who Fly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a ballerina length gown of white satin, fashioned with an over skirt of cotton, accented with embroidery. The square neckline and cap sleeves were edged with tiny lace.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Shirley Edmondson. Her dress was a semi formal of pale green taffeta, overlaid with net. She carried a bouquet of white mums with graduated white ribbon streamers.

Bridesmaids were Marjory Graham, Frankie Cron and Lynn Wall. They were matching gowns in pastel colors and also carried bouquets of mums.

Alva H. Henley served his brother as best man. Ushers, all airmen from the Bossier Base were Eddie Williams, Fred Mossier and James Corswell.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Edmondson chose a teal blue sheath, worn with black shoes and bag and a white hat. Her corsage was of white carnations. The mother of the groom was gowned in a pink silk dress with black accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Following the reading of the marriage vows the young couple left the chapel under an arch of sabres formed by airmen Robert Sundstrom, Barry Thompson, Glen Chavin, Dennis Spath, Don Denny and Fred Myers.

Mrs. Henley was graduated from the Lake Providence High School and is currently attending the Northwestern State College School of Nursing from which she will graduate in January.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out of town guests incuded Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Henley, Mr. and Mrs. David Henley, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Henley, all of Norphlet Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Burchfield, Stephens, Ark.; Mr. Rodney Mills and Miss Jean Henley of San Antonio, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson, Gene and Ned from Lake Providence; Miss Faye Henley and Miss Patsy Fuller of Norphlet, Ark.; Miss Shirley Edmondson and Miss Lynn Wall, of Ruston, Louisiana.

MR. AND MRS. J. RICHARD THOMPSON

Miss Corley Mr. Thompson Plight Troth

The Hodge Baptist Church was the scene October 5, of the wedding of Miss Naomi Ruth Corley, daughter of Mrs. Loraine Corley, of Hodge and J. Richard Thompson, son of Mrs. Lottie Thompson, of Creston, Ia. The Rev. A. D. Rockett officiated at the evening ceremony.

The couple exchanged their vows in a beautiful setting illuminated by tall pink candles in candelabra entwined with greenery. On the altar were baskets of white gladioli and greenery. Miss Mary Stadtlander was organist, and Forrest Hall, the soloist.

The bride entered the church with her uncle, Otis Edwards, of Shreveport, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of crystalene net and lace over taffeta. A Juliet cap encrusted in pearls and sequins held her veil of illusion. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom and carried an oblong bouquet of white carnations tied with satin streamers.

Miss Jeannette Corley was her sister's maid of honor. The other attendants were Miss Nancy Lowrey and Mrs. Barbara Corley. They were identical gowns of brocaded taffeta with matching headdresses of pink carnations. The honor attendant, wearing light green and the maids in pink. The candlelighters, Mrs. Rheba Corley and Miss Martha Fullerton, were dressed like the bridesmaids in changeable blue. Their headdresses matched their gowns and they wore pink carnations.

Henderson Corley was the best man and ushers were Maurice Corley and Marlin Treadway.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlors. The bride's maids bouquets formed the centerpiece for the cake table which was overlaid with white net over blue satin. Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left for Creston, Ia., where they will make their home. The bride traveled in a navy blue linen with white accessories.

Among the out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. L. Edwards, of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Corley, of Houston, Tex.

Wise Parent Understands Love At 16

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Alice was in her room dressing to go out.

"What, out again tonight?" asked Mother. "Is it Bob?"

"Of course, who else do you suppose I'd be going with."

"Well, I wouldn't know. Thought maybe you'd like a change of scene."

"Mother, there are times I think you have never lived. Bob is absolutely the most marvelous boy. He is very intelligent, he just knows everything and he's so much fun. Someday I'm going to marry him."

"Oh, are you in love with him?"

"Yes, I am, and there is nothing you can do to stop me."

"Alice, dearie, don't be so belligerent. I think being in love is the most wonderful feeling in the world. I'm glad you're in love."

"Oh, Mommie, you're wonderful!" And Alice threw her arms around her mother's neck. A minute before she'd looked as though she could have punched her.

Sense of Humor

Alice and her mother had always been on good terms but lately Mrs. Woodward did feel Alice was certainly difficult. Her moods swung from elation to despair over what seemed the most trivial of events. However, Mrs. Woodward made a lot of allowances, and maintained her sense of humor.

Now the girl was in love, thought Mrs. Woodward. That was all right. Being loved is a proof to a girl that she's attractive and loving in return is evidence of being grown - up. Both are vitally needed feelings for a young fledgling.

If parents can see in these early experiments in the world the need young adolescents have to prove themselves it's easier to go along with them. The teen-ager is not ready to leave his home yet — not unless the attitude of the parents is so antagonistic that he feels thrust out.

If parents try to hold their teen-agers down with rigid restrictions, if they disparage their efforts to become adult, the youngsters are all too likely to turn whole soul and body to the object of their first love. "Here is the only person who understands me. He cares what happens, he wants me to have a good time." And by contrast such a girl feels that her parents want to keep her a baby, they don't care if she is miserable and so we have the rebellion of and so we have the rebellion of youth.

The Woodwards were wise and thoughtful parents. Alice felt her mother approved of her and so she approved of herself. She loved Bob but because he wasn't just everything in life to her she could have a little bit of objectivity toward him.

MRS. JOHN STANLEY, a recent bride, is the former Miss Lottie Mae Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Green, of Kilbourne. Their vows were said in Indianola, Miss.

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY RAY NORDAN

Nordan–Hartley Vows Are Said By Candlelight

Miss Patricia Ann Hartley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hartley of Stuttgart, Arkansas, became the bride of Bobby Ray Nordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Nordan of West Monroe, in a candlelight ceremony, Friday at 7:30 o'clock.

The double ring nuptials were heard by the Rev. M. D. Treece. The vows were exchanged before an arch of white candles in wrought - iron candelabra entwined with southern smilax, forming the background for large arrangements of giant white mums and greenery.

Mrs. M.D. Treece served as organist and accompanied the soloist, Tommy Davis of Jonesboro.

The candle lighters were Miss Brenda Bolieu and David Nordan a brother to the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was fashioned of deep - lustre satin, overlaid with embroidered net. The ballerina length skirt swept from a sculptured bodice complimented by a high neckline and peter - pan collars outlined with seed pearls. The fitted sleeves came to petal points over her wrists, and were fastened with tiny satin buttons. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a pillbox fashioned of Alencon lace over dupioni silk, trimmed in seed pearls as featured on her collar.

The bride's sister, Miss Mary Hartley of Lake Providence, served as maid of honor. Her dress of brocaded satin cascaded from a pointed bodice to ballerina length. She wore a small headpiece of same material and carried a bouquet of split carnations outlined with net and long satin stremers dyed to match her gown.

Miss Rebecca Caughron of De Ridder, and Miss Mary Jones served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were of yellow and orchid brocaded satin with matching headpieces and bouquets.

Little Miss Barbara Dee Simpkins of Lake Charles, cousin of the groom, served as flower girl. She wore yellow brocaded satin, with a tiny wristlet dyed to match her dress and carried a basket of flower petals.

Tommy Davis served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were James Bingaman of Anacoco, and Jimmy Nordan, a brother to the groom, Kennith Long and Aubrey Simpkins served as ushers.

Master Terry Oglethorpe was ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose for her daughters vedding a dress of navy crepe with pink accessories. The bridegrooms mother chose a fall grey suit with pink accessories. Both mothers wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed in the annex of the church. The brides table and punch table were overlaid with lace cloths and decorated with white baby mums and fern. The snowy three - tiered cake was studded with white rosebuds and green leaves served with the frosty green punch carried out the colors used in the wedding.

Misses Geneva Free, Marie Fuller, Margie Edwards and Mrs. Ruth Oglethorpe served as tea girls, being assisted by Misses Jeanette and Inita Burnett and Mrs. M. D. Treece.

For a week-end trip to Vicksburg and Jackson, Miss, the bride wore a navy wool dress with red accessories. The orchid from her wedding bouquet completed her ensemble. The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Wise Parent Understands Love At 16

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Alice was in her room dressing to go out.

"What, out again tonight?" asked Mother. "Is it Bob?"

"Of course, who else do you suppose I'd be going with."

"Well, I wouldn't know. Thought maybe you'd like a change of scene."

"Mother, there are times I think you have never lived. Bob is absolutely the most marvelous boy. He is very intelligent, he just knows everything and he's so much fun. Someday I'm going to marry him."

"Oh, are you in love with him?"

"Yes, I am, and there is nothing you can do to stop me."

"Alice, dearie, don't be so belligerent. I think being in love is the most wonderful feeling in this world. I'm glad you're in love."

"Oh, Mommie, you're wonderful!" And Alice threw her arms around her mother's neck. A minute before she'd looked as though she could have punched her.

Sense of Humor

Alice and her mother had always been on good terms but lately Mrs. Woodward did feel Alice was certainly difficult. Her moods swung from elation to despair over what seemed the most trivial of events. However, Mrs. Woodward made a lot of allowances, and maintained her sense of humor.

Now the girl was in love, thought Mrs. Woodward. That was all right. Being loved is a proof to a girl that she's attractive and loving in return is evidence of being grown - up. Both are vitally needed feelings for a young fledgling.

If parents can see in these early experiments in the world the need young adolescents have to prove themselves it's easier to go along with them. The teen-ager is not ready to leave his home yet — not unless the attitude of the parents is so antagonistic that he feels thrust out.

If parents try to hold their teenagers down with rigid restrictions, if they disparage their efforts to become adult, the youngsters are all too likely to turn whole soul and body to the object of their first love. "Here is the only person who understands me. He cares what happens, he wants me to have a good time." And by contrast such a girl feels that her parents want to keep her a baby, they don't care if she is miserable and so we have the rebellion of and so we have the rebellion of youth.

The Woodwards were wise and thoughtful parents. Alice felt her mother approved of her and so she approved of herself. She loved Bob but because he wasn't just everything in life to her she could have a little bit of objectivity toward him.

MISS FRANCES GERALDINE WEBB

Miss Webb Is Engaged To Ralph Gibson Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Webb of Kansas City, Missouri announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Geraldine Webb, to Ralph H. B. Gibson, Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gibson, of this city.

Miss Webb graduated from Leslie High nSchool in Leslie, Ark., and attended college at St. Teresa in Kansas City.

Mr. Gibson graduated from Neville High School and Louisiana State University, doing graduate work at Asbury Seminary in Wilmore, Ky.

The wedding has been set for January 18, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Gospel Tabernacle in Kansas City, Kansas.

Chapel On Base Setting For Military Rites

An announcement of interest throughout this area is of the marriage of Miss Alyce Edmondson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson of Lake Providence and Francis Coy Henley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Henley of Norphlet, Arkansas.

The marriage was solemnized on September 23th, at the Bossier Base Chapel in Shreveport, with Chaplin Kenneth Smith officiating at the military double ring ceremony.

Large arrangements of white mums at the foot of a huge cross, decorated the chapel. Miss Jackie Moore served as organist and accompanied Miss Karen Stone who sang "The Air Force Hymn," "Because," "God Protect the Men who Fly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a ballerina length gown of white satin, fashioned with an over skirt of cotton, accented with embroidery. The square neckline and cap sleeves were edged with tiny lace.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Shirley Edmondson. Her dress was a semi formal of pale green taffeta, overlaid with net. She carried a bouquet of white mums with graduated white ribbon streamers.

Bridesmaids were Marjory Graham, Frankie Cron and Lynn Wall. They wore matching gowns in pastel colors and also carried bouquets of mums.

Alva H. Henley served his brother as best man. Ushers, all airmen from the Bossier Base were Eddie Williams, Fred Mossier and James Corswell.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Edmondson chose a teal-blue sheath, worn with black shoes and bag and a white hat. Her corsage was of white carnations. The mother of the groom was gowned in a pink silk dress with black accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Following the reading of the marriage vows the young couple left the chapel under an arch of sabres formed by airmen Robert Sundstrom, Barry Thompson, Glen Chavin, Dennis Spath, Don Denny and Fred Myers.

Mrs. Henley was graduated from the Lake Providence High School ann is currently attending the Northwestern State College School of Nursing from which she will graduate in January.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Henley, Mr. and Mrs. David Henley, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Henley, all of Norphlet Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Burchfield, Stephens, Ark.; Mr. Rodney Mills and Miss Joan Henley of San Antonio, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson, Gene and Ned from Lake Providence; Alva Faye Henley and Miss Patsy Fuller of Norphlet, Ark.; Miss Shirley Edmondson and Miss Lynn Wall, of Ruston, Louisiana.

MR. AND MRS. J. RICHARD THOMPSON

Miss Corley Mr. Thompson Plight Troth

The Hodge Baptist Church was the scene October 5, of the wedding of Miss Naomi Ruth Corley, daughter of Mrs. Loraine Corley, of Hodge and J. Richard Thompson, son of Mrs. Lottie Thompson, of Creston, Ia. The Rev. A. D. Rockett officiated at the evening ceremony.

The couple eychanged their vows in a beautiful setting illuminated by tall pink candles in candelabra entwined with greenery. On the altar were baskets of white gladioli and greenery. Miss Mary Stadtlander was organist, and Forrest Hall, the soloist.

The bride entered the church with her uncle, Otis Edwards, of Shreveport, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of crystallene net and lace over taffeta. A Juliet cap encrusted in pearls and sequins held her veil of illusion. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom and carried an oblong bouquet of white carnations tied with satin streamers.

Miss Jeannette Corley was her sister's maid of honor. The other attendants were Miss Nancy Lowrey and Mrs. Barbara Corley. They wore identical gowns of brocaded taffeta with matching bandeaux in their hair and wrists bouquets of pink carnations. The honor attendant, wearing light green and the maids in pink. The candlelighters, Mrs. Rheba Corley and Miss Martha Fullerton, were dressed like the bridesmaids in changeable blue. Their headdresses matched their gowns and they wore pink carnations.

Henderson Corley was the best man and ushers were Maurice Corley and Marlin Treadway.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlors. The bride's maids bouquets formed the centerpiece for the cake table which was overlaid with white net over blue satin. Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left for Creston, Ia., where they will make their home. The bride traveled in a navy blue linen with white accessories.

Among the out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. L. Edwards, of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Corley, of Houston, Tex.

Every Child Deserves The Fun Of Holloween

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE M.D

Is there to be a Halloween party in your child's school? If your youngster — and [illegible] about such things, better make a home visit or two and find out. Most schools do have Halloween parties. The attractive thing about the party is the [illegible] — that's what it's all about. The children parade about and win prizes for the most original costume. Or, in the case of younger children, the prizes may be given for the most original [illegible]

Perhaps your child is to be a gypsy, or a ghost, has some kind of a costume. It's going to be very hard indeed on [illegible] child. Don't let it happen to your youngster.

Mike had just entered school in September. He was in first grade. He was pretty overwhelmed by the whole business of school and was all the time he wasn't quite sure what was going on. There was talk about a party next Thursday. He was all for it. Mother didn't seem too interested in what went on at school, so he didn't say anything to her about the party.

Thursday came and every child in the class, except Mike, came in costume. Mike came in with a box [illegible] packages, but there were lots of things he didn't know, so he didn't pay much attention. Ten o'clock came and the teacher said:

"Now everyone can put on his costume and we will all go into the assembly room."

There was a great [illegible] about, the candles popped open [illegible] witches, ballerinas, clowns, Davy Crockett's appeared all over the room. The teacher was jumping about helping Mary with her sash, Bob with his holster and Timothy with his boots. Poor Mike, he just sat there; nobody paid any attention to him.

Finally Miss Fullerton did see him.

"Where's your costume, Mike?" she asked.

Mike just looked blank.

"Didn't your mother get you anything?" Miss Fullerton was very busy and annoyed at this new problem. Her voice was sharp and condemning.

Mike began to cry.

Miss Fullerton was a good teacher, and a warm friendly girl. Quickly she said:

"Here, Mike, you wear my hat and scarf and gloves, and you can be the scarecrow."

Mike took the things, but he was a sad image. He felt left out and somehow different from everyone else.

As all the children were marching into the assembly room, Mike heard Tom say to Bill:

"Look, Mike's wearing Miss Fullerton's hat 'cause his mother didn't get him anything. That's no costume."

Unhappy Day

That was too much for Mike. He tore off the hat, gloves and scarf, threw them on the floor, and ran back to his room, where he began throwing all the books from the package on the floor.

Miss Fullerton's new tall hat was ruined. She had just been hurt and hadn't accomplished a thing for Mike.

Children, especially little children, must be like other children if they are to feel comfortable. You have to be very grown up and mature to be able to be different.

See to it that you never let a child of yours suffer as Mike did — and so needlessly. Halloween costumes do not have to be elaborate nor costly.

NEW SWEET SNACKS

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— New sweet potato snacks may be on the market soon. The Agriculture Department's Eastern Utilization Research and Development Division is experimenting with sweet potato chips, diced sweet potatoes, julienne strips and frozen french fries.

No long metal skewers on hand for outdoor cooking? Use green sticks of sweet wood, each about four feet long. Peel the sticks and sharpen them at one end.

Girl Scout News

Five girls were greatly surprised to learn that they had won ribbons at the Columbia Art Festival in the Girl Scout exhibit. Susan Cowder, of troop 10, received a blue ribbon for a small tray of enameled copper, Becky Middleton, of Troop 25, a red ribbon for enameled cuff links, and Michele Varnado, also of Troop 24, a white ribbon for a copper tray. Wanda Gaines, Brownie Shout of Troop 12, won a blue ribbon for the reed basket she made at day camp and Dianna Dollnchan, of Troop 58, a red ribbon for hers.

Troop 2 has promptly re-registered for its second year of Brownie Scouting and the girls are proudly wearing a membership star on their uniform pockets to indicate a year's membership. Mary Tom Keller, a member of the troop, made a birthday cake decorated in brown and yellow and bearing the Brownie insigna for the birthday ceremony, at which time new membership cards were given out along with the stars. Leaders are Mrs. W.T. King and Mrs. George Rorex. Mrs. T. M. Keller, Mrs. R. C. Meek, Mrs. Leo Montgomery Mrs. J. W. Usrey are members of the troop committee. The following girls are registered: Susan Cochran, Nancy Edelman, Mary Louise Hunnicutt, Mary Tom Keller, Donna Jean King, Sharon Masse, Paula Meek, Cheryl Montgomery, Jeana Rorex, Delane Ruddick, Sandra Seale, Hula Stamp, Gale Summerfield, Sherry Usrey, Mimi Williamson. At a recent meeting this group had a cookout in the backyard of one of their members, making breadtwists over a fire of coals. At their last meeting, Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr., came to teach the girls to weave baskets. According to Mrs. Noland, the girls expect to spend three meetings on the project. We're going to expect many good craft projects this winter as a result of the workshop held recently in the college neighborhood.

The girls of Troop 8 sole and span in uniform, appeared on the program of the Plum Street P.-T. A. at its last meeting, giving the Brownie Scout Promise and singing "The Brownie Smile Song" as part of a program that also included Cub Scouts. Leaders of Troop 8, Mrs. E. M. Varnado and Mrs. C. E. Leath, were introduced, along with leaders of the boy's groups. It was a busy week for the troop, as their regular meeting had consisted of a bicycle trip to Bernstein Park.

This troop is pleased to know that there is to be another troop available to the fourth grade girls at their school who wish to be Brownie Scouts. Mrs. J. L. Keyes and Mrs. W.M. Tullos will be leaders of the troop, which began meeting last week.

New and prospective leaders are enrolled in the leadership course now being given at the office on Wednesday and Friday mornings. Neighborhood meetings to be held this week are West Monroe, at Highland School, Tuesday at 1:30, Northside, Monroe, Wednesday at 1:30, Grace Church Parish House.

Hargrove Family Have Fourth Annual Meeting

The Warren Hargrove reunion met Sunday, Oct. 13, at Mt. Zion Church near Vernon, in Jackson parish for its fourth annual meeting.

The group went as a body to attend church services in the old building, which was built about 110 years ago by early settlers of which the Hargroves had a part.

At noon a bountiful lunch was spread and at 1 p.m. they were called together by Ralph Hargrove, chairman. An interesting talk was given by James E. Walker, of Calhoun, on what "Reunions Mean to Me." Afterwards Marshall D. Peel, Jr., of Winnsboro entertained with a song. The group decided to meet the 2nd Sunday in October, 1958 with Mrs. Frank Peel, in Kirbyville, Texas. She is the only surviving child of the late Warren and Canary Hargrove.

Present were Mrs. Theo James, Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Barber and Shirley Tarver of Columbia, Mrs. Lula Tarver, of Kelly; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lewis, C. U. Lewis, of Natchitoches; Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Thrasher, Transylvania, James E. Walker, of Calhoun.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sturdivant, Steve, and Peggy, of Crossett, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Adams, of Kirbyville, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Adams, of Orange, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. James V. Bailey, of Bossier City, Carl Jones, of Shreveport; N. O. Walker, of Opelousas; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Peel, Mrs. Laverne Edmiston, Miss Sandra Edmiston, Frank Pell, of Quitman, Marshall D. Pell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Pell, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Watson, Walon Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Caldwell and LNette, ofe Winnsboro and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hargrove, Debra Hargrove and Miss Janis Ponder, of Jonesboro.

Every Child Deserves The Fun Of Holloween

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE M.D.

Is there to be a Halloween party in your child's school? If your youngster is not too talkative about such things, better make a home call or two and find out. Most schools do have Halloween parties. The important thing about the party is the costume — that's what it's all about. The children parade about and win prizes for the most outstanding costume. Often there are several categories—the prettiest, the funniest, the most original and so on.

If every child in the class, except one, has some kind of a costume, it's going to be very hard indeed on that one child. Don't let it happen to your youngster.

Mike had just entered school in September. He was in first grade. He was pretty overwhelmed by this whole business of school and lots of the time he wasn't quite sure what was going on. There was talk about a party next Thursday. He was all for it. Mother didn't seem too interested in what went on at school, so he didn't say anything to her about the party. Thursday came and every child in the class, except Mike, came in with a big bundle. Mike was a little surprised at all these packages, but there were lots of things he didn't know, so he didn't pay much attention. Ten o'clock came and the teacher said:

"Now everyone can put on his costume and we will all go into the assembly room."

There was a great bustling about, the bundles popped open, witches, ballerinas, clowns, Davy Crocketts appeared all over the room. The teacher was jumping about helping Mary with her sash, Bob with his holster and Tomothy with his boots. Poor Mike, he just sat there; nobody paid any attention to him.

Finally Miss Fullerton did see him.

"Where's your costume, Mike?" she asked.

Mike just looked blank.

"Didn't your mother get you anything?" Miss Fullerton was very busy and annoyed at this new problem. Her voice was sharp and condemning.

Mike began to cry.

Miss Fullerton was a good teacher, and a warm friendly girl. Quickly she said:

"Here, Mike, you wear my hat and scarf and gloves, and you can be the schoolteacher."

Mike took the things, but he wasn't happy. He felt left out and somehow different from everyone else.

As all the children were marching into the assembly room, Mike heard Tom say to Bill:

"Look, Mike's wearing Miss Fullerton's hat 'cause his mother didn't get him anything. That's no costume."

Unhappy Day

That was too much for Mike. He tore off the hat, gloves and scarf, threw them on the floor, and ran back to his room, where he began throwing all the books from the bookcase on the floor.

Miss Fullerton's new fall hat was ruined. She had lost her hat and hadn't accomplished a thing for Mike.

Children, especially little children, must be like the other children if ahey are to feel comfortable. You have to be very grown up and mature to be able to be different.

See to it that you never let a child of yours suffer as Mike did — and so needlessly. Halloween costumes do not have to be elaborate nor costly.

NEW SWEET SNACKS

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— New sweet potato snacks may be on the market soon. The Agriculture Department's Eastern Utilization Research and Development Division is experimenting with sweet potato chips, diced sweet potatoes, julienne strips and frozen french fries.

No long metal skewers on hand for outdoor cooking? Use green sticks of sweet wood, each about four feet long. Peel the sticks and sharpen them at one end.

Girl Scout News

Five girls were greatly surprised to learn that they had won ribbons at the Columbia Art Festival in the Girl Scout exhibit. Susan Cowder, of troop 10, received a blue ribbon for a small tray of enameled copper, Becky Middleton, of Troop 24, a red ribbon for enameled cuff links, and Michele Varnado, also of Troop 24, a white ribbon for a copper tray. Wanda Gaaes, Brownie Shout of Troop 12, won a blue ribbon for the reed basket she made at day camp and Dianna Dillingham, of Troop 58, a red ribbon for hers.

Troop 2 has promptly re-registered for its second year of Brownie Scouting and the girls are proudly wearing a membership star on their uniform pockets to indicate a year's membership. Mary Tom Keller, a member of the troop, made a birthday cake decorated in brown and yellow and bearing the Brownie insigna for the birthday ceremony, at which time new membership cards were given out along with the stars. Leaders are Mrs. W.T. King and Mrs. George Rorex. Mrs. T. M. Keller, Mrs. R. C. Meek, Mrs. Leo Montgomery Mrs. J. W. Usrey are members of the troop committee. The following girls are registered: Susan Cochran, Nancy Edelman, Mary Louise Hunnicutt, Mary Tom Keller, Donna Jean King, Sharon Masur, Paula Meek, Cheryl Montgomery, Janna Rorex, Delane Ruddick, Sandra Seale, Ilala Snapp, Gale Summerfield, Sherry Usrey, Mimi Williamson. At a recent meeting this group had a cookout in the backyard of one of their members, making bread-twists over a fire of coals. At their last meeting, Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr., came to teach the girls to weave baskets. According to Mrs. Noland, the girls expect to spend three meetings on the project. We're going to expect many good craft projects this winter as a result of the workshop held recently in the college neighborhood.

The girls of Troop 8 spic and span in uniform, appeared on the program of the Plum Street P.-T. A. at its last meeting, giving the Brownie Scout Promise and singing "The Brownie Smile Song" as part of a program that also included Cub Scouts. Leaders of Troop 8, Mrs. E. M. Varnado and Mrs. C. E. Leath, were introduced, along with leaders of the boy's groups. It was a busy week for the troop, as their regular meeting had consisted of a bicycle trip to Bernstein Park.

This troop is pleased to know that there is to be another troop available to the fourth grade girls at their school who wish to be Brownie Scouts. Mrs. J. L. Keyes and Mrs. W.M. Tullos will be leaders of the troop, which began meeting last week.

New and prospective leaders are enrolled in the leadership course now being given at the office on Wednesday and Friday mornings. Neighborhood meetings to be held this week are West Monroe, at Highland School, Tuesday at 1:30, Northside, Monroe, Wednesday at 1:30, Grace Church Parish House.

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY RAY NORDAN

Nordan–Hartley Vows Are Said By Candlelight

Miss Patricia Ann Hartley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hartley of Stuttgart, Arkansas, became the bride of Bobby Ray Nordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Nordan of West Monroe, in a candlelight ceremony, Friday at 7:30 o'clock.

The double ring nuptials were heard by the Rev. M. D. Treece. The vows were exchanged before an arch of white candles in wrought - iron candelabra entwined with southern smilax, forming the background for large arrangements of giant white mums and greenery.

Mrs. M.D. Treece served as organist and accompanied the soloist, Tommy Davis of Jonesboro.

The candle lighters were Miss Brenda Bellew and David Nordan, a brother to the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was fashioned of deep - basted satin, overlaid with embroidered net. The ballerina length skirt swept from a sculptured bodice complimented by a high neckline and peter - pan collars outlined with seed pearls. The fitted sleeves came to petal points over her wrists, and were fastened with tiny satin buttons. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a pillbox fashioned of Alencon lace over Capioni silk, trimmed in seed pearls as featured on her collar.

The bride's sister, Miss Mary Hartley of Lake Providence, served as maid of honor. Her dress of brocaded satin cascaded from a pointed bodice to ballerina length. She wore a small headpiece of same material and carried a bouquet of split carnations outlined with net and long satin streamers dyed to match her gown.

Miss Rebecca Caughron of De Ridder, and Miss Mary Jones served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were of yellow and orchid brocaded satin with matching headpieces and bouquets.

Little Miss Barbara Dee Simpkins of Lake Charles, cousin of the groom, served as flower girl. She wore yellow brocaded satin, with a tiny wristlet dyed to match her dress and carried a basket of flower petals.

Tommy Davis served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were James Bingaman of Anacoco, and Jimmy Nordan, a brother to the groom. Kenneth Long and Aubrey Simpkins served as ushers.

Master Terry Oglethorpe was ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose for her daughters wedding a dress of navy crepe with pink accessories. The bridegrooms mother chose a fall grey suit with pink accessories. Both mothers wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed in the annex of the church. The brides table and punch table were overlaid with lace cloths and decorated with white baby mums and fern. The epergy three - tiered cake was studded with white rosebuds and green leaves served with the rosy green punch carried out the colors used in the wedding.

Misses Geneva Free, Marie Fuller, Margie Edwards and Mrs. Ruth Oglethorpe served as tea girls, being assisted by Misses Jeanette and Inita Burnett and Mrs. M. D. Treece.

For a week-end trip to Vicksburg and Jackson, Miss. the bride wore a navy wool dress with red accessories. The orchid from her wedding bouquet completed her ensemble. The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Wise Parent Understands Love At 16

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Alice was in her room dressing to go on a

"What, out again tonight?" asked Mother. "Is it Bob?"

"Of course, who else do you suppose I'd be going with."

"Well, I wouldn't know. Thought maybe you'd like a change of scene."

"Mother, there are times I think you have never lived. Bob is absolutely the most marvelous boy. He is very intelligent, he just knows everything and he's so much fun. Someday I'm going to marry him."

"Oh, are you in love with him?"

"Yes, I am, and there is nothing you can do to stop me."

"Alice, dearie, don't be so belligerent. I think being in love is the most wonderful feeling in this world. I'm glad you're in love."

"Oh, Mommie, you're wonderful!" And Alice threw her arms around her mother's neck. A minute before she'd looked as though she could have punched her.

Sense of Humor

Alice and her mother had always been on good terms but lately Mrs. Woodward did feel Alice was certainly difficult. Her moods swung from elation to despair over what seemed the most trivial of events. However, Mrs. Woodward made a lot of allowances, and maintained her sense of humor.

Now the girl was in love, thought Mrs. Woodward. That was all right. Being loved is a proof to a girl that she's attractive and loving in return is evidence of being grown - up. Both are vitally needed feelings for a young fledgling.

If parents can see in these early experiments in the world the need young adolescents have to prove themselves it's easier to go along with them. The teen-ager is not ready to leave his home yet — not unless the attitude of the parents is so antagonistic that he feels thrust out.

If parents try to hold their teenagers down with rigid restrictions, if they disparage their efforts to become adult, the youngsters are all too likely to turn whole soul and body to the object of their first love. "Here is the only person who understands me. He cares what happens, he wants me to have a good time." And by contrast such a girl feels that her parents want to keep her a baby, they don't care if she is miserable and so we have the rebellion of lad so we have the rebellion of youth.

The Woodwards were wise and thoughtful parents. Alice felt her mother approved of her and so she approved of herself. She loved Bob but because he wasn't just everything in life to her she could have a little bit of objectivity toward him.

MISS FRANCES GERALDINE WEBB

Miss Webb Is Engaged To Ralph Gibson Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Webb of Kansas City, Missouri announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Geraldine Webb, to Ralph H. B. Gibson, Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gibson, of this city.

Miss Webb graduatted from Leslie High nSchool in Leslie, Ark., and attended college at St. Teresa in Kansas City.

Mr. Gibson graduated from Neville High School and Louisiana State University, doing graduate work at Asbury Seminary in Wilmore, Ky.

The wedding has been set for January 18, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Gospel Tabernacle in Kansas City, Kansas.

Chapel On Base Setting For Military Rites

An announcement of interest throughout this area is of the marriage of Miss Alice Edmondson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson of Lake Providence and Francis Coy Henley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Henley of Norphlet, Arkansas.

The marriage was solemnized on September 28th, at the Bossier Base Chapel in Shreveport, with Chaplin Kenneth Smith officiating at the military double ring ceremony.

Large arrangements of white mums at the foot of a huge cross, decorated the chapel. Miss Jackie Moore served as organist and accompanied Miss Karen Stone who sang "The Air Force Hymn," "Because," "God Protect the Men who Fly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a ballerina length gown of white satin, fashioned with an over skirt of cotton, accented with embroidery. The square neckline and cap sleeves were edged with tiny lace.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Shirley Edmondson. Her dress was a semi formal of pale green taffeta, overlaid with net. She carried a bouquet of white mums with graduated white ribbon streamers.

Bridesmaids were Marjory Graham, Frankie Cron and Lynn Wall. They were matching gowns in pastel colors and also carried bouquets of mums.

Alva H. Henley served his brother as best man. Ushers, all airmen from the Bossier Base were Eddie Williams, Fred Mossier and James Corswell.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Edmondson chose a teal-blue sheath, worn with black shoes and bag and a white hat. Her corsage was of white carnations. The mother of the groom was gowned in a pink silk dress with black accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Following the reading of the marriage vows the young couple left the chapel under an arch of sabres formed by airmen Robert Sandstrom, Barry Thompson, Glen Chavin, Dennis Spath, Don Denny and Fred Myers.

Mrs. Henley was graduated from the Lake Providence High School ann is currently attending the Northwestern State College School of Nursing from which she will graduate in January.

She wore a small headpiece of same material and carried a bouquet of split carnations outlined with net and long satin stremers dyed to match her gown.

Miss Rebecca Caughron of De Ridder, and Miss Mary Jones served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were of yellow and orchid brocaded satin with matching headpieces and bouquets.

Little Miss Barbara Dee Simpkins of Lake Charles, cousin of the groom, served as flower girl. She wore yellow brocaded satin, with a tiny wristlet dyed to match her dress and carried a basket of flower petals.

Tommy Davis served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were James Bingaman of Anacoco, and Jimmy Nordan, a brother to the groom, Kennith Long and Aubrey Simpkins served as ushers.

Master Terry Oglethorpe was ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose for her daughters wedding a dress of navy crepe with pink accessories. The bridegrooms mother chose a fall grey suit with pink accessories. Both mothers wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed in the annex of the church. The brides table and punch table were overlaid with lace cloths and decorated with white baby mums and fern. The snowy three - tiered cake was studded with white rosebuds and green leaves served with the frosty green punch carried out the colors used in the wedding.

Misses Geneva Free, Marie Fuller, Margie Edwards and Mrs. Ruth Oglethorpe served as tea girls, being assisted by Misses Jeanette and Inita Burnett and Mrs. M. D. Treece.

For a week-end trip to Vicksburg and Jackson, Miss, the bride wore a navy wool dress with red accessories. The orchid from her wedding bouquet completed her ensemble. The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Wise Parent Understands Love At 16

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Alice was in her room dressing to go out.

"What, out again tonight?" asked Mother. "Is it Bob?"

"Of course, who else do you suppose I'd be going with."

"Well, I wouldn't know. Thought maybe you'd like a change of scene."

"Mother, there are times I think you have never lived. Bob is absolutely the most marvelous boy. He is very intelligent, he just knows everything and he's so much fun. Someday I'm going to marry him."

"Oh, are you in love with him?"

"Yes, I am, and there is nothing you can do to stop me."

"Alice, dearie, don't be so belligerent. I think being in love is the most wonderful feeling in this world. I'm glad you're in love."

"Oh, Mommie, you're wonderful!" And Alice threw her arms around her mother's neck. A minute before she'd looked as though she could have punched her.

Sense of Humor

Alice and her mother had always been on good terms but lately Mrs. Woodward did feel Alice was certainly difficult. Her moods swung from elation to despair over what seemed the most trivial of events. However, Mrs. Woodward made a lot of allowances, and maintained her sense of humor.

Now the girl was in love, thought Mrs. Woodward. That was all right. Being loved is a proof to a girl that she's attractive and loving in return is evidence of being grown - up. Both are vitally needed feelings for a young fledgling.

If parents can see in these early experiments in the world the need young adolescents have to prove themselves it's easier to go along with them. The teen-ager is not ready to leave his home yet — not unless the attitude of the parents is so antagonistic that he feels thrust out.

If parents try to hold their teenagers down with rigid restrictions, if they disparage their efforts to become adult, the youngsters are all too likely to turn whole soul and body to the object of their first love. "Here is the only person who understands me. He cares what happens, he wants me to have a good time." And by contrast such a girl feels that her parents want to keep her a baby, they don't care if she is miserable and so we have the rebellion of and so we have the rebellion of youth.

The Woodwards were wise and thoughtful parents. Alice felt her mother approved of her and so she approved of herself. She loved Bob but because he wasn't just everything in life to her she could have a little bit of objectivity toward him.

MISS FRANCES GERALDINE WEBB

Miss Webb Is Engaged To Ralph Gibson Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Webb of Kansas City, Missouri announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Geraldine Webb, to Ralph H. B. Gibson, Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gibson, of this city.

Miss Webb graduated from Leslie High nSchool in Leslie, Ark., and attended college at St. Teresa in Kansas City.

Mr. Gibson graduated from Neville High School and Louisiana State University, doing graduate work at Asbury Seminary in Wilmore, Ky.

The wedding has been set for January 18, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Gospel Tabernacle in Kansas City, Kansas.

Chapel On Base Setting For Military Rites

An announcement of interest throughout this area is of the marriage of Miss Alyce Edmondson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson of Lake Providence and Francis Coy Henley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Henley of Norphlet, Arkansas.

The marriage was solemnized on September 28th, at the Bossier Base Chapel in Shreveport, with Chaplin Kenneth Smith officiating at the military double ring ceremony.

Large arrangements of white mums at the foot of a huge cross, decorated the chapel. Miss Jackie Moore served as organist and accompanied Miss Karen Stone who sang "The Air Force Hymn," "Because," "God Protect the Men who Fly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a ballerina length gown of white satin, fashioned with an over skirt of cotton, accented with embroidery. The square neckline and cap sleeves were edged with tiny lace.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Shirley Edmondson. Her dress was a semi formal of pale green taffeta, overlaid with net. She carried a bouquet of white mums with graduated white ribbon streamers.

Bridesmaids were Marjory Graham, Frankie Cron and Lynn Wall. They wore matching gowns in pastel colors and also carried bouquets of mums.

Alva H. Henley served his brother as best man., Ushers, all airmen from the Bossier Base were Eddie Williams, Fred Mossier and James Corswell.

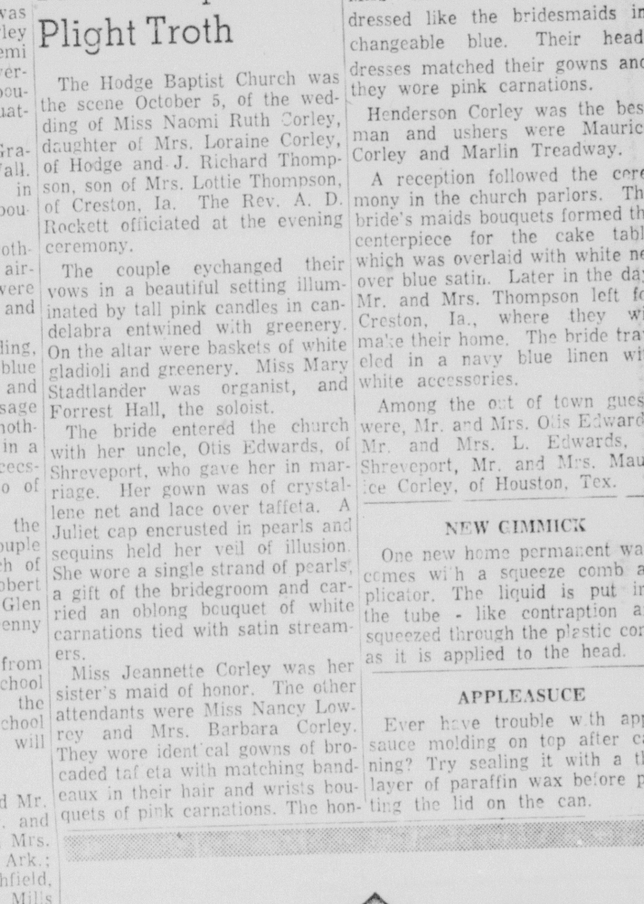
For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Edmondson chose a teal-blue sheath, worn with black shoes and bag and a white hat. Her corsage was of white carnations. The mother of the groom was gowned in a pink silk dress with black accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Following the reading of the marriage vows the young couple left the chapel under an arch of sabres formed by airmen Robert Sundstrom, Barry Thompson, Glen Chavin, Dennis Spath, Don Denny and Fred Myers.

Mrs. Henley was graduated from the Lake Providence High School ann is currently attending the Northwestern State College School of Nursing from which she will graduate in January.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Henley, Mr. and Mrs. David Henley, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Henley, all of Norphlet Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Burchfield, Stephens, Ark.; Mr. Rodney Mills and Miss Joan Henley of San Antonio, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson, Gene and Ned from Lake Providence; Alva Faye Henley and Miss Patsy Fuller of Norphlet, Ark.; Miss Shirley Edmondson and Miss Lynn Wall, of Ruston, Louisiana.



MR. AND MRS. J. RICHARD THOMPSON

Miss Corley Mr. Thompson Plight Troth

The Hodge Baptist Church was the scene October 5, of the wedding of Miss Naomi Ruth Corley, daughter of Mrs. Loraine Corley, of Hodge and J. Richard Thompson, son of Mrs. Lottie Thompson, of Creston, Ia. The Rev. A. D. Rockett officiated at the evening ceremony.

The couple eychanged their vows in a beautiful setting illuminated by tall pink candles in candelabra entwined with greenery. On the altar were baskets of white gladioli and greenery. Miss Mary Stadtlander was organist, and Forrest Hall, the soloist.

The bride entered the church with her uncle, Otis Edwards, of Shreveport, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of crystallene net and lace over taffeta. A Juliet cap encrusted in pearls and sequins held her veil of illusion. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom and carried an oblong bouquet of white carnations tied with satin streamers.

Miss Jeannette Corley was her sister's maid of honor. The other attendants were Miss Nancy Lowrey and Mrs. Barbara Corley. They wore identical gowns of brocaded taffeta with matching bandeaux in their hair and wrists bouquets of pink carnations. The honor attendant, wearing light green and the maids in pink. The candlelighters, Mrs. Rheba Corley and Miss Martha Fullerton, were dressed like the bridesmaids in changeable blue. Their headdresses matched their gowns and they wore pink carnations.

Henderson Corley was the best man and ushers were Maurice Corley and Marlin Treadway.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlors. The bride's maids bouquets formed the centerpiece for the cake table which was overlaid with white net over blue satin. Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left for Creston, Ia., where they will make their home. The bride traveled in a navy blue linen with white accessories.

Among the out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. L. Edwards, of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Corley, of Houston, Tex.

Three Designers Share Honors In Fashion Awards

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Varied tops in American fashion for this year are three designers who shared honors in the fabric dress presentation of the Coty American Fashion Critics' Award at the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

Sydney Wragge, designer of ready-to-wear sports clothes and separates, and Miss Leslie Morris, custom designer for a New York specialty shop, each received "Winnie" trophies, which is a coin-award of a silver plaque made to Emerie Louis Partos, Hungarian-born fur designer.

As winners were announced by Eleanora Sheppard, women's editor of the New York Herald Tribune, the awards were presented by Gilmore A. Whalen, representing Coty, climaxing a fashion show of selected garments from previous award winners of the last 15 years before an audience of 700 invited guests.

Wragge, 34, Paris and sable-locks more like a sweet man than a designer, told society matrons in the audience how to select dress styles. A native of Australia, he studied drama into sketching, then stage for women, and continued to his present eminence.

Miss Morris is a Philadelphia socialite, wife of Ira Jewell Williams, Jr., and a designer of made-to-order clothes for one of New York's top bracket shops.

Special award winner Partos was born in Hungary, fought with the French army during the war and afterward worked with the French underground, working in the salon of Christian Dior after the Liberation, before coming to New York.

Household Hints

By UNITED PRESS

Bake meringues on a foil-lined cookie sheet. They won't stick or age and the foil can be peeled off after the meringues are done.

Home economists at Colorado State University suggest this method for drying children's snowsuits in the automatic dryer. Dry for 10 minutes at warm setting, then turn the garment inside out and repeat. Take the suit out of the dryer and place on a hanger to finish.

Plastic upholstery is more durable if fabric - backed or on an elastic base. Unsupported it is easy to puncture and break.

Use finely granulated sugar for best results in cake baking. If the sugar is lumpy, sift before using.

When the label, "Do not wring" appears on a garment, follow its advice. This also means do not spin in an automatic washer.

EMILY POST

Telephone Courtesy Of Executive Is Important

The entire telephone job stops and of the same time [illegible] difficult to admit is that of the business executive who has on his desk several telephones on his desk, with his secretary to call Mrs. Jones for him. And then when Mrs. Jones answers she is told, "Hold the wire, please. Mr. Brown is talking on another wire." This means that she is expected to wait until he finishes. How many Mrs. Jones's would do it? I don't know many that would do it gladly.

When Mr. Brown wants Mrs. Jones on the phone, he should say, "Please get Mrs. Jones on the wire." Then when Mrs. Jones answers she will know that Mr. Brown is calling her. If Mr. Brown is not on the line when Mrs. Jones is ready to talk to him, she will be annoyed at having to wait.

A question often asked is this: When one lady telephones another who is a social acquaintance whom she does not call by her first name, should she say, "This is Mrs. James Smith," or "This is Mary Smith"? In answer, the use of titles is characteristic of business; the omission of titles is characteristic of the social world. However, an older lady or gentleman addressing one of her (or his) self to one who is much younger says, "This is Mrs. Elder or Mr. Elder or Miss Smith, or" A younger one — or one telephoning to someone approximately her own age says, "This is Marie Masters" whether married or single. In fact, she makes this same announcement to everyone whom she knows socially, whether the person calls her Marie or Mrs. Masters. The phrase "This is" is more impressive and therefore less pompous than saying, "I am Mrs . . ."

When you have a visitor and the telephone rings, you must explain to one who wants to talk at any length, that you have company just now and that you will call back later.

When you have a visitor and the telephone is not answered immediately, it is fair not to wait long enough for that person to come from a reasonable distance to the telephone. In other words, she might be obliged to lay aside a great deal to see the flowers and when she is doing merely to answer a dead telephone.

[illegible] Mrs. Brown's [illegible] or "Apartment" [illegible] Residence" [illegible] to [illegible]

A question often asked [illegible] going — and not always [illegible] overcome — is the practice of the strangers who have no telephone of their own to make use of the Brown's, and ask them to send for whomever it is. Because the Brown's house is obliged to leave whatever they are doing and go out and walk whatever the distance may be, to tell Mollie or Lizzie or Henry that someone wants them on the telephone. In an emergency, the Browns do not object, but to make a practice of this is an imposition.

Water - mixed paints [illegible] having a flat finish after drying, now may have as high a gloss as standard enamels with a new latex paint.

EXTENSION NEWS, VIEWS

HD Work Is Training For Women Leaders

By Euna Spielman

The job of any extension worker is to help people help themselves. We are grateful to the Morning World and its fine worker, Marion Gray, for giving us an opportunity of showing you a few of the people Extension helped who have definately helped themselves. Thank you again, Marion Gray and John Oldenburg for the happy manner, the interest and appreciation you showed when you visited the homes of these people and made the pictures used on the front page of the paper today. This article is the record and stories of some of these people.

Trains Women

"Everyone loves to be useful to her community," says Mrs. C. D. Henderson of the Claiborne Home Demonstration Club. "When the call came for help in teaching girls enrolled in first year 4-H Club work, I answered the call and took the training and agreed to work as a leader. As a leader, I learned how to get the most out of my sewing machine, how to adjust it and care for it and the use of all of these attachments. I'd never used. In taking the training, I obligated myself to teach at least eight girls in my community how to use the sewing machine. I taught 11 girls.

"These girls learned the working parts of the machine, to thread it and to wind the bobbin. They were taught how to stitch a straight seam. The fact that they learned to sew the first seam gave them confidence in their work and a desire to make something. Some of these girls made an apron and one was entered in the 4-H Achievement Day Contest. The goal of each girl taking the course was to learn to sew so they could sew on mother's sewing machine. Their alertness in grasping and carrying out instructions would have any leader a thrill and a delight.

Twenty-two other Home Demonstration Club members participated in this project with Mrs. Henderson. They had 147 girls in the use of the sewing machine. There is still need for more leaders who will give this service to girls in her community.

Mrs. Octavia Wills, known as Dolly, Caldwell Club member, says, "This year I will complete my eighth year as a club member with the agent. When I joined the Caldwell Club there were many things for me to learn. I had four children, three boys and one girl, and I couldn't sew a stitch. I made up my mind I had to learn to sew. At every meeting we got help with some particular sewing problem. As we progressed, every meeting was a workshop with the Home Demonstration Agent as supervisor. I enrolled with seven other women of the Caldwell Club. This four days workshop was conducted in the home of Mrs. James A. Strickland.

"Machines were brought by women and a cooperating machine company. Each woman selected her pattern, cut and completed a dress under the direct supervision of the agent. I took advantage of every opportunity during the following years to learn more about sewing as it was brought to our club. My training and perseverance has been of great value as I have kept a record of garments made for my daughter, who entered Louisiana Tech in September, myself and my grand-daughter. I have compared the cost with prices of similar ready-made garments which is as follows: cost of 29 garments made for the three was $135.00; cost of similar ready made garments was $504, or a saving of $298. I've saved hundreds of dollars by learning to sew."

Family Food Budget

Mrs. James Pender, a Bosco club member, planned her family food needs according to the budget requirements recommended by the Extension. "Year plan, then plan," says Mrs. Pender, "should be done before your planting. For my family of five I fix 205 jars of canned products, fruits, vegetables, pickles, preserves, etc. In my home freezer, I have 211 pounds of frozen fruits and vegetables. Three hogs were butchered but only the choice cuts were put in the freezer. We made 150 pounds of lard and some of this was sold for labor. Each year a beef is put into the freezer. Twenty-five chickens were put in the freezer, but since we keep a flock, I use more fresh ones. We keep a flock of 100 laying hens to provide eggs and sell the surplus of eggs." A year round garden and milk supply is also a must in this family, according to Mrs. Pender.

House Remodeling

Mrs. Earl Garland of the Eureka Club, upon request was given assistance on remodeling her home. A floor plan was made to meet the family needs. In the added floor space a U kitchen with express panelling was planned including space for the washing machine. An adjoining eating area of 12 square feet was also included in the kitchen area, which also serves as a study center. Some walls were removed and some replaced in the present house to provide a large living room, three bed rooms, a bath room which is made accessible by a small planned hall. The present house had no clothes closets, so one per bedroom was planned. One of the interesting features of the remodeled home is the living room picture. It is just cut from the Garland farm.

WOOD FILLER REQUIRED

In order to maintain a perfectly smooth surface, easy-to-work woods such as oak, or mahogany, requires a filler, regardless of what the final finish is to be. The filler usually is applied directly to the raw wood.

PROTECT CHALK DRAWINGS

The youngster who makes chalk drawings may decide only a few hours after he has done it that it is not a work of art. And it requires little effort to prove them permanently. Lightly dust the drawing with fixative, finely and carefully with a very thin solution of pure white shellac. The drawing should be left with uncovered, permitting easier mounting.

HOME LIFE EXPECTANCY

The Federal Housing Administration estimates that homes in the $15,000 to $25,000 price range should provide satisfactory living for at least two generations. The FHA estimate was based on normal upkeep and modernization.

ALWAYS THIN SHELLAC

Shellac is a basic, natural commodity which has a wide variety of uses. It's also easy to apply. But many persons needlessly invite trouble by applying it full strength. You're wasting money and creating problems for yourself by doing this. For virtually all work, shellac should be thinned with a high quality denatured alcohol. Don't use anti-freeze as a thinner.

IMPERIAL CANDLE TREE—An unusual plant which delicate flowers on upright stalks, this "candle tree" graces the lawn of Mrs. Minnie Baughton, 900 North Second street.

THE HOME SHIFT

Candle Trees To Be Here By Next Spring

By Mildred Swift

I'm sure you're happy to see the picture of the "much-talked about" Imperial Candle tree. This is in the side yard of Mrs. Minnie Baughton, 900 North Second Street. A number of people have offered botanical names. I am writing our yard specialist for her opinion on the and will tell you later. Just one thing — don't rush out and buy plants now. Our gardening will be correct for plant through the winter, but there is an exception to the rule and it certainly not be depended on. You can't buy plants in October to put out spring. Even Boston candles were gorgeous with their blooming trees two weeks ago. Their weather is warmer than ours and they can probably carry them through the winter.

Chrysanthemums

Dr. Pauls, from Hammond, Louisiana, lectured to the Monroe Garden Club Monday. His subject — Chrysanthemums. He said to pass garment via ear [illegible] different parts of the state some called Shoo Fly. A plot six by ten feet will grow six to eight dozen blooms, if they're well cared for.

It is advisable to raise the beds for mums. The soil must be well drained, must contain plenty of organic matter and plants need plenty of sun. Soil may be either alkaline or acid but avoid either extreme. Start with healthy cuttings from middle of May to June 15th, cutting each plant space of ten inches by ten inches. Get rooted plants.

Make first pruning pinch when plant is about six inches high — pinch terminal leaf bud. The other pruning depends on size flowers you wish to grow.

Avoid over fertilization as your plants will get indigestion. Some bone meal in the soil is excellent. Top dress every four weeks with complete fertilizer and water down well.

Use a good fungicide before your plants become diseased. Watch for aphids and thrips. Poison for cutworms, especially at planting time. For best flowers, cover one month before blooming time. Build light frame and cover with thin muslin or cheese cloth. He especially recommended bronze, yellow, white and pink for the trees, as well as other large varieties.

Food in the News

Potatoes can be glamorous if you change your serving styles from day to day to keep meals from getting monotonous. A larger than average crop of potatoes is now reaching the market, so revise some potato recipes you've neglected lately and find some new ones. Remember the potato has few colories, it's what you add that adds up. Potatoes are a wonderful energy food and one homemaker says she served potatoes at her table for one month without once duplicating her recipe.

Lettuce Substitutes

Who is it that doesn't like wilted lettuce salad in the spring when the green garden lettuce comes in? Endive and escarole now is in the markets, substitute well for the green lettuce. Both are refreshing and most decorative. As with lettuce, these greens don't bulge the waistline. These greens are favored mostly for their crispness, but they do have some vitamin A. We need that vitamin now to guard against infections and colds. Also, lettuce offers some vitamin C, B vitamins, calcium and iron. The roughage it furnishes is important to proper elimination.

If your lettuce gets freckled after you put it in the refrigerator, the temperature is too high. Lower this but do not freeze.

Jes Talkin'

Jean Cloy, home demonstration agent in Jackson parish gives us this suggestion: If your orlon, nylon or cotton sweater has "pilled" up after washing — shave it. Yes! use a safety razor with a dull blade and give it a shave. Works! I tried it.

Jean, also, says if a label says "Drip Dry" it means exactly that. No wringing or squeezing, please, just hang the garment up while soaking wet and let it "drip dry." After the bulk of the water has dropped off, you may want to straighten the garment along seams and hems.

The new leather gloves are guaranteed washable, but follow the instructions given you by the clerk. On most gloves you'll find the washing instructions on the label.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Revised Handbook Now Being Prinied

By Mary M. Jardine

There has been so much demand for the new revised Handbook for Flower Shows National Council of State Garden Clubs that a second printing has now gone to press and they will be available the end of October. This new handbook is a must for all accredited and student judges and for every club president. There have been many changes and it is vitally necessary for us to use the new handbook if we are to stage Standard Flower shows as outlined by National Council. Orders may be placed with the Garden Center.

The one man show by John A. Wright of Louisiana Tech attracted many visitors to the Garden Center this week. Mr. Wright illustrated the effective combination of fresh and dried plant material and emphasized the use of bold foliages with available fall flowers from our gardens.

A modern free - form black container was featured in the first design. Two branches of loquat with their panicles of creamy beige blooms established the triangular pattern. Spiky blooms of purple sage were used for reinforcing lines. The center of interest was a large purple magnolia nitra with self foliage for a background. The chartreuse background was a perfect setting for the textured green foliage used in this design.

A black Cash - Po was selected for a composition featuring fresh and dried plant material. The container was black in color and oval in shape. An oval cup type needle point holder was used. The design was arranged out of the bowl and when completed, placed in the bowl. Incidentally, the needle-point holder was a perfect fit. We pass this information along because it is easier, especially when working with heavy materials to place the material more securely into the holder when working on a firm surface. The background placement was a beige palm spathe. Intermediate linear material was golden yellow plume type celosia. Smaller branches of the yellow celosia were tied together and placed low in the background. Ginger lily leaves and two banana blooms completed the vertical pattern. A small cluster of green bananas was placed low with loquat foliage over the rim of the container.

The next design, modern in feeling, was primarily vertical, but large and bold enough at the base to be triangular. Vertical lines were obtained with trimmed banana leaves, placed back to front to emphasize the bold red - violet midrib. Brilliant orange crested celosia with red - violet centers (aren't nature's colors wonderful?) followed the vertical line. The three placements were graduated in size. To soften the bold forms of celosia, coleus in orange tones with green edges was placed on either side. Ginger lily foliage strengthened the background line. This would look well for an entrance hall table against a gray or soft green background.

Walkway Convenient, Attractive In Garden

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In the parts of the garden where you go back and forth a great deal to see the flowers and work in the soil, nothing is more valuable than a good paved walk. You can use almost any kind of paving to good advantage. Bricks, with or without mortar are pleasing, flagstones with mortar or with soil between them or even "cement" — all of these are good surface material. In wet weather you can enjoy even a tiny garden to the fullest if you do not have to get your feet wet or muddy when you go there to cut flowers or to weed. And weeding is the best when the beds are wet.

It is a mistake to make any garden walk too narrow. The flowers and plants are most beautiful when they spill over the edges, so be sure to allow for this. An extra foot on each side is not too much space for plants to fall over the edges. If you have this room for them, you will not have to be constantly clipping them back and restraining them in order to get through the paths. In narrow paths, you will get your legs wet from the plants after rains. Another advantage of wide paths is in the beauty of really ample looking pathways. The pathways, themselves, constitute a beautiful part of any garden.

Some of the spilly types of plants like santolina seem to last better in gardens where they lie on pavement or stones or bricks instead of on soil. The soil seems to rot santolina in wet seasons. Incidentally, do not be afraid to clip santolina back at least once in a season. Otherwise, it will usually get leggy and rot down inside.

You can hardly put santolina in too hot and dry a place. A dry bank or in the corner of steps and walls, a dry wall, the edge of the top of a wall where the plant can spill over in the sun — all these places are more or less permanent spots for this low evergreen plant. Sometimes people seem to think that it should survive in poor soil. It does not demand a very rich soil, but santolina can starve to death or just sit still and fail to grow because of too poor soil.

In laying your garden paths, be sure to raise them slightly in the middle or to slope them just enough to make the water run off immediately. Nothing is worse than puddles here and there. In winter, even small puddles will become dangerous ice. If sand or a soil and sand mixture is used between paving stones or bricks, be sure that water can get away from the walk quickly. If it cannot, such walks can hold water because the surrounding clay does not allow it to run away.

Three Designers Share Honors In Fashion Awards

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Voted tops in American fashion this year are three designers who shared honors in the full-dress presentation of the Coty American Fashion Critics' Award at the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

Sydney Wragge, designer of ready-to-wear sports clothes and separates, and Miss Leslie Morris, custom designer for a New York specialty shop, each received "Winnie" trophies, while a special award of a silver plaque was made to Emeric Imre Partos, Hungarian-born fur designer.

As winners were announced by Eugenia Sheppard, women's editor of the New York Herald Tribune, the awards were presented by Grover A. Whalen, representing Coty, climaxing a fashion show of selected garments from previous award winners of the last 15 years before an audience of 700 invited guests.

Wragge, big, bluff and ruddy, looks more like a sportsman than a designer, and spends most of his spare time either sailing or golfing. A former men's shirt-maker, he started designing first shirts, then skirts for women, and continued to his present eminence.

Miss Morris is a Philadelphia socialite, wife of Ira Jewell Williams, Jr., and a designer of made-to-order clothes for one of New York's top bracket shops.

Special award winner Partos was born in Hungary, fought with the French army during the war and afterward worked with the French underground, working in the salon of Christian Dior after the liberation, before coming to New York.

Household Hints

By UNITED PRESS

Bake meringues on a foil-lined cookie sheet. They won't stick or break and the foil can be peeled off after the meringues are done.

Home economists at Colorado State University suggest this method for drying children's snowsuits in the automatic dryer. Dry for 10 minutes at warm setting, then turn the garment inside out and repeat. Take the suit out of the dryer and place on a hanger to finish.

Plastic upholstery is more durable if fabric - backed or on an elastic base. Unsupported it is easy to puncture and break.

Use finely granulated sugar for best results in cake baking. If the sugar is lumpy, sift before using.

When the label, "Do not wring" appears on a garment, follow its advice. This also means do not spin in an automatic washer.

EMILY POST

Telephone Courtesy Of Executive Is Important

The rudest telephone behavior and at the same time the most difficult to adjust is that of the business executive who, having several telephones on his desk, tells his secretary to call Mrs. Jones for him. And then when Mrs. Jones answers she is told, "hold the wire, please, Mr. Brown is talking on another wire." This means that she is expected to wait until he finishes. (How many Mrs. Joneses patiently hold it and how many hang up, I don't know!)

The rule of courtesy is this: While Mr. Brown waits for Mrs. Jones to reply, he may not answer another's call. If a call on a second wire comes in, the secretary picks the receiver up in her other hand and replies, "Mr. Brown is talking on another telephone just now. Will you wait or shall he call you?" Until Mrs. Jones' wire answers, Mr. Brown must not reply to Telephone 2. In other words, the call Mr. Brown has put in must be given "right of way."

For practically all home telephones, "Hello" and good-bye" are best, because they are the accepted forms. When a maid or butler answers the telephone she (or he) should announce, "Mrs. Brown's house" or "apartment." ("Residence" is not in best taste.)

A question often asked is this: When one lady telephones another who is a social acquaintance whom she does not call by her first name, should she say, "This is Mrs. James Smith," or "This is Mary Smith"? In answer, the use of titles is characteristic of business; the omission of titles is characteristic of the social world. However, an older lady (or gentleman) announcing her (or him) self to one who is much younger says, "This is Mrs. Elder (or Mr. Elder- or Miss Spinster." A younger one — or one telephoning to someone approximately her own age says, "This is Marie Manners" whether married or single. In fact, she makes this same announcement to everyone whom she knows socially, whether that person calls her Marie or Mrs. Manners. (The phrase "This is" is more impersonal and therefore less pompous than saying, "I am Mrs . . .")

When you have a visitor and the telephone rings, you must explain to one who wants to talk at any length, that you have company just now and that you will call back later.

When you have a visitor and the telephone is not answered immediately, it is fair not to wait long enough for that person to come from a reasonable distance to the telephone. In other words, she might be obliged to lay aside what she is doing merely to answer a dead telephone.

A custom that is satisfactory to few of us is that of letting a too - young child answer the telephone. A lot of time is wasted trying to make the child understand a message and bring an answer that leaves you in no doubt as to its mother's meaning. If there is a long silence, there is no way of knowing whether the child is hunting for Mother, or playing with a friend or his dog, quite forgetful of the telephone which, being off the hook, can no longer ring.

If you are on a party line, it is very rude not to space your calls so that others on the line may have a fair chance to use their telephone. If you should find the line in use, you hang up for three minutes before dialing again. In an emergency it is permissible to break in on a conversation and call out clearly: "Emergency!"

Inexcusable behavior is that of eavesdropping (either on a party wire or on a house extension). The parent who does this to hear what a daughter or son is saying to a friend is just as bad as one who opens a sons' or daughters' letter. As we know, every well-bred person instinctively leaves a room to avoid overhearing a conversation that is apparently private.

A situation that can be very annoying — and not always easy to overcome — is the practice of the neighbors who have no telephone of their own to make use of the Brown's, and ask them to send for whoever it is. Someone at the Brown's house is obliged to leave whatever she (or he) is doing and go out and walk whatever the distance may be, to tell Mollie or Lizzie or Henry that someone wants them on the telephone. In an emergency, th Browns do not object, but to make a practice of this is an imposition.

HD Work Is Training For Women Leaders

By Euna Spielman

The job of any extension worker is to help people help themselves. We are grateful to the Morning World and its fine worker, Marion Gray, for giving us an opportunity of showing you a few of the people Extension helped who have definitely helped themselves. Thank you again, Marion Gray and John Oldenburg for the happy manner, the interest and appreciation you showed when you visited the homes of these people and made the pictures used on the front page of the paper today. This article is the record and stories of some of these people.

Trains Women

"Everyone loves to be useful to her community," says Mrs. C. D. Henderson of the Claiborne Home Demonstration Club. "When the call came for help in teaching girls enrolled in first year 4-H Club work, I answered the call and took the training and agreed to work as a leader. As a leader, I learned how to get the most out of my sewing machine, how to adjust and care for it and the use of all of those attachments I'd never used. In taking this training, I obligated myself to teach at least eight girls in my community how to use the sewing machine. I taught 11 girls.

"These girls learned the working parts of the machine, to thread it and to wind the bobbin. They were taught how to stitch a straight seam. The fact that they learned to sew the first seam gave them confidence in their work and a desire to make something. Some of these girls made an apron and one was entered in the 4-H Achievement Day Contest. The goal of each girl taking the course was to learn to sew so they could sew on mother's sewing machine. Their alertness in grasping and carrying out instructions would give any leader a thrill as it did me."

Girls taking this training with Mrs. Henderson are Diana Stephens, Helen Holland, Barbara Ann Gewin, Sandra Bowling, Janet Nash, Janice Flowers, and Ginger Jordan.

Twenty-two other Home Demonstration Club members participated in this project with Mrs. Henderson. These leaders have trained 127 girls in the use of the sewing machine. There is still need for more leaders who will give this service to girls in her community.

Mrs. Cleburne White (known as Dell), Cadeville clubmember's story said, "This year I will complete my eighth year as a club member with the agent. When I joined the Cadeville Club there was so much for me to learn. I had four children, three boys and one girl, and I couldn't sew a straight seam. I made up my mind I had to learn to sew. An opportunity to get help was offered through a simple sewing workshop with the Home Demonstration Agent as supervisor. I enrolled with seven other women of the Cadeville Club. This four days workshop was conducted in the home of Mrs James A. Sturdivant.

"Machines were brought by women and a cooperating machine company. Each woman altered her pattern, cut and completed a dress under the direct supervision of the agent. I took advantage of every opportunity during the following years to learn more about sewing as it was brought to our club. My training and perserverance has been of great value as I have kept a record of garments made for my daughter, who entered Louisiana Tech in September, myself and my grand-daughter. I have compared the cost with prices of similar ready-made garments which is as follows: cost of 39 garments made for the three was $136.00; cost of similar ready made garments was $404, or a saving of $268. I've saved hundreds of dollars by learning to sew."

Family Food Budget

Mrs. James Pender, a Bosco club member, planned her family food needs according to the budget requirements recommended by the Extension. "Your planning," says Mrs. Pender, "should be done before your planting. For my family of five I have 206 jars of canned products, fruits, vegetables, pickles, preserves, etc. In my home freezer, I have 211 pounds of frozen fruits, and vegetables. Three hogs were butchered but only the choice cuts were put in the freezer. We made 150 pounds of lard and some of this was sold for labor. Each year a beef is put into the freezer. Twenty-five chickens were put in the freezer, but since we keep a flock, I use more fresh ones. We keep a flock of 100 laying hens to provide eggs and sell the surplus of eggs." A year round garden and milk supply is also a must in this family, according to Mrs. Pender.

House Remodeling

Mrs. Earl Garland of the Eureka Club, upon request was given assistance on remodeling her home. A floor plan was made to meet the family needs. In the added floor space a U kitchen with cypress panelling was planned including space for the washing machine. An adjoining eating area of 12 square feet was also included in the kitchen area, which also serves as a study center. Some walls were removed and some replaced in the present house to provide a larger living room, three bed rooms, a bath room which is made accessible by a small planned hall. The present house had no clothes closets, so one per bedroom was planned. One of the interesting features of the remodeled home is the living room paneling. It is bay cut from the Garland farm.

WOOD FILLER REQUIRED

In order to guarantee a perfectly smooth surface, open grain wood (such as oak, or mahogany) requires a filler, regardless of what the final finish is to be. The filler usually is applied directly to the raw wood.

PROTECT CHALK DRAWINGS

The youngster who makes chalk drawings may develop into a serious artist later in life. And it requires little effort to preserve them permanently. Lightly dust the drawing; then paint it lightly and carefully with a very thin solution of pure white shellac. The drawing paper also will become stiffer, permitting easier mounting.

ALWAYS THIN SHELLAC

Shellac is a basic, natural commodity which has a wide variety of uses. It's also easy to apply. But many persons needlessly invite trouble by applying it full strength. You're wasting money and creating problems for yourself by doing this. For virtually all work, shellac should be thinned with a high quality denatured alcohol. Don't use anti-freeze as a thinner.

HOME LIFE EXPECTANCY

The Federal Housing Administration estimates that homes in the $15,000 to $25,000 price range should provide satisfactory living for at least two generations. The FHA estimate was based on normal upkeep and modernization.

IMPERIAL CANDLE TREE—An unusual plant which delicate flowers on upright stalks, this "candle tree" graces the lawn of Mrs. Minnie Baughton, 900 North Second street.

THE HOME SHIFT

Candle Trees To Be Here By Next Spring

By Mildred Swift

I'm sure you're happy to see the picture of this "much - talked-about" Imperial Candle tree. This is in the side yard at Mrs. Minnie Baughton, 900 North Second Street. A number of people have offered botanical names. I am writing our garden specialist for her opinion on this and will tell you later. Just one thing — don't rush out and buy plants now. One gardener said she carried her plant through the winter, but this is an exception to the rule and can certainly not be depended on. You can buy plants in Ouachita parish next spring. Baton Rouge gardens were gorgeous with these blooming trees two weeks ago. Their weather is warmer than ours and they can probably carry them through the winter.

Chrysanthemums

Dr. Pulls, from Hammond, Louisiana, lectured to the Monroe Garden Club Monday. His subject —chrysanthemums. He said in part: different varieties thrive in different parts of the state; some cannot stand heat. A plot six by ten feet will grow six to eight dozen mums, if they're well cared for.

It is advisable to raise the beds for mums. The soil must be well drained, must contain plenty of organic matter and plants need plenty of sun. Soil may be either alkaline or acid but avoid either extreme. Start with healthy cuttings from middle of May to June 10th, giving each plant space of ten inches by ten inches. Get reliable plants.

Make first pruning pinch when plant is about six inches high — pinch terminal leaf bud. The other pruning depends on size flowers you wish to grow.

Avoid over fertilization as your plants will get indigestion. Some bone meal in the soil is excellent. Top dress every four weeks with complete fertilizer and water down well.

Use a good fungicide before your plants become diseased. Watch for aphids and thrips. Poison for cutworms, especially at planting time. For best flowers, cover one month before blooming time. Build light frame and cover with thin muslin or cheese cloth. He especially recommended bronze, yellow, white and pink Dot for this area, as well as other large varieties.

Food in the News

Potatoes can be glamorous if you change your serving styles from day to day to keep meals from getting monotonous. A larger than average crop of potatoes is now reaching the market, so revise some potato recipes you've neglected lately and find some new ones. Remember the potato has few calories, it's what you add that adds up. Potatoes are a wonderful energy food and one homemaker says she served potatoes at her table for one month without once duplicating her recipe.

Lettuce Substitutes

Who is it that doesn't like wilted lettuce salad in the spring when the green garden lettuce comes in? Endive and escarole now is in the markets, substitute well for the green lettuce. Both are refreshing and most decorative. As with lettuce, these greens don't bulge the waistline. These greens are favored mostly for their crispness, but they do have some vitamin A. We need that vitamin now to guard against infections and colds. Also, lettuce offers some vitamin C, B vitamins, calcium and iron. The roughage it furnishes is important to proper elimination.

If your lettuce gets freckled after you put it in the refrigerator, the temperature is too high. Lower this but do not freeze.

Jes Talkin'

Jean Cloy, home demonstration agent in Jackson parish gives us this suggestion: If your orlon, nylon or cotton sweater has "pilled" up after washing — shave it. Yes! use a safety razor with a dull blade and give it a shave. Works! I tried it.

Jean, also, says if a label says "Drip Dry" it means exactly that. No wringing or squeezing, please, just hang the garment up while soaking wet and let it "drip dry." After the bulk of the water has dropped off, you may want to straighten the garment along seams and hems.

The new leather gloves are guaranteed washable, but follow the instructions given you by the clerk. On most gloves you'll find the washing instructions on the label.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Revised Handbook Now Being Printed

By Mary M. Jardine

There has been so much demand for the new revised Handbook for Flower Shows (National Council of State Garden Clubs) that a second printing has now gone to press and they will be available the end of October. This new handbook is a must for all accredited and student judges and for every club president. There have been many changes and it is vitally necessary for us to use the new handbook if we are to stage Standard Flower shows as outlined by National Council. Orders may be placed with the Garden Center.

The one man show by John A. Wright of Louisiana Tech attracted many visitors to the Garden Center this week. Mr. wright illustrated the effective combination of fresh and dried plant material and emphasized the use of bold foliages with available fall flowers from our gardens.

A modern free - form black container was featured in the first design. Two branches of loquat with their panicles of creamy beige blooms established the triangular pattern. Spiky blooms of purple sage were used for reinforcing lines. The center of interest was a large purple magnolia nigra with self foliage for a background. The chartreuse background was a perfect setting for the textured green foliage used in this design.

A black Cash - Po was selected for a composition featuring fresh and dried plant material. The container was black in color and oval in shape. An oval cup type needle point holder was used. The design was arranged out of the bowl and when completed, placed in the bowl. Incidentally, the needlepoint holder was a perfect fit. We pass this information along because it is easier, especially when working with heavy materials to place the material more securely into the holder when working on a firm surface. The background placement was a beige palm spathe. Intermediate linear material was golden yellow plume type celosia. Smaller branches of the yellow celosia were tied together and placed low in the background. Ginger lily leaves and two banana blooms completed the vertical pattern. A small cluster of green bananas was placed low with loquat foliage over the rim of the container.

The next design, modern in feeling, was primarily vertical, but large and bold enough at the base to be triangular. Vertical lines were obtained with trimmed banana leaves, placed back to front to emphasize the bold red - violet midrib. Brilliant orange crested celosia with red - violet centers (aren't nature's colors wonderful?) followed the vertical line. The three placements were graduated in size. To soften the bold forms of celosia, coleus in orange tones with green edges was placed on either side. Ginger lily foliage strengthened the background line. This would look well for an entrance hall table against a gray or soft green background.

FR. LEE STEVENS

Fr. Lee Stevens To Hold Prayer School At Grace

A school of prayer for adults will be held at Grace Church, North Fourth and Glenmar Streets, Monroe, Tuesday and Wednesday, [illegible] 7:30 p.m. each day. The public is invited to attend.

The school will be conducted by the Rev. Lee Stevens, of the Order of the Holy Cross. The Order of the Holy Cross is an Episcopal Church Father Stevens is presently stationed at St. Michael's Monastery on Saint Andrew's School, Saint Andrews, Tennessee.

The aim of these schools is to lay a solid foundation for a wholesome, sound, personal prayer life. Father Stevens and the other members of the Order of the Holy Cross are [illegible] to conduct such schools. The members of Grace Church and [illegible] that all those of the Community who are interested in learning to take advantage of [illegible] pray and attend [illegible] School of Prayer.

Father Stevens, a monk in the Episcopal Order of the Holy Cross, has had an interesting sequence of experience in outwardly unrelated fields. All of it, however, singularly fits him for his life call as a missioner since it centered largely around teaching and personal guidance. Before entering the Order of the Holy Cross in 1947 Father Stevens [illegible] had ranged the country from U. S. naval chaplain on the U. S. S. Nautilus which participated in the Pacific to several positions in the 1930s in the professional theatre, as both actor and director.

Along his way from the stage to the monastery, Fr. Stevens taught English, Problems in public speaking and directed dramatics at Hebron Academy, a boys preparatory school in Maine. He is a graduate cum laude of Bates College in Maine with a degree in Bachelor of Arts and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He did graduate work at the Harvard Graduate School of English and at the Episcopal Theological Seminary in New York City, culminating with the degree of sacred theology.

He served in parishes in Maine, St. Mary's St. John and St. James in Northeast Harbor and Christ Church in Eastport. In 1947 Father Stevens entered the Order of the Holy Cross as a novice and on the 25th of November, 1951, took his life vows. He returned in July, 1952, from a six months assignment at Mount Calvary Monastery in Santa Barbara, California, to his present station at Saint Michael's Monastery near Sewanee, Tennessee. Saint Michael's is located at Saint Andrew's School for Boys, which is owned and operated by the Order of the Holy Cross.

W. F. Beyer, Jr., Layman Speaker For Methodists

Dr. G. W. Pomeroy, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Monroe, announces that Laymen's Day will be observed in this church Sunday. In this connection it has been made possible to secure Dr. William F. Beyer, Jr., as the speaker who will deliver the sermon at the morning service hour.

Dr. Beyer is known for his past church work which has been ripe with achievements.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Beyer, Sr., he was born in Lake Charles June 14, 1921. His parents still reside in Lake Charles and his only sister, Mrs. R. S. Williams is a resident of Baton Rouge.

He is a graduate of Louisiana State University, class of 1947, where he was the recipient of numerous honors. He was named as outstanding man in the senior class and he was member of Phi Kappa Phi, Kappa Delta Pi and Kappa Phi Kappa, national honor society in education.

He received his Master of Arts degree at L. S. U. in 1948 and his Doctor's degree from the same university in 1952.

He has had an unusually extensive experience which included three years in the U. S. Air Force and a wide career as instructor in L. S. U. He taught classes in Social Science, trained teachers in Science and Mathematics; was director of 12-grade school which trained teachers; was state supervisor of Special Education of the Louisiana State Department of Education and administered a program for the education of exceptional children; supervised the reimbursement of parish funds to parish school boards and many other activities.

He has served as faculty member Department of Education at Northwestern State College and has taught graduate classes in educational administration. He has been faculty adviser for Kappa Delta Pi and has done independent research work in educational administration.

M'Guire Church Plans Laymen's Day Program

This coming Sunday will be Layman's Day in McGuire Methodist Church, with laymen being in complete charge of the morning worship service, at 10:55. Guest lay speaker will be Mr. William Baker, Winnsboro, president Petroleum and agriculturist in Franklin parish.

Local laymen assisting Mr. Baker in this service will be Mr. Carey Cheek, presiding chairman of the service, Mr. J. Horace McCain reading the Holy Scripture and Mr. Dalton Taylor, leading in the morning prayer. Many of the other men of the church will be assisting with the music as regular members of the choir, which this Sunday will be under the direction of Mr. Jack Dew.

In the evening worship service at 7 o'clock the pastor, Don Winslow, will speak on the theme, "You Must Be Part of The Answer." The Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6 p.m., with Sue Taylor as president. At the church service which follows the choir composed of members of the MYF will bring special music.

A quiet day service, in observance of the Week of Prayer and Self - Denial, will be held in the McGuire Methodist Church on Tuesday, October 22, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Theme of the service is, "If With All Your Hearts Ye Truly Seek Me."

Mrs. Dana Dawson, the wife of Bishop Dawson, is the author of the meditations to be used. All women of the community are invited to participate in the service of prayer and meditation. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon in the Fellowship Hall.

The afternoon service is expected to conclude about 2 p.m.

1st Christian Church Plans Laymen's Day

In cooperation with many communities, the First Christian Church, St. John and Oak Streets, Monroe will observe "Laymen's Day" Sunday. The local Christian Men's Fellowship will conduct the entire services. The speaker will be Mr. Jack Sutton, who is National Field Work Director for the Department of Men's Work in the United Christian Missionary Society. Mr. Sutton is a nationally known leader in men's work and is a speaker of outstanding ability. The local church feels fortunate to have a man of such ability as the speaker for this occasion. On Sunday evening, from 6:00 until 8:00 o'clock, the third session of the School of Christian living will be held.

On Monday at 7:00 p.m., the Christian Men's Fellowship will hold a dinner meeting in the social hall of the church. Jack Sutton will be the speaker.

TO SPEAK — Jack A. Sutton, Jr., will speak today at the St. John's Christian Church at 9 a.m. and at the First Christian Church at 10:50 a.m. Monday he will speak at, 7 p.m. at the First Christian Church at a joint meeting of the Christian Men's Fellowships of the two churches.

Men's Group To Take Charge At St. John's Today

FR. LEE STEVENS

Fr. Lee Stevens To Hold Prayer School At Grace

A school of prayer for adults will be held at Grace Church, North Fourth and Glenmar Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights this week, at 7:30 p. m. The public is welcome. Also there will be a special school for children. The first session is set for Sunday at 4:15 p. m. in the church. The three week day sessions will be on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, immediately after school, at 3:15 p. m. Ages 8 to 12 will be especially desired.

Medals will be awarded to children with perfect attendance.

If younger children are with their parents they will be welcome.

The schools will be conducted by the Rev. Lee Stevens, of the Order of the Holy cross. The Order of the Holy Cross is a religious order for men in the Episcopal Church. Father Stevens is presently stationed at Saint Michael's Monastery at Saint Andrew's School, Saint Andrew's, Tennessee.

The aim of these schools is to lay a solid foundation for a wholesome, sound, personal prayer life. Father Stevens and the other members of the Order of the Holy Cross are especially trained to conduct such schools. The members of Grace Church are hopeful that all those of our community who are interested in prayer will take advantage of this opportunity and attend and share in the School of Prayer.

Father Stevens, a monk in the Episcopal Order of the Holy Cross, has had an interesting sequence of experience in outwardly unrelated fields. All of it, however, singularly fits him for his life call as a missioner since it centered largely around teaching and personal guidance. Before entering the Order of the Holy Cross in 1947 Father Stevens' activities had ranged the gamut from U. S. naval chaplain on the U. S. S. Xanthus which operated in the Pacific to several seasons in the late 1930s in the professional theatre as both actor and director.

Along his way from the stage to the monastery, Fr. Stevens taught English, French, music, public speaking and directed debating at Hebron Academy, a boys preparatory school in Maine. He is a graduate cum laude of Bates College in Maine with a degree of bachelor of arts and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He did graduate work at the Harvard Graduate School of English; studied three years at the General Theological Seminary in New York City, graduating with the degree of sacred theology.

He served in parishes in Maine; St. Mary's, St. Jude, and St. James in Northeast Harbor and Christ Church in Eastport. In 1947 Father Stevens entered the Order of the Holy Cross as a novice and on the 25th of November, 1951, took his life vows. He returned in July, 1952, from a six months assignment at Mount Calvary Monastery in Santa Barbara, California, to his present station at Saint Michael's Monastery near Sewanee, Tennessee. Saint Michael's is located at Saint Andrew's School for Boys, which is owned and operated by the Order of the Holy Cross.

Officers of the CMF of the St. John's Christian Church are: Dr. D. L. Anderson, president; Marley Ping, vice-president; D. H. Rainwater, secretary - treasurer; J. R. Hood, chairman of program; Lloyd Church, chairman of membership; Cecil Massey, chairman of projects.

Memorial Church To Have Revival

The Memorial Methodist church of Monroe will hold a series of nightly revival services starting October 27, and ending November 2. The Rev. W. D. Boddie, widely known hereabouts as pastor of the First Methodist Church in Rayville, will be the evangelist.

Unusually elaborate preparations are being made for this week of stirring services to which the public is cordially invited.

REV. PAUL KALB

Woodlawn Church, Rayville, To Hold Revival

The Woodlawn Baptist Church in Rayville plans a revival from October 20-27.

The leader will be the Rev. Paul Kolb who is a missionary to the Richland-Deer Creek association.

He will be assisted in these services by the Rev. Wilburn Taylor, pastor of Holly Ridge Baptist church who will direct the music for the services.

An invitation is extended to the public. Services well be held nightly at 7:30 o'clock.

FRIEDRICH PRELLER

Divine Power Given Solution World's Woes

Application of God's healing power to the solution of the problems of men and nations will be the theme of a public lecture on Christian Science to be delivered in Brown hall, Northeast State college, Tuesday, Oct. 22 at 8 p.m. The speaker will be Friedrich Preller of Berlin, Germany, member of the Board of Lectureship of Mother Church, the First Church of Christ Scientist in Boston, Mass.

The speaker states his topic specifically as 'Christian Science; the Unfoldment of Divine Power in Human Life." The lecture will be free to the public, and a cordial invitation is being extended to all who are interested.

W. F. Beyer, Jr., Layman Speaker For Methodists

Dr. G. W. Pomeroy, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Monroe, announces that Laymen's Day will be observed in this church Sunday. In this connection it has been made possible to secure Dr. William F. Beyer, Jr., as the leader who will deliver the sermon at the morning service hour.

Dr. Beyer is known for his past church work which has been ripe with achievements.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Beyer, Sr., he was born in Lake Charles June 14, 1921. His parents still reside in Lake Charles and his only sister, Mrs. R. S. Williams is a resident of Baton Rouge.

He is a graduate of Louisiana State University, class of 1947, where he was the recipient of numerous honors. He was named as outstanding man in the senior class and he was member of Phi Kappa Phi, Kappa Delta Pi and Kappa Phi Kappa, national honor society in education.

He received his Master of Arts degree at L. S. U. in 1948 and his Doctor's degree from the same university in 1952.

He has had an unusually extensive experience which included three years in the U. S. Air Force and a wide career as instructor in L. S. U. He taught classes in Social Science, trained teachers in Science and Mathematics; was director of 12-grade school which trained teachers; was state supervisor of Special Education of the Louisiana State Department of Education and administered a program for the education of exceptional children; supervised the reimbursement of parish funds to parish school boards and many other activities.

He has served as faculty member, Department of Education at Northwestern State College and has taught graduate classes in educational administration. He has been faculty advisor for Kappa Delta Pi and has done independent research work in educational administration.

Rev. Austin Watson, of Columbia, Miss., who was with us in revival last year, will be with us for this campaign.

Rev. Watson is a singer and preacher and will be bringing messages in song as well as in sermon.

TO SPEAK — Jack A. Sutton, Jr., will speak today at the St. John's Christian Church at 9 a.m. and at the First Christian Church at 10:50 a.m. Monday he will speak at, 7 p.m. at the First Christian Church at a joint meeting of the Christian Men's Fellowship of the two churches.

1st Christian Church Plans Laymen's Day

In cooperation with many communions, the First Christian Church, St. John and Oak Streets, Monroe will observe "Laymen's Day" Sunday. The local Christian Men's Fellowship will conduct the entire service. The speaker will be Mr. Jack Sutton, who is National Field Work Director for the Department of Men's Work in the United Christian Missionary Society. Mr. Sutton is a nationally known leader in men's work and is a speaker of outstanding ability. The local church feels fortunate to have a man of such ability as the speaker for this occasion. On Sunday evening, from 6:00 until 8:00 o'clock, the third session of the School of Christian living will be held.

On Monday at 7:00 p.m., the Christian Men's Fellowship will hold a dinner meeting in the social hall of the church. Jack Sutton will be the speaker.

Mormon Council Member To Pay Visit To Monroe

Elder Henry D. Moyle, one of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, is presently touring the Gulf States. He will be featured at the Monroe Church Monday at 7:30 p. m.

By training Elder Moyle is an attorney, with credits from the University of Utah, the University of Chicago, Harvard University and the University of Freiberg in Saxony. Until his ordination to the Council of the Twelve in April, 1947, he was active in his profession. He is a member of the American Bar Association. He has also been a leader in western business circles, serving as president of three oil refining companies and a livestock company.

During World War II he was a member of the executive committee of the Petroleum Industry War Council. He is now a member of the National Petroleum Council appointed by the secretary of the interior. He is and for many years has been a director of the American Petroleum Institute.

Elder Moyle will be featured Monday night, October 21, at 7:30 p. m. at the Monroe chapel located at 2300 Lee Avenue. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

M'Guire Church Plans Laymen's Day Program

This coming Sunday will be Layman's Day in McGuire Methodist Church, with laymen being in complete charge of the morning worship service, at 10:55. Guest lay speaker will be Mr. William Baker, Winnsboro, prominent churchmen and architect in Franklin parish.

Local laymen assisting Mr. Baker in this service will be Mr. Carey Cheek, presiding chairman of the service. Mr. J. Horace McCullin reading the Holy Scripture and Mr. Dalton Taylor, leading in the morning prayer. Many of the other men of the church will be assisting with the music as regular members of the choir, which this Sunday will be under the direction of Mr. Jack Dew.

In the evening worship service at 7 o'clock the pastor, Don Wineinger, will speak on the theme, "You Must Be Part of The Answer!" The Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6 p.m., with Sue Taylor as president. At the church service which follows the choir composed of members of the MYF will bring special music.

A quiet day service, in observance of the Week of Prayer and Self - Denial, will be held in the McGuire Methodist Church on Tuesday, October 22, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Theme of the service is, "If With All Your Hearts Ye Truly Seek Me."

Mrs. Dana Dawson, the wife of Bishop Dawson, is the author of the meditations to be used. All women of the community are invited to participate in the service of prayer and meditation. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon in the Fellowship Hall.

The afternoon service is expected to conclude about 2 p.m.

ACTRESS SIGNS AUTOGRAPHS — April Oldrich, English actress who is appearing in the motion picture "Pursuit of the Graf Spee" showing now in Monroe, is shown as she autographs pictures for two Monroe admirers. Miss Aldrich, shown second from left, signs the pictures for Wanda Thatcher, left, Carol Jordan and E. R. Edwards, manager of the Paramount Theatre. (Staff photo by Paul Burks.)

DRAMATIC SCENE—A British officer is entertained by Captain Langdoff aboard the Graf Spee battleship after it had sunk the English ship. The scene is from "The Pursuit of the Graf Spee," the true war time story filmed in Technicolor that opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

'Quantez' Frontier Tale With An Offbeat Sock

With a masterful buildup of tension, conflict and action, "Quantez," Universal - International outdoor thriller in color and CinemaScope co - starring Fred MacMurray, Dorothy Malone and James Barton, dnreeled with explosive impact starts Friday on the screen of the Jim Theatre.

This tale blazes a new trail among films of outdoor melodramatics, for it's not a simple contest among the good guys and the bad guys. The central characters are all bad guys, albeit in varying degree, and although banded together for safety in flight from the law, it is their attempts to double - cross each other that motivate most of the action.

The only character who exhibits any of the nobility with which legend often has invested many frontier bad men is the one played by MacMurray, and he makes that characterization a thoroughly plausible and eventually sympathetic one. This fellow MacMurray, once pretty much a drawing room character, has in recent years developed into one of the foremost of our outdoor stars, a position he cinched in his recent "Gun for a Coward" and now confirms in "Quantez."

The picture marks something of a departure for Miss Malone. The morals of the girl she plays are not much better than those of the girl she portrayed in "Written on the Wind," but her basic character is. The departure is in the setting and costuming. Here Miss Malone does not have a dozen changes of expensive, alluring clothes. She goes through this picture attired in a single pair of blue jeans and a dusty rumpled shirt, and yet she makes it plausible that all of the four men with whom she is fleeing from the law become fiercely jealous of each other because of her.

During the time he is on the screen, James Barton, as a wandering frontier minstrel, dominates the story with that artistry that made him a great stage star before he came to motion pictures. Other topnotch performances are turned in by Sydney Chaplin, as a dour halfbreed with no love for either Indian or white man, John Larch, as the sadistically vicious leader of the outlaw band, and young and handsome John Gavin as a youth who wants to be a badman but really hasn't the stomach for it.

AT JIM THEATRE — Jack Palance shows Barbara Lang the wooden gun he has carved as part of the ingenious plan by which he will enable her husband, his brother, to make a break from San Quentin Prison. The scene is from "The House of Numbers", new M-G-M suspense drama starting at the Jim Theatre Tuesday.

'Pursuit Of The Graf Spee' Opens Today At Paramount

Featured at the Paramount Theatre starting today will be a triple motion picture event combining films from American and England.

The regular featured attraction will be "The Pursuit of the Graf Spee" that brings to the screen in VistaVision and Technicolor the true story of the German battleship that was tops in headline news throughout most of 1939.

In the cast will be Peter Finch as Captain Langsdorff along with John Gregson and Anthony Quayle. Also featured in the cast is Miss April Olrich who appeared in Monroe in person last Friday afternoon. The story covers the adventures of the English and German ships during the early part of the war as the "Graf Spee" was tracked for over four months before being caught.

There will also be an interesting short on "Queen Elizabeth II" in honor of the visit of Her Majesty to America this past week.

Filling out the three-part program will be a special 16½-minute short subject capturing the colorful highlights of the New Orleans finals of the Hollywood Star Hunt that the Paramount in Monroe was part of a few weeks back.

Introducing the Hollywood Star Hunt Finals short is Henry G. Plitt, president of Paramount Gulf Theatres, Inc., originator of the talent search. Each of the nine finalists is shown and the entire presentation of the winner, Miss Anita Wood, of Memphis, is included. Miss Wood, who left for Hollywood last week, sang "Walking After Midnight."

Other participants who are shown in the film include: Portia Swaim, of Memphis, Betty Stout of New Orleans, Edda Kerrines of Slidell, La., Mary Beth Dowdle of Columbus, Miss., Sandra Ruthoske of New Orleans, Patricia Joe Thames of Pensacola, Jean Carter of Shreveport, and Sherry Webster of Mobile.

The music of M-G-M recording star Leon Kelner and his orchestra, as well as a special dance team from the Fred Astaire Dance Studio, are also highlighted in the film.

Concert Pianist To Be Presented In Program Here

Richard Cass, concert pianist, will be the first presentation of Twin City Concerts, it was announced today. Cass will perform Saturday evening, October 26, at 8:15 p.m. in Neville Auditorium.

Since the young southerner won the artists' award of the National Federation of Music Clubs, he has toured Europe, winning two international awards while in the process.

Other attractions of this year's series — open to subscribers only — are Metropolitan Opera soprano, Eleanor Steber, who will appear January 30; and the Chicago Opera Ballet, which is scheduled for February 21.

Membership cards are being mailed now to all persons who enrolled in the organization's recently completed drive, and should reach members before the Saturday concert, Mamie McNeill, secretary of Twin City Concerts, announced.

DRAMATIC SCENE—A British officer is entertained by Captain Langdoff aboard the Graf Spee battleship after it had sunk the English ship. The scene is from "The Pursuit of the Graf Spee," the true war time story filmed in Technicolor that opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

'Quantez' Frontier Tale With An Offbeat Sock

With a masterful buildup of tension, conflict and action, "Quantez," Universal - International outdoor thriller in color and CinemaScope co - starring Fred MacMurray, Dorothy Malone and James Barton, dnreeled with explosive impact starts Friday on the screen of the Jim Theatre.

This tale blazes a new trail among films of outdoor melodramatics, for it's not a simple contest among the good guys and the bad guys. The central characters are all bad guys, albeit in varying degree, and although banded together for safety in flight from the law, it is their attempts to double - cross each other that motivate most of the action.

The only character who exhibits any of the nobility with which legend often has invested many frontier bad men is the one played by MacMurray, and he makes that characterization a thoroughly plausible and eventually sympathetic one. This fellow MacMurray, once pretty much a drawing room character, has in recent years developed into one of the foremost of our outdoor stars, a position he cinched in his recent "Gun for a Coward" and now confirms in "Quantez."

The picture marks something of a departure for Miss Malone. The morals of the girl she plays are not much better than those of the girl she portrayed in "Written on the Wind," but her basic character is. The departure is in the setting and costuming. Monroe Post Office Handles Many Mail Problems

Wide Range Of Parcels, Letters Sent

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

From shipments of small turtles, alligators, and day-old chicks to delivering air-mail special delivery letters at 10 p.m., the Monroe Post Office handles every possible form of mail problem using a blueprinted system which even maps out the exact door-to-door route of the city mailmen.

Located at the corner of Grammont and Jackson streets, the three-story, gray-stone building houses one of the most efficient plans of operation within the city.

"To have a smooth-running, efficient operation, each person's duties are predetermined by a set listing and schedule," explained John S. Daniel, a postal and civil service employe for 23 years.

Over one-million pieces of outgoing mail and nearly two-million of incoming mail go through the Post Office each month, under the supervision of Postmaster Woodrow W. Hathorn.

Most familiar to Post Office patrons are the slots where city, out-of-town, air mail and special delivery letters are depostied.

Behind the Scene

What goes on behind those slots?

Among the 115 postal employes are 39 regular clerks and 10 substitutes. The duty of some of these clerks is to take the deposited letters from their bins and separate them into short and long envelopes on one table.

The "sized" letters are then placed on a cancellation machine, a stack at a time, and the date and hour of mailing, plus the slogan in use at that particular time of year, is printed onto each letter.

As mailmen come in off their routes, they dump all letters collected onto a large table in the center of the mail room, and these are also sized and cancelled.

Then comes the separation of mail according to cities and states. New York, Los Angeles, Houston . . . 210 pigeon holes in six "primary" cases hold the letters temporarily, until they are placed in out-going pouches.

Louisiana Case

"We also have a Louisiana case —and two during peak periods, when one clerk can't separate all the state mail," explained Lehman Fisher, a clerk with 10 years experience in the postal department.

Northbound mail is dispatched first, then west, east, and south-addressed letters are nudged onto their routes.

After the mail is separated according to destination, it is tied on an automatic machine. Less than four seconds is required for the string to swirl around and tie each bunch of letters.

In a semi-circle in the middle of the room are 46 large pouches for letters and 20 for newspapers.

Some pouches are used for two or three different destinations during the day. One is labeled Haile and Alexandria — at 7:30 a.m. mail for Haile is placed in it, then during the afternoon, the Alexandria mail finds a "home" in it for an hour or two.

Other Destinations

"That pouch holds mail for Sikes, early in the morning . . . Bastrop at noon . . . and the train heading from Shreveport to Meridian later in the day," explained Fisher.

Unless you want that Air Mail letter flying to an uncertain finish before it ever nears a plane, just push it gently through the wall slot. Postal workers are not surprised when letters are catapulted through the slots, and instead of landing on the shelf, the little envelope zooms right onto a landing on the floor.

Twelve flights daily speed approximately 175 pounds of airmail on its way — after it is processed by one man, in the same way as overland letters.

In charge of the city carriers, and general movement of mail is John E. Peters, superintendent of mails. Schedules of trains, planes and star routes are under his surveillance. Guy T. Elliot serves as assistant superintendent, and has direct charge of all city, and rural carriers.

Foremen of mails, Jiles N. Davis at night, and George Bruce and James Kincade during the day, are directly in charge of all incoming parcel post — and the receiving, rating and insuring duties.

"In the old days, we had to figure out the amount of postage, and then place several stamps onto a package. Now, we weigh it, then punch out the amount of postage needed on an automatic machine, which prints the total on a plain sticker," John Daniel explained, in describing procedures for sending parcel post packages.

Live Turtles

Meanwhile, a postal clerk weighed a package for a shipment of live turtles — with some boxes heading for San Francisco; Rio Grande City, Texas; Ontario, Oregon and Hackensack, N. J.

While heading toward the "incoming mail" section of the room, Daniel mentioned that postal clerks must also assume the role of "traffic manager" at times.

Clerks, especially the ones working the air mail section, must know the route and fastest way possible to send a letter, and be able to remember the best connections for different times of the day.

Postal employees laugh as they recall the time when a shipment of baby alligators broke loose. "We had horrible - looking eight-inch monsters running around the place," is the general comment on that day.

Used to anything, they are not surprised when a special box, containing a queen honeybee, with her nectar and special attendants, passes through the office.

Several Sections

The "incoming mail" area includes the general delivery section, parcel post, special boxes, directory section and letter pigeon holes.

In general delivery, Francis E. Welch is in charge of mail for transients, and changes of address on magazines and other publications.

Large box - sections in the parcel post area hold boxes too large for the small P. O. boxes rented —and notes are left in the boxes for the receiver to ask for the package.

Ever get a letter with just your name and city written by the sender? It was postal workers, fortified with the city directory, carrier directories, and listings of individual changes of address, who supplied your street address on the envelope, explained Robert E. Ellington, assistant post master.

As the letters arrive for Monroe, they are placed into separate sections for the boxes, city routes and rural routes. Each carrier must then separate his letters according to the block on each street. Twenty - one "foot" routes, four via truck and four parcel post routes exist.

Individual carriers can't deviate from their routes, or even change the order in which they stop at houses, without permission of their superiors.

Locations Known

Although there are 30 square miles of delivery area, the postal foreman knows where each carrier is, including the block and house, at any hour of the day.

Money orders, stamps, COD's, postal savings . . . behind locked doors opened only for the postal workers of that particular section is carried on.

"Anything related to money is handled here," explained Herbert L. Brown, superintendent of the main office window services. Postal receipts for the fiscal year of 1957 came to $549,029.63.

At the back of the building is the receiving and loading platform —point of arrival and departure for train, plane, star route and rural mail.

And on the third floor is the office which insures that the mail service for 50,000 patrons will run smoothly and be safeguarded — the office of Postal Inspector C. W. Cain. Should any claims arise against the Post Office, Woodrow W. Neese, secretary to the superintendent of mails, will handle the paper - work. At the Louisville substation Superintendent Edward F. Hayward is in charge.

Open 24 hours a day, with three shifts of employees, the Monroe post office is considered by postal authorities as one of the best in the region, due to the excellent work of the supervisors and employees.

Earth Wears Curious Halo Of Red, Green Each Night

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

BOULDER, Colo., Oct. 19 (AP)— At night our earth wears a curious green, red and yellow halo.

And it moves, as though swept by hurricane winds of 150 miles per hour.

Rarely can human eyes detect this halo, so faint and filmy it is.

But if our eyes were sensitive enough, one part of the halo would make even the darkest night like mid-twilight — like the time when you need to turn on your car's headlights. Perhaps some animals can see it, and so make their way easily in the dark.

This halo is called airglow, a fascinating mystery now being explored during the International Geophysical Year.

Dr. Franklin E. Roach, astrophysicist and an authority on airglow, is one of the few persons who has seen the belt of colored light floating on the night side of the earth.

"It is filmy bands like the Milky Way, but moving like a cloud," he said. "To see it, you need a very dark night and must let your eyes become accustomed to the dark. Then you may catch glimpses of it by looking out of the sides of your eyes."

Special instruments, photometers, that can measure the intensities of selected wave lengths of light, have brought some knowledge of airglow. Rockets have shot through it with telltale instruments. Presumably there is detected even with instruments.

Now during IGY, scientists of 30 nations are cooperating in intensive worldwide studies of the mystery light. Dr. Roach, a consultant at the Boulder Laboratories of the National Bureau of Standards, heads a center collecting findings charted around the globe.

One is a band of green light, existing at about 60 miles up. At 96 miles up, there is a red glow. Yellow ligh' comes from the air about 50 miles up. Below it is a layer of complex radiations, in the infrared range which our human eyes cannot see.

"But were our eyes sensitive to this infrared radition, we would have twilight all through a dark clear night. We would never be able to see the Milky Way at all. The whole history of astronomy and our knowledge of the universe would be different," Dr. Roach said.

Both green and red light above come from atoms of oxygen "excited" by sunlight, by streams of electrons from the sun, or by turbulent collisions, or some other forces so they emit light.

The yellow hue stems from sodium atoms also excited so as to emit light. But there are puzzles about the yellow. This light is a dayglow too, but it has not been often as strong as the green airglow. Yet there are a million million more oxygen atoms than sodium atoms in the atmosphere. Why should the yellow light be equally strong? Why does it change with the seasons? It is brightest in the winter, and no one is sure why, or how sodium atoms happen to be 60 miles up in the air anyhow, Dr. Roach continued.

The infrared radiation is due to hydroxyl atoms, created from water vapor. It varies greatly in intensity and movements.

Instruments have detected fairly discrete patches of airglow, moving at apparent speeds of 150 miles an hour.

Perhaps they are actually being swept along by winds of that force, Dr. Roach suggests. The violent winds might even create some of the glow, bashing oxygen atoms together to make them give off light.

The world study may learn if this is so. Airglow might become helpful in weather forecasting, telling us much about high-altitude winds at different times and places. Airglow findings can be compared with IGY discoveries made by rockets sampling winds and motions at great altitudes.

Airglow study stations in IGY are strung around the world in four great chains. Most have photometers which automatically make a slow, full sweep of the sky every four minutes, recording intensities and movements of the colors. From these measurements, world airglow maps of the sky can be prepared here.

$47—MILLION PROJECT

Mississippi River Project One Of Most Ambitious

By R. T. BONNETTE
(Staff Correspondent)

FERRIDAY — Deep in the wooded swampland adjacent to the surging Mississippi, hundreds of men are working busily on one of the most ambitious engineering jobs in modern times — controlling the meandering Mississippi.

The $47-million-dollar, 10 - year job goes by the modest name of Old River Project. However, the scope of the project is so great that it affects the geography and industry of the state of Louisiana.

In brief, the project's aim is to prevent the Atchafalaya River from capturing the Mississippi River, thus making the ports of Baton Rouge and New Orleans useless.

Old River, long before the settling of white men here, was the original channel of the Mississippi. Thus it derives its name. Through the years, the Mississippi cut a new channel to the east of Old River. Now, in order to keep the wheel from turning full circle and the Mississippi from diverting back to its old channel, the protective structure is being built.

There were about 10 or 12 miles between Atchafalaya and the Mississippi and a partial channel has already been marked between the rivers, caused by the overflow of high waters.

Worrisome Problem

The worrisome problem was kicked around in the talking stage by businessmen, politicians, fishermen and just the man on the street for many years. In February 2, 1954, the alarming state of affairs was lifted from the talking stage to the action stage when the Mississippi River Commission and the U. S. army corps of engineers made a report and recommendations.

As a result, the Old River control project was authorized by public law No. 780 and approved by the second session of the 83rd congress.

When completed the multi - million dollar project will consist of two control structures, a dam and navigation locks on the west bank of the Mississippi River located on the southern tip of Concordia parish.

Work on the control structures situated 45 miles by road from Vidalia began shortly after bids were opened on August 26, 1955 for the low - sill structure.

The project, is being carried out under the supervision of the Mississippi River Commission, the secretary of the army, chief of engineers. The New Orleans district corps of engineers is in direct charge of construction with Adolf Hedegaard project engineer.

First Phase

Actual work on the first phase of the huge project began in early September, 1955 on the low sill control structure. Today the work has moved forward so that a visitor begins to be impressed with how huge the structure will be upon completion.

Situated 2,200 feet from the Mississippi River, the structure, made of reinforced concrete, is 566 feet in length. It has 11 gate bays, each 44 feet wide between piers. These will be equipped with 11 vertical opening steel gates. An inflow channel — 1,000 feet wide —will be dredged from the Mississippi River to the dam. An outflow channel — 900 feet wide— will be dredged the seven - mile distance to Red River approximately three and one - half miles above its mouth.

Assistant Project Engineer Clifford B. Johnson explained that it will be possible to control the flow of water through this structure allowing just the right amount to go through the gates, out the outflow channel, into Red River, Old River and the Atchafalaya.

On the outflow side of the structure there is a stilling basin in which huge concrete slabs reinforced with steel are constructed. These slabs will act as baffles in breaking up the turbulence of the water before it enters the channel.

Overbank Structure

Just to the north of the low sill structure, the overbank structure is also under construction. Johnson said that it will not have an inflow nor outflow channel and will be used only in case of floods. It will be 3,356 feet long between abutments and will have 73 gate bays, each 44 feet wide between piers.

He added that this part of the project is for emergency use and may not be needed for many years to come.

The two structures will require about 150,000 yards of concrete.

Both structures will be equipped with a 26 - foot road bed where state highway 131 can pass on them when it is completed from Vidalia to near Simmsport. The highway would also pass over the dam at Old River, thus making it unnecessary for a bridge. At present, the site is accessible only by 131 from Vidalia.

Johnson said the low sill structure is scheduled to be completed in January 1959 and the over bank structure's completion date is June, 1959. Construction on the dam will begin in 1960 and should be finished in 1965.

At present there are about 500 men working on the project. Most of them are accompanied by their families and reside in trailer camps on knolls high from the reach of the spreading Mighty "Miss."

Actress Actually Witnessed Sinking

"When I saw the actual sinking of the Graf Spee, it was like a gigantic fireworks festival."

That was the expression of Miss April Olrich, British actress who is appearing in the J. Arthur Rank production of the last days of the huge German battlewagon in 1939. The film, "The Pursuit of the Graf Spee" is presently showing at the Paramount Theatre. And Miss Olrich was in Monroe Friday promoting the production.

Actually, the blonde actress is unique in that she was an eyewitness to the dramatic end of the pride of the German navy in the harbor of Montevideo in 1939, and 19 years later won one of the coveted pasts in the motion pictuse of those fateful days. When interviewed, she said she was very small at the time, she's only 24 now, but she can remember much of the happenings. The schools in the city were out that day -- almost as though the children themselves were a part of the drama. Actually, she says, while most of the residents did not realize the magnitude of the happenings surrounding the sinking of the ship, she believes those in charge believed that the schools were out so that the students might be able to witness the events — both political and physcial - which were leading to the scuttling of the German battleship.

"I never thought when my father pointed out the damaged "Graf Spee" to me in the Montevideo harbour that one day I would be taking part in a film about it," she said.

This is her first big picture, although she has appeared in several lesser important ones, she said. Prior to that, she was a ballerina in the Sadler's Wells Ballet Company, now the Royal Ballet of England. (Miss Olrich appeared with the ballet troupe two years ago at Ruston under the auspices of the Louisiana Tech Concert Association.)

FERRIDAY — Deep in the wooded swampland adjacent to the surging Mississippi, hundreds of men are working busily on one of the most ambitious engineering jobs in modern times — controlling the meandering Mississippi.

The $47-million-dollar, 10 - year job goes by the modest name of Old River Project. However, the scope of the project is so great that it affects the geography and industry of the state of Louisiana.

In brief, the project's aim is to prevent the Atchafalaya River from capturing the Mississippi River, thus making the ports of Baton Rouge and New Orleans useless.

Old River, long before the settling of white men here, was the original channel of the Mississippi. Thus it derives its name. Through the years, the Mississippi cut a new channel to the east of Old River. Now, in order to keep the wheel from turning full circle and the Mississippi from diverting back to its old channel, the protective structure is being built.

There were about 10 or 12 miles between Atchafalaya and the Mississippi and a partial channel has already been marked between the rivers, caused by the overflow of high waters.

Worrisome Problem

The worrisome problem was kicked around in the talking stage by businessmen, politicians, fishermen and just the man on the street for many years. In February 2, 1954, the alarming state of affairs was lifted from the talking stage to the action stage when the Mississippi River Commission and the U. S. army corps of engineers made a report and recommendations.

As a result, the Old River control project was authorized by public law No. 780 and approved by the second session of the 83rd congress.

When completed the multi - million dollar project will consist of two control structures, a dam and navigation locks on the west bank of the Mississippi River located on the southern tip of Concordia parish.

Work on the control structures situated 45 miles by road from Vidalia began shortly after bids were opened on August 26, 1955 for the low - sill structure.

The project, is being carried out under the supervision of the Mississippi River Commission, the secretary of the army, chief of engineers. The New Orleans district corps of engineers is in direct charge of construction with Adolf Hedegaard project engineer.

First Phase

Actual work on the first phase of the huge project began in early September, 1955 on the low sill control structure. Today the work has moved forward so that a visitor begins to be impressed with how huge the structure will be upon completion.

Situated 2,200 feet from the Mississippi River, the structure, made of reinforced concrete, is 566 feet in length. It has 11 gate bays, each 44 feet wide between piers. These will be equipped with 11 vertical opening steel gates. An inflow channel — 1,000 feet wide —will be dredged from the Mississippi River to the dam. An outflow channel — 900 feet wide— will be dredged the seven - mile distance to Red River approximately three and one - half miles above its mouth.

Assistant Project Engineer Clifford B. Johnson explained that it will be possible to control the flow of water through this structure allowing just the right amount to go through the gates, out the outflow channel, into Red River, Old River and the Atchafalaya.

On the outflow side of the structure there is a stilling basin in which huge concrete slabs reinforced with steel are constructed. These slabs will act as baffles in breaking up the turbulence of the water before it enters the channel.

Overbank Structure

Just to the north of the low sill structure, the overbank structure is also under construction. Johnson said that it will not have an inflow nor outflow channel and will be used only in case of floods. It will be 3,356 feet long between abutments and will have 73 gate bays, each 44 feet wide between piers.

He added that this part of the project is for emergency use and may not be needed for many years to come.

The two structures will require about 150,000 yards of concrete.

Both structures will be equipped with a 26 - foot road bed where state highway 131 can pass on them when it is completed from Vidalia to near Simmsport. The highway would also pass over the dam at Old River, thus making it unnecessary for a bridge. At present, the site is accessible only by 131 from Vidalia.

Johnson said the low sill structure is scheduled to be completed in January 1959 and the over bank structure's completion date is June, 1959. Construction on the dam will begin in 1960 and should be finished in 1965.

At present there are about 500 men working on the project. Most of them are accompanied by their families and reside in trailer camps on knolls high from the reach of the spreading Mighty "Miss."

Actress Actually Witnessed Sinking

"When I saw the actual sinking of the Graf Spee, it was like a gigantic fireworks festival."

That was the expression of Miss April Olrich, British actress who is appearing in the J. Arthur Rank production of the last days of the huge German battlewagon in 1939. The film, "The Pursuit of the Graf Spee" is presently showing at the Paramount Theatre. And Miss Olrich was in Monroe Friday promoting the production.

Actually, the blonde actress is unique in that she was an eyewitness to the dramatic end of the pride of the German navy in the harbor of Montevideo in 1939, and 19 years later won one of the coveted pasts in the motion pictuse of those fateful days. When interviewed, she said she was very small at the time, she's only 24 now, but she can remember much of the happenings. The schools in the city were out that day — almost as though the children themselves were a part of the drama. Actually, she says, while most of the residents did not realize the magnitude of the happenings surrounding the sinking of the ship, she believes those in charge believed that the schools were out so that the students might be able to witness the events — both political and physcial - which were leading to the scuttling of the German battleship.

"I never thought when my father pointed out the damaged "Graf Spee" to me in the Montevideo harbour that one day I would be taking part in a film about it," she said.

This is her first big picture, although she has appeared in several lesser important ones, she said. Prior to that, she was a ballesina in the Sadler's Wells Ballet Company, now the Royal Ballet of England. (Miss Olrich appeared with the ballet troupe two years ago at Ruston under the auspices of the Louisiana Tech Concert Association.)

2 From Area Report Sighting Red Moon

Mrs. R. L. Dunham, of Winnsboro, and daughter, Mrs. Katherine Steers, of West Monroe, reported they saw the Russian satellite late Friday while returning to West Monroe from Winnsboro.

"It was the prettiest sight you ever saw," Mrs. Dunham said. "It had a long, brilliant light. I know that is what it was."

IN NEW CONGRESS

Eastland Predicts No Stronger Rights

LYNCHBURG, Va. Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) predicted today that efforts to put more teeth in the civil rights bill would be defeated.

Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and an opponent of civil rights legislation, said he fully expects efforts will be made to strengthen the present bill when Congress reconvenes in January. He added in an interview he did not think these efforts would get anywhere.

The Mississippi senator said he also expects that efforts will be made to change the Senate rule which allows unlimited debate, but he is confident that pelting will come of any such move.

Asked if he thought it would be necessary for Southern senators to filibuster against such a change in the rules, he said, "I don't think it will get that far."

Eastland was in Lynchburg to take part in parents' weekend activities at Randolph-Macon Woman's College where his daughter is a student.

Agrees With Byrd

He agreed with a recent statement by Sen. Byrd (D-Va) that Virginia is the primary target of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in its attempt to force integration in the South.

Endorsing Byrd's policy of "massive resistance" to integration, Eastland said he hoped Virginia would stand firm in its opposition because other Southern states are looking to it to hold the line.

Eastland expressed belief there is a growing sympathy for the Southern cause outside the South and that the South has millions of friends in the North, although they have no adequate way to make their views known.

The Little Rock situation has tended to solidify thinking on the issues involved, Eastland said, noting that the Southern states and their people are becoming increasingly united as a result of what he called federal assaults on states rights.

Eastland said he thought the present national crisis over the integration issue would end as it did during Reconstruction days when the north got tired of trying to change the South and finally left us alone."

He declined comment on the possibility of a third party movement in the South as an outgrowth of the integration issue.

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON (Special) — The shadow of Sputnik is certain to hover over practically ever Washington development in the foreseeable future.

Well - informed persons in the nation's capital hope, however, that the situation will be considered realistically.

They applaud President Eisenhower's refusal to accept the many "panic" suggestions that were forthcoming just as soon as Sputnik's "beep-beep" became audible.

Some of these suggestions would have thrown wide open the doors of the Treasury to meet limitless spending demands regardless of need or the ability to use additional funds in any worthwhile way.

President Eisenhower calmly explained that already the government was spending $5,200,000,000 a year on armed military research and development alone. Now that, he added, isn't any weak effort.

Then he made another significant statement: "I have had every group that I know anything about to ask them is there anything more we can do in the development of our rocket program any better than is being done. And, except for certain minor items or, you might say, almost involving administration, there has been little said."

Obviously, the nation's entire defense program will continue to be constantly re - examined by the administration. That is basic procedure. There also may be one or more inquiries by Congressional committees to ascertain whether everything that should be done is being done.

Economy advocates hope that, if it should be decided to speed up the missile development program, additional government spending that might be involved would be substracted from other programs deemed less urgent.

They are convinced that this procedure is entirely feasible with respect to a $72 billion spending program contemplated by the administration — particularly when the Defense Department has a backlog of unobligated funds amounting to $8 to $10 billion.

This course also would permit the enactment of tax - cutting legislation. This is how it could be done:

The surplus for the present fiscal year (ending next June 30) is expected to be $1.5 billion.

If spending next year is held at this year's figure, the nation's normal economic growth (provided present prosperity continues) would provide enough additional tax revenue to justify the enactment of a tax - reduction program.

This is the basis of legislation introduced by Reps. Sadlak (R-Conn.) and Herlong (D-Fla.) to bring personal and corporation income tax rates down to a maximum of 42 per cent by a series of annual reductions spread over five years.

Tax-reduction advocates — like most patriotic Americans — put the nation's defense first. But many are convinced that, even after ample defense funds are provided, tax reduction is possible and should be voted as an essential investment in the nation's future.

Cordiner Report — There is no doubt that the Soviet development of Sputnik has stimulated interest in Washington in the recommendations of a special committee headed by Ralph Cordiner, president of General Electric, that military and civilian government employees be paid on the basis of ability as well as rank.

The Advisory Committee on Military Manpower, appointed by President Eisenhower, thought this change is essential to interest competent scientists and other skilled personnel remaining in government service.

One of the important questions in any speed-up of the missile program is, of course, whether additional scientists and skilled technicians are available.

Little attention was given the Cordiner report by the recent session of Congress. Indications now are that it will receive serious consideration when Congress reconvenes.

Negro's Trial For Rape Slated In Bastrop Court

BASTROP, La., Oct. 19 (UP)—Trail of Emmett Henderson, Negro charged with the rape of a white woman on June 8, 1956, will begin in Fourth District Court in Bastrop Monday.

A motion by Henderson's attorneys to quash the indictment was overruled by Judge Jesse Heard in court here this week.

Henderson is alleged to have waited in the home of a white woman near Mer Rouge in Morehouse parish on the afternoon of June 8, 1956. When she returned, the Negro is alleged to have tossed a raincoat over her head, forcing her into a bedroom where, under threats, he attacked her, binding her hands.

Soon after her attacker left, the woman summoned help, and Henderson was apprehended in a wooded area a short distance from the house. After his arrest, he was spirited to an out-of-town jail to forstall violence and later was transferred to the Jackson State Hospital for observation, being released from that institution several months ago.

Henderson was indicted by the Morehouse Parish grand jury for aggravated rape, which is a capital offense. When arraigned, he entered a not guilty plea.

Southern Queen To Be Crowned

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Zelda Ruth Hines, daughter of Alexandria Attorney J. E. Hines, Jr., will be crowned queen at Southern University Homecoming at 7:30 p.m. November 1.

An informal coffee hour honoring alumni will be held at 8 a.m. November 2 at the J. S. Clark Memorial and a campus tour is scheduled for an hour later. The tour will end in time for guests to be seated at municipal stadium at 1 p.m. for pre-game activities.

Kick - off is at 2 p.m. with the Jaguars battling with the Texas College Steers of Tyler.

Halftime activities will consist of Southern University Marching 100 and recognition of the queen. Following the game the alumni will join students for a barbecue at southern Heights followed by a Homecoming Dance.

High Sugar Cane Yield Predicted

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19—UP—The Agriculture Department's crop reporting board has estimated that this year Louisiana will produce its biggest yield of sugar cane in more than 50 years.

Producers will average 25 tons of cane per acre this year, the board said.

Yields on some farms will be low because of adverse weather, according to the board. But for those farmers whose neighbors are sporting bumper crops, the board recommended that they seek advice from the county agent or the American Sugar Cane League.

"Growers who do not make at least 25 tons per acre will not make much money," the board warned.

BUSINESS DISRUPTED

Queen And Prince Visit Supermarket

WEST HYATTSVILLE, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip visited their first American supermarket today and seemed both amazed and delighted with what they saw.

On the way back to Washington from the Maryland-North Carolina football game at College Park, the Queen's party suddenly turned in at the Queenstown Shopping Center and the royal limousine drew up before the giant food store.

As the Queen and Prince Philip entered it was a peak shopping hour and the crowd of men and women making weekend purchases, were amazed to suddenly find the Queen of England and her husband walking by, peering into their shopping carts.

Escorted

The Queen, escorted by assistant manager Don Davanzo, first looked over the bins of fresh vegetables, then moved on to the dairy food counters where methods of keeping the food chilled was explained.

Then she moved on to the meat counter where two women shoppers came up and shook her hand. The Queen seemed particularly interested in chicken wrapped in transparent plastic and looked hard at a large counter filled with steak. She paused beside Mrs. Frank Riccardi who was holding her child in her arms and pointed out the little seat in the shopping cart.

Once A Week

"It's very nice to be able to take your children here" she said to Mrs. Riccardi, who gulped and agreed. Then the Queen asked her favorite question—how often the housewife shopped in the supermarket. Once a week was the answer.

The Queen also stopped and admired birthday cakes, Danish pastry and other baked goods at a counter and then moved on to the check-out point where a woman was unloading a basket heaped high with food for the week. The Queen's eyebrows were raised as Davanzo explained that the store does a business of about $100,000 a week.

Repeats Amount

"He said about $100,000," repeated the Queen. Meanwhile, Prince Philip was making his own tour of the supermarket.

The Prince stopped to chat with Doc Hessler, there with his two children but without his wife and asked him how often he did the shopping. Hessler replied once a week and Philip looked in the shopping cart to find it contained one item, a cucumber. The Prince picked it up.

"You didn't get very far did you?" he remarked. At another point he stopped, picked up and ate a cracker with cheese on it, commenting as he left "good for nuice." He spoke to several other people on his way to the meat counter which his wife had already passed and demanded an explanation of how it was done. It was given to him and then he spotted a woman shopper obviously trying to make up her mind between two steaks.

"Are you going to buy one of those or all of those?" asked the Prince.

"I'll get the nicer one," replied the housewife.

Mis - Staken

The Prince looked in the market basket of another shopper.

"T-bone," he said. "No, porterhouse," he said after looking at the label on the steak.

He struck up a conversation with another woman shopper, Mrs. Hilda Leathers, and noting her foreign accent ashed her where she was from. It turned out she was a Belgian war bride.

Prince Philip went over, too, to inspect the checkout counter and received a fill-in on the procedure. After watching one woman pay her bill for a large quantity of food the Prince asked, "How will you get it all home?"

"Oh, we have the car outside," replied the woman. And the Prince laughed as if she had told him a joke.

He moved on then to the bakery counter and was looking at cake, and pastries when a clerk asked him if he wanted any.

"We're very well supplied—both at the White House and at home," replied the Prince with a smile.

As soon as the crowd which was lining the road of the Queen's announced route saw the procession turn in at the shopping center they flocked around and were crowded around the entrance to the store as the royal party emerged.

As the Queen appeared they broke into loud approving cries and cheers and there were shouts of "Hey, Queen" heard through the crowd. The royal couple returned to the presidential limousine, the rest of the party scrambled back to their cars and the procession back to the White House continued.

And the customers returned to their shopping.

IN NEW CONGRESS

Eastland Predicts No Stronger Rights

LYNCHBURG, Va. Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) predicted today that efforts to put more teeth in the civil rights bill would be defeated.

Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and an opponent of civil rights legislation, said he fully expects efforts will be made to strengthen the present bill when Congress reconvenes in January. He added in an interview he did not think these efforts would get anywhere.

The Mississippi senator said he also expects that efforts will be made to change the Senate rule which allows unlimited debate, but he is confident that nothing will come of any such move.

Asked if he thought it would be necessary for Southern senators to filibuster against such a change in the rules, he said, "I don't think it will get that far."

Eastland was in Lynchburg to take part in parents' weekend activities at Randolph-Macon Woman's College where his daughter is a student.

Agrees With Byrd

He agreed with a recent statement by Sen. Byrd (D-Va) that Virginia is the primary target of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in its attempt to force integration in the South.

Endorsing Byrd's policy of "massive resistance" to integration, Eastland said he hoped Virginia would stand firm in its opposition because other Southern states are looking to it to hold the line.

Eastland expressed belieff there is a growing sympathy for the Southern cause outside the South and that the South has millions of friends in the North, although they have no adequate way to make their views known.

The Little Rock situation has tended to solidify thinking on the issues involved, Eastland said, noting that the Southern states and their people are becoming increasingly united as a result of what he called federal assaults on states rights.

Eastland said he thought the present national crisis over the integration issue would end as it did during Reconstruction days when "the north got tired of trying to change the South and finally left us alone."

He declined comment on the possibility of a third party movement in the South as an outgrowth of the integration issue.

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON (Special) — The shadow of Sputnik is certain to hover over practically ever Washington development in the foreseeable future.

Well - informed persons in the nation's capital hope, however, that the situation will be considered realistically.

They applaud President Eisenhower's refusal to accept the many "panic" suggestions that were forthcoming just as soon as Sputnik's "beep-beep" became audible.

Some of these suggestions would have thrown wide open the doors of the Treasury to meet limitless spending demands regardless of need or the ability to use additional funds in any worthwhile way.

President Eisenhower calmly explained that already the government was spending $5,200,000,000 a year on armed military research and development alone. Now that, he added, isn't any weak effort.

Then he made another significant statement: "I have had every group that I know anything about to ask them is there anything more we can do in the development of our rocket program any better than is being done. And, except for certain minor items or, you might say, almost involving administration, there has been little said."

Obviously, the nation's entire defense program will continue to be constantly re - examined by the administration. That is basic procedure. There also may be one or more inquiries by Congressional committees to ascertain whether everything that should be done is being done.

Economy advocates hope that, if it should be decided to speed up the missile development program, additional government spending that might be involved would be substracted from other programs deemed less urgent.

They are convinced that this procedure is entirely feasible with respect to a $72 billion spending program contemplated by the administration — particularly when the Defense Department has a backlog of unobligated funds amounting to $8 to $10 billion.

This course also would permit the enactment of tax - cutting legislation. This is how it could be done:

The surplus for the present fiscal year (ending next June 30) is expected to be $1.5 billion.

If spending next year is held at this year's figure, the nation's normal economic growth (provided present prosperity continues) would provide enough additional tax revenue to justify the enactment of a tax - reduction program.

This is the basis of legislation introduced by Reps. Sadlak (R-Conn.) and Herlong (D-Fla.) to bring personal and corporation income tax rates down to a maximum of 42 per cent by a series of annual reductions spread over five years.

Tax-reduction advocates — like most patriotic Americans — put the nation's defense first. But many are convinced that, even after ample defense funds are provided, tax reduction is possible and should be voted as an essential investment in the nation's future.

Cordiner Report — There is no doubt that the Soviet development of Sputnik has stimulated interest in Washington in the recommendations of a special committee headed by Ralph Cordiner, president of General Electric, that military and civilian government employees be paid on the basis of ability as well as rank.

The Advisory Committee on Military Manpower, appointed by President Eisenhower, thought this change is essential to interest competent scientists and other skilled personnel remaining in government service.

One of the important questions in any speed-up of the missile program is, of course, whether additional scientists and skilled technicians are available.

Little attention was given the Cordiner report by the recent session of Congress. Indications now are that it will receive serious consideration when Congress reconvenes.

Negro's Trial For Rape Slated In Bastrop Court

BASTROP, La., Oct. 19 (UP)—Trail of Emmett Henderson, Negro charged with the rape of a white woman on June 8, 1956, will begin in Fourth District Court in Bastrop Monday.

A motion by Henderson's attorneys to quash the indictment was overruled by Judge Jesse Heard in court here this week.

Henderson is alleged to have waited in the home of a white woman near Mer Rouge in Morehouse parish on the afternoon of June 8, 1956. When she returned, the Negro is alleged to have tossed a raincoat over her head, forcing her into a bedroom where, under threats, he attacked her, binding her hands.

Soon after her attacker left, the woman summoned help, and Henderson was apprehended in a wooded area a short distance from the house. After his arrest, he was spirited to an out-of-town jail to forstall violence and later was transferred to the Jackson State Hospital for observation, being released from that institution several months ago.

Henderson was indicted by the Morehouse Parish grand jury for aggravated rape, which is a capital offense. When arraigned, he entered a not guilty plea.

Southern Queen To Be Crowned

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Zelda Ruth Hines, daughter of Alexandria Attorney J. E. Hines, Jr., will be crowned queen at Southern University Homecoming at 7:30 p.m. November 1.

An informal coffee hour honoring alumni will be held at 8 a.m. November 2 at the J. S. Clark Memorial and a campus tour is scheduled for an hour later. The tour will end in time for guests to be seated at municipal stadium at 1 p.m. for pre-game activities.

Kick - off is at 2 p.m. with the Jaguars battling with the Texas College Steers of Tyler.

Halftime activities will consist of Southern University Marching 100 and recognition of the queen. Following the game the alumni will join students for a barbecue at southern Heights followed by a Homecoming Dance.

High Sugar Cane Yield Predicted

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19—UP—The Agriculture Department's crop reporting board has estimated that this year Louisiana will produce its biggest yield of sugar cane in more than 50 years.

Producers will average 25 tons of cane per acre this year, the board said.

Yields on some farms will be low because of adverse weather, according to the board. But for those farmers whose neighbors are sporting bumper crops, the board recommended that they seek advice from the county agent or the American Sugar Cane League.

"Growers who do not make at least 25 tons per acre will not make much money," the board warned.

Ex-New Orleans Newsman Expires

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19—UP—A 66-year-old former New Orleans political newsman died today in a local hospital.

He was George W. Vandervoort Jr., who began his newspaper career before World War I as a staff member of the Times-Democrat, predecessor of the Times-Picayune.

Vandervoort also served on the New Orleans Item and on the States. He was employed by the Times-Picayune from 1926 to 1942 before retiring to his summer home on the Gulf Coast.

Vandervoort received a law degree from Loyola University. Funeral services will be held Sunday.

BUSINESS DISRUPTED

Queen And Prince Visit Supermarket

WEST HYATTSVILLE, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip visited their first American supermarket today and seemed both amazed and delighted with what they saw.

On the way back to Washington from the Maryland-North Carolina football game at College Park, the Queen's party suddenly turned in at the Queenstown Shopping Center and the royal limousine drew up before the giant food store.

As the Queen and Prince Philip entered it was a peak shopping hour and the crowd of men and women making weekend purchases, were amazed to suddenly find the Queen of England and her husband walking by, peering into their shopping carts.

Escorted

The Queen, escorted by assistant manager Don Davanzo, first looked over the bins of fresh vegetables, then moved on to the dairy food counters where methods of keeping the food chilled was explained.

Then she moved on to the meat counter where two women shoppers came up and shook her hand. The Queen seemed particularly interested in chicken wrapped in transparent plastic and looked hard at a large counter filled with steak. She paused beside Mrs. Frank Riccardi who was holding her child in her arms and pointed out the little seat in the shopping cart.

Once A Week

"It's very nice to be able to take your children here" she said to Mrs. Riccardi, who gulped and agreed. Then the Queen asked her favorite question—how often the housewife shopped in the supermarket. Once a week was the answer.

The Queen also stopped and admired birthday cakes, Danish pastry and other baked goods at a counter and then moved on to the check-out point where a woman was unloading a basket heaped high with food for the week. The Queen's eyebrows were raised as Davanzo explained that the store does a business of about $100,000 a week.

Repeats Amount

"He said about $100,000," repeated the Queen. Meanwhile, Prince Philip was making his own tour of the supermarket.

The Prince stopped to chat with Doc Hessler, there with his two children but without his wife and asked him how often he did the shopping. Hessler replied once a week and Philip looked in the shopping cart to find it contained one item, a cucumber. The Prince picked it up.

"You didn't get very far did you?" he remarked. At another point he stopped, picked up and ate a cracker with cheese on it, commenting as he left "good for mice." He spoke to several other people on his way to the meat counter which his wife had already passed and demanded an explanation of how it was done. It was given to him and then he spotted a woman shopper obviously trying to make up her mind between two steaks.

"Are you going to buy one of those or all of those?" asked the Prince.

"I'll get the nicer one," replied the housewife.

Mis - Staken

The Prince looked in the market basket of another shopper.

"T-bone," he said. "No, porterhouse," he said after looking at the label on the steak.

He struck up a conversation with another woman shopper, Mrs. Hilda Leathers, and noting her foreign accent ashed her where she was from. It turned out she was a Belgian war bride.

Prince Philip went over, too, to inspect the checkout counter and received a fill-in on the procedure. After watching one woman pay her bill for a large quantity of food the Prince asked, "How will you get it all home?"

"Oh, we have the car outside," replied the woman. And the Prince laughed as if she had told him a joke.

He moved on then to the bakery counter and was looking at cake, and pastries when a clerk asked him if he wanted any.

"We're very well supplied—both at the White House and at home," replied the Prince with a smile.

As soon as the crowd which was lining the road of the Queen's announced route saw the procession turn in at the shopping center they flocked around and were crowded around the entrance to the store as the royal party emerged.

As the Queen appeared they broke into loud approving cries and cheers and there were shouts of "Hey, Queen" heard through the crowd. The royal couple returned to the presidential limousine, the rest of the party scrambled back to their cars and the procession back to the White House continued.

And the customers returned to their shopping.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT:

Advance reports show that many of the 1958 models will have many of the features already contained in the 1957 Mercury. These features will be called "new" and you'll pay more for them.

The big 1957 Mercury NOW has 4 features not available on ANY other automobile in addition to more glass area, interior room, truck space, braking area than ANY OTHER CAR in its price range. Why pay the high price for '58 styling when you have it in the Big '57 Mercury AT LOW '57 PRICES!

Plus, we are giving exceptional good trades to replenish our used car stock. Remember your present car will soon be one year older thereby decreasing its trade-in value considerably.

LIFE-TIME INCOME
STARTING IMMEDIATELY
An exclusive territorial franchise of many counties is available by nationally-known, nationally - advertised chain of 1800 drive - in stores in food field. We advertise nationally, also saturation advertising locally to secure immediate prospects. The appointed franchise holder has immediate income from the sale of exclusive franchise "town rights" to prospective operators. A pre-assembled portable building with all necessary equipment is available to store operators for location on owned or leased sites for quick operation. Buildings and equipment liberally financed which enables operator to go into business with a very nominal down - payment.

FRANCHISE holder receives life - time earnings from repeat sale of all food products. No inventory to carry. No merchandise to deliver. Our references from 60 successful franchise holders servicing 1800 stores. Earnings in excess of $15,000 per year up. Territorial franchise fee exceptionally modest for this high income opportunity.

FINANCIAL

(36) Business Opportunities

LIFE-TIME INCOME
STARTING IMMEDIATELY

An exclusive territorial franchise of many counties is available by nationally-known, nationally - advertised chain of 1800 drive - in stores in food field. We advertise nationally, also saturation advertising locally to secure immediate prospects. The appointed franchise holder has immediate income from the sale of exclusive franchise "town rights" to prospective operators. A pre-assembled portable building with all necessary equipment is available to store operators for location on owned or leased sites for quick operation. Buildings and equipment liberally financed which enables operator to go into business with a very nominal down - payment.

FRANCHISE holder receives life - time earnings from repeat sale of all food products. No inventory to carry. No merchandise to deliver. Our references from 60 successful franchise holders servicing 1800 stores. Earnings in excess of $15,000 per year up. Territorial franchise fee exceptionally modest for this high income opportunity.

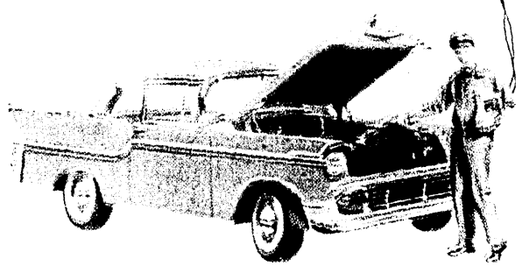
SAVE YOUR RADIATOR WITH "PRESTONE" ANTI-FREEZE, THE BRAND WITH MAGNETIC FILM!

Don't let rust and corrosion rob your pocketbook. Have your dealer put in "Prestone" anti-freeze—the anti-freeze with Magnetic Film.

Magnetic Film, developed in the laboratories of UNION CARBIDE, immediately coats all the surfaces of your cooling system. It protects all winter long—and is equally effective in guarding each one of the seven kinds of metal commonly found in a cooling system.

This year—be sure to get the extra protection of Magnetic Film by insisting on "Prestone" brand anti-freeze!

The , attached to your radiator by your dealer, proves you have "Prestone" anti-freeze and not a substitute! For your own protection, be sure to look for the Green Tag as soon as your anti-freeze is installed. The "Prestone" anti-freeze guarantee is printed on the tag.



Installing anti-freeze in the modern car can be a difficult task. Have your dealer, an expert, do the job.
